goodrob13 music show 1 – (2/8/11) 1:53:36 [702] A NEW Music-Talk show hosted by Rob from the Paunch Stevenson show! ¶ The Overnightscape Underground podcast network, Frank Nora,The Paunch Stevenson Show, walking to my office in Manhattan, figuring out where to post the Goodrob13 Music Show, growing up with old music, percussion instruments and humor, starting rock bands in high school, being the one who could figure out songs by ear, figuring out how to play guitar on my own, making my first home recordings, starting a band as an adult instead of a teenager, 1990s grunge/alternative rock, the evolution of rock music from the late 1950s through the early 1980s, experiencing the evolution of rock music in the 1990s in real-time, the premature death of alternative rock in 1996, not being able to write music, the excitement of experiencing a current band's progression in real time vs. exploring an old band's catalog, three reasons I find current music unlistenable (oversimplified, overperfected, and overprocessed), the progressive lack of dynamic range in music since the mid 1990s, Weird Paul Petroskey, the natural power of musical instruments and simpler recordings, deceptively simple songs like "She Loves You," digitally remastered CDs usually sound worse than older versions, and your music suggestions!

goodrob13 music show 2 – (2/09/11) 48:37 [702] The Free Design!: naming the show, creating new content efficiently (recording during my commute), PATH train problems, analog tape saturation vs. digital clipping, getting used to recording while walking in NYC, the fourth reason I find current music unlistenable (lack of charisma and likable personalities), indie artists acting too serious and pretentious, video games, fun vs. dark and edgy, the irony of public figures wanting privacy, late 1960s-early 1970s jazzy pop group The Free Design, plain and simple singing voices vs. today's affected vocals, the horrible Free Design remix album The Now Sound Redesigned (2005), and some short clips of Free Design songs ("Make the Madness Stop," "I Found Love," "Bubbles," "Girls Alone," "Butterflies Are Free," and "2002 - A Hit Song").

goodrob13 music show 3 – (2/10/11) 46:00 [702] The lost art of TV theme songs and commercial jingles, what do those songwriters, musicians, and vocalists do now?, a generation that finds it weird for products to be advertised with songs, the Toys "R" Us song ("I don't wanna grow up, I'm a Toys 'R' Us kid"), the irony of enjoying commercial jingles while living an anti-commercial life, Mount Airy Lodge, judging theme songs and jingles out of context on their own merits, acknowledging the nostalgia factor, the Kellogg's Frosted Flakes song ("The taste of Tony's Frosted Flakes brings out the tiger in you"), the Tootsie Roll song ("Whatever it is I think I see becomes a Tootsie Roll to me"), gum commercials, hoping for a revival, and a small selection of my favorite intros and jingles (The Electric Company, Alice, He-Man and the Masters of the Universe, One Day at a Time, Big Red, Charles in Charge, Dennis the Menace, Green Acres, Alvin and the Chipmunks, Juicy Fruit, The Munsters, Laverne and Shirley, The Addams Family, G.I. Joe: A Real American Hero, Mr. Ed, Bod, We're Not Candy, Simon in the Land of Chalk Drawings, Jem, Tootsie Rolls, The Great Space Coaster, Josie and the Pussycats, and The Magic Garden).

goodrob13 music show 4 – Screaming Orphans! (2/15/11) 33:58 [702] Screaming Orphans! Goodrob13 Music Show episode 4: the Goodrob13 Music Show on the Overnightscape Underground podcast network, the 53rd annual Grammy Awards (2011), today's pop stars focusing on outlandish costumes and gimmicks instead of good music (Lady Gaga, Cee Lo Green, etc.), wondering how people in the future will judge today's music, feeling stupid saying current artist's names, today's music having no lasting value (disposable music), the New Kids on the Block revival, nostalgia, current music I actually like (Screaming Orphans and Dean and Britta), clips of Screaming Orphans songs ("Liar," "City of Chicago," "Give a Little," "Here Comes Your Man," "Don't You Cry," and "Circles"), L'Avventura (2003), Tony Visconti, good arrangements, and clips of Dean and Britta songs ("Out Walking," "Night Nurse," and "Moonshot"). goodrob13 music show 5 – Jig Dolls! (2/16/11) 22:05 [702] Jig dolls! Goodrob13 Music Show episode 5: More current music I actually like (Camera Obscura, Rilo Kiley, and Dolores O'Riordan), bad audio mastering, my extreme hatred of asymmetrical headphones, Creative Commons vs. copyrighted music and art, my Creative Commons photos on Flickr being used on blogs and in books, Frank Nora talking about jamendo.com free Creative Commons music site, jig dolls (also known as limberjacks- video), and not being able to copy and paste the file path in MS Windows or Mac OS X.

goodrob13 music show 6 – (2/17/11) 47:20 [702] Goodrob13 Music Show episode 6: Watching TV shows illegally, growing up with free 24 hour streaming radio and TV content, getting used to paying for songs and TV shows on computers, getting used to paying for cable TV years ago, the fragmented world of online music and TV content (iTunes, Netflix, Hulu Plus, Rhapsody, etc.), the Overnightscape Central podcast, Wayne from Sparetime Radio talking about George Carlin, most people being too arrogant and/or afraid to admit they've been lied to, poisoned, and cheated their whole lives, turning a blind eye vs. dealing with new knowledge and stressors, my questions about chemtrails, socially acceptable smoke vs. unacceptable smoke, and dangerous substances being viewed as harmless to people who grew up with them.

goodrob13 music show 7 – (2/18/11) 33:01 [702] Goodrob13 Music Show episode 7: Tanya Donelly (founding member of Belly, The Breeders, and Throwing Muses), musicians moving away from rock music as they get older, my introduction to Juliana Hatfield and Blake Babies, a dummy wanting to pull the PATH train emergency brake because a passenger fainted, digital audio and non-linear editing vs. cassette tapes, Hatfield's superb minimally-produced rock album Bed (1998), Become What You Are (1993) and Only Everything (1995), Hatfield's book When I Grow Up: A Memoir (2008), meeting Juliana Hatfield (Maxwell's in 2005, Knitting Factory in 2008, and Bowery Ballroom in 2008), asking her to be a guest on The Paunch Stevenson Show, Jessica Simpson, and does the cream really rise to the top?

goodrob13 music show 8 – (2/19/11) 30:56 [702] Goodrob13 Music Show episode 8: Figuring out the best spot to stand on the train platform, my weird experience coming out of the PATH station this morning, scaffolding in NYC, being more efficient when paying for groceries, most people in front of me in line taking 10 times longer than I do, bank tellers and post offices, most people entering and exiting elevators too slowly, unusually warm weather, my hatred of obnoxiously loud motorcycles, why it's so important to leave comments on podcasts, the importance of online interaction and discussion, buying an electric guitar soon, and being realistic and reasonable about my music equipment and prices.

goodrob13 music show 9 – Children's TV Music – (2/27/11) 45:57 [702] Children's TV music! Goodrob13 Music Show episode 9: My previous recording gone wrong, my childhood neighbor's record collection, being unfazed by 20 year old records as a child, trains with no passengers, are 20 year old CDs cool and impressive today?, the level of musical sophistication and variety in children's TV shows from the 1970s and 80s (Sesame Street, The Electric Company, The Great Space Coaster, etc.), Sesame Street Jazz #3 video, Sesame Street Pinball Number Count video, Sesame Street Capital I and Lowercase N video, composer Joe Raposo, The Electric Company LY (Tom Lehrer) video, Sunbow Productions (Ford Kinder, Anne Bryant, Spencer Michlin, and Barry Harman),and the music of Jem.

So You Want to Be a Dancer book cover, by William E. Thomas

So You Want to Be A Dancer by William E. Thomas is a book from 1979 that we found in our elementary school library in the late 1980s. We thought we'd never be able to make fun of the cover again, but Jackie at www.seashellbooks.com provided us with a scan. Thanks!

Michael Jackson: 1982 vs. 2004

In the early 1980s, Michael Jackson was a popular black male singer. Now, he's an unpopular white female alien.

Update 2/16/11: Michael Jackson died (or returned to his home planet) on June 25, 2009 at the age of 50 (Earth years).

The Noid

posted on Nov 7, 2005 | Comments (0)

The Noid

Will Vinton Studios, the creator of the California Raisins, also created the Noid, the mascot for Domino's Pizza in the late 1980s and early 1990s. The commercials featured stop-motion animation by Tony Merrithew (tonymerrithew.blogspot.com) and the slogan, "Avoid the Noid."

In 1989, Kenneth Lamar Noid thought the commercials were a personal attack on him and held two employees of an Atlanta, Georgia, Domino's Pizza restaurant hostage for five hours. After forcing the employees to cook a free pizza for him, he surrendered to police, was charged with kidnapping, aggravated assault, extortion, and possession of a firearm during a crime, and was later found not guilty by reason of insanity.

In 1990, Capcom produced a video game for the Nintendo Entertainment System called Yo! Noid. It's a classic, right up there with Mega Man and Street Fighter II...not.

Professor Julius Sumner Miller

posted on Dec 20, 2005 | Comments (4)

Julius Sumner Miller

We first saw Dr. Miller's exploits during 12th grade Physics class on old PBS taped episodes of his show. He often attempted crazy experiments which went awry, leaving his studio, props, students, or Professor Miller himself busted up!

Here at the Paunch Show, we have a running skit where we re-enact his experiments on the show, resulting in his lab assistant getting injured. Visit www.abc.net.au/science/features/whyisitso/ to watch original Why Is It So? videos!

About the Professor from the Why Is It So? homepage...

Julius Sumner Miller, as he started making the Why Is It So? series for broadcast, gained much positive response from the public and much outcry from academics. The Professor was in high demand across the globe, appearing in Australia twenty-six times, and eventually had a question posted everyday in The Australian newspaper in 1966.

To finish up, who better than the man himself, who gave his bold goal in the preface to a book of Q & A's, Millergrams which were taken from The Australian's questions.

 "The hope I have here is simply summed up: To stir your imagination, awaken your interest, arouse your curiosity, enliven your spirit – all with the purpose of bringing you to ask, as young Maxwell put it, 'What's the go of it?' – or, as Kepler had it, 'why things are as they are and not otherwise.' Or, more simply in my own phrase, why is it so?"

Origin of our 1980s catchphrase "Razzmatazz"

posted on Jul 10, 2006 | Comments (7)

Many moons ago.....episode 18 to be exact, we recounted a tale of elementary school, where we kept saying the word "Razzmatazz." It eventually became our own little catchphrase, such as other 1980s words as dude, rad, gnarley, etc. Well, with a little research, we think we've narrowed down the most widely used instances of "Razzmatazz." But which one was where we got it from????

Origin of our 1980s catchphrase "Razzmatazz"

A) The song Razzmatazz by the English rock band Pulp in 1993?
B) A disco club in Barcelona, Spain (www.salarazzmatazz.com)?
C) A painting by Roy Lichtenstein?
D) 1977-1982 children's program hosted by Brian Tochi from Revenge of the Nerds?
E) Raspberry flavored Schnapps, made by DeKuyper Co?
F) Crayola crayon color, chosen in 1993 as a part of the Name The New Colors Contest?
G) British 1981-1987 music television show, hosted by Alistair Pirrie and Lisa Stansfield?
H) A Barbershop Quartet singing group (www.razzmatazz.org)?

The late great ITT Tower in Nutley, NJ

ITT Tower picture by Greg

The ITT Research Tower was built along Washington Avenue in Nutley, NJ, in 1947. It stood 300 feet high, and was a landmark visible from miles around. I think it was even present in some of the Microsoft Flight Simulators in the mid 1990's. ITT was a defense-related research company, which had a massive complex on the site. The company would greatly downsize and eventually demolished half of the site and sold it for redevelopment. Part is now the Clifton Commons Mall. Rob and I often road our bicycles there in the early 90's to play volleyball on the sand court, only to be chased out by a fat security guy in a jeep. In fact the above picture is one I took back around 1994 I think, of the tower and the volleyball court.

And of course, the Nazi Germany/UFO Alien conspiracy information (No I am not kidding)!

 NEW JERSEY, NEWARK – German [Thule Society] infiltration of the American military-industrial complex following WWII, via the NSA, I.T.T., ARCO, EXXON, etc., led to the construction of massive joint alien-fascist underground complexes [stemming from the Nazi alliance with an alien collaboration, based under the Gizeh plateau of Egypt - via the Grant Orient Lodge of Egyptian Freemasonry and the various gnostic Bavarian cults that were brought back from Egypt during the Egyptian occupation by the armies of the so-called "Holy Roman Empire" of Italy-Austria-Germany]. Tunnel systems run from the I.T.T. Corporation building in Newark to the I.T.T. facility at Nutley, to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio [mag-lev tubes], to A.I.L., to Long Island [Montauk Point].

Here is a video of the tower being demolished in 1996, as well as preceding photos and the local news videos of the destruction. What a shame they turned the large green space there into a gated Townhouse community. I hate those. Those are not communities, they are seperated from the community.

Tom Cruise The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of The Year Award

Tom Cruise is the winner of The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of 2006 Award.

In an April 2006 interview with GQ conducted while his wife Katie Holmes was pregnant, Tom Cruise said, "I'm going to eat the placenta." Four months later, Paramount ended its 14 year relationship with Cruise's production company. We're not surprised.

Drawing contest

posted on May 21, 2007 | Comments (1)

Don't forget about our Paunch Stevenson Show listener drawing contest! We announced it in episode 67 and are still taking submissions. The details:

Draw us, Greg and Rob. If you don't know what we look like, just use your imagination. The drawings can be realistic, cartoony, serious, or silly. Be creative and have fun!

If you draw us on a piece of paper or paint us on a canvas, send us a scan or a digital photo of your work. If you draw us using a computer program, such as Photoshop, Illustrator, or GIMP, send us your finished file.

We'll post all of the entries and let you, our listeners, vote for your favorites.

Email us your drawings!

Hear us on This Week in Tech

posted on Jun 11, 2007 | Comments (1)

One of our favorite podcasts is This Week in Tech, hosted by Leo Laporte. In honor of the show's 100th episode this week, we sent in a special audio message featuring Adam in SC. Listen to the episode here:

www.twit.tv/100

If you want to skip ahead to our message, it begins around 34 minutes and 5 seconds into the episode, but don't forget to go back and listen to the entire episode afterwards, especially if you enjoy technology and humor.

Thanks again to Leo Laporte, John C. Dvorak, Patrick Norton, Wil Harris, and the rest of the TWiT cast for entertaining and informing us week after week!

Sylvester Stallone played the mentally unstable Vietnam War veteran John J. Rambo in the movie First Blood (1982) and in the two sequels Rambo: First Blood Part II (1985) and Rambo III (1988). Now, he is starring in the upcoming sequel Rambo, in theaters January 25, 2008.

Does Stallone expect us to believe he can single-handedly defeat an entire army at age 61? The movies were barely believable when he was in his 30s.

Jesus, Take the Wheel

posted on Jan 19, 2008 | Comments (2)

In 2005, former American Idol contestant Carrie Underwood had a hit song called "Jesus, Take the Wheel," which I hadn't heard until today. Has anyone paid attention to the lyrics? I have and they're ridiculous.

The song is about a woman who is driving too fast during a blizzard. She skids on some ice and starts screaming for Jesus to take control of the steering wheel so she doesn't die. While the car is still out of control, she lets go of the wheel and somehow, the car magically pulls over to the shoulder and comes safely to a stop. The woman thanks Jesus and promises she'll treat people better from now on.

There's only one problem. This woman knows she's a jerk and that it's impossible for her to treat people nicely on her own, so she asks Jesus to take control of her entire life too, just like he did with her car.

Instead of learning her lesson about driving recklessly, the only thing the woman has learned is that whenever she does something stupid, Jesus will bail her out. That's a great message to send to people. "Act like a moron. It's okay. Jesus will protect you."

The last thing people need is an excuse to be even more thoughtless and irresponsible than they already are. Way to go, Carrie Underwood.

LiveLeak.com – Ninja bank robber needs a crutch

On Tuesday, January 15, 2008, a man dressed as a ninja robbed a Bank of Albuquerque in Albuquerque, NM. Unlike most ninjas, this one was hobbling around on a crutch. The FBI has released the bank's surveillance video and has posted the limping ninja's picture on electronic billboards along major local roads. Maybe someone will recognize him and turn him in soon.

A $1,000 reward is being offered for information leading to the Crutch Bandit's arrest. He is described as a thin Asian man, 25 to 35 years old, approximately 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, and crippled.

Michael Bay The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of The Year Award

Michael Bay is the winner of The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of 2007 Award.

Michael Bay directed the horrible summer blockbuster Transformers (2007) and destroyed the classic science fiction franchise. He ignored the producers' suggestions and decided to stick with a broken script and make the Transformers look like metal skeletons instead of robots.

According to Bay, "Tom Desanto proceeded to tell me how much he had problems with the robot designs and script issues. I realized he was worlds apart in my vision. I said thank you very much and then showed him my office door... I never spoke creatively with Don Murphy. I read his notes kind of trashing the script... he knew I was not going to talk creative with him."

Michael Bay has directed other masterpieces like Bad Boys (1995), Armageddon (1998), and Pearl Harbor (2001). He is also directing the upcoming Transformers 2 scheduled for release in the U.S. on June 26, 2009. Great.

Celebrity Death: Heath Ledger

Heath Ledger

Heath Ledger
Born: April 4, 1979
Died: January 22, 2008 (age 28)

Actor Heath Ledger, 28 years old, was found dead in his $24,000-a-month Manhattan apartment this afternoon. An initial police report cited by The New York Times states foul play is not suspected and that pills had been found near Ledger's body. He was found unconscious and unresponsive in one of the apartment's bedrooms around 3:30 p.m. when a masseuse arrived for a scheduled appointment and the residence's housekeeper went to inform him of the masseuse's arrival.

NYPD confirmed, then later retracted that the apartment belongs to Mary-Kate Olsen. Dummies.

Ledger is starring as the Joker in the upcoming Batman movie The Dark Knight, which is currently scheduled for release in the U.S. on July 18, 2008.

UPDATE: Heath Ledger died of an accidental overdose of painkillers, sleeping pills, anti-anxiety medication, and other prescription drugs, the New York City medical examiner said Wednesday, February 6, 2008.

Space Tourism in 2009

posted on Jan 24, 2008 | Comments (3)

Virgin Galactic SpaceShipTwo

Yesterday, January 23, 2008, entrepreneur Richard Branson unveiled a model of the "spaceship" he hopes will take paying passengers on space flights beginning in 2009. His company, Virgin Galactic, is charging $200,000 per two-and-a-half hour flight.

That's pretty expensive considering the flights won't actually be going into outer space. Technically, passengers will be taken on a sub-orbital flight 62 miles above sea level. By comparison, the Moon is 240,000 miles above sea level. Passengers will be weightless for about five minutes though. Isn't five minutes of nausea worth $200,000?

Over 200 people have signed up so far, including actress Victoria Principal and physicist Stephen Hawking. Imagine him in his wheelchair spinning around weightless puking all over everyone.

Also entering the business is Bigelow Aerospace, a company aimed at creating space hotels. Seriously.

Replacing the Infamously Blinking Nintendo 72 Pin Connector

posted on Jan 24, 2008 | Comments (2)

If you've followed the classic gaming scene at all, or more likely, remember the Famous Nintendo Entertainment System.....Undoubtedly you remember the blinking screen when inserting a game and pressing the power button. Remember the solution back then? Blow onto the cartridge connector, maybe even spit in it! Well, the real solution was some type of cleaning solution and a Q-tip to clean the connectors. Even then, my 20 year old NES has gotten too annoying to use. I can't play a game without cleaning it first, games which were originally mine and would not be dirty.

Modern Age Solution? The equally infamous 72-Pin Replacement "ZIF" connector. That's right, just $4 bucks plus shipping, and I've got a new connector. To replace it?
Follow these directions: http://www.jandar.net/nes72pin/

Here's my image via camera phone....
NES 72 Pin Connector change-out

Wasn't too hard....result? Well, almost all games now work on the first shot, no more blinking. Catch? Of course there is! Paunch curse and all. Try to get the game out of the system! You need Hulk Hogan's 52 inch pythons, it's that stuck in there. I think it gets looser with time, I hope. My thumb is in pain.

Genetically Modified Onions

posted on Feb 7, 2008 | Comments (2)

Yahoo! News – Scientists create tearless onions

Scientists in New Zealand and Japan have created a tear-free onion using biotechnology to switch off the gene behind the enzyme that makes us cry. The research institute in New Zealand, Crop and Food, used gene-silencing technology to make the breakthrough which it hopes could lead to a prototype onion hitting the market before 2018.

Colin Eady, the institute's senior scientist, said the project started in 2002 after Japanese scientists located the gene responsible for producing the agent behind the tears.

"Here in New Zealand, we had the ability to insert DNA into onions using gene-silencing technology developed by Australian scientists. The technology creates a sequence that switches off the tear-inducing gene in the onion so it doesn't produce the enzyme. So when you slice the vegetable, it doesn't produce tears."

Next on scientists' to-do list: creating leafless trees, measuring the speed of mayonnaise, and – if they get around to it – curing cancer.

Val Kilmer is KITT

posted on Feb 10, 2008 | Comments (1)

William Daniels, Will Arnett, and Val Kilmer

Variety – Val Kilmer voices Knight Rider

On Sunday, February 17, 2008, NBC is airing the new made-for-TV movie Knight Rider. If all goes well, NBC will turn it into a TV show.

From 1982 to 1986, William Daniels played the voice of the car KITT in the original Knight Rider show. Now, the honor goes to Val Kilmer. NBC originally wanted Will Arnett from the TV show Arrested Development and the movie Let's Go to Prison (2006), but his contract with General Motors prevented him from accepting the part.

Ford is providing cars for the new Knight Rider and is taking an active role in the marketing and branding of the movie. GM found out about the Ford connection and asked Arnett to decline.

"I was very excited at the prospect of playing the part of KITT," Arnett said. "However, because of a long relationship with General Motors as the voice of GMC Trucks, I had to respectfully withdraw from the project."

America's Most Miserable Big Cities

Forbes – America's Most Miserable Cities

"We looked at only the 150 largest metropolitan areas, which meant a minimum population of 371,000."

1. Detroit, MI – Ranked number 1 in violent crime with an annual rate of 1,251 crimes per 100,000 residents. Ranked number 2 in unemployment at 8.5%.

2. Stockton, CA – It's population increased 28% from 1997 to 2007, which caused home prices to increase 158% between 2000 and 2005. Now, it has one of the highest home foreclosure rates in the country.

3. Flint, MI – More and more people have been leaving Flint since 1990 due to unemployment. On the bright side, home prices have decreased to an average of $104,000.

4. New York, NY – Ranked number 1 in highest income tax rate (10.5%, which is more than twice the U.S. average). Ranked number 1 in worst commuting time at an average of 36 minutes each way.

5. Philadelphia, PA – Ranked in the top 20 in worst commuting time, violent crime, and number of toxic waste sites.

6. Chicago, IL – Long commuting time (an average of 31 minutes each way), a high violent crime rate (619 crimes per 100,000 residents), and freezing-cold winters.

7. Los Angeles, CA – Constant traffic, high income tax rates, and severe air pollution. Beautiful weather, though.

8. Modesto, CA – Ranked number 1 in unemployment at 8.7%.

9. Charlotte, NC – Very high violent crime rate (838 crimes per 100,000 residents).

10. Providence, RI – Ranked number 2 in highest income tax rate (9.9%). Roughly 20,000 residents have left Providence each year for the past four years.

Celebrity Death: Roy Scheider from Jaws and Seaquest

Roy Scheider

Yahoo! News – Roy Scheider of Jaws dies at 75

Sad news is that Roy Scheider died yesterday, at the age of 75. Roy is best known as Chief Martin Brody in Steven Spielberg's Jaws and Jaws II. I also remember him from The French Connection, 2010 (sequel to 2001 Space Odyssey) and many years later, as Captain Nathan Bridger on SeaQuest DSV on NBC. Roy actually was born in Orange, NJ, and attended Columbia High School in Maplewood. Pretty much the Paunch Stevenson neck of the woods. The guy was a terrific actor and one of those who you instantly recognize on screen and who's personality is very authentic and real. One of my favorites and will be missed.

Rotten Tomatoes – Michael Bay Says He Already Wrote Transformers 2

As the Writers Guild of America strike comes to an end, Transformers (2007) director Michael Bay has revealed that he's already written the sequel himself, despite the fact that his screenwriters – Alex Kurtzman, Roberto Orci, and Ehren Kruger – were not allowed to work on the project during the strike.

"I've been writing Transformers 2," Bay said. "I want to make my date. I'm not going to let the strike take me down."

Could Michael Bay be the first to win our Lame Idiot of the Year Award two years in a row?

Transformers 2 is currently scheduled for release in the U.S. on June 26, 2009.

The People Vs. George Lucas

George Lucas

There is some sort of indie or fan film project underway, due out in 2009, seeking to flesh out and understand why there is such divisiveness among Star Wars fans. More specifically, their feelings towards the choices made by George Lucas following the original Trilogy. The structure will be based on several hot topics of debate. Seems as though they have been accepting fan submissions of videos. The writer/director is Alexandre Phillipe. I guess we should make a video?

Airborne Is Officially a Scam

Airborne is a scam

CNNMoney.com – Airborne settles lawsuit for $23.3 million

Airborne claimed its products could cure colds in as little as an hour. That's funny because today, March 4, 2008, Airborne agreed to pay $23.3 million to settle a class-action lawsuit brought against the company for false advertising.

"Airborne is basically an overpriced, run-of-the-mill vitamin pill that's been cleverly, but deceptively, marketed," said David Schardt, senior nutritionist at the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

Customers who still have their receipts will be refunded for any Airborne they have ever bought. Customers without receipts will be reimbursed for up to six packages, which amounts to about $63.

Airborne was created in the early 1990s by Victoria Knight-McDowell, a second grade teacher who decided to mix together a whole bunch of different vitamins and Chinese herbs. GNG Pharmaceutical Services Inc. had conducted a study and concluded that Airborne products were effective in preventing the flu and colds. However, an ABC News report disclosed that GNG Pharmaceutical Services Inc. was actually two guys hired by Ms. Knight-McDowell who conducted the "study" in their house. Idiots.

For more information about how to receive a refund, visit: www.airbornehealthsettlement.com

Transformers: Animated...The Movie that Wasn't

Transformers: Animated

Many moons ago, we commented on Cartoon Network's Transformers: Animated show. It debuted on December 26, 2007, although I've yet to see it because I'm still asleep at 10:30 Saturday morning. However, aside from it using the current animation style of Batman, Star Wars Clone Wars, and Justice League, it seems like a really good representation of the G1 show. There are many characters from the classic show, almost all with their same personality, color scheme, and vehicle mode. They include Optimus Prime, Bumblebee, Ratchet, Prowl, Ultra Magnus, Jazz, Ironhide, Blurr, Arcee, Elita One, Grimlock, Snarl, Swoop, Megatron, Starscream, Soundwave, Shockwave, and more. They have the Ark (Autobot ship), the Nemesis (Decepticon ship), Cybertron, Teletraan I, the original transforming sound effect, the purplish neon energon cubes, and even the original Transformers theme song! Voice actors include Corey Burton, John Moschitta Jr., Weird Al Yankovic, Lance Henriksen, and Bill Fagerbakke (Dauber on Coach). I have yet to see an actual episode, but the videos on the websites below are interesting. It seems as if the flow and dialogue is very close to the original show.

Cartoon Network Official Site
Another Official Website

Corey Burton, the voice of G1 Shockwave, now plays Megatron. David Kaye, the voice of Beast Wars Megatron, is now Optimus Prime, who he also played in several of the recent TF cartoons. Welker said he nor Cullen were offered a role. I have to think that the reason is Cartoon Network preferred to use people it's worked with extensively before.

Special Ed Third Graders Tried to Kill Their Teacher

posted on Apr 5, 2008 | Comments (1)

Fox News – 3rd Graders Plotted to Kill Teacher

Officials at the Center Elementary School in Waycross, Georgia, have thwarted a plot by a group of third grade special education students to kill their teacher. Officials learned of the plot on March 28, 2008, when a student told authorities about the plan before the start of the school day.

The students allegedly brought a broken steak knife, a roll of duct tape, handcuffs, ribbon, and a crystal paperweight to class in a bid to kill their teacher, Belle Carter. The students, ages 8 and 9, were mad at her because she had scolded one of them for standing on a chair.

Three of the students have been identified as ringleaders. They could be expelled, but are too young to be charged with a crime under Georgia law.

Did special ed students really think they could get away with murder in public? They can't even read.

Charlton Heston

Charlton Heston
Born: October 4, 1923
Died: April 5, 2008 (age 84)

Charlton Heston (real name: John Carter) was an actor best known for his heroic roles in epic movies, like The Ten Commandments (1956), Planet of the Apes (1968), and Ben-Hur (1959), for which he won the Academy Award for Best Actor.

In 1944, Heston enlisted in the U.S. Army Air Forces and served for two years. In the 1950s and 1960s, he spoke out against racism and was an active supporter of the Civil Rights Movement. From 1998 to 2003, he was president of the National Rifle Association.

In 1998, Heston had a hip replacement and was diagnosed with prostate cancer. In August 2002, he announced he was diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease. In March 2005, newspapers reported the progression of Heston's illness and that he was sometimes unable to get out of bed.

Heston died on Saturday, April 5, 2008, at his home in Beverly Hills, California. The cause of death is currently unknown.

Mario Kart Wii in NYC

posted on Apr 24, 2008 | Comments (4)

I attended Nintendo's Mario Kart Wii promotional event in New York City at 12:00 this afternoon and recorded a video:

I also snapped some photos:
Flickr – Mario Kart Wii promo event, NYC 4/24/08

Based on my experience with other Nintendo events in NYC – the Nintendo World grand opening in May 2005, the debut of Nintendogs with special guest Shigeru Miyamoto in September 2005, and the debut of Super Mario Galaxy in November 2007 – I anticipated a huge crowd, but when I got there, it was just me and one other guy standing in front of the Sheraton hotel on 7th Avenue waiting for Mario. Oh well. When Mario finally walked down the steps, the other guy and I surrounded him and were taking tons of pictures like idiots.

Eventually, a small crowd gathered and children were genuinely excited to see Mario walking down the street. I was surprised by how many adults asked to take a picture with him. It was cool.

The point of this event: Nintendo's new racing video game Mario Kart Wii debuts Sunday, April 27, 2008, in the U.S. To promote it, Mario walked back and forth along the sidewalk holding the steering wheel that's included with the game and hailed taxi cabs for people. Steering wheel…racing game…taxi cabs…it sort of makes sense, right? As a bonus, Nintendo paid $10 toward each fare, including mine. Thanks!

Being a video game fan and a Nintendo fan, I knew what the event was for, but I don't think people walking by did. As you can tell by my video, this was an incredibly quiet publicity event. Mario didn't talk, but neither did the woman who was with him. She should've been belting out, "Hey everybody, Mario Kart Wii is coming this Sunday! It features twelve-player online fun and a motion-sensing steering wheel! Who wants a cab ride? The first $10 is on us!" She wasn't. There weren't even any signs or free keychains.

I realize this event wasn't really necessary because several million copies of the game will be bought automatically by Nintendo fans like me, but still, someone should've been handing out buttons or fliers letting people know what was going on. If you're reading this and work for Nintendo, please consult me for your next game publicity event.

Newspapers Are Obsolete

posted on May 10, 2008 | Comments (4)

With TV, radio, and internet access at home, at work, and on mobile phones, what is the point of newspapers? If people want the latest headlines, sports scores, stock prices, and sales, they can turn on the TV, turn on the radio, or visit Yahoo!, CNN, ESPN, or Amazon for free. Yet, millions of people across the U.S. still spend 50 cents every morning to carry around 100-page newspapers, read day-old information, and get ink all over their hands. It doesn't make sense. The majority of newspaper content is useless advertisements anyway.

Do most individuals use newspapers to sell things anymore? No, they use eBay, Amazon, and Craig's List. Do they use newspapers to look for jobs anymore? No, they use HotJobs, Monster, and Craig's List. Even the New York Times crossword puzzle can be downloaded and printed on demand.

Fifty years ago, newspapers were great. They were 1958's equivalent to the internet. They allowed everyone to have fast access to information, but fifty years later, with our modern alternatives and environmental awareness, do we really need to keep wasting tons of paper, ink, and energy printing newspapers 365 days a year?

Unboxing My New HP Computer

HP Pavilion Elite m9250f

After months of research and waiting, I finally bought a new computer: an HP Pavilion Elite m9250f. Circuit City had it for a good price and Intel isn't releasing any major new processors for a while, so it seemed like the right time.

I'm still setting up the new computer, but hope to have episode 102 online soon. I copied all of my files from my Dell Dimension 4500 to my external USB hard drive and am now copying them from the USB drive to the HP.

My old Dell from 2002 is still a good computer, but I do a lot of audio editing, image editing, and video editing and this new HP will save me a ton of time. I just performed a test to see exactly how much time I'll save and the results are even better than I anticipated. On my old Dell, applying noise reduction to a 30-minute audio file takes roughly 14 minutes. I thought that was pretty good. On my new HP, it takes roughly three minutes. Wow.

For those of you who are into computers, I posted unboxing photos and photos comparing my Dell tower to my new HP tower:

Flickr – Unboxing my new HP, NYC 5/17/08

For those of you who are really into computers, here are the specs for my old Dell and new HP:

Dell Dimension 4500 and HP Pavilion Elite m9250f specs – text file

As amazingly fast as this new computer is, there are a few things I like better about my old Dell. The Dell tower was designed so it could be lifted and carried easily. The HP tower wasn't. The Dell came with a standard keyboard, which I like. The HP came with a multimedia keyboard, which has a slightly different layout. I use a lot of keyboard shortcuts while working, so I notice the fact that certain keys are different sizes and in different places.

This is my first time using Windows Vista. One thing I don't like about it is that Microsoft changed the audio mixer. The one in Windows 98 and XP was convenient and simple. It was almost perfect. The one in Vista is useless. I'll probably end up searching for a third-party audio mixer online, but I wouldn't have to if Microsoft hadn't ruined it in the first place.

Drivers start your engines, I get Paunched again!

posted on May 20, 2008 | Comments (1)

As many may have picked up, or not, I Greg am quite the motorsports aficionado. One of my favorite days of the year is Sunday, Memorial Day Weekend. This year, while recovering from my 70 mile bicycle ride, I'll be glued to the set for the 92nd Indianapolis 500. Well, while the action has been going on in Indiana for the last 2 plus weeks, you'd think to see it you'd have to fly out to Indy, right? No! On Monday, May 19, they flew the full field of 33 drivers (30 guys and 3 ladies) to New York City, right over the river from me. They all took part in a group photo op. next to the Charging Bull sculpture downtown on Broadway at the Canyon of Heroes.

The only problem was A) I didn't find out until afterwards, and B) I was too busy at work to go anyway. But arggggggghhhhh how annoying! Paunch Luck again. The next closest Indycar race is 4 hours away in Watkins Glen, NY. What other chance would I have to see the entire field of drivers though for the Indy 500 without being there? Rats! NASCAR does the same thing, having their actual cars ride through Manhattan in December. I've yet to see it, because I always forget when it is, so I can take off from work.

Stan Lee, former president of Marvel Comics, co-created Spider-Man, the Fantastic Four, the X-Men, Iron Man, the Hulk, Daredevil, and several other comic book characters.

In 1998, he started Stan Lee Media, a new internet-based production and marketing studio, which grew to 165 people and went public. He produced the animated web series The 7th Portal and voiced the characters Izayus, The Drifter, and The Accuser.

Near the end of 2000, investigators discovered illegal stock manipulation and in February 2001, Stan Lee Media filed for bankruptcy. Stan Lee's lawyer Peter Paul fled to Sao Paulo, Brazil. Excelsior!

In 2003, Lee created the animated series Stripperella for Spike TV, which was cancelled after thirteen episodes. In 2004, he announced plans to collaborate with Hugh Hefner on a superhero cartoon featuring Playboy Playmates and announced another superhero show that would feature Ringo Starr as the lead character. 'Natch!

On July 27, 2006, Who Wants to Be a Superhero? starring Stan Lee debuted on the Sci Fi Channel. At the July 2007

Comic-Con International, Hasbro introduced a Stan Lee action figure. 'Nuff said!

Bottled Water Is Evil

USA Today – Thirst for bottled water unleashes flood of environmental concerns

The problem isn't the water, it's the use of resources. It takes a lot of oil to make all those little bottles and ship them, sometimes halfway around the world.

Plastic water bottles produced for U.S. consumption take 1.5 million barrels of oil per year, according to a 2007 resolution passed by the U.S. Conference of Mayors. That much energy could power 250,000 homes or fuel 100,000 cars for a year, according to the resolution.

Cornell University professor and environmentalist Doug James said the irony of bottled water is that it's marketed as clean and healthy when its production contributes to unnecessary environmental degradation.

"Take Fiji water, for example," he said. "A one-liter bottle is taken out of the aquifer of this little island, and shipped all the way across the world, producing half a pound of greenhouse gases just so you can have this one-liter bottle of water."

Professor James found that of the 30 billion plastic water bottles sold in the United States in 2005, only 12 percent were recycled. That left 25 billion bottles landfilled, littered or incinerated.

Stop buying bottled water and reuse the ones you already have!

Scott C. Clements Reviews Indiana Jones 4

posted on Jun 19, 2008 | Comments (7)

Scott C. Clements

As we mentioned in episode 104, we were interested to see what filmmaker and Paunch Stevenson Show guest Scott C. Clements thought about Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull. He wrote to us:

"Regarding Indiana Jones 4, to be honest, I was so disappointed in it, it's hard for me to even think about it. It was quite a bummer for me.

I remember when I was interviewed on your show, I expressed how skeptical I was about Indy 4 because I had lost faith in George Lucas and I was wary of Harrison Ford's age and the 1950s setting.

As reports came in about Steven Spielberg's attempts to refrain from the Lucas school of film making by sticking with old school action techniques instead of relying heavily on computer graphics, I started to think the project could actually be good. Also, the publicity photos of Harrison Ford and Karen Allen were incredibly flattering and the 1950s setting started to appeal to me because of its roots in George Lucas's early work, American Graffiti.

However, my hope turned to dread as I sat through the movie. My biggest problem was with the villains. They didn't do anything particularly horrible, so it was difficult for me to fear them. It took a second viewing to even figure out that they wanted to rule America with the crystal skull's mind control powers. If I don't fear the villain, there isn't much drama. For example, when Nazi henchman Toht is about to burn Marion's face off with a red hot poker in Raiders of the Lost Ark, my adrenaline starts pumping like crazy. He's going to disfigure her, for God's sake! Same when the Thugee priest Mola Ram, from Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom, rips the heart out of a poor villager and laughs with glee as the man's heart ignites into a ball of flames in his hand! This is one sick bastard and I'm terrified just thinking of what he'll do to our heroes if he gets his hands on them.

This sort of danger was lacking a bit from Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade, which was why that was the weakest film for me…until Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull. Cate Blanchett and her Russian henchman did little to make me take them seriously as a threat to Indy or the world. Cate had a rapier, but she didn't stab or torture anyone with it so it was a pointless prop, in a character building sense. I have a strong suspicion that Lucas and Spielberg felt they had to play down the villainy of the Russians for political correctness's sake. We all know the Russians were no Nazis. The Nazis were undeniably evil, so it was quite fitting for Indy to bash the living heck out of them in his previous adventures. But, he did little of that in this film, which really took away from the grittiness a true action film needs. Instead, this played as a mostly comedic Jones family reunion special. Put most simply, this "action" film had no spine.

And don't even get me started on the fact that Indy almost never used his whip or gun! That was absurd! I also hated the lame comedy, including the ridiculously cartoonish-looking CGI gophers and pompadour-sporting monkeys. And what was with the friggin' fridge scene? LAME!!!

I could go on and on bashing this piece of garbage; I am shocked that the critics have been so kind to it. I think they expect so little from Lucasfilm these days, that they've just thrown their hands up in surrender and said, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em."

Spielberg and Lucas have become too diplomatic in their old age. They've lost the rebellious edge they had in their younger years. I really think they should leave the action blockbusters up to the next generation. Movies like Pirates of the Caribbean (Gore Verbinski) and Spider-Man (Sam Raimi) leave Indy 4 and the Star Wars prequels in the dust. It's a sign of the changing of the guard."

Last of New Jersey Callahan's hot dog restaurant closes

Callahan's Logo

Callahan's, a northern NJ institution in the realm of hot dog joints, has closed its last location this month, on Route 46 in Little Ferry. The small chain was begun by Artie Castrianni in 1950 in Fort Lee. That site and one in Hasbrouck Heights also closed. Really stinks for me, I used to get a burger and fries there for lunch. Leaves only places like the great Rutt's Hutt in Clifton and a few Stewart's locations and places similar as old time NJ eateries.

George Carlin

George Carlin

George Carlin
Born: May 12, 1937
Died: June 22, 2008 (age 71)

George Carlin was a Grammy-winning stand-up comedian, actor, and author noted for his political and dark humor. Carlin's "Seven Dirty Words" comedy routine was central to the 1978 U.S. Supreme Court case F.C.C. v. Pacifica Foundation, in which the judges ruled in favor of the government, granting it the right to regulate Carlin's act on the TV and radio.

From 1963 to 2008, George Carlin had thirteen HBO comedy specials, starred in his own sitcom The George Carlin Show, wrote five books, and released twenty-three albums. He appeared in sixteen movies, including Car Wash (1976), Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure (1989), Bill & Ted's Bogus Journey (1991), Dogma (1999), and Jersey Girl (2004). He was also the first host of Saturday Night Live, which debuted in 1975.

On June 22, 2008, Carlin complained of chest pain and went to St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica, California. Carlin died of heart failure at the age of 71. He had a history of heart attacks, beginning in the late 1970s.

On a Paunch note, without George Carlin, there would probably not be a Paunch Stevenson Show. Our cynical wit we learned from the master.

iPhone Idiots

Flickr - Apple Store, 5th Ave., NYC 7/12/08 (19 photos)

On Saturday, July 12, 2008, I went to the Apple Store on 5th Ave. in Manhattan. This location is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. So how come I couldn't go in?

The answer: because hundreds of people were lined up outside waiting to buy the new iPhone 3G and the Apple Store employees were only letting a few people into the store at a time. People like me who weren't buying an iPhone had to wait in a separate line. The entire ordeal was ridiculous and unnecessary.

I hate waiting in line for five minutes at the grocery store, yet these fools were perfectly happy waiting in line for eight or nine hours to buy a telephone. You'd think it were a brand new invention.

What's even more stupid is most of these idiots already have an iPhone from a year ago that's 99% identical to the new one.

Silver Spurs Stinks

a rotten salad at Silver Spurs in NYC

There's a restaurant called Silver Spurs on the corner of Broadway and E. 9th St. in Manhattan, only a few blocks away from Union Square Park. I've walked by it many times, but never ate there until this past Friday.

I went in and ordered the Salada Georgie. The description: "chicken chunks n' shrimp combo atop garden-fresh greens, avocado." The price: $12.75.

Service was below average, but that's usually the case in NYC. I'm used to it by now. What I'm not used to is paying $12.75 for a salad that consists of rotten lettuce and shrimp that still has the shell on it.

I didn't send the salad back or talk to the manager. A customer should never have to do that in the first place. Besides, what would the salad have been replaced with, more rotten salad?

I thought to myself, "How does the chef know he or she didn't prepare this salad for a food critic?" Then I realized, I criticize movies, TV shows, video games, music, and people on The Paunch Stevenson Show all the time, so why not food, too? Hence, this blog entry.

I even took a picture, so you can see the disgusting rip-off salad for yourself. Obviously, I won't be eating at Silver Spurs again.

Nicholas Cage: Unintentionally Hilarious

posted on Jul 25, 2008 | Comments (1)

Several times during the history of The Paunch Stevenson Show, we've joked about Nicholas Cage's goofy acting style and voice. As recently as episode 107, we goofed on how he has become this sort of cult joke, similar to Steven Seagal or Tom Cruise. How can even his serious films, let alone his horror films, be taken seriously?

Well, here are some photos and videos from two instances, Grindhouse (2007) and The Wicker Man (2006). In the Grindhouse double-feature, Rob Zombie contributed a mock trailer called Werewolf Women of the SS. At the end is a cameo from Mr. Cage, dressed as the infamous 1950s B movie character Dr. Fu Manchu. He starts screaming and yelling and doing this horrible laugh:

Nicholas Cage as Dr. Fu Manchu

The Wicker Man: again, this was supposed to be a horror film? Cage is dressed in a bear costume, stung in the head by thousands of bees, keeps punching women in the face, and finally is set on fire and burned alive:

Nicholas Cage about to be burned aliveNicholas Cage in a bear suitNicholas Cage stung in the head by beesNicholas Cage chased by bees

Here's an absolutely terrific video remix of clips from The Wicker Man on YouTube, set to Johnny Cash's "Ring of Fire:"

There's also a "comedy" trailer created by a fan. Priceless!

That Asian Thing, NYC 7/27/08

As discussed in episode 107, Greg and I saw the documentary film That Asian Thing in NYC today, July 27, 2008, as part of the Tribeca Cinemas Independent Features Film Festival. It was written and directed by our longtime friend and Paunch Stevenson Show guest Jonald Reyes.

The film was thought-provoking and humorous. Good job! Afterwards, Jonald held a questions-and-answers session with the audience, during which a woman was being projected onto the movie screen via webcam. That part was unnecessary and confusing. Who was she and what did she have to do with anything?

Gary Coleman, Minor League Baseball "Player"

posted on Aug 3, 2008 | Comments (1)

Coleman Ejected

Gary Coleman, one of our first Hall of Lamers, decided to be yet another in the long list of celebrities trying their hand at perhaps the most difficult professional sport, baseball. Coleman was thrown out of the game before he even got to bat for the Madison Mallards up in Wisconsin.

Here's the story from The Wisconsin State Journal:

 Herbert determined the (pine tar) amount was illegal and — after Coleman offered to "wipe it off" — also found the bat to be corked. The umpire pulled out a piece of black rubber on the end of the bat and watched several "super balls" spill out of the bat.

 "Looks like you're going to have a short night," Herbert joked as he threw Coleman out of the game.

 Coleman took more offense with the short joke than he did his ejection, bumping the umpire to the delight of the 5,000-plus in attendance. Eventually, Coleman set up shop behind the third-base bleachers, signing autographs (at $20 a pop) and posing for photos (those were free).

So the whole thing was a joke? We're not laughing. Billy Crystal earlier this year in spring training, did the same kind of stunt, with the Yankees, at age 60, getting one at bat. Garth Brooks spent a whole spring with the Padres in 1999 and the Mets in 2000, although he at least looked the part. Why do these celebrities try these things when they are old, fat, out of shape, and washed up?

Celebrity Look-a-likes in the UK

posted on Sep 10, 2008 | Comments (4)

Somehow, don't ask me how, I came across a celebrity impersonator/look-a-like agency in the United Kingdom called Fake Faces. Some of the stand-ins either look nothing like the real person, or are simply wearing the costume of the celebrity's most famous character, yet bearing little resemblance otherwise.

However, many...in fact most...are very good indeed, almost having me do a triple take. Here's a few spot-on impersonators of some of our favorite celebrities.

Eddie Murphy and Sean Connery:

It's England, so they've gotta have The Beatles (George, Paul, John, and Ringo):

fake George Harrison fake Paul McCartney fake John Lennon fake Ringo Starr

They have a group photo of the George, Paul, and Ringo impersonators with a guy who looks nothing like John Lennon at all. Again, these guys look like the older, modern day Beatles. Perhaps they are insinuating that John Lennon would be fat and wearing a French beret if he were still alive?

For fun, here's a guy who is supposed to be Billy Connolly. He has the expression and the hair down, but he seems to be constantly dying his goatee different colors. Why?

Kelly Ripa and Regis Philbin with NASCAR drivers

On Wednesday, September 10, 2008, Greg and I were audience members at Live with Regis and Kelly. The guest was Wayne Brady. The musical performer was...Wayne Brady, again. There was also a pre-recorded interview with actress Shirley MacLaine. Wow, we woke up at 6:30 a.m. for this?

Then, Regis and Kelly announced they were going to record an extra segment that would air during one of next week's episodes and asked us audience members to stay an extra half hour. To Greg's surprise, the segment featured the top NASCAR drivers, which was great because he's a big fan, but for some reason, they were throwing ice cream at each other. What sense does that make?

Live with Regis and Kelly audience

In the screen shot above, you can see us in the audience! We're the two pixelated blobs wearing white shirts.

After thinking about it for a while, I realized NASCAR fans must love ice cream, judging from how out of shape many of them are, so maybe the whole thing made sense after all.

Atari 2600 Nostalgia, Web Sites, and Custom Labels

posted on Sep 27, 2008 | Comments (3)

classic Atari logo

Other than Nintendo, Atari is the most widely used and associated name with video gaming. Though the company, as many of us knew it, has been largely out of business for 15 years, it still rules the roost in terms of classic gaming. Like many, the Atari 2600 was the first video game system Rob and I had.

Here are some great web sites dedicated to the Atari family of home consoles and computers:

 Atari Age is unquestionably the central hub for Atari enthusiasts, with its heavily used forum. All the news, finds, information, expertise, and game trading is there. It also has scans of cartridges, boxes, and manuals, plus screenshots, emulators, and ROMs for the Atari 2600, 5200, 7800, Lynx, and Jaguar.
 Atari Guide has a huge amount of game, box, and manual scans for Atari and the NES. It also has a master list of Atari 2600 games and pictures of the cartridges, all in one page.
 Atari Mania takes the visual archive to the utmost degree. There's an enormous amount of scans of games, catalogs, you name it. All Atari systems are covered.
 Atari Protos has the most updated and thorough information and research on the many Atari prototypes and unreleased games that exist. Check it out and find out why games like The A-Team, Garfield, and Planet of the Apes never got released.
 Pitfall Jones has done the unthinkable! He has consolidated all of the scans of cartridges and screenshots of every Atari 5200, 7800, and 8-Bit Computer game! You can see what every cart looked like, all in one place.
 Atari Gaming Headquarters has a wealth of information for all the Atari consoles and computers, as well as Atari developed arcade machines. Marquees, artwork, advertisements, screenshots, and more.
 Atari 8-bit Forever is a tremendous source of information for the long line of Atari 8-bit computers.
 Atari 2600.com is an online store for a large number of hard-to-find classic console parts and games. It is very well maintained.
 Atari 7800.org has the most detailed technical information on the oft-forgotten Atari 7800 Pro System.
 Atari Museum is just what it says it is.
 4 Jays has a ton of products to purchase for classic systems.
 Best Electronics has untold amounts of official Atari vintage products, especially for making repairs.
 The Video Game Critic is my favorite video game quick-review website. He's got just one screenshot, a short paragraph or two, and a grade for each game. His opinion is unbiased and his web site is organized so much better than the overkill you get on sites like IGN.
 Digital Press Video Games has the tremendous game rarity and price guide. Of course, the forum is the hub for all classic and modern gaming discussion, no matter what console or computer.

There is one more website I've come across, the Atari 2600 Label Maker. The Atari 2600 had fantastic and unique artwork on the cartridge labels. Well, now you can make your own Atari game, so to speak! To that end, I've gone a step further (probably right off the cliff) and with the help of Photoshop...

Here are 140 fake labels of Atari 2600 games. Some are prototypes and unreleased games, but most are licensed titles that could have been made in the late 1970s and early 80s for the 2600: TV shows, cartoons, movies, etc. Some of these labels I found on the Atari Age forums and were done by members Marc Oberhäuser, Atariboy2600, and user42. I took some of their work and put it on scans of real cartridges. I created the majority of these labels, though.

In any case, I think this is the largest custom, faux, "what-if" Atari 2600 label archive in one place!

Ooooh…That Smell!

posted on Feb 7, 2009 | Comments (1)

Read all about it.

No, we're not talking about Lynyrd Skynyrd's 1976 song, which was covered nicely by Three Doors Down a few years ago, by the way. It's the infamous maple syrup smell that has wafted throughout Greater New York City at random times over the last 4 years. I've caught a whiff of it many times. Usually when I am walking into work. Sometimes, like just last week, the syrup smell was very pungent, in my house in the middle of the night, with all of the windows closed!

Well, apparently, after hundreds of complaints from city residents over the years, Mayor Michael Bloomberg finally got to the bottom of it. The city and NJ environmental departments tracked the scent (I don't know how they do that) to a small factory in North Bergen, NJ. The factory was making something with the herb fenugreek, which are seeds that contain an aromatic compound, sotolone, that is also found in maple syrup, so they are sometimes used to produce imitation syrup flavoring.

One might think it is nice to smell maple syrup in the air, that this should mask out the foul odors which have become a punchline for New Jersey. No I say. No. If I wanted to smell maple syrup, I want to be eating a flap jack!

Mr. Bay, here's another video that gets Transformers/CGI right!

posted on Apr 5, 2009 | Comments (0)

As I've mentioned in episodes past, I am an avid motorsports fan, including the IndyCar series. The series will be shown for the first time on Comcast's fledgling Versus network. Below is a promo from Versus for the coverage. It's a short one done all in computer animation, where the cars transform into animals. Though this is not affiliated with Hasbro or Transformers at all. Yet another example though of the classic and proper way to animate a "Transformer." Unlike the nonsense from Michael Bay.

Disney Reuses Its Own Animation

"Disney only ever made one movie and they've been tracing it ever since."

If you think Filmation's technique of reusing stock footage in the 1980s was a bit excessive, this video demonstrates that Disney has been doing the same thing for decades. The difference is Filmation was producing daily cartoon shows for TV and Disney is producing big-budget theatrical films.

The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of The Year Award

A pretty bad year for Tiger Woods, but more than qualified to win The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of 2009

Award!

Apparently Tiger's had more blond girls than Bond girls had by Sean Connery, Roger Moore, and Pierce Brosnan put together. Allegedly he got drunk, and beat up by his wife, with a golf club, crashed his car into a tree in front of his own house, and lied on the ground bleeding, giggling, and sleeping? Not to mention steroid allegations? Tiger is a tabloid's best friend.

I'm a huge fan of the National Lampoon's Vacation movies. Out of the blue, Chevy Chase and Beverly D'Angelo returned to their roles as Clark and Ellen Griswold. They even brought out a brand new Family Truckster!

The commercial appeared during the Super Bowl, but turns out homeaway.com filmed a full short film (14 minutes)! It's pretty funny.

There's also a behind the scenes video of YouTube here.

The one, the only, Sir Sean Connery. Don't worry, we paid him $1 million dollars!

This is what Connery had to say....

 "I'm swimming every day and I'm even trying to get the golf swing working again – but that might take a little bit longer.

 "During the summer, I wasn't in pain but I wasn't feeling great. I came to the Edinburgh Film Festival in June then, when I left for the south of France, I realized I'd lost a little bit of weight and needed to change my regime. I've done that and the last few days have been pretty special with the family here.

 "We've eaten non-stop and it has been a great celebration."

This was fairly impromptu, but Frank Nora, the Babe Ruth of Podcasting, was at the NAVA (North Atlantic Videogame Aficionados) meetup at the Digital Press Video Game store in Clifton, NJ, this past weekend, as was Greg. So we did a short interview. Frank you may remember was our guest on Episode 90 of the Paunch Show almost 3 years ago.

We talked about:

 small US states,
 the oldest living celebrity who recently died (Mitch Miller),
 the Gabor sisters,
 Frank's tickets to Pee Wee on Broadway,  theatrical plays shown on closed circuit movie screens,
 Journal Square in Jersey City, NJ,
 Belleville Turnpike backroad through a marsh,
 collecting classicvideo games,
 Need for Speed World free MMO racing game.

Listen to this episode:
Episode 1557 of the Frank Nora Show on The Overnightscape Underground (Greg appears at the 23 minute mark).

The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of The Year Award

Normally one big time dimwit gets to win The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of the Year Award. Well in 2010, one award was not enough for the cesspool of loserdom otherwise known as American politics. It was a banner year.

1) The "Tea Party" were in full force on the prime issues of the day, first and foremost, that President Obama did not have a birth certificate. Throughout the year, spillover from 2009 in fact, was the battle over Healthcare. Well, the lack of affordable healthcare. As the right wing screamed and yelled about socialism, working people continued to get the shaft. Get sick, don't look at us, it's your problem.

2) Those lovelies were egged on by the grand phony himself Glenn Beck of Fox News.

3) Let's not forget the lack of climate change reform, which has led to a miserable winter where snow is everywhere. More importantly, who can forget the decades of political favors paid to the oil industry. They returned the favor by causing the worst oil spill in US history. BP Chairman Tony Hayward reacted by complaining about not being able to get back to his yachting.

4) And lastly, our wonderful home state of New Jersey has a new Governor, Chris Christie, who fought with everybody.

That's not what annoys us. He canceled a project that was long underway to add rail access, via a new tunnel from NJ to NYC. If there's one thing we absolutely abhor, it's our commute to and from work, whether on the roads or on the trains. Any project that lessens the congestion is a wonderful thing. Unfortunately, the governor didn't think so.

That's right, the Paunch Stevenson Show is now part of The Overnightscape Underground! Frank Nora invited us to join his network of podcasts several months ago and we're very excited that our episodes are being reposted there. Frank, thank you for including us. PQ Ribber, thank you for doing us the huge favor of posting our episodes on onsug.com.

What does this mean? When we post a new episode here on paunchstevenson.com, it'll also be posted on The Overnightscape Underground. That's more exposure for us, which should result in more listeners, comments, and interaction.

That's also more exposure for The Overnightscape Underground here on our site. Go and listen to some of the other podcasts being posted (and reposted) there. They make commutes, workdays, and chores more pleasant.

Edie Falco

(from Yahoo! TV – Edie Falco Bashes Reality TV Stars: 'Who The Hell Is Kim Kardashian?')

In episode 167 and 170 of The Paunch Stevenson Show, Greg and I shared our disgust for stupid talentless dummies getting famous and making millions of dollars for nothing. Is it because we're jealous and bitter about our own lack of fame? Nope! Edie Falco, a famous actress, feels the same way!

When asked if she watches reality television, Falco said, "Who are these people and why are they famous and why are they advertising things and being asked their opinions about things? I just don't understand what these people did to be in a position of having everyone ask their opinions about stuff."

"Who the hell is Kim Kardashian? If there's something about her personality or something that she's accomplished or her philosophy on something – but beyond that I don't understand what's happening. It's actually frightening."

Edie Falco, you summed up our feelings perfectly. How about being a guest on our show? You'd fit right in!

Review of Jeff Bridges' New Album

posted on Aug 31, 2011 | Comments (0)

So the great Jeff "It's Me Barney" Bridges just released his second musical album Jeff Bridges, first since 2000's Be Here Soon. This new album is sort of a continuation of Jeff's work in the film Crazy Heart (2009), about a down and out country singer. He worked with highly successful producer T-Bone Burnett on the album. This album is definitely country, but it's old school country, which is why the country music press hated it! I personally hate newer country, essentially everything made from Billy Ray Cyrus onwards. Anyway, Rolling Stone Magazine gave it 3 out of 5, which I'd probably agree with. Several of the songs were just way too slow and bogged down, although a few were very good, and one is now stuck in my damn head! Here's a quick rundown of the tracks in the CD I got, with 2 Barnes & Noble bonus tracks:

 What a Little Bit of Love Can Do -> The signature track, very catchy, Bridges voice actually works quite well with this song.
 Falling Short -> This is a strange one, seems to go nowhere.
 Everything But Love -> Folksy, very pleasant.
 Tumbling Vine -> Like track 2, written by Jeff Bridges, in the tone of "The Dude," and highly psychedelic.
 Nothing Yet -> Another slow one, put me to sleep.
 Blue Car -> A nice poppy folk song with a easy beat (though slow).
 Maybe I Missed the Point -> Easily my favorite track, and now stuck in my head. Wish he did the whole album like this.
 Slow Boat -> Spoken word? Why?
 Either Way -> Dullish love song.
 The Quest -> Old school country song.
 I Will Wait -> First B&N exclusive bonus, modest.
 Shotgun Bride -> Second B&N exclusive bonus, kind of falls off the cliff.
 Drag Me To The Party -> Amazon MP3 exclusive, more odd spoken words.

Oh, and surprise, I got to meet Jeff Bridges at the Fifth Avenue Barnes & Noble in New York! Here's his signed CD cover and my picture just before getting it signed. We'll talk about the encounter in Episode 177.

Charlie Sheen

posted on Dec 31, 2011 | Comments (0)

Charlie Sheen The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of The Year Award

Charlie Sheen is the winner of The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of 2011 Award.

Last October, Charlie Sheen was busted for trashing a swank hotel room at New York's Plaza Hotel, admitting to using drugs and having a hooker over. In the face of controversy, Sheen admitted himself to his third attempt at "home rehab."

With CBS growing anxious, they decided to halt production on his hit show Two and a Half Men, which infuriated Sheen. He took to the airwaves and the internet, blasted the studio, the network, and the show's creator Chuck Lorre, and refusing to come back to work without a 50% raise. Eventually Sheen was fired, losing his $1.8 million dollar an episode salary.

Shortly after being fired, child services removed his toddler children from his house, where Sheen lived with former porn stars. His ex-wife Brooke Mueller, gets into worse trouble than Charlie. Sheen became an internet sensation, but tweeting nonsensical things like "Duh, winning", "Tiger Blood", and "Warlock." He would repeat these things in prime time interviews, including a bizarre night on Pierce Morgan's show, in which Charlie was clearly wasted. Sheen attempted multiple comebacks by hosting web cam shows, where he spewed more craziness, and a video on Funny or Die.com where he cooked food mixed with cigarettes.

Lastly, Charlie attempted a comedy/improv tour, but he was booed off the stage in Chicago and Detroit, and quit shortly thereafter. He also claimed to be starring in a new movie, Major League 3, even though that film was already produced over 10 years ago with Scott Bakula. Somehow, Sheen, like Keith Richards, has managed not to kill himself, so we expect he'll eventually return to film and TV. Where's Hot Shots part Twee?

Mike Masse and Noah

We interviewed our favorite YouTube musician and cover song artist, Mike Masse, in episode 163 of The Paunch Stevenson Show. He was a great guest and we enjoyed discussing music, movies, and video games with him.

Yesterday, Mike posted his version of The Beatles song "Let It Be" on YouTube with this message:

 "Dear Friends and Supporters,
 On July 5th, 2012, my 11-month-old son Noah was diagnosed with a malignant brain tumor. Please consider making a donation of support as well as helping spread this link. The proceeds from your donation will go towards getting Noah the best care possible, as well as helping keep our family afloat while we focus on little Noah's treatment and comfort. Anyone who donates will receive a downloadable MP3 version of this rendition. Here is the link:
 http://covercows.com/let-it-be-a-fundraiser/
 A special thanks to Jesse, and everyone else at Cover Cows, for suggesting I record a charity song for Noah, as well as offering to waive any of their proceeds from the donations received. And thanks to Jeff Hall for letting me borrow his video camera (identical to mine), so I could shoot the performance from two angles at once.
 And thanks to all of you so much for your friendship, generosity, and support.
 Love,
 -Mike
 P.S. If you prefer, you can also buy this song from iTunes (with Apple taking 30% of the purchase price, as is their policy). Here's the iTunes link:
 http://itunes.apple.com/us/album/let-it-be-single/id546401724"

So if you can, please help Mike out. We're sure he and his family appreciate even the smallest donation. Thanks!

Microsoft Xbox One

POSTED ONDECEMBER 29, 2013

xbox_one The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of The Year Award

The design, marketing, public relations, and executive team for the newly released Microsoft Xbox One console are the winner of The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of 2013 Award. Granted the system has already sold quite well, but Microsoft went from being the dominant seventh generation system (everywhere but Japan) to Sony's doormat.

Why did this happen? First there's the price, debuting at $499, a full $100 more than the Playstation 4. That was thanks to the Kinect device, which all consumers are forced to buy whether they want it or not. Second issue was maybe the most vocal among hardcore gamers: DRM. DRM is digital rights management, and basically means that even though you physically own a game, you kind of don't! The initial plan was that you buy a game, install it to the hard drive, but then couldn't bring it to a friend's house, trade it into a game store, etc., without severe restrictions. Despite highly negative reactions to rumors about this, Microsoft refused to discuss it and after the details were announced, refused to dump the policy for many months.

Hardware wise, the system (like PS4) comes with a 500 GB hard drive. However, unlike PS4, nobody has any idea how you can replace or upgrade the drive in an XBox One. Brilliant. Additional ambiguity is the need to have the system connected to the internet to function, something that isn't possible for all users everywhere in the world. In one instance, an Xbox executive caustically admonished American military troops overseas for complaining that they couldn't keep a system online like that in the middle of the desert. The executive told them "to shut up and keep playing the Xbox 360." Not to mention certain privacy concerns.

Lastly, there's the highly confusing name, Xbox One, which is what most of us have been calling the first Xbox released in 2001. Now Microsoft has relented on certain issues like DRM, and their mistreatment/draconian policies for Indie-game developers. But the damage was done. Lame!!!!!!!!

Bill Cosby The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of The Year Award

Bill Cosby is the winner of The Paunch Stevenson Show Lame Idiot of 2014 Award.

At one time, Bill Cosby was the biggest TV star in America and everyone's favorite ghost dad. He was one of the top comedians of his generation. He was also the host of Picture Pages and starred in Fat Albert and the Cosby Kids, The Cosby Show, Cosby, and I Spy. And for years, he sold us Jell-O pudding and Texas Instruments home computers.

In 2014, after a comment at a comedy club by comedian Hannibal Buress quickly went viral, the allegations poured in. Around two dozen women, including Lou Ferrigno's wife, have accused Cosby of drugging their drinks and sexually assaulting them. Yet somehow the Coz continues his comedy tour. Appalling and very, very lame.

Over Your Head 10: Pronouncing Mnemomics (5/10/11) 26:54 [801]

Another dose of harmless nonsense from Ireland, in which Neal discusses a myriad of issues including the limitations of mind-reading, practicing being Jay Leno's announcer, a new kind of guitar string, the musical career of boxing champion Barry McGuigan, avoiding cynicism, the limitations of bilingual conversations, self-serving politeness, PQ Ribber's band, some advice for Manny the mailman regarding delivering dead fish, how Brian Jude stays awake, how to pronounce the word "Mnemonics", stepping into the role of continuity announcer and more.

Also included is a bulletin of "Athy Weekly World News", from the archives of Into Your Head podcast. Anchor Sháinne Greoige (Neal's wife Joanne) brings you events of global interest from Over Your Head's home town.And a musical interlude entitled "This is Filler", generated automatically by Neal's Madplayer.

Into Your Head 301: Thursday's breakfast Show - guest hosted by BRIAN JUDE! (6/3/10) 13:41 [801]

The original version of this episode cut off suddenly at the end. It was assumed by NEAL to be a deliberate and excellent joke, but the truth is even better. It was not the end. Not BRIAN's fault - An Internet problem at the Irish end appears to have conspired.

Here now is the full version of Thursday's Into Your Head Temporarily Almost Daily Breakfast Show, Guest hosted and produced by BRIAN JUDE.

Some of you know BRIAN from his works, including THE BRIAN JUDE SHOW at BRIANJUDESHOW.blogspot.com and the eponymous @BRIANJUDE Twitter feed
BRIAN JUDE also acts, teaches, writes screens, makes movies, directs plays, is a bandmember who plays instruments properly, and was the first man ever to podcast from space. It is widely believe that he does not know how to sleep.

BRIAN JUDE is standing in for NEAL today after volunteering to do Thursday's IYH at very short notice. Thanks BRIAN.

About Into Your Head podcast

For 20 years Irish born amateur humourist, self-facing raconteur, universal unknown, socially awkward cat obsessive, energy drinks misuser and husband Neal O'Carroll has honed the art of starting comedic ramblings with no idea how the first sentence will end, never mind what he will say.

And to what end?

Irish comedy podcast Into Your Head's roots include O'Carroll's long enjoyment of classic BBC Radio panel game Just a Minute.

From an early age (27) he was starting sentences with "Two Cats walk into a Bar" more frequently than the average man, initially in early 2000s nonsense humour blog Neal's Belch on his original Newsburp website, which spawned the unscripted yet dialogue-laden Matchstick Cats webomics. By 2006, soon to be former moped operator O'Carroll had noticed saying stuff is easier than writing, and the rest is history. Particularly the first 400 shows which he insists are dreadful. Luckily the show evolved over seventeen years and another 400 speisodes to become the free-flowing sream of unconciousness humour show it is today.*

O'Carroll's 2023 reversal of the show's retirement followed a reinvigorating reboot of Matchstick Cats, adapting to ongoing sight loss from Retinitis Pigmentosa, even abandoning long trusted MS Paint for MS Paint 3D, although he admits it's relevance the audio podcast is yet to be understood. And now so can you.

No connection to the much later Newsburp podcast, another Irish comedy show that later occupied that domain.*

Disambiguations: Into Your Head / BB Max / Sháinne Greoige / Wikis

Please note that the 2002 album Into Your Head by the boy band BB Max was nothing to do with returning Irish comedy podcast Into Your Head. I hear they might be getting back together too, and wish them well in their endeavours. In fact, as of Christmas 2023 it has come to light that at least three musical acts have now had albums called Into Your Head. I worry that the market may become over-saturated. However, I wish them all well in their endeavours.

Please note that the fictional news anchor Sháinne Greoige, who has presented occasional segments, most notably Athy Weekly World News, on Into Your Head podcast, protrayed by my wife Joanne, bears no connection to television's Gráinne Seoige. We wish her well in her endeavours and those of whoever plays her.

Please note that this page is not a Wiki, and your attempts to edit it are further diminishing you in the eyes of your cats.

GunkCast 17: In The Fish (April 2012) 1:12:19 [731] Welcome GunkCast to The Overnightscape Underground! ¶ Show notes: While you wait for the much anticipated part# 2 of Space Trek, check out the adventures of Byron and a certain legendary New Jersey podcaster as they had a meetup on the streets of Chicago. We don't want to give alot away about the identity of our surprise guest…but clues may be found in a couple alternate titles Byron had thought of for this episode: "A Gunkcast Special Delivery" or "Byron Meets The Champler" (but the actual title we used in the end came from quite an unexpected source)! You'll just have to listen for all the answers & much more! Cheers!…

Gunkcast 16: Space Trek Part I (March 2012) 27:16 [731] "Space Trek (Part I): Those Guys vs Double-J Raygun" ¶ The title should say it all! But to sum up briefly… ¶ The villainous Double-J Raygun is trying to reboot the franchise. He went to the extreme measures of kidnapping Captain Jerk & destroying First Officer Sock's home planet of Toucan. Can Dr. Stones M'Boy & the crew of the Starship Arrow save the day? But they may need the help of someone who pilots a vessel know as The TARGIT…..! ¶ So Byron & a couple of his old friends got together here to bring back a skit they originally started when they were in high school (in the 80's) & doing a cable access show called Those Guys. The skit was a parody of a legendary & much beloved sci-fi TV series. But for this reunion we have brought quite a bit of an update to the original concept (along with many other surprise twists). ¶ Byron claims this is his biggest and most ambitious outing for Gunkcast to date (it actually has been over a year in the making)! So we are now proud to present Part#1 of an all out epic sci-fi comedy adventure from the warped minds behind this humble podcast!! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at—-Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 25: Bad Hair Day In The U.S.A. (Part 1) (October 2013) 1:06:18 [731] The retro journey begins! So how does an episode which starts with Byron walking his dog suddenly lead to a skydiving adventure, which in turn triggers a wild nostalgic trip to a certain past decade? You'll just have to tune in to find out these answers. This is one of the biggest (& definitely the longest schemed) outings for the podcast to date! So join Byron and several featured surprise guests as he hot-wires the old Delorean & takes us on a trip back….! ¶ Also to note, this episode is abound with much great music of a past era… as interpreted by not only our usual podcast house bands: The Gunk U.K. & Curmudgeon, but also by some of Byron's friends & family alike. Rumors are this Part #1 episode may include a vocal debut by Byron's wife Maggie Mae, as well as contributions by one of his earliest childhood friends who is now a dedicated musician himself…Stuart Chaseman. ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Static Radio, Special Delivery, The Overnightscape, Insignificast, For Whatever Reason, & Letter Seventeen!

Gunkcast 26: Bad Hair Day 2: The 80's World Tour! (December 2013) 1:30:15 [731] "There's been a lot of talk about this next podcast…maybe, maybe too much talk!" Yes, Byron summons the podcast listeners to rally behind his cause with these immortal words which he utters live under a blood red sky. That is…before he pulls the parachute (wait…huh?)! ¶ To kick off the 2nd part of our big retro journey, we find Byron still plummeting towards the Earth on his skydive while he continues the nostalgic trip three decades into the past. But this time (& never-before-seen on Gunkcast) the show goes international for his first guest! Here Byron learns what a "scouser" really is, finds out the origins of this guest's great love of a certain Chicago sports team, & why he actually has tried to block the 80's out from his life! After this, Byron free-falls back to the U.S.A. & heads South for some friends (a hint at another podcast team) to vocalize their diverse opinions of the 80's. This is to quite hilarious results! Finally, the bomb is dropped. One of Byron's oldest pals stops by the studio with a box which contains the ultimate secret from both of their dark (musical) pasts! ¶ As with the first part episode of Bad Hair Day, this one is abound with much great music of the 80's (as interpreted by several outstanding contributors)! Some of these include The Basement Lights, Letter Seventeen, The Negligible Nukes, The Flat-U-Ants, Phil 'Fingers McKraken'... as well as the regular Gunkcast house bands: Curmudgeon &The Gunk U.K.! ¶ Also, watch for one of the whackiest intros ever in the history of the podcast... & we strongly hint at (several) possible hidden endings which you definitely won't want to miss! In a nutshell, this one has it all folks! Cheers! ¶ And as always...please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Static Radio, Special Delivery, The Overnightscape, Insignificast, The Not New Review, For Whatever Reason, & Letter Seventeen!

Gunkcast 23: Vintage Lunchbox-Roadshow-Meetup (May 2013) 45:11 [731] Byron talks all things old school, takes the show on the road, & meets up with a couple surprise guests in "Vintage Lunchbox Roadshow Meetup!" ¶ "Vintage Lunchbox-Roadshow-Meetup" ¶ What happens when Byron starts off this episode wandering around a Chicago neighborhood on his lunch break from work rambling about items of nostalgic value from his past, but then changes gears & takes the show on the road South (& meeting up with a surprise couple of guests along the way)? ¶ Some extra hints about this episode may be found in a few alternate titles Byron originally had: Escape From Goose Island, Are We There Yet?, Byron Can't Drive 70, The Tampler, When (Podcast) Worlds Collide, Punk Rock Beach Wedding Invasion, Random Canadians & Internet People Are Cool! ¶ So join Byron, along with his family & band, on this rollicking adventure which treks from the streets of Chicago to the deep South and back (& featuring some great soundtrack music which includesCurmudgeon, The Gunk U.K. & Byron's surprise guest as well)! What more could possibly be packed in one episode outing? ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, Insignificast, For Whatever Reason, & Letter Seventeen! ¶

Gunkcast 29: From Primordial Soup... To The Barcode (May 2014) 23:51 [731] So what's exactly happening with Byron so far in 2014? Last time he took the podcast on a bit of an emotional roller coaster, & now he decides to get all philosophical(?)! While this may be some pretty uncharacteristic stuff for Gunkcast, we also strongly feel it is some of the best to come out yet! ¶ So here we find Byron kicking the whole thing off with a bit of a rant on punk fashion (with some help from a certain punk rock icon from the past), which then somehow leads to Byron's theories on evolution, revelations of long-lost music projects, & speculations on just where our final destination will be in the end! (Can it possibly involve a machine-readable code in the form of numbers and a pattern of parallel lines of varying widths??) ¶ Oh, and very noteworthy for this episode is the "secret music" from Byron's past we guarantee you've never heard before! Thanks for listening... cheers!

GunkCast 31: In The Fish 2 (September 2014) 1:25:33 [731] If you combine nightmarish train journeys, ballpark tours, & a podcast meetup on the streets of Chicago... it can only mean one thing. Yes it's the return of a famous New Jersey podcaster (along with his son) to Chi-Town for a 2nd live meeting with Byron! We welcome back Manny The Mailman! ¶ So Manny, his son Mike, & Byron reconvene at the same establishment from 2 years ago in attempt to locate the world's most knowledgeable beer server (who the podcasters claim to have met last time). Alas, he is nowhere to be found now...but this does not stop a very eventful meetup over dinner & several brews (with Byron later playing tour guide on a trip to Buckingham Fountain)! ¶ Some conversation topics include the horrifying side of travel via railway, other surprise meetups in the Midwest, the unnecessary re-naming of iconic national landmarks, scaling skyscrapers & arches, how people ever survived before cell phones, listening to celebrity podcasts, well wishes to Doc from Insignificast, talking Trek, many crazy ballpark tales, and how an unfortunate bmx bike accident led to this whole escapade for Manny & his son! ¶ Also (as if this episode couldn't get any better), we feature a very special musical debut for Gunkcast by Mike Fortunato! ¶ As always...please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, Paunch Stevenson, &Insignificast!

GunkCast 32: Tales From The Gunkcast Crypt! (October 2014) 1:14:13 [731] The big seasonal celebration returns to the podcast.... Halloween 2014 is here! After a couple year's hiatus, Byron resurrects his scarefest for the podcast. Being that this is his 3rd episode as such (do we hear trilogy?), he decides to pull out all the stops & make this possibly the grandest ghouls night out yet! Of course to do this, he invites some surprise guests on the show to tell their real life tales of terror! ¶ So with this one, you truly get it all... horror, comedy, & a rocking soundtrack (with some great musical contributions from the likes of Letter Seventeen, Khemique, & Immortal Chorus)! We promise... by the end of this outing, you'll literally be screaming for more! Happy Halloween! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, Letter Seventeen, & Insignificast!

GunkCast 33: A Christmas Trilogy (B/W: A New Year Chi-Town Rample) (December 2014) 41:44 [731] Just in time for your New Year 2015… we have our last episode from 2014 (but technically some of 2013 was also included)! Wait…huh?? To understand this, you must tune in for our long overdue return to the Yuletide celebration for the podcast! Here Byron plays out his "trilogy" of Christmas-related band recordings from over the years (do we hear a holiday e.p. for The Gunk U.K.?) & we also get a special bonus "B-Side" to this episode! So tune in for all the festivities! Happy holidaze from Gunkcast…cheers! ¶ And as always…please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, Paunch Stevenson, Insignificast, & Letter Seventeen!

GunkCast 34: Technology Creeps & Roadshow 2 (April 2015) 37:59 [731] We are back with our long awaited 1st show of 2015! This time Byron starts off on the streets of Chicago going on a bit of a rant on the current era of technology, but then does a 180 & takes a surprise road journey South (& for the 2nd time in the history of the podcast). He just can't shake the overarching technology theme here as it seems to take on a mind of it's own & follow him all the while! As you can expect, Byron kept his recorder rolling for the whole adventure which is presented here for your audio pleasure. ¶ Also listen for another rocking soundtrack featuring a Curmudgeon classic & a new Gunk U.K. tune which Byron debuts in a special exclusive in-studio performance (a hint that you should stick around to the very end of this one)! What more can you ask for in a show? Cheers! ¶ Note: As promised in this episode, I am including this link (http://yedies.blogspot.com/2013/11/the-mouse-goes-rfid.html) for some further interesting info on something we encountered on our journey… which also should further your own technology creeps! Thanks again for tuning in! ¶ http://trashcanrock.com/media/gunkcast_34.0_April2015.mp3

GunkCast 36: Constellation-Reset-Review (7/4/15) 27:20 [731] If there ever was a show with an eclectic mix for Gunkcast this is the one! From unearthing forgotten music written for the cosmos above, to theories on life's reset switch & the subterranean world below, & then throwing in some current items of pop culture for review as well… what more can you want from a podcast show? So tune in for what we promise to be a pretty wild & random ride this time around kids! Cheers! ¶ Also, as promised in this episode (& if you are as big of conspiracy theory fans as we are!) here are several items for your further investigation: Anunnaki in the Antarctic?, Admiral Byrd's diary, Invisible Residents, UFO/USO's, & the hollow earth. ¶ Finally, further links for this show: Reality Overload (Byron's old music project for the featured intro song), the movie we reviewed, & a great classic indie rock band we saw live!

Gunkcast 37: Space Trek I (Revisited): Those Guys vs Double-J Raygun (September 2015) 36:49 [731] Original Earth Transmission Date: March 2012 ¶ Major podcast fame…is it the final frontier? This is the tale of how a humble show called Gunkcast decided to embark on what they had no idea would become a 3 year mission. To unwittingly cause pandemonium with a series of strange new shows. To seek out more listeners…(yeah, even from the competition). To boldly go where no podcast has ever gone before! ¶ What seems like a very short time ago we started something for our podcast that we never would have guessed would become a multi-part series of episodes spanning over three years! So now in preparation for our big grand finale of Space Trek, we are bringing back all the previously aired episodes in their sequential order (leading up to the forthcoming Part #6). However, we wanted to make this extra special. So in this "revisited" series of episodes we may just be loading them with a few extra bonus goodies. Take for example this 1st part… where we unearthed the original lost "Static" intro! We also are remixing & remastering it all for the ultimate bang for your buck! (wait… did we ever say we were charging you, our dedicated fans, for this quality entertainment?) Anyway, we hope you enjoy reliving all the lunacy with us! -—–Byron ¶ The villainous Double-J Raygun is trying to reboot the franchise. He went to the extreme measures of kidnapping Captain Jerk & destroying First Officer Sock's home planet of Toucan. Can Dr. Stones M'Boy & the crew of the Starship Arrow save the day? But they may need the help of someone who pilots a vessel know as The TARGIT…..! ¶ So Byron & a couple of his old friends got together here to bring back a skit they originally started when they were in high school (in the 80's) & doing a cable access show called Those Guys. The skit was a parody of a legendary & much beloved sci-fi TV series. But for this reunion we have brought quite a bit of an update to the original concept (along with many other surprise twists). We also enlisted the talents of a few podcast cronies of ours for this whole event (hints at the links below)! So we are now proud to present Part #1 of an all out epic sci-fi comedy adventure from the warped minds behind this humble podcast!! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at—Static Radio, Special Delivery, & Onsug!

Gunkcast 38: Space Trek II (Revisited): Of Time & Impossible Moss! (11/14/15) 58:15 [731] [gunkcast_space-trek-Pt2_revisitedOriginal Earth Transmission Date: June 2012] ¶ "Space…the final frontier. These are the voyages of the Starship Arrow. It's never ending mission to explore strange living rooms. To seek out new viewers & better plots. To boldly go where no series will ever go!" With these immortal words a certain cable access show launched itself into (self proclaimed) underground cult status fame about 30 years ago. So in this next edition of our 'revisited' series of episodes for Gunkcast (leading up to our promised grand finale), we have included a new & very special intro segment from a certain podcast luminary! And if that isn't enough, additional bonus content as well as everything being remixed & remastered are just a few reasons to tune in for this unparalleled audio journey! Hey, what more can you ask for on a podcast? Again, thanks for reliving all the lunacy with us! ——Byron ¶ Here it is at last…the much anticipated 2nd part of the Space Trek saga! Learn what happens as Dr. Stones M'Boy, Sock, Checkout, Snotty, & the rest of the crew of the Starship Arrow embark on a perilous journey to rescue the missing Captain Jerk…who has been abducted and exiled through time & space by the villainous Double-J Raygun. With assistance from the mysterious character known as The Doc (& his TARGIT) they encounter some unexpected twists along the way, finding themselves in quite possibly the most harrowing predicament of all by the end of this most suspenseful & lunatic chapter of the epic sci-fi comedy adventure! Trust us…this one's a madhouse! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at—-Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 39: Space Trek III (Revisited): The Search For Jerk (11/25/15) 1:08:45 [731] [Original Earth Transmission Date: October 2012] ¶ The next in our "revisited" series of Space Trek episodes is here (leading up to the forthcoming Part #6)! As we have stated previously, we really strived to make these shows extra special by loading them with all sorts of bonus goodies! So in this 3rd part, we have another stellar new intro (can the rumors be true that it features the BIG MAN himself?)! Also there are hints of a new hidden ending which may further reveal Byron & his Those Guys crew's original high school shenanigans! Of course remixing & remastering this whole thing is just the icing on the cake. Again, we hope you enjoy reliving all the lunacy with us! -—–Byron ¶ A long time ago in a galaxy far, far… (oops… sorry, wrong show). A long time ago at a high school not too far away, Byron & a couple of his friends dreamt up an insane comedy cable access show called Those Guys. This spawned a skit called Space Trek, which has now been revived for an exclusive audio mini-series of episodes here on Gunkcast. Join Byron & a full ensemble cast of talent for the biggest, most action packed (& quite possibly the most lunatic) installment of our Space Trek series yet! ¶ Follow Dr. Leroy Stones M'Boy, Sock, Checkout, Snotty, & the rest of the crew of the Starship Arrow as they continue on their adventure which has guided them through time & space to rescue the missing Captain Jerk. While The Doc (piloting his TARGIT) attempts to hold off the hideous fleet of warships known as the Minions Of J (dispatched by the sinister Double-J Raygun himself), M'Boy & his crew now find themselves stranded on the Island of Impossible Moss as a result of a tiny slight detail they overlooked when they beamed down. But they soon discover they may not be alone on this strange & mysterious island… and the real rollercoaster ride starts here! Trust us, this 3rd part of the series has it all! And if you are wondering just how the U.K. vs. the U.S. shoe size fits into all of this, you'll just have to tune in & hear it for yourselves…cheers! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at—-Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 40: Space Trek IV (Revisited): The Trek Stigmata (12/15/15) 46:50 [731] [Original Earth Transmission Date: June 2013] ¶ Some years ago Byron was on a camping trip with his family & had a mishap while collecting firewood one night. He did not realize until too late that one of the logs he had picked up was covered with poison ivy vines! But perhaps what was most startling was that the resulting outbreak on Byron's left arm seemed to VERY closely resemble a certain classic sci-fi series logo! Yes…he fancied it to be the "trek stigmata!" This is the true & bizarre tale of the event that influenced this very episode title & which we are revealing now for this special revisited edition (at least for the "show notes" since Byron didn't remember to tell it during the actual recording)! ¶ So this next Space Trek 'revisited' episode for Gunkcast boasts another stellar new intro by an eminent podcast voice of the Onsug community (as well as possibly debuting another "hideous" new super villain)! Then after the main show, be sure to stick around for a special bonus behind the scenes segment which we are dubbing "Talking Trek" (featuring a couple old friends who may just happen to be Space Trek cast members & podcast legends themselves)! Note that we are nearing the end of the countdown to our BIG Trek finale… so dive right in now & enjoy reliving all the lunacy with us! Thanks again for listening! ——Byron ¶ At the end of Space Trek III we left you with a huge cliffhanger which has since caused much wild fan speculation & rumors buzzing around the web. The source of all this could be summed up with one simple question: "Who shot the Doc?" Well actually you should know who shot the Doc if you listened! But the bigger question is what do our heroes do now as the villainous Double-J Raygun (who is attempting to reboot the entire franchise) threatens to put an imminent end to them all on the Island of Impossible Moss? How can they overcome the odds weighing against them here & still recover the (unattended) Starship Arrow which has floated off into space? And just what does something possibly located on a certain starship captain's gluteus maximus have anything to do with all this? Find out all these answers & much more in this explosive continuation of the series! Fasten your seatbelts… this one's a real rollercoaster ride! ¶ To note, while you tune in for this next chapter of our crazy sci-fi comedy adventure (from the eccentric minds behind the original Those Guys), also listen for a pretty kickin' tune from The Gunk U.K. which soundtracks this one…cheers! ¶ And as always, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at—Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 41: Space Trek V (Revisited): Choose Your Own Trek! (12/31/15) 1:15:44 [731] [Original Earth Transmission Date: July 2014] ¶ Here it is folks… the last of our "revisited" series of episodes before our BIG grand finale for Space Trek! For this one we feature an all new very 'special (delivery)' style intro which kicks off one of the wildest rollicking adventures ever to be found on Gunkcast! Yes this one brings the whole Space Trek series to a fever pitch packed with more action, more thrills, more insane comedy, and (oh yes)…definitely more explosions! Simply put, this one has it all! Also being remixed & remastered for your audio pleasure truly takes the whole thing to "11″ (hey that's one louder… isn't it?)! Again, thanks for tuning in for our revisited series of Space Trek! We hope you enjoyed reliving all the lunacy with us! —-Byron ¶ So last time we left our fans waiting for answers in the aftermath of yet another huge episode cliffhanger ending. What was to become of Captain Jerk, Stones M'Boy, Sock, Checkout, Snotty, & the rest of the crew of the Starship Arrow when it was revealed that imminent disaster was about to strike as they prepared to beam up from the Island of Impossible Moss (after the big showdown with the villainous Double-J Raygun)? Well finally we are back with the long awaited answer…or shall we say "answers!" Yes, this time we are giving you (our dedicated listeners) the choice to make as to what the outcome of this most perilous situation could be! So what are you waiting for? Join us now for the 5th installment of a most epic sci-fi comedy adventure mini-series (brought to you by the eccentric minds behind the original Those Guys)! Remember, the success of the mission this time relies on your decision! ¶ And just when you think this episode can't get any better, you may want to also tune in for a classic track from one of our main Gunkcast house bands… Curmudgeon. Yes, this one truly has it all folks! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at—-Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 42: Space Trek VI: The Farce Awakens / The Final Load Of Laundry / Those Guys Take A Journey Home! (1/29/16) 1:08:55 [731] "The Farce is strong in the Gunkcast family. Byron has it. Smidge has it. Hell, just about all of the Space Trek cast have it! You have that power too…!" Oh sorry, wrong show (you ask)? But of course this is the right show! And with those immortal words our special guest intro announcer (courtesy of Bad Reboot Productions) kicks off our biggest episode to date! But let's leave the rest of that bit for your actual listening pleasure & carry on with what we planned here. So… A long time ago at a high school not too far away, Byron & a couple of his friends dreamt up an insane comedy cable access show called Those Guys. This spawned a skit called Space Trek, which has been revived for an exclusive audio mini-series of episodes here on Gunkcast. So please join Byron & his full ensemble cast of talent now for the BIG wrap up. That's right… the grand finale which has been so hyped & promised for so very long that many thought it simply was never going to happen. Yes, this finale has gotten so BIG that we decided we needed to bring it all to a close in the BIGGEST way we know how… obviously by making it three shows in one! (Wait…what)? ¶ But we're not going to spoil this for you. You'll just have to dive right in with us as the fuse(box) is lit to an explosive intro where we flashback through The Farce to the untold tale of how this whole adventure began! Yes, find out just how one final load of laundry set the chain of events in motion which led to our entire epic six part saga! Then join Byron & his co-host Dave Ryan in the studio as they talk all things Trek & set up the final part of our journey which reaches it's action packed conclusion here. And just when you think this can't get any better, we also hint that there may be an after-show party which features a few more surprises (as well as another kicking tune from one of our main house bands.. Curmudgeon)! ¶ As we close out our Captain's Log, we would like to humbly thank everyone who contributed to our shenanigans over the last several years of making this audio journey for Gunkcast (yes, you are all given ceremonious credit in this one)! The little skit we started as part of our cable access show back in high school has now reached the grand conclusion it deserves & we are ready for a final beam up! Cheers….! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at—-Static Radio, Onsug, Special Delivery, Fusebox, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 43: A Normal Show? (March 2016) 33:35 [901] We are finally back from winter hibernation with a normal show. Wait… is there ever such a thing as a normal show for Gunkcast? You'll just have to tune in to figure that out for yourselves! We won't say too much here, but this one could actually be the biggest game changer for the podcast to date (as somebody is MIA & somebody steps in to take the show back)! ¶ Some key highlights for this one: Shout-outs to Doc from Insignificast & Jimbo from Onsug. Contributing to a show for Jimbo. A St. Patrick's Day flashback adventure. Our 2016 Grateful Dead & general 60's conspiracy rant (featuring a special guest)! R.I.P. David Bowie. Winter/Spring movie & TV review roundup. Oh… and a hint to stick around later for some possible Easter Eggs! ¶ Also featured are some great musical contributions from Jimbo, A.O.D., & our own house band Curmudgeon! We hope you enjoy our BIG return to form for 2016…

cheers! ¶ As always…please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at—-Static Radio, Onsug, Special Delivery, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 44: In Reverse (July-April 2016) 44:36 [904] Hear our several month "reverse" journey which may just include a eulogy, a review, a political rant, a conspiracy theory, and another travel adventure for the show. Of course when we then throw in our trademark musical contributions to soundtrack the whole thing, what more could you want from a podcast? Cheers! ¶ As always…please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at—-Static Radio, Onsug, Special Delivery, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 46: Halloween H2O (October 2016) 1:31:02 [907] The crypt has opened once again as the scarefest for the podcast returns for a big 2016 outing! This time Smidge decided to dedicate the show entirely to one of his favorite network of podcasters. That's right… it's a Halloween to Onsug! ¶ So for this ghouls night out we have invited as many of the great Onsug hosts to participate as possible. That being said, we received "seven" amazing contributions! Yes, these brave souls stepped up to relate their tales of terror which may just provide some extra thrills (& chills) to haunt you for your All-Hallows' Eve of 2016! And in our typical Halloween tradition for Gunkcast, we bring you all the tricks (or shall we say treats): creepy tales from our stalwart contributors, crazy comedy, more conspiracy freak outs, & a review! Oh…and of course a rocking soundtrack to boot (featuring musical contributions from the likes of Letter Seventeen, Jimbo, Curmudgeon, The Gunk U.K., The Warp Zone, & Albert Gyorfi)! Have a frightful Halloween for 2016 all! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, Letter Seventeen, For Whatever Reason, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast: Gunk At 45 (March 2017) 1:08:18 [912] Has 2017 seemed just a little quiet so far for the podcast? Fear not… you may just need earplugs for this one! We crank those amps up (yeah, yeah…definitely past "11") & bring the show back in full swing as we dedicate this episode to the band behind the podcast! Yes, for this one we pay tribute to the legacy of The Gunk U.K.. Hear from friends, podcast peers, ex-roadies, punk rock mail carriers, pub owners, disgruntled recording engineers, and (of course) the band themselves as we take you on a wild journey into the world of The Gunk U.K.! There is also the hint that for the proper listening expeience, you should play this episode at 45 RPM! Cheers! ¶ A special note should be made that you may hear a companion episode (of sorts) to this one on Static Radio right here. Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 47: In The Fish 3 (Part 1) (May 2017) 1:31:32 [914] Once again in the history of Gunkcast, we have another BIG podcast meetup on the streets of Chicago! A famous New Jersey podcaster returns to our show, as well as a certain legendary Iowa show host, for what can only go down as one landmark podcast summit! So without giving too much away, why don't you just dive right in and enjoy Part #1 of this meeting of the (podcast) minds… cheers! ¶ And as always…please share the love and listen to some of our favorite shows at: Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 48: In The Fish 3 (Part 2) (May 2017) 1:04:04 [914] At last we are back with the conclusion of our BIG podcast meetup which recently took place on the streets of Chicago. Smidge is joined by Manny The Mailman (of Special Delivery) and Miles Tidal (of Static Radio) as they take refuge from some harsh Spring Windy City weather… but may just find themselves in an establishment which is (or at least once was) located in one of the most dangerous parts of Chi-Town! Yes…the good times and exciting conversation continues with topics which range from stories of late night celebrity run-ins, to certain podcast-related adventures, to just what the heck this episode title actually means! Laced with plenty of nostalgia & pop culture talk… this show is one not to be missed! So why don't you just dive right in and enjoy Part #2 of this meeting of the (podcast) minds! Cheers! ¶ And as always…please share the love and listen to some of our favorite shows at: Static Radio, Special Delivery, Onsug, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 49: Gunkcast Does The Hustle (Part 1) (August-October 2017) 1:00:40 [919] So 2017 seems to be the year of podcast meetups for Gunkcast! After a bit of a hiatus (we'll just call it an extended summer break), we are back with another BIG show! This time we have a special guest co-host in the studio to talk with us on the subject of all things music! His name is Jon Lamoreaux and he does a very cool podcast called The Hustle for which he seeks out musicians & bands who once had their moment of fame (a big note to those one-hit wonders of the mid-70's through early 90's). Many of the artists he has had on his show are pretty big names who you definitely will know, as well as some who have flown slightly under the commercial radar of success. So we had a very interesting discussion with Jon on how he approaches his show and he shares many fascinating stories regarding the artists he has interviewed. We also discuss many of the bands & artists we have a common passion for (& we may just offer up some suggestions for Jon for who we think he needs to get on his show)! ¶ Although we were admittedly very tempted to include bits of all the great music we talked about in this episode, we have decided to honor copyrights & do the Onsug-friendly version here. So here are just a few links regarding some of the bands/artists we discuss in this Part #1 episode: The Chameleons (https://youtu.be/nGssYCWIV74 & https://youtu.be/4sL-wu5oa1w), Russ Ballard (https://youtu.be/FNrbrhQknLQ), The Mighty Lemon Drops (https://youtu.be/E5mltgsGEas), The A's (https://youtu.be/rdIkDWNWVIA), Real Life (https://youtu.be/jCHE0Tjw6MA), The Flowerpot Men (https://youtu.be/7kj5K3BxA6s), Robert Tepper (https://youtu.be/MwPb7g_BlXQ), Tim Capello (https://youtu.be/PdaaGlyu7EQ), Steven Wilson (https://youtu.be/ENfI942SJTY), Guided By Voices (https://youtu.be/-fm83rY2aWc), & Longwave (https://youtu.be/CLEZ8tyfA9A). These are besides the many more popular artists we also discussed. So enjoy the 1st part of quite the fascinating music discussion we had… we will be back with the 2nd part very soon! ¶ Also to note, we may be debuting a track off the upcoming (and long promised) e.p. from the band! So you may want to stick around for that here too! Cheers! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: The Hustle, Onsug, Static Radio, Insignificast, The Not New Review, and Rock Solid!

Gunkcast 50: Gunkcast Does The Hustle (Part 2) (October 2017) 1:30:01 [920] Well this is it folks… the BIG 50th episode for the podcast! And what better way to celebrate it than to make it an all-out music extravaganza?! Yes, this is the 2nd part of our discussion with Jon Lamoreaux from The Hustle podcast. In this one we hear many more fascinating stories about the musicians he has interviewed (again ranging from fairly big celebrities to those who flew slightly under the radar of commercial success). ¶ Some quick notes on all the cool stories & discussion topics covered here: What happens when you accidentally walk in on your rock & roll idols changing backstage? Bands who hold a 25-year long grudge for their backstage chocolates being eaten! Half our concert-going country are obese! Your favorite studio musicians may just suck live! Adam Ant has gone Metal! Famous reunion tours which may have been instigated for not so noble reasons. Jon just needs to tap into the Australian music scene! ¶ Also we continue on with our request list of who we feel Jon needs to get on his show, as well as compare our concert-going intake for this year with him. Plus you won't want to miss Smidge's real life hair-raising tale which comes just in time for Halloween of 2017! Yes, these are some of the many reasons to tune in to this episode! And as if this couldn't get better, just stick around for a possible hidden ending featuring a backstage concert adventure for Smidge and his friends. What more could you want from a podcast? Cheers! ¶ Also (as always), please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: The Hustle, Onsug, Static Radio, Insignificast, The Not New Review, and Rock Solid!

Gunkcast Thanksgiving Special (Flashback): Punk Talk 2010! (11/24/17) 40:49 [920] So this was a total last minute brainstorm idea for the Thanksgiving season of 2017… why not flashback to one of our oldest shows (which just so happened to be our 1st meetup as well)!? See originally this episode was numbered "002," but was technically sort of our 3rd release for the podcast, & was also commonly referred to as the pre-show for the episode #2 proper (wait, huh??)? Ok, yeah… whatever (this probably all made sense to Byron Duddle who was running the show back then)! Besides all of this, we very strongly feel this stands as a great episode for the podcast and are proud to introduce it to Onsug for the 1st time ever! Enjoy!! ¶ Original show notes: With the looming Gunkcast# 2 getting very near…Byron decided to release this as the pre-show (we'll just call it the Thanksgiving Special)! A couple of surprise guests made it to the studio for an all-out punk rock discussion and to share their own stories of how punk affected their lives. This included some startling revelations as to certain people's true family origins, and also a very timely Thanksgiving tale starring a punk icon of the past! Cheers! ¶ As always…please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at—-Static Radio, Onsug, Special Delivery, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 51: Welcome To The Meltdown (September 2017 – June 2018) 1:02:58 [927] People have said they spotted something approaching… can it be true? Can a certain podcast be descending back to Earth from the deepest regions of space? Yes, here it is folks… the return of Gunkcast for 2018! After a very extended hiatus we are back with the long-promised episode, which features an even more long-promised album that has finally been released. Yes, we have decided to treat you (our dedicated fans) to an in-depth dissection of each of the songs from this new album & we are dedicating this episode to the 1st track: "Welcome To The Meltdown." ¶ People have said they spotted something approaching… can it be true? Can a certain podcast be descending back to Earth from the deepest regions of space? Yes, here it is folks… the return of Gunkcast for 2018! After a very extended hiatus we are back with the long-promised episode, which features an even more long-promised album that has finally been released. Yes, we have decided to treat you (our dedicated fans) to an in-depth dissection of each of the songs from this new album & we are dedicating this episode to the 1st track:

“Welcome To The Meltdown.” ¶ And as if this couldn’t get any better, we also have jam packed this episode with all sorts of bonus content! We do our signature Gunkcast review of several pop culture movies, as well as a certain exclusive You Tube Red series (& take special note to stick around for a possible hidden ending featuring a certain very long overdue review)! Finally, we have recently unearthed some forgotten recordings which were done several years ago for an intended collaboration with Jimbo… we offer these in special tribute to his memory here. All of this plus our trademark crazy comedy and rocking soundtrack (provided by Smidge & the band)… what more could you possibly want from a podcast? Cheers! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, Insignificast, Letter Seventeen, & The Hustle!

Gunkcast 52: Byron Of The Dead (A Frightfest Double Feature!) (Halloween 2011-2018) 54:16 [932] We wanted to drop a most frightful last minute surprise with this one! A certain past Gunkcast show host is resurrected for All-Hallows’ Eve of 2018 as we combine our 1st two archival Halloween episodes for a very special Frightfest Double Feature! Originally released as “A Nightmare On Byron’s Street” (2011) and “Byron From The Grave” (2012), these two shows have never been broadcast previously on Onsug. So combine a double-whammy of terrifying classic episodes, add some new commentary from Smidge, & throw in a current pop culture review section to boot (trust us, it’s to die for)… what more can you possible want from a podcast? This one should definitley leave you screaming for more! Cheers! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast 53: We Gave This Our 21% (A Podcast Meetup!) (November 2018) 1:21:18 [932] In the history of Gunkcast, one thing we are particularly fond of is when a podcast meetup episode comes together. And here you have just that… a BIG meeting of the podcast minds for 2018! Join Smidge and his very special guest Bob LeMent (of Static Radio fame) as they meet for lunch in Chicagoland. Tune in for some fascinating discussion on the subject of all things pop culture! Some of the topics here include travel horror stories, being confused by all the technology improvements (& screw-ups!), why being an Uber/Lyft driver may not be your dream job, our Hollywood doppelgängers, past run-ins with Wil Wheaton & the Goo Goo Dolls, visiting Jim Morrison’s grave, Miles & Manny, having life-theatening podcast jobs, the college prankster years revisited, & following Bob’s most important rule in life… “just try to stay out of jail!” If you listen to just one meetup episode this year, this is one not to be missed! Cheers! ¶ A special note that the soundtrack to this episode is provided by a Tribute band Smidge is currently part (a hint to a blond-haired trio from the 80’s) called Invisible Sun. Look for them on the live scene very soon!! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, & Insignificast!

Gunkcast Episode LIV: The Rise Of Kurdlebaum (4/14/19) 1:11:18 [937] Join Smidge and his son as they bring the podcast out of winter hibernation & trek out to a huge event which just happened in Chicago. Yes it was the Star Wars Celebration 2019! Listen to Kurdlebaum Junior & Senior as they team up for a full podcast together for the very 1st time! From the perilous adventure through a Spring (Hoth-like) blizzard to make it to their destination, to a full day filled with all sorts of surprises and fun… this episode is one not to be missed! Trust us the Farce (oops sorry… that was our Space Trek series), I mean the Force is strong with this one! Cheers! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, Insignificast, & The Hustle!

Gunkcast 55: I Struggle Just To Say Your Name In Chicago: An Indie-Rock Memoir (Part 1) (May 2019) 1:46:24 [938] Join Smidge as he welcomes a very special guest to the show for an all-out music extravaganza! Michael Lenzi was one of the key members of a pivotal Chicago Indie-Rock band from the 90’s called Number One Cup. Hear the story of how a Bowie/punk rock fan from DC followed his music dream to Chicago, and ended up forming a band who found an audience very far away! Learn how mailing their 1st single to the legendary John Peel in the U.K. in the early 90’s changed everything for the band. From tales of being stranded out West on their 1st U.S. tour, to playing festivals throughout Europe, to onstage destruction of their instruments/gear, an encounter with Thom Yorke of Radiohead, to recording in the same famous studio used by Nirvana for their final LP (while former Husker Du drummer Grant Hart wandered in!)… this episode is packed with many fascinating stories of Michael’s music journey with Number One Cup! ¶ A special note that Michael & his wife run their own independent record label called Sweet Pea Records, and all the music used to soundtrack this episode may be found & acquired through this site. Please also check out their Facebook page as well. Besides Number One Cup, many of the other music projects Michael has been part of can be found on Sweet Pea Records as well. Cheers! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, Insignificast, The Hustle, Rock Solid, The Not New Review, The Unblinking Ear, & The Pods & Sods Network.

Gunkcast 56: I Struggle Just To Say Your Name In Chicago: An Indie-Rock Memoir (Part 2) (August 2019) 1:24:51 [941] If you have been wondering where the podcast has been, Smidge has been trekking across Europe for much of this Summer (hinted at during a special intro here)! But now he's back and he brings you the long awaited follow-up episode to the all-out music extravaganza which began back in May. So if you did not hear Part #1, we highly recommend you go back and listen… because this second part hits the ground running right where we left off! ¶ Join Smidge as he continues his conversation with special guest Michael Lenzi (Chicago Indie-Rock musician and owner of Sweet Pea Records). While the first part episode focused on his musical journey with the band Number One Cup (from their rise, until their untimely end in the late 90's)… the story was not over for Michael by any means! While his former band was known for their catchy brand of Indie pop, Michael now desired to start something that had much more of a searing post-punk edge to it. So he joined forces again with former Number One Cup bandmate Seth Kim-Cohen & devised yet another brilliant Indie Rock project called The Fire Show. Michael tells how The Fire Show pushed their experimental & creative ambitions to the max over the course of three albums, during which they gained critical acclaim while never conforming to any music industry standard. ¶ Michael also chronicles his career following The Fire Show (from the early 2000's until the present) during which he has continued as a solo artist with a series of excellent albums released as Resplendent, LENZI, and Tough Solar. And now he has re-united once again with Seth Kim-Cohen for a brand new LP release as Nil/Resplendent. This episode is a must listen as we hear many fascinating stories and explore some extraordinary music! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, Insignificast, The Hustle, Rock Solid, & The Not New Review, The Unblinking Ear, & The Pods & Sods Network.

Gunkcast 57 – Humming Tunes On The Deck As The Ship Lay In Tatters: The Menthol Story (An Interview With Balthazar de Ley) (February 2020) 1:33:28 [947] Join Smidge as he brings in 2020 for Gunkcast with another all-out music extravaganza! Fot this one he meets with very special guest Balthazar de Ley in the studio. Balthazar was the frontman for (as some have referred to them) the greatest band you've never heard! Menthol came from the humble origins of a college town in Champaign-Urbana, IL. Originally know as Mother, they were part of the wave of bands on the scene following the explosion of grunge… when the likes Indie Rock, punk, & shoegaze all were finding a home together under the umbrella of "Alt Rock." Balthazar relates a fascinating tale of how the very unlikely chance that his band's demo ended up on a record label executive's desk in LA changed everything for the band. Suddenly Menthol found themselves thrust into the spotlight! Signed to a major label they released their big budget debut LP as Menthol and were off on a whirlwind tour for a few years (supporting some big name bands from that era)! Then came time for their follow-up LP, and Menthol (who were by then evolving as a band) went into the studio and fully finished an album inspired largely by a retro 80's New Wave sound. Hear the unbelievable account of what happened next. We don't want to give away too much here… so you will just have to listen! ¶ This episode is packed with many cool & interesting tales of what Balthazar encountered on his music journey. From taking music lessons from one of the members of REO Speedwagon in his youth, to playing bass in the band Hum, developing crazy guitar tunings as his signature sound, playing at the legendary CBGB's in NYC and running into a big-name actor in quite the unlikely spot in the famous punk bar, & working for Billy Corgan to maintain the studio equipment that the Smashing Pumpkins were doing their best to destroy! And just how could a series of bizarre events & Courtney Love have had an impact on how things played out for Menthol in the end? Yes, you will just have to tune-in to this episode for all these details & much more! ¶ Balthazar later became a sound engineer, played in another band called La Scala, was a studio repair tech, and presently designs and builds custom guitar amps with his Chicago-based biz called Balthazar Audio Systems. Also, the BIG news here is that Menthol are reuniting on May 24th this year for a reunion show! To find more on Menthol online you can find their music on Discogs, Amazon, & iTunes. Also check out a Facebook Page as well as and another really cool podcast a guy named Marc with a C did several years ago! Cheers! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, Insignificast, The Hustle, Rock Solid, The Not New Review, & The Real Congregation.

Gunkcast 58: Quarantine This! (An Interview With Pat Francis) (May 2020) 1:26:34 [950] Here it is folks… the podcast episode which truly almost didn't happen (between pandemics & remote recording technology disasters)! But we were able to pull it all together and present here for you a blast of Quarantine fun! ¶ Join Smidge as he welcomes special guest Pat Francis to the show for a very timely episode! Pat hosts one of Smidge's favorite weekly music podcasts called Rock Solid. Pat tells the tale of his humble start in a small town in PA, to his successful career touring around the country as a stand-up comedian, to finally rooting himself in L.A. and becoming a popular podcast host. ¶ Hear how his insistence on only interviewing music guests in person have led to such things as trekking to Stewart Copeland's house, having the likes of Greg Kihn & Wang Chung come and jam at his podcast studio, how he made 3 legendary musicians cry (in his "Oprah" interview moments!), dealing with Rick Springfield's horrible handlers, witnessing the down-to-earth coolness of the "Red Rocker"… yes, many fascinating stories abound here! ¶ Also focused on is our current pandemic situation and how it is affecting the music scene on a global scale. Why do we really need new music more than ever right now? Just how are bands going to navigate the current scene when they are not able to play shows or tour for the foreseeable future? Why will Pat not invite Smidge to his house?? All the answers to these questions and much more are to be found here! ¶ Finally, Pat gives some valuable tips for people thinking of starting there own podcasts and Smidge debuts a very timely new song from his current band The GMO's! Simply put… this episode has it all folks! Cheers… and stay safe!! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, Insignificast, The Hustle, Rock Solid, The Not New Review, & The Pods & Sods Network.

Gunkcast 59: Shake Down All The Stars: An Interview With The Poster Children (Part 1) (October 2020) 1:36:00 [955] Join Smidge as he welcomes very special guests Rick Valentin & Rose Marshack to the show. They are the husband & wife team who are the core of the legendary Indie Rock band the Poster Children! Hear the story of their band which started on the local college scene of Champaign-Urbana (Illinois) in the mid-to late 80's. From the beginning they made it their goal to write & record the music they are passionate about and to play shows. They strived for longevity and not to fall victim to the corporate music machine which started snatching bands up (especially during the Grunge/Alt Rock explosion of the 90's). The tragedy was that many of those bands had their brief moment in the sun only to be unceremoniously dumped & forgotten. But by staying true to their music & figuring out how to survive making a living at it, Poster Children have weathered the (at many times turbulent) music scene over the course of 3 decades! ¶ So tune-in for the first part of our conversation with Rick and Rose. Many fascinating stories abound in this interview and you are in for a real treat here (especially if you are any kind of music fan)! We will be back with the second part of this interview very shortly! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, Insignificast, The Hustle, Rock Solid, The Not New Review, & Radio Zero.

Gunkcast 60: Shake Down All The Stars: An Interview With The Poster Children (Part 2) (October 2020) 1:34:25 [955] Join Smidge as he concludes his big two-part interview with Rick Valentin & Rose Marshack of the legendary Indie Rock band the Poster Children! [Stay tuned for a full detailed episode description….]. ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, Insignificast, The Hustle, Rock Solid, The Not New Review, & Radio Zero.

Gunkcast 61: Superspreader, Cringecast, & Roadshow 3 (Part 1) (August 2021) 43:46 [965] In case you were wondering where the podcast has been, we are here to tell you that rumors of it's demise have been greatly exaggerated! That's right, Gunkcast is back for 2021 with an old school style rollicking road adventure for the show! Join Smidge and his two sons as they trek from Chicago back East to Washington D.C. & through to NYC. From the turnpikes of PA, to Gettysburg, to the nation's capital, side journeys to Baltimore & Philadelphia, & finally NYC! This episode has it all! ¶ Some random teaser notes for this episode: old school GPS technology still works, the turnpike tunnels of PA, Smidge's sons re-brand his podcast, Gettysburg & finding the abandoned (zombie apocalypse) Eisenhower house, the big D.C. tour, Arlington Cemetery, Fort McHenry, the "Rocky Steps" in Philadelphia (& not seeing the Liberty Bell), the big NYC tour, Port Authority, Times Square, the Soup Nazi, Central Park, Lennon/Strawberry Fields, Rockefeller Center, the Staten Island Ferry, Uptown vs. Downtown, giant underground mall, & the emotionally overwhelming 911 Memorial. So much happened during this eventful road expedition that we are making this a two-part episode (for which the 2nd part includes a BIG surprise meetup)! ¶ Also to note, Smidge's current band The GMO's provide the soundtrack to this episode for your quality music entertainment! Featured are tracks from their latest 2021 e.p. called Superspreader (as well as bonus studio outtakes and live performances)! Further musical inclusions are classic & well-placed snippets from indie bands The Pulsars & Skanatra. ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, The Hustle, & Rock Solid. A special intro tribute was done in this episode to the legacy of legendary podcaster Sam (from Insignificast & The Not New Review podcasts). He also is remembered and discussed extensively in a Static Radio episode done earlier this year (for which a group of us podcasters convened to take part in)… Farewell Sam.

Gunkcast 62: In The Fish 4 & Roadshow 3 (Part 2) (August-September 2021) 2:17:48 [967] We know everyone's been waiting and asking themselves the question: "Do we still know what Smidge did last Summer?" Ok, ok… that actually is the alternate title for this episode. But the point is we are back with the BIG conclusion of our recent travel extravaganza for the podcast! And what better way to conclude than with an even BIGGER meetup that happened on the streets of NYC? ¶ So join Smidge and sons as they meetup with two legendary podcasters here for a day spent trekking around NYC. Utilizing the likes of trams, trains, and ferries… this was a day filled with adventure that took the group from Times Square, to Roosevelt Island, to the South Street Seaport areas around NYC. Along with seeing the diversity of fascinating & historic sites, we also have much great conversation here (heavy on a plethora of pop culture themes). Simply put, this episode has it all! ¶ As with the first part episode, this one is also soundtracked by one of Smidge's current bands. Invisible Sun (which is a tribute to the music of The Police) is captured here both in the studio and live in performance for your quality musical entertainment! ¶ Also, please share the love and listen to some of our favorite podcasts at: Onsug, Static Radio, The Hustle, & Rock Solid.

PriorCaster – Frank Nora (10/24/21) 46:17 [967] Welcome a new show by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute. PriorCaster seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ Our first PriorCaster is Frank Edward Nora. I have been in contact with Frank for over 20 years. He has been creating audio since a child and took to the new world of digital audio as soon as he could back in 1997 with his first foray, Blufftoons. ¶ Check out all his creations bridging the 20th and 21st centuries at his website theovernightscape.com. Be swept into a world that expands from childhood dabbling into mind expanding monologues delivered on the bustling streets of New York City. With over 1800 shows and counting, it is a cornucopia of audio from a one of a kind perspective.

PriorCaster – Scott Baker (11/5/21) 1:11:38 [968] PriorCaster, by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute, seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ Scott Baker jumped into the world of internet audio right out of college and paid his dues at VStream digitizing content, both audio and video. He clawed his way up the ranks and hopped companies to be a producer for Boston.com at the advent of internet audiovisual content. ¶ You can hear him now via his latest adventure in online audio at artcrime.blog where he delves deep into a little known area of the crime genre, where artistic talent meets the underworld. ¶ artcrime.blog ¶ Scott Baker ¶ Host – artcrime ¶ Came from the lower decks of internet audio capture ¶ Hosted shows on StreamingMedia.com and traveled the world ¶ Currently heard on The artcrime.blog

PriorCaster – Sir John Hargrave (11/12/21) 1:11:38 [968] PriorCaster, by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute, seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ The world was introduced to the comedic writings of Sir John Hargrave at Zug.com but his daily show Computer Stew was where he cut his hosting chops. ¶ He is all grown up now and running his company MediaShower.com, writing books, giving interviews on blockchain technology and investing advice. ¶ BitcoinMarketJournal ¶ Sir John Hargrave ¶ Host – Author – Business Person ¶ Pioneer for daily video on the internet ¶ Hosted Computer Stew at ZDNet ¶ Author of several books including "Prank the Monkey" and "MindHacking"

PriorCaster – C Peter Clough (12/16/21) 41:56 [969] PriorCaster, by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute, seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ C Peter Clough started in audio media, via an 8-track and cassette tape sneaker-net operation back in the days of zines and no internet. ¶ His professional experience took him to radio and then onto the internet with his audio creations. Life got in the way and he needed to earn a living, but was lucky enough to land jobs in the earliest online marketing gigs of the day. ¶ The Independent Podcast Alliance ¶ C Peter Clough ¶ Founder at The Independent Podcast Alliance ¶ Sneaker-Net aficianado ¶ Online marketing pioneer ¶ Founder of the Independent Podcast Alliance

PriorCaster – Miles Tidal (1/9/22) 54:10 [970] PriorCaster, by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute, seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ Miles Tidal is a reluctant internet radio pioneer. He joined his co-host Bob LeMent on their internet radio ride, with little to no technical knowledge. He just thought it would be fun. ¶ He dabbled in radio during college at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and was asked to continue his role as co-host once graduated on StaticRadio.com. His day job has no technical or internet connections, other than what any job has now a days. He just enjoys telling funny stories. ¶ Static Radio ¶ Blue Lips ¶ Miles Tidal ¶ Founder and Co-host of StaticRadio.com ¶ Reluctant Internet Radio Pioneer ¶ Social Media Novice ¶ All Around Good Guy

PriorCaster – PQ Ribber (11/15/22) 32:08 [983] PriorCaster, by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute, seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ PQ Ribber has a long history of creative merry-making, from audio to art, books to bands, PQ has given a creative spin to whatever interests him. ¶ Having roots on "real" (terrestrial) radio, PQ takes that knowledge and puts it to good use on The Overnightscape Central each week, as he shepherds the listener through various other voices as they expound on the topic du jour. ¶ He even protects the earth from outer space wackiness on the Quake Reversal Satellite. While strumming a tune with one of his various bands. ¶ The Overnightscape Underground ¶ Overnightscape Central ¶ Various other projects ¶ PQ Ribber ¶ Host, guitarist, bon vivant and all around good guy ¶ Artistic Dynamo ¶ Podcast Aficionado ¶ Sometime Busker

PriorCaster – James O'Brien (1/27/23) 1:40:09 [983] PriorCaster, by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute, seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ James O'Brien has worn many hats, but I think his best one is independent media producer. He embodies the passion and drive that anyone who wants to produce their own media should look up to. ¶ Starting with Rant Radio, most likely the first 24/7 independent streaming radio station back in January 1999, onto Rant TV which did the same for video in 2003. His projects and passions for internet media were fierce and incredibly independent. ¶ As James has moved through his hobby of creating media, it has led to a kind of dream gig as an independent filmmaker, where he still explores the world for projects that fit his interests. ¶ RantMedia.ca ¶ IMDB Page ¶ Zero Page Homebrew ¶ James O'Brien ¶ Host, singer, producer, atari specialist and independent thinker. ¶ Rant Media King ¶ Independent Filmmaker ¶ Atari Aficionado

PriorCaster – Chad Bowers (2/4/23) 56:55 [983] PriorCaster, by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute, seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ Chad Bowers has taken the road less traveled on his lifelong journey to find interesting things to do and survive on. He has sold cell phones and ended up creating a website, he's directed anime films and found love, he's worked in terrestrial radio and found the internet. All these things have added up to a wild and interesting career of internet oddities. ¶ Chad was working in terrestrial radio when he fell into the task of making a website for the station during the Geocities era of internet content. This foray into creating something new and different made an impact on him. ¶ Selling cell phones though was probably the most creative job he could have had at the time, even though saying it doesn't seem right. It was through cell phone sales that he came up with his personal brand of internet strangeness, TITFOS, or The Incredible True Facts of Space. This houses his worse fears and craziest desires and has outlasted many others to be a definite stop for the world-weary and tormented internet traveler. ¶ TITFOS ¶ ONSUG.com ¶ Funimation ¶ Chad Bowers ¶ Monorail pilot, Writer of the strange and unusual, epic road tripper, and southern gentleman. ¶ Director ¶ Narrator ¶ Diet Coke Enthusiast

PriorCaster – Ted Ganchiff from Givemetalk! (11/20/24) 51:41 [1016] PriorCaster, by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute, seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ Ted Ganchiff decided in the late 90's to take the road less travelled with a site called Give Me Talk!, making everyone a talk show host of their own program with audio on the internet. ¶ To say Give Me Talk was ahead of it's time would be an understatement, it was a concept that would come to be but not under his direction. ¶ Give Me Talk was an inspired idea that had great promise, but at the wrong time in history. If only he would have let that server run for a bit longer, we might be calling him the Podfather rather than someone else. ¶ Linked InGenubi.ai ¶ Ted Ganchiff ¶ Leader, Guru, AI aficionado, sales expert ¶ Founder ¶ CEO ¶ Internet Audio Pioneer

PriorCaster – The Midnight Citizen with Mike Boody (10/25/25) 1:13:54 [1016] PriorCaster, by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute, seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ Mike listened to podcasts in the early days of the new media's life, but didn't find the things he wanted in it. Until he heard The Overnightscape Underground, here was the thing he was looking for, and by finding that thing, he found a community. ¶ Late-night rambles on multiple topics were definitely in his wheelhouse; things were just getting interactive at this time online, and Mike thought this was the time to launch The Midnight Citizen. ¶ Since 2010 and now at 300 episodes, Mike has pushed forth into the cool night air a legacy of monology that is uncompromised. As the citizen finally goes to bed, you are welcome to check out the next chapter in the person's life. ¶ Long live The Midnight Citizen, he's not dead, just as always, taking a long-deserved break. ¶ Mike's Bonfire ¶ The Midnight Citizen ¶ Mike Boody ¶ Educator, Driver, Late Night Host, Expander of the Universe ¶ Trailblazer ¶ Teacher ¶ Tech Guru

PriorCaster – The Paunch Stevenson Show (12/11/25) 1:20:55 [1017] PriorCaster, by Bob LeMent of Static Radio and Morning Commute, seeks to document the people who were the pioneers of audio on the internet. ¶ The Paunch Stevenson Show was born from two friends having fun recording silly bits that they dreamed up onto an old boom box. Rob and Greg, two lifelong friends from New Jersey had been doing these things their whole lives, and then they got inspiration. ¶ That inspiration came in the form of a friend and confusion. Who could remember the guys from CHiPs names, let alone their characters, and with the connection to Frank Edward Nora and a love of old television, the Paunch Stevenson show was launched. ¶ In 2005 the world was a different place, technology was not the easy point and click world we have today, but Greg and Rob had a vision, a drive, a reason to spoof everything in their nostalgia filled minds. The 1980's had been a huge stack of firewood for them and now it was time to burn a bit of that off and the fire pit of choice became the Paunch Stevenson Show. ¶ So after you take in their historic story here, swing by and dive into the 80s and 90s soaked nostalgia of the show that they have been producing for 20 years. ¶ https://paunchstevenson.com/ ¶ -- ¶ The Paunch Stevenson Show ¶ Rob & Greg ¶ Trailblazers, web slingers, mimics, celebrity hunters and just all around good guys. ¶ Entourage members ¶ Musician ¶ Spoofers ¶ Impressionists ¶ Historians ¶ World's Longest Running Pop Culture Podcast

Mondo Freako

Hosted by Bob LeMent

Mondo Freako is a comedic exploration of the weird and wonderful world of cryptids, paranormal phenomena, and all things bizarre. Join us as we delve into the unknown with laughter, curiosity, and a healthy dose of skepticism.

Mondo Freako – Jersey Devil with Frank Edward Nora (1/20/26) 1:01:37 [1018] The Jersey Devil, a legendary cryptid from the Pine Barrens; Frank successfully completes a trivia quiz on the creature's lore—including its origin as the 13th child of Mother Leeds—before sharing his personal theory that cryptids and UFOs are interdimensional beings slipping through "thin" spots in our reality. The duo concludes by discussing the limitations of human perception, suggesting that our brains may "photoshop" out strange phenomena that don't fit our standard three-dimensional understanding of the world.

The Brian Jude Show #1 - Who Am I and What Am I Doing Here? (ONSUG version) 55:36 [631]

Brian Jude joins the "rambling" phenomenon!! Here is the premiere of his show... "My first, and potentially my last show - we'll see! In this episode I basically introduce myself, who I am, what I do, where I stand religiously and politically, and why I'm attempting to start this show. Meanwhile we travel to Walden, New York, where I march in the Orange County parade with the Tappan Zee Bridgemen." Attribution: by Brian Jude - more info at digitalcafetour.com and onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show: NON-SUG Bundle #1 (Sept. - Oct. 2009) 3:18:48 [631]

It's the first anniversary of The Brian Jude Show today! To celebrate, I am releasing the first in a series of episodes that were previously unreleased here on the Overnightscape Underground channel, packaged together into "NON-SUG Bundles!"

This first volume includes:

- BJS002: What About the Boy? (Originally released 9/30/09)
My second, and potentially my last show. In this episode we take a trip to Anything But Costumes Prop Rental House in Flemington, New Jersey, where I pick up props for T. Schreiber Studios' production of "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead" while discussing my son, Jacob. Listen as I butcher the word "Guildenstern," and talk about my busted GPS, Edward Norton, my web design work, "Sweet Bird of Youth," "Picasso at the Lapin Agile," Cat Parker, "A Bronx Tale," my URL & iTunes updates, Judaism & my family, my work with Kaplan Medical, the Jersey Devil Hunters, news video of a horse attacked by an unknown animal, my dad's encounters with the Jersey Devil, women who inspired "Lucy in the Sky with Diamonds" and "Sexy Sadie" dead, Eric Roberts' new CD "My Brazilian Heart," DCT Live 2.0 NYC, comedian John McClellan's blog "4 Minutes of Fame," Geoffrey "Badger" Gould and black smoke – 9/11, the future of The Jacob & Daddy Show, my son's birth, VACTERL association, rescuing Jacob, his new school, learning Polish. Plugs: ONSUG's "Rambling Roundup" with Eddie Murray, Morning Commute with Bob, Brandon Rambles/now Ramblecast, Into Your Head, The Rubenerd Show, Big Kev's Geek Stuff and my suggestions for "Heroes," FLIC(K).

- BJS003: Mercury Retrograde Won't Leave Me Alone (Originally released 10/3/09)
My third and potentially last show, and I'll tell you WHY it may be my last... all while walking two miles in Nyack, New York to the beginning of a parade with the Tappan Zee Bridgemen. Topics covered: Explaining Mercury Retrograde, people asking me questions, problems uploading Episode 2, my bluetooth, my car, DCT Comedy project tapes not digitizing, TK Music Rock Academy, Uploading photos to Facebook, my busted GPS fixed, the "Weird Al" ringer, Jimmy Sheridan, Manny the Mailman, Carrie Engdahl, Dawn Peat McNamara, Rampler on WFMU is no more, Tom Walker. Concludes with Friday's Child's "Pay Day Ray" © 1998 Thomas V. Walker/Can't See the Honeybee

Music, Used With Permission.

- BJS005: The Search for BJS004 (Originally released 10/8/09)
My fifth and potentially last episode, in which I talk about why my actual last episode (i.e. previous, not final) is no longer available. For those of you who missed it, I also recap my dreams about The Six Fingered Jesus with the Lame Left Arm and The Bell-Shaped UFO, and discuss being sick, thoughts on the swine flu vaccine, my impromptu visit from Verizon, DCT Concerts on CBS Interactive's tv.com, DCT Comedy pilots and plug The Industrial Jazz Group "avant-garde party music," Jill Knapp, Andrew Durkin, Brooklyn Ferry, The Evelyn Situation, Jay's Booming Hat and Stephanie Richards.

- BJS006: Lunchtime and The Jersey Devil (Originally released 10/15/09)
My sixth show – and no more negative comments on how many I might be doing in the future! Listen as I make my standard lunch – peanut butter and apple. I discuss my progress on the DCT Comedy 30-minute pilots, the TK Music Rock Academy project, Jacob's realization that I can now edit the unreleased episodes of The Jacob & Daddy Show, spending time at The Unitarian Universalist Congregation at Montclair, Melanie & I appearing in Selections from "Spoon River Anthology," Senior Youth Group overnight lock-in, The Jersey Devil Hunters may be on SyFy's "Destination Truth." Concludes with audio from the interview with my father about his encounters with The Jersey Devil.

- BJS007: Shopping Wild (Originally released 10/19/09)
Take a trip with me to a wild, magical far away place called Shop Rite. (Okay, it's not wild, magical, or far away, but I'm in that kinda mood.) I discuss lower sales tax in New Jersey "urban areas," Jacob being sick again, Melanie's birthday, the comparison between The Balloon Boy and Max from "Where the Wild Things Are," hoping to go to the Apple Store & the movies tomorrow if the boy isn't still sick, Optimum Rewards, Clearview Cinemas, Arcade Fire, Brandon Rambles – now Ramblecast WV, Frank Nora's Radio Vacation, Industrial Jazz Group, Iron Monkey Automata Chino, Peanut Butter & Apple Facebook picture comments, GPS, Louisiana Justice of the Peace Keith Bardwell not marrying interracial couple, Jeremiah Kipp's short film "Contact" is showing at the end of the month at Sinister Six Fest, Zoë Daelman Chlanda, Robb Leigh Davis, Alan Rowe Kelly, Fangoria, Tom Walker of Friday's Child and Tasty Cocoa in Caldwell, New Jersey. Concludes with Industrial Jazz Group's "Big Ass Truck" from the album LEEF.

The Brian Jude Show: NON-SUG Bundle #2 (Oct. - Nov. 2009) 3:06:26 [631]

Here's the next in my series of episodes that were previously unreleased on the Overnightscape Underground channel. This was right before I discovered "The Secret." See how negative I was at first?

This volume includes:

- BJS008: Sick of... (Originally released 10/23/09)
I wasn't going to record today, but this project I'm working on is stalling. Also, I'm sick with an ear infection, and I'm frankly sick of... well, everything, really! So I'm working from my bed, and talking to you about all of the problems with my project for TK Music, Tom Walker, Alan Scott & AMS Video, problems with my last show, my TB test, missing the Industrial Jazz Group and Tom Walker gigs because I'm sick, my sister & nieces and nephews have swine flu, taking the boy to see "Where the Wild Things Are," my short film "The Last Days of Frank Whyte" screening on Nov. 28 1:30 pm at Central Library One Old Bridge Plaza Municipal Center Old Bridge, NJ, "Weird Al" Yankovic's 50th birthday, Soupy Sales Dead, lost deposit slip, no hats at the bank, my Jersey Devil theory, Devil Hunters on SyFy, calling eyewitnesses, Windows 7 Whopper, plugging podcasts. Concludes with Friday's Child's "Everything She Said (Black Cat/White Cat)" © 2005 Thomas V. Walker/Can't See the Honeybee Music, Used With Permission.

- BJS009: Horray* for Sleepy Hollow (Originally released 10/25/09)
*Type-o intentional.
In this episode, I wait to march in the Halloween Parade in Sleepy Hollow, New York, dressed in my Jedi robes, as I interview musicians JB Reed & Brandon General regarding their collaborative venture Hooray for Everything! Listen while I discuss passing a DeLorean on the way up, driving over the Tappan Zee Bridge, R2-D2 on the GPS, my student Laura telling me to "cheer up," Rev. Charlie Ortman's children's story about the Farmer's Horse, Reiki, Jedi Realism, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," Hessian soldiers. JB, Brandon & I talk about their meeting and working together, Canada, Caledonia, Ontari, the Niagra Peninsula, Tim Hortons vs. Dunkin Donuts and Krispy Kreme, local jewelery store, Canadian currency, regional accents and more! Music by JB Reed & Brandon General. Used with permission.

- BJS010: Alternate (Originally released 11/3/09)
In this episode I sit in a noisy Dunkin' Donuts across the street from my mechanic in Paterson, New Jersey as I wait my car to receive a new alternator. (I think I forgot to actually explain that in the show, but that's why I'm here.) It's my first show that I'm recording and releasing remotely via my laptop and a free wifi connection! I talk about Election Day, why I voted for Chris Daggett, Democrats & Republicans, marriage equality, Garden State Equality, the Obama-Corzine billboard: "Keep it going," when my alternator died, 9-year old girl died on Halloween, puts a perspective of my situation, losing my step-brother. I plug Zombie Take-Out The B-Movie & Cult Movie Podcast, Big Kev's Geek Stuff – I got "Heroes Revealed" by Michael Goldman, DK Publishing – DCT Concerts artist The Fave, playing Maxwell's on 1/22/10 (Dom's bday), nominated as Top Band in the Pop Rock Category for the second consecutive year by The 2009 Asbury Park Music Awards, held on November 14th at The Stone Pony. Concludes with The Fave's "Let It Out" recorded by DCT Concerts. Celebrity GPS Voice: Homer Simpson.

- BJS011: Reunited (Originally released 11/8/09)
Hear some behind-the-scenes rambling before, during and after my 20-year high school reunion at the Sheraton in Eatontown, New Jersey. Celebrity Guest GPS Voice: Hannibal Lecter.

- BJS012: He Left Home Without It (Originally released 11/12/09)
I found myself done with my acting gig at Kaplan Medical early today, so I had time to record. But did I bring my microphone? NO! So I decided to record on my laptop.

- BJS014: A Short Time Ago In A Concert Very, Very Close (Originally released 11/20/09)
Join me and my friend, Maestro Tracy Glenn Murray, as we attend "Star Wars in Concert" at the Izod Center at the Meadowlands Sports Complex in East Rutherford, New Jersey. I recorded our commentary immediately after the show, and we met up with our friend P Jay and his sons, then I called my mother to thank her for getting us the tickets – none of which you'll hear, because I inadvertently deleted all of that! But you'll hear us talk about the concert on our way back to nearby Lyndhurst, New Jersey where I had to pick up my son.

The Brian Jude Show #13 - Oops I Did It Again (11/14/09) 28:13 [631]

Description from brianjudeshow.blogspot.com: After the last episode, I vowed never to leave the house without my iPod microphone, just in case I had the opportunity to record. Well, today I did remember to take it with me - but I left it at The Unitarian Universalist Congregation at Montclair (where I was heading later that night) and did NOT have it with me as once again I left my acting gig at Kaplan Medical even earlier than I did the other day! Too bad, because the trip via the Newark Light Rail and NJ Transit Bus #28 would have made for an excellent Rampler-esque episode! I will, however, offer the episode to Frank Nora for release on his Overnightscape Underground. Plugs include KillingBoxx.com (two films I produced made it to their Top 13 list!), The Fave and Natalie Gelman. Attribution: by Brian Jude - more info at brianjudeshow.blogspot.com and onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #17 - There Ain't No Secrets in Jonestown (12/8/09) 56:16 [631]

Description from brianjudeshow.blogspot.com: Join me on my commute from New Jersey to Brooklyn for the shooting of the final scene of "The Jonestown Defense," followed by another trip to Shop Rite. I'll catch you up on all of the projects I've been working on, plus take you a little deeper into my personal situation, dealing with a bit of "seasonal depression" and the "Secret" I'm starting to learn about that might help me bring it all around. Attribution: by Brian Jude - more info at brianjudeshow.blogspot.com and onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show: NON-SUG Bundle #3 (Nov. - Dec. 2009) 3:08:12 [631]

Just in time for Pagan Thanksgiving, here's the next in my series of episodes that were previously unreleased on the Overnightscape Underground channel. This was a very transformative period in my life. Check out the moment during which I realized and declare that I want to start working on a feature film, how my mentality changes after I discovered "The Secret," and my thoughts on 2010 being the Year of Abundance! But of course, it all starts with gratitude...

Also look for the supplemental video episode to follow – BJS016a: The Last Days of Frank Whyte (a short film with intro)!

This volume includes:
- BJS015: Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Thankful Pagans (Originally released 11/23/09)
If you listened to BJS002, you'll remember I picked up props for T. Schreiber Studios' production of "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead." Yesterday Melanie & I saw the show, and today I returned the props back to Anything But Costumes i Flemington, New Jersey. Later on, I attended the 19th annual Pagan Thanksgiving, hosted by two former college classmates – and Student Government Association presidents – of mine, Tony Susco and James "Appetite" Cotter.
- BJS016: Q&A at the Old Bridge Filmmakers Showcase (Originally released 11/28/09)
Three local New Jersey filmmakers participate in a Q&A session at the first installment of the Old Bridge Filmmakers Showcase at the Old Bridge Public Library. Hosted by Matt Helme, the filmmakers discuss their short films presented earlier in the afternoon. Marla Cukor discusses "The Masquerade" (directed by Natalia Garcia), a mystery thriller which she wrote, and which stars Christopher Masterson of TV's "Malcolm in the Middle." Jamal Hall talks about his short film "Strivin'," a stylistic story about an inner city kid who dreams of becoming a dancer while coping with an abusive father. I ramble on about "The Last Days of Frank Whyte," which I co-wrote, directed and produced with the film's star Franklin Correa, and which tells the tale of a drug dealer's downward spiral of life. (If you haven't already, check out BJS016a – my first video episode which contains my film in its entirety.)

- BJS018: Crazy Nights (Originally released 12/14/09)
Join me as I talk about the Festival of Lights known as Hanukkah – the story behind it, our family's observance of it and what it means to me as a non-Jew. I also discuss my Paramount Pictures hat given to me by Joe "Joey Pants" Pantoliano, Jacob's "bad witch/good witch" dream, starting to live with "The Secret" and the controversy over "Happy Holidays." Music by the Unitarian Universalist Congregation at Montclair Choir.
- BJS019: I'll Be Elvish For Solstice (Originally released 12/21/09)
Listen as I join fellow members of the Unitarian Universalist Congregation at Montclair as we bring toys and books to the children of the Newton Street School in Newark, NJ, assisting Santa (as played by congregation member and television actor Andre Braugher). I interview fellow member Courtney Allen on our seven-year relationship with the school, and discuss the winter solstice, accepting the benefits of abundance, and New Moon rituals. Concludes with music by Mr. Steve and Miss Katie (used with permission).
- BJS020: Reflections on 2009 (Originally released 12/31/09)
I spend a few moments on the morning of New Year's Eve reflecting on the positive moments of 2009, and why it's critical to be grateful for the things we have in our life. I also discuss Facebook's "My Year in Photos" application, the Facebook group "I Claim 2010 As the Year of Abundance," and how the principals of Kwanzaa can apply to non-African-Americans as well.

The Brian Jude Show #22 - Good & Not-So-Good Vibrations (1/14/10) 31:40 [631]

Description from brianjudeshow.blogspot.com: Remember when I forgot my mic when I took the Newark Light Rail a few months ago? I remembered it this time! The Law of Attraction is working for me! I decided to write a biopic screenplay of a well-known motivational speaker. After four weeks without response, he finally called and gave me his blessing! I share Karen Bishop's thoughts on how the world is vibrating at a higher level, and discuss time loops, The International Center for Reiki

Training's World Peace Card Meditation, the earthquake in Haiti, Cindi Merklee, The American Cancer Society's Relay for Life. And don't forget about the first Brian Jude Show Contest - Why Is My Plant Named Philo? Attribution: by Brian Jude - more info at brianjudeshow.blogspot.com and onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #23: Odd Jobs & Spiritual Living (1/25/10) 37:44 [631]

Stretching across Saturday, Jan. 23 & Monday, Jan. 25, I do a couple of odd jobs with my friend "Big Joe," discussing the upcoming HBO show "Boardwalk Empire," Staten Island, Snug Harbor, Tim Roth, as well as my trip to the Center for Spiritual Living North Jersey, Religious Science/Science of Mind and Ernest Holmes. The Brian Jude Show #26 - Into My Head (2/28/10) 21:39 [631]

Description from brianjudeshow.blogspot.com: Here I present some segments from the great Neal O'Carroll's podcast Into Your Head, Episode 249 (not 149, or or 129, or anything number I might have thought it might have been). I also talk about the recent loss of my friend & former classmate Dawn Richey, and ways I've tried to seek the positive in tragic situations. Special thanks to Frank Nora and listeners of The Overnightscape Underground at http://onsug.com. Attribution: by Brian Jude - more info at brianjudeshow.blogspot.com and onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #27 - And So Began Our Three Day Journey (3/13/10) 53:30 [631]

Description from brianjudeshow.blogspot.com: A double-reference to the great and wonderful "Weird Al" Yankovic! In this episode I discuss the mysterious "27" phenomenon associated with "Weird Al," as well as my family's three-day trip to Virginia last week. I also announce officially that I am writing a screenplay based on the life of Morris E. Goodman, a.k.a. "The Miracle Man," (as seen in "The Secret"), and describe my meeting with him, which was one of the catalysts for my trip. I also remark how things are ironically happening about an hour earlier on this, the day before Daylight Savings Time begins. Once again, special thanks to Frank Nora of The Overnightscape Underground at http://onsug.com, and Wayne from Spare Time Radio for his encouragement. The Brian Jude Show #30 - Take 2 1/2 (4/22/10) 34:27 [631]

Description from brianjudeshow.blogspot.com: I had recorded an entire episode and part of a second episode last week. But alas, my iPod somehow became corrupted, and I had to talk about here what I talked about then. Sad, because I had some really great stuff! Talked about my involvement in the American Cancer Society’s Relay for Life, held last week at Montclair State University, on a team led by Cindi Merklee, plus the screening of a short film I produced, “The Collector’s Item,” and Q&A with director Bill Clemis. Plus I answer a question from Wayne from Sparetime Radio, and TV’s Jorge Garcia (from LOST) answers my question on his podcast, Geronimo Jack’s Beard. The Brian Jude Show #31: Cellular Toaster Special (5/10/10) 1:22:10 [631]

The Brian Jude Show #31: The Cellular Toaster WMSC-FM Alumni Takeover Special 2010 (ONSUG Version)

Description from brianjudeshow.blogspot.com:

After a 15-year hiatus, I return to my old college radio station at Montclair State University with my former co-host, the lovely & talented Jill Knapp as we relive old times and talk about things we’re up to now. We discuss the history of The Cellular Toaster, how it evolved from the show Propaganda From Hell (and we take calls from former hosts Jim From Hell and Alter-Ego Pete), We Might Be Giants Too, Ralph the Word Guy, Jill’s band: Industrial Jazz Group, my work with Digital Cafe Tour and Friday’s Child, The Dead Milkmen (Bring Out Your Dead!), The Joe Trainor Trio, They Might Be Giants, Frank Zappa, “Weird Al” Yankovic, Fathom and more! Tremendous thanks to Jeff Knapp for being resourceful enough to record this, while my efforts to do so failed miserably! (Recorded Monday, May 10, 2010, 3pm-5pm.)

Brian Jude Show 32: The Real Neal - with guest host Neal from Ireland (6/9/10) 25:06 [631]

Description from brianjudeshow.blogspot.com:

Sorry that there's not been many updates from me lately, but, well, if you've been listening to my show lately, you'll know why! If not, my friend and guest host Neal from Ireland will explain it all to you! (Thank you, Neal, for covering me!) Neal talks about his "real" speaking voice, his "uniquely nonsensical improvised talk show" Into Your Head, being a cranky old man before his time, stopping uninvited sales calls at the door, gypsies, catering to the illiterate, the inexplicable overuse of the word "is," a scary neighborhood dog, Barack Obama, "The Secret" and positive thinking, cats, crap vs. carp. Neal's help in this endeavor is in return for my covering a recent episode of his show.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT: I and my wife will be directing and performing in A.R. Gurney's "The Dinning Room" at the Unitarian Universalist Congregation at Montclair, 67 Church Street, Montclair, New Jersey, on Saturday, June 12 at 8pm, Sunday June 13 at 3pm, and Satruday June 19 at 8pm. Suggested donation is $10, no advanced tickets will be sold. Hope you can make it!

The Brian Jude Show #33: BD (ONSUG Version) 39:10 [631]

Brian's show notes: I was going to call this episode "Between Doors," as several "doors" in my life have recently closed, and I'm awaiting some new ones to open. However, the day ended up being a "Beach Day," which was another appropriate title! So "BD" it is! My son Jacob & I went to the city of my birth, Long Branch, New Jersey, where my mother Nancy lives, and the three of us went to the beach. We also went to my other hometown, Howell, New Jersey, twice, visiting my friends Sabrina and Lynda! "Beach Day" topics include a bit of my personal history, "pool people" vs. "beach people," my grandparents' now abandoned buildings, my Mom's poodle Emily, mussels & my seafood allergies, The Mystery of Jetties, playgrounds, Jacob's report card & concert performance, airplane advertisements, Amy's Omelette House, helping my mom with computer stuff. "Between Doors" topics include finishing substitute teaching for the school year, the final performances of "The Dining Room," and finishing the first draft of the screenplay of "The Miracle Man" (NOTE: If you would like to read my draft, and provide feedback, e-mail me at brianjude27@gmail.com!), upcoming jobs counting people and possibly demonstrating 3D TV's. Words of Wisdom: Be grateful for the best parts of your day, every day, and resolve to make each day the best day it can be! Attribution: by Brian Jude - more info at brianjudeshow.blogspot.com and onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #35: One and a Half Men (ONSUG Version) (7/24/10) 42:27 [631]

My wife is on a much needed vacation, and I've been home with the boy as I work diligently in pre-production for “Payin’ the Price” - a film by Jordan Coleman, shooting the first two weeks of August. I’ve been dragging the boy to several production meetings, and working at home, while trying to give him some attention. Topics include: Should I lay Jacek off, the Newark Libery Airtaif,corrections from other podcasts (Manny & Rich), “Dispicable Me,” Optimum Triple Play, the park on Valley Brook Road in Lyndhurst, NJ., “Weird Al” Yankovic, School Age Story Time at the Allwood Branch of the Clifton Public Library, “Chariots of Fire,” Harold Abrahams, Roger Bannister and “The Miracle Man,” tornado watch, WABC-7’s local online radar, the ONSUG Forum, “The Wisdom of Yoda” sermon, weddings. The Brian Jude Show #36: Car Trouble (ONSUG Version) 7/31/10 18:10 [631]

On my way home from a parade gig, on the Major Deegan Highway in The Bronx, my car started revving really high and would not accelerate. While waiting for the tow truck to bring me home, I popped out the microphone to talk about it. Wish me luck with this one, folks! Topics include AAA, being grateful in the face of trouble, location scouting in Hackensack for the feature film “Payin’ the Price,” the Tappan Zee Bridgemen playing in Bedford, NY, Wayne from Sparetime Radio, posting on the ONSUG feed, the ONSUG Forum, getting caught in two traffic jams on the way home due to construction and a D.W.I. checkpoint, and focusing on success for the good of others. Attribution: by Brian Jude - more info at onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #37: Payin’ the Price (ONSUG Version) (8/15/10) 43:05 [631]

I’ve just wrapped up working as the First Assistant Director on 14-year-old Jordan Coleman’s feature film, “Payin’ the Price” – a two week shoot about teen dating violence. I talk a little about my participation in the film, and I interview Jordan, as well as actors Rodney Mack and Morgan Powell. Attribution: by Brian Jude – more info at onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #38: The Wisdom of Yoda - by Bri-Yinn Juud - 28:30 [631]

Join Jedi Consular Bri-Yinn Juud at the (then named) Unitarian Church of Montclair for selections of a Sunday morning worship service about everyone’s favorite Jedi Master.

Recorded on February 19, 2006.

(I apologize for the quality of the recording – it was created using what was already old equipment for its time.)

A SAGA FOR CHILDREN OF ALL AGES

READINGS: ANCIENT AND MODERN
From the Book of Exodus
From The Tao of Star Wars by John Porter

SERMON
"The Wisdom of Yoda"
Bri-Yinn Juud, Jedi Consular

PRAYER AND MEDITATION

The Brian Jude Show #40: The ONSUG Meetup - Coney Island (8/22/10) 43:01 [631]

Listen along as I trek along the PATH train from Newark to Hoboken to Manhattan, then on the D train to Coney Island in Brooklyn, where I meet up with fellow ONSUG hosts Frank Nora (the man, myth, legend and inspiration for The Brian Jude Show) and Wayne Reichert of Sparetime Radio. Along the way I talk about the film The Taxman, the controversial "Ground Zero Mosque," Mercury Retrograde, I have my car back, more on positive attitude, my DCT laptop was shipped out for repairs, The Fulton Street Transit Center, the Verazzano-Narrows Bridge, Nathan's Hot Dogs, corn dogs, the Coney Island subway stop, my poetry, Dan Zanes, The Wonder Wheel, heavy rain, ONSUG Schmerltzes. For more conversation of our meetup, check out The Frank Nora Show Ep. 1552 at http://onsug.com/archives/3584 (I apologize in advance for the loud noise and my soft voice. It did not turn out to be a good combination.) Attribution: by Brian Jude – more info at onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #41: Holy Days (9/21/10) 39:19 [631]

Listen as I spend Yom Kippur in Millerton, NY, working on the short film, "That's What She Told Me," about an artist who searches for her estranged father through the help of the apparition of Johnny Cash. Topics include not having cell service, celebrities that live in the area, Jacek's departure, Roberta Wallach, Eli Wallach, more about Wayne Reichert & my discussions about Quiet Riot & Slade – Stomp Your Hands, Clap Your Feet vs. Mama Weer All Crazee Now, Rosh Hashanah – the Jewish New Year – and the Law of Attraction, Rhonda Byrne's "The Power," Unitarian Universalism's Water Communion, definition of "holy" as "that which makes you whole," post-production for "The Jonestown Defense" funded through http://kickstarter.com, about to make a big pitch for "The Miracle Man." Attribution: by Brian Jude – more info at onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #42: So We Thought We Might Like To Go To The Show (9/26/10) 1:19:46 [631]

Join me and my life-long friend "Def Jeff" Nemetz as we feast at Jake's Wayback Burgers, then head over to Arden Gild Hall in Arden, DE to see the lovely & talented Jill Knapp perform in a production of Pink Floyd's The Wall, directed by Joe Trainor. A whole slew of topics are discussed here – too many to name – but some of them include The Wall (duh!), The Wayback Machine, Davey & Goliath, Schmerltz vs. Poi, Jesus Vagina Chip, and much more! Attribution: by Brian Jude – more info at onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #43: Playing with the Law (10/7/10) 21:09 [631]

Coming to you from the Paramus Park Mall, where I am doing another Edison Research project, I explain how I have been "playing" with the Law of Attraction to attract some small, random things to me, often with immediate results! Beer, the time of day, conflict between money and a day off, chocolate, Ross & the number 10, Colby Cox, Rishard & Jen, and moving on to my wife's birthday present! Celebrating the first anniversary of The Brian Jude Show with NON-SUG Bundles on The Overnightscape Underground – the next one should be interesting! Let me know if there's anything you want me to talk about in the next episode – leave a comments wherever comments can be left! Attribution: by Brian Jude – more info at onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #44: Dr. Awesome and The Union (10/21/10) 50:48 [631]

I have been working for the past three weeks at the Bergen Arts and Science Charter School, where I have been subbing for the same 3rd grade teacher. It's rough, but the kids like me so much, they call me Dr. Awesome! I also talk about my experience seeing the CD release concert for Elton John & Leon Russell's "The Union," interacting with Bernie Taupin, Whoopi Goldberg & Cameron Crowe, Fear on 21st, Yeeshai Gross, Sleepy Hollow's Halloween Parade, last week's UFO's, the 33 Miners, Masons, Jesus, Melanie's birthday present has not happened yet, participating in PurpleStride to help fight Pancreatic Cancer in honor of my friend Lance, Corn Mo. Concludes with "Road to the River" by Friday's Child (used with permission). Attribution: by Brian Jude – more info at onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #45: Back to the Frajer (10/30/10) 30:02 [631]

Last week was the 25th anniversary of the date in which Marty McFly (well, the dog Einstein, actually) became the first time traveler in "Back to the Future." Melanie & I saw the remastered film in the theatre, and it still stands up after all these years. Makes me think about how our own realities can be shifted by simply putting your mind to it. A true example of that is my friend Jen Ponton, a most talented actress whose recent cameo/debut on NBC's "30 Rock" just aired, including a scene that is destined to be one of the series' most memorable moments. The Brian Jude Show #46: What Exit Poll? (11/3/10) 32:53 [631]

A "Rampler-like" episode strolling through the streets of Garfield & Passaic, New Jersey, trying not to run out of breath. I talk about my work doing exit polls on Election Day, my thoughts on the current political system, my work as a casting director for the movie/web series(?) "What Exit?," any my upcoming performance in "Talking God" with the UU Montclair Theatre Group next weekend.

Join me and my son Jacob as we participate in the Purple Stride event to fight pancreatic cancer along with my friend Lance Esbin, who has been fighting pancreatic cancer since December 2006, and his family and friends. A 5K (5000 meters, about 3.1 miles) walk through an office complex in Parsippany, New Jersey. Attribution: by Brian Jude – more info at onsug.com

The Brian Jude Show #48: Sexy Phlegm (11/12/10) 32:26 [631]

Another day at Bergen Arts and Science Charter School – and like Phoebe Buffay (from TV's "Friends"), I have "sexy phlegm," but it's getting better. Just in time for my performance in Susan Reinhard's "The Talking God" too! In this episode, I discuss unedited bloopers, the landscape of northeastern New Jersey, West Paterson is now Woodland Falls, Randee of the Redwoods, Big House, Mow the Lawn, "Either Way, It's Fine With Me," YouTube offers downloads, AL-TV, "Weird Al" Yankovic interviews Eminem, raising development funds for "The Miracle Man" on Kickstarter.com, Wayne's poster.

The Brian Jude Show Ep. 51: The Social Timesuck - 57:37 [631]

So since I missed recording a segment for The Overnightscape Central’s episode about Facebook, I decided to dedicate an entire episode of The Brian Jude Show to the topic! Here the story of how I first joined Facebook, courtesy of Kathryl Velvel Jones, Facebook’s lack of customizability, throwing sheep, the rise of Facebook and the downfall of MySpace, high school reunion, some people don’t want to talk with old high school classmantes, Alumni Group page, closer with some people now than ever before, letting bygones be bygones, getting gigs, keeping up with family, younger cousins, requests from strangers, Temple of the Jedi Order, status updates, Twitter, “Brian Jude is...,” Wall vs. Profile/Info vs. Home, News Feed, using SMS to keep up, FB + Twitter = Now have to keep texts silent & always check, I ignore notifications, Gmail Priority Inbox & Facebook notifications separated, News from friends, Dawn Richie, Vanessa & Reiki, birthdays sharing photos, Jacob’s albums, The Many Faces of Brian Jude, people don’t like being tagged, DCT Comedy’s Brooke Van Poppelen, videos, 3rd Party Apps, MP3, YouTube - Great auto function - instant embed - any web site image, no more Links page(?), notes, tagging, Events, Groups vs. Pages, “Like,” Discussions, Insights, promoting DCT, DRP, the Miracle Man, the great time suck, Chat - I’m always “offline”, games, Mafia, Farmville, ads are non-intrusive, quick to load, New Facebook, removed info box from sidebar, love new info page & its functionality, birthdays, friends photos, friend groups - everyone has at least 1 category - helps with mass messaging, “The Social Network,” helpful for me - cast off doubts! Make someone happy with your favorite social network.

The Brian Jude Show Ep. 56: Sherman Nyrphryeizhenyrphglergryr & Washington’s Crossing (4/2/11) 56:58 [631]

Today I met up with my friend Kati Gegg at Washington Crossing State Park in Titusville, NJ, as we did a training walk for our upcoming participation in Out of the Darkness Overnight – an 18-mile walk over the course of one night in New York City. Net proceeds benefit the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention, funding research, education, and awareness programs – both to prevent suicide and to assist those affected by suicide. Today’s topics include turning the radio down through toll booths, April Fool’s Day idea for next year, this year I changed my Facebook profile name to Sherman Nyrphryeizhenyrphglergryr and lost 10 friends (but gained one back), soon approaching an Academy Award winner to play Morris Goodman for “The Miracle Man,” baby names for Boy #2, Pinky Dinky Doo and her Little Brother Tyler, Big Kev’s Geek Stuff, Exposed with Kay and Abi, The Tobolowsky Files, Neal from Ireland in Newark, mailing the rest of the Miracle Man t-shirts, meeting up with Manny the Mailman, Kati’s participation in last year’s Out of the Darkness Overnight walk in Boston, walking slower is a harder workout, issues being a suicide survivor, warning signs of suicide, Revolutionary War reenactment, getting stuck in traffic on Christmas for the reenactment of Washington’s Crossing, visiting center, losing the Blue Dot Trail, air raid sirens, random telephone pole in the middle of a field, living in Lancaster, PA, Spring House, burrito lunch at Gabriel’s II pizzeria, correction to BJS002: learning disability is not considered to be related in any way with VACTERL association.

Recorded June 18 & 26, 2011.

It’s been a while – been keeping really busy between taking care of my wife, who is currently on bed rest, the boy, who just finished Kindergarten, a busy work schedule, “The Miracle Man” progress and other projects. I didn’t even have time to do post production until a few days after recording this…

In this episode, I take you along on two interesting gigs – first a long bus ride up to Lake George, NY – a great resort town where I march in a huge Fireman’s convention parade with the Tappan Zee Bridgemen, then a long drive south to Wildwood, NJ where I officiated a wedding. Topics include multiple units of the band, Six Flags Great Escape, marginal placenta previa, changing the baby’s “due” date, Jacob Celebrity Fashion Show and the Boys & Girl’s Club, camping in Wildwood in 1989, had a video gig in Queens, drove through 4 out of the 5 boroughs of New York City, scouting the beach, Ontario license plates in Wildwood, enormous Ferris wheel, The Skyscraper, don't go to Seaside, finding a fenced pathway up a sand dune, Jacob's iPod Touch takes better pictures than my phone, waiting to hear back from a famous actor for "The Miracle Man," putting investment documents together, a brief review of the latest CD from "Weird Al" Yankovic, "Alpocalypse," I may start a new regularly published podcast on the Law of Attraction.

The Brian Jude Show #63: Melanie's Story (8/28/11) 33:25 [631]

Recorded August 28, 2011.

Hanging outside my condo during the "eye" of Tropical Storm Irene, slowdown on The Overnightscape Underground, progress with The Miracle Man investment documents, new fundraising campaign at http://tinyurl.com/mmfund2, recapping the past month, the family's doing well, getting ready for September, planning my new Law of Attraction/Law of Abundance podcast, turning 40, my birthday celebrations, Zach's Towne Pub in Secaucus, my father came up from Florida, I officiated my mother's wedding, return to Amy's Omelette House, made it through the storm okay, Manny the Mailman's basement flooded. Feature Segment: Melanie's story of the day David was born.

The Brian Jude Show #64: SECOND ANNIVERSARY EPISODE – Inexplicable Overpasses (9/26/11) 40:31 [631]

Recorded September 25, 2011.

It's been two years since I started my "rampling," and I'm ready to start Year Three!

I've been exceptionally busy lately, working a lot at my acting gig at Kaplan, video shoots, parades, substitute teaching and officiating weddings. Here I drive down the New Jersey Turnpike on my way to a wedding, where I have noticed a major-scale construction project, which includes about 7 overpasses that don't seem to lead to anything – mostly into woods and housing developments, with no road at either end. I worked in my son's school, my wife went back to work. Crazy things have been happening lately – my son lost his hearing aid, my iPod went on the fritz, the car battery died… almost like Mercury Retrograde, or is it because my energy is off from being so exhausted? Long time Friends of ONSUG Brandon General and JB Reed have a brand new music project – The Human Orchestra – listen to 5 of their tracks from their upcoming EP due out soon! Includes the track, "On With The Show," courtesy of Brandon General.

The Brian Jude Show #67: Little Shop of Hanukkah (12/16/2011) 43:29 [631]

Recorded December 16, 2011.

My son Jacob's latest obsession has been "Little Shop of Horrors" – the Off Broadway soundtrack, the movie, different performance clips on YouTube, you name it! So my wife Melanie and I surprised him with an early Hanukkah gift – we took him to the Repertory Company High School for the Theatre Arts, where they did a performance of the show! When the cast heard that we came in from Passiac to see it just because he loves the show, they had the director bring us backstage so they could meet him! Listen along to our adventure – one he'll treasure for the rest of his life! (Includes a couple vintage TV commercials from the original Broadway show!)

Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 1 (3/19/12) 43:03 [631]

Welcome to our first episode! We are Jen Ponton, Brian Jude, Alicia Angel & Kay Koch, a group of friends with creative/performing arts backgrounds who have decided to meet regularly to inspire, influence and celebrate each others' success as we set out to manifest our dreams! In this episode, we talk about our current goals, and our Law of Attraction techniques we are implementing to make them manifest.

Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 2 (3/26/12) 46:19 [631]

Jen, Brian, Alicia & Kay meet at Chit Chat Diner in Hackensack, NJ to discuss the progress on the goals they are manifesting! Jen's getting recognized for her work, Alicia won concert tickets, is making steps toward getting a deal with her publisher, and made a new connection with children's television, Kay's house hunting and discovering the universe sometimes gives you more of a challenge than you expect, and Brian's a step closer to getting a lead for "The Miracle Man." Tip of the week: When you're not feeling in alignment with the universe, say, "I love you and I'm thankful that you're alive" to everyone who comes into your life – in your mind, or aloud if you dare! Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 3 (4/2/12) 37:13 [631]

Jen, Brian, Alicia & Kay meet at The Tick Tock Diner in Clifton, NJ for their weekly discussion on their progress on the goals they are manifesting. Kay auditioned for Stephen Sondheim's "Assassins" and opted to let go of fears and anxiety and, to her surprise, got cast! Alicia & her songwriting partner had a handful of great meetings and events, lining things up for when Mercury Retrograde ends. Jen's been doing her Bavinas and other spiritual practices and is been living in happiness simply for the moment, without attachment to any outcome. Brian has been able to manifest getting work done on "The Miracle Man" while working one of his day jobs as a substitute teacher, and while he didn't win the record-breaking lottery, he bought tickets without resistance and expects a payoff in some other way. What's the difference between "gut feelings" and resistance?

Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 4 (4/9/12) 44:57 [631]

Jen, Brian, Alicia & Kay return to the Chit Chat Diner in Hackensack, NJ for their weekly discussion on their progress on the goals they are manifesting. Jen is meeting more like-minded people who are helping her with her career. Kay attracted herself a new home! But is it the same one Alicia was trying to manifest? Brian has been dealing with some very challenging situations and has been trying to figure out the best ways to handle them positively so as to not repel what he is trying to manifest. Alicia's glad Mercury Retrograde is over, as it may have had an affect regarding a shady deal with a local car dealership, and money is coming her way!

What are dreams trying to tell us?

Tips this week: View your challenges as opportunities to grow, or understand that perhaps the universe may have something better in store for you. Have faith that all is well! FAITH = "Fully Allow It To Happen" (according to Jim Phillips). Always deal with people on their level – everyone is trying to do their best, regardless of the result.

Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 5 (4/16/12) 48:50 [631]

A very Muppety episode! Jen, Brian, Alicia & Kay try out Legends Diner in Secaucus, NJ to discuss Muppets, what they're manifesting, manifesting Muppets, and more and more Muppets. Jen had an opportunity to speak at her alma mater, Ramapo College, where she met the production coordinator for Sesame Street, who is now doing casting for the show! Jen may also be incorporating herself as an actress. Kay and her husband were able to see Jim Henson's Musical World at Carnegie Hall… twice! And they were able to meet some of their Muppeteer heros! Alicia may has some upcoming recording sessions with some great artists, plus car dealership fiasco is coming to a resolution. Brian got his business taxes done, and his other company's taxes are done much earlier, and he expects to manifest a tax rebate much sooner than anticipated, and after he completed his vision board, an opportunity for The Miracle Man appeared!

Jim Henson was such a great influence to our generation, and every generation that followed. He is the Law of Attraction personified! We have been discussing our love for the Muppets week after week, putting that energy out there… Could all four of us be working with Muppets in the future? The first step in using the Law of Attraction is to ask for what you want…

Tips this week: When you start to learn how to adopt the mindset that leads to manifesting things in your life, the universe often "tests" you to see how well you are learning the lessons, much like the way Yoda tests Luke's patience in The Empire Strikes Back.

Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 6 (4/23/12) 53:11 [631]

Welcome listeners of The Overnightscape Underground, and thanks to Frank Edward Nora for suggesting we be a part of his channel as well!

This week Jen, Brian & Kay return to Legends Diner in Secaucus, NJ to discuss what they're manifesting, and how they're doing it. Alicia could not make it, as she has manifested her new car, as well as a resolution to the problem with the dealer! Jen was able to bring her husband and her "geese" to the red carpet premiere of Jack and Diane at the Tribecca Film Festival, and was inspired to cut her hair for the first time since her teen years. Kay has been getting rid of old stuff in preparation for her move to Hackensack. Brian completed his presentation and shooting schedule for The Miracle Man and stumbled across another fantastic potential source of funding for the film!

Tips this week: Purging of the old makes way for manifesting the new! What do you do when you're out of vibrational harmony with the universe? Do you "mute your strings," change your situation, or allow it to be?

Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 7 (4/30/12) 49:08 [631]

This week Jen, Brian, Alicia & Kay return to Legends Diner in Secaucus, NJ to discuss what they're manifesting, and how they're doing it. Playing the role of David is our "Fight Club" friend Melissa. Jen got booked on HBO's Boardwalk Empire. Kay's muppet now has a name – and a tail! Alicia did her own purging last week to make room for her step-son, who is now living with her. Brian finished the filmmakers' reel DVD and proposal for a grant to fund The Miracle Man and has been attracting the Namaste principle into his life in several ways.

Tips this week: Don't put negative thoughts such as rejection out there as your destiny. You deserve and have to be open to receive the inherent abundance in front of you. Vibroacoustics reveals scientific proof that thoughts produce sound waves that attract other sound waves to you.

Come see Kay in Stephen Sondheim's "Assassins" at The Barn Theatre in Montville, NJ. May 18, 26, June 1, 2, 8, 9 at 8pm

Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 8 (5/7/12) 1:09:17 [631]

Jen, Brian, Alicia & Kay return to Legends Diner in Secaucus, NJ, along with our resident mime Melissa (a.k.a. Harpo), and introducing newcomer Matt Wilder to the show! (Looks like we're going to have to update our image to include his headshot!)

In our longest episode to date, this week we talk about the "miracles" we manifested, "Work Weeks" versus "Passion Weeks," being "on time, all the time," the Law of Attraction and kids, doing things with intention, more on the Namaste principle, letting go and allowing the universe to manifest itself to you, and thoughts and feelings and their impact on actions.

Plug of the Week: Check out life coach Sue Waldman – http://suewaldman.com

Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 9 (5/17/12) 1:12:31 [631]

Brian & Kay returned to Legends Diner in Secaucus, NJ… but ended up meeting Jen, Alicia, Matt & Melissa at Tick Tock Diner in Clifton, NJ. Apparently Brian wanted to manifest a salad bar, Alicia wanted to manifest an alcoholic beverage, and the universe responded in kind!

In this episode, we discuss what to do when negativity shows up in your life, if things can manifest instantly and how to change negative thoughts into positive thoughts.

WE ARE CREATING A CHILDREN'S TELEVISION SHOW! Using our talents for acting, music, and film/video production, and combined with passion for all things positive as well as puppetry, we have been planning a "secret" project designed to teach positive thinking, visualization, and other Law of Attraction techniques to kids! Perhaps as a pilot to pitch to a television network, or as a stand-alone DVD… we're not quite sure yet, but we are planning this now! YOU CAN HELP MAKE THIS HAPPEN! Brian's company Dragon Rider Productions has been entered into Chase's Mission: Small Business program for a chance to win a $250K grant which will help fund this new project, as well as Brian's film The Miracle Man! If you are a Facebook user, you can go to http://missionsmallbusiness.com, log in with Facebook, and in the Business Name box enter Dragon Rider Productions! Help manifest a positive future by helping us, and please pass it on! THANK YOU!!!

Plug of the Week: Matt suggests you watch the film The Adustment Bureau, and think about how the universe always makes sure you're right on time, all the time!

Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 10 (5/29/12) 1:00:03 [631]

Jen, Brian, Alicia, Kay, Matt & Melissa return to Legends Diner in Secaucus, NJ, once again with Brian's son David. In this episode, we discuss changing your thoughts from lack to abundance, how the universe/your higher self has already had your goal set for you since before you were born, being in your truth, how much of our resistance comes from the subconscious level and the importance of keeping still and being happy.

Tips of the Week: Keep a Mental Bank log for everything you do that helps you further your goals, and mentally "bill" for that time, including meetings, social events, etc. and keep track of how much money you "earn" for such time. Also, keep a symbol for the universe to remind you that you're right on track.

Using our talents for acting, music, and film/video production, and combined with passion for all things positive as well as puppetry, we have been planning a "secret" project designed to teach positive thinking, visualization, and other Law of Attraction techniques to kids! Manifesting Mastermind - Episode 11 (6/5/12) 58:39 [631] manifesting muppets galore and much more! Alicia, Brian and Matt have been experiencing a mixture of blessings and apparent challenges and have been looking for the lessons within them.

As Melissa brought up a few weeks ago, Dr. Masaru Emoto conducted experiments with frozen water crystals and positive and negative words. (See link for video below.) If written words can do this to water, what do our positive and negative thoughts to do us? If you're experiencing too many challenges in a situation, do you need to remove yourself from that situation? Do you need to experience the same challenges over and over again like in the movie "Groundhog Day" in order to learn a lesson? Can you keep your own energy when confronted with a seemingly negative person? How do you react to a negative situation in a positive way and move forward? What is the distinction between feeling negative emotions and expressing negative emotions?

Tips of the Week: Live in your truth. Ask the right questions to the right people when you are in need. Ask G-d/The Universe questions, and be still and listen for the answers.

Manifesting Mastermind - Episode 12 (6/26/12) 1:00:31 [631]

After a three-week break, we have returned in a bit of a new way. Kay & Alicia join Brian in his living room, while "Cyber" Matt Skypes himself in! (Jen & Melissa could not make it this week - but Happy Jen Day!)

Kay has been in the final stages of her move and getting ready to get things set up for more puppet fun! Matt is in the process of manifesting a move into New York City while many summer hosting gigs are popping up. Lili is currently homele... er... "on tour," as she has discovered she was not living in her truth with her recent relationship. She's been adjusting her Bhavanas accordingly, and seeing some great things come into fruition as a result! Brian's in summer mode with his boys, as the school year is over and his "Fight Club" membership is currently on hold, allowing him much more time to focus on The Miracle Man, and things have finally been jump-started after a long lull!

Tips of the week: When things are crazy, be sure to take time to do what has to be done, even if it's just a small amount of time. Making daily lists can help you prioritize what needs to be done right away, and what can be set aside for later. Set goals that are realistic enough so that they resonate with good feelings - sometimes setting too high a goal creates fear and negative feelings, which create resistance. If you're not feeling goodness and joy, you are out of alignment with the goals set by your higher self. When you fear something, change the word "fear" to "love!"

Manifesting Mastermind – Episode 13 (7/5/12) 47:43 [631]

Kay, Alicia, Matt & Melissa once again join Brian in his living room. (Jen bought a one-way ticket to L.A. and is making magic happen for her! We hope she will Skype in for an episode soon if she stays out there longer!)

Kay is finally out of her old apartment and is working the puppety connections. Matt's gigs are going well and keeping him busy as he sets his sights on living in NYC. Brian has been busy preparing for David's first birthday, while making some significant moves in casting for The Miracle Man. The Alicia Angel "Tour" is going well, as she enjoyed a recording session for one of the songs she wrote for Dora the Explorer and is getting ready for a retreat to Idaho next week with the great Brandie Hinen.

Tip of the week: The great Dr. Joe Vitale, among many things, teaches the practice of Ho'oponopono, a Hawaiian practice of "clearing and cleaning" through reconciliation and forgiveness by uttering the mantra, "I'm sorry. Please forgive me. Thank you. I love you." or any variation thereof. The concept behind it is that we are responsible for everything that shows up in our lives, including negative situations and negative people, and when they do show up, we need to heal the part of ourselves that attracted the negative people and situations.

Success Odyssey – Ep. 2: What Is the Law of Attraction? (3/21/12) 20:47 [631]

Here's a brief overview of the Law of Attraction: The idea that thoughts become things, that like attracts like, and everything we manifest in our lives are a direct results of our thoughts, our feelings and our actions.

Success Odyssey – Ep. 4: What is the Law of Abundance? (4/4/12) 24:29 [631]

The Law of Abundance is a principle that all that we need exists in this universe, and that there is no lack of anything for anyone. If we are experiencing lack, it is simply because our own perception has made it so.

Success Odyssey – Ep. 5: Mentor Sessions: Vision Boards (4/13/12) 49:05 [631]

Before the launch of the Inspirational Internet Radio Network, I asked my friends Jen Ponton & Alicia Angel to help me create a vision board, and thought it would make great material for a podcast! Turned out to be so good, we kept meeting week after week, added Kay Koch to the mix and created Manifesting Mastermind!

Tips they shared include making a focused goal-oriented board vs. an all-inclusive style board, sources from inspirational magazines such as O & financial magazines such as Money, lifestyle magazines such as Condé Nast Traveler, images of people whose career paths you want to emulate, things you want to attract in your life, etc. Jen explains how her goal-oriented board in 2011 helped her manifest exactly the things she intended to attract. Alicia explains how her life is already changing after making her 2012 vision board.

Afterward, I describe my vision board for 2012, as seen in the show art above. (Click on it to see a bigger version.)

Success Odyssey – Ep. 6: My Five Reiki Principles (4/18/12) 18:23 [631]

As a Reiki Master, I have learned its founder Dr. Mikao Usui’s Five Reiki Principles, and made them my daily mantra:

Just for today, I will not be angry.
Just for today, I will not worry.
Just for today, I will be grateful.
Just for today, I will do my work honestly.
Just for today, I will be kind to every living thing.

After studying the Law of Attraction, and particularly the teachings of Abraham-Hicks, and understanding the idea that you want to focus on positive ideas instead of negative ones, and focus your thoughts in a way that makes your goals and desires present, rather than in the future, I began to modify them in a way in which I am more comfortable:

Just for today, I am choosing to focus on thoughts that manifest happiness.
Just for today, I am open to and allowing myself to receive all of the abundance of joy and goodness in the universe that G-d has to offer.
Just for today, I give thanks for all that I am, all that I have, all that I am receiving and all that I am becoming.
Just for today, I am living in truth and clarity; each day I understand more and more about the true nature of All That Is.
Just for today, I honor and respect the divine nature in myself and in all others, and I act accordingly.

Success Odyssey – Ep. 7: K+(A*(T+F))=8 (5/2/12) 22:42 [631]

Dr. Rob Gilbert, who teaches Sports Psychology and Yoga at Montclair State University, started Success Hotline as a way to help motivate his students during the Spring semester of 1992. 20 years later, Dr. Gilbert is STILL recording a new message on Success Hotline, every single day! One of my favorite lessons of his is the equation K-A=0 – Knowledge minus Action equals NOTHING. But in analyzing the equation and incorporating principals of the Law of Attraction, I may have stumbled upon another equation…

Success Odyssey – Ep. 8: Mentor Sessions: Anthony Hamilton on Mind Time Connection (5/16/12) 53:30 [631]

Remember in my first episode when I said that success is a journey that we have been on since the beginning? In today's episode, my very special guest Anthony Hamilton talks about how our thoughts connect us to our past, our present and our future. It's all in his book, Mind, Time and Power! Using your mind's inner time machine to heal your past, transform your present and create your future. Listen as Anthony discusses prophetic dreams, using your thoughts to influence your past, present and future, the work of Albert Einstein, intuition and more!

Success Odyssey – Ep. 13: Mentor Sessions: Tom Ufert – Adversity Builds Character (9/28/12) 1:03:51 [631]

Inspirational author Tom Ufert joins us today to discuss his book, Adversity Builds Character: An Inspirational True Life Story of Disability, Addiction and Acceptance. After suffering spinal cord injuries in a car crash, not long after being diagnosed with Multiple Sclerosis, Tom was told in the hospital that he was HIV positive. While coping with these three disabilities, Tom sought solace in what became addictions to alcohol, drugs and sex. After experiencing one close call too many, Tom finally put into practice what he knew all of his life – that he could let his adversities destroy his life, or enrich his life, and others' as well. Success Odyssey - Ep. 15: Mentor Sessions: Anthony Hamilton Returns (10/29/12) 54:20 [631]

Back in Episode 8, my guest Anthony Hamilton spoke about how our thoughts connect us to our past, our present and our future as explained in his book, Mind, Time and Power! Using your mind"s inner time machine to heal your past, transform your present and create your future. Anthony has returned to talk more about his theories, including how the two sides of our brain work in using the Law of Attraction, how questions are like footprints, thinking of the future as being effortless, what MAGIC means to him, and more details about Einstein"s theories about time and space.

Meanwhile, here"s something else from my vision board that has manifested itself effortlessly into my life - taking my family to see "Weird Al" Yankovic!

Success Odyssey – Ep. 16: Mentor Sessions: Connie Nash Returns (12/15/12) 37:03 [631]

Sorry it's been so long, but great things are happening! I recently received an amazing lesson from actress/coach Dee Wallace on her show, Conscious Creation, which I share with you. Then, Law of Attraction Coach Connie Nash returns to talk more about her programs, her clients' most frequent concerns and misconceptions, and her new program, Manifestation Magic Master Class. (Early bird registration discount applies!)

Success Odyssey – Ep. 17: Morgana Rae and Your Relationship with Money (1/3/13) 52:12 [631]

Morgana Rae is an internationally acclaimed life coach, author, and professional speaker who inspires her clients to change their relationship with money. Dubbed the “Money Magic Queen,” Morgana has been a featured expert alongside Deepak Chopra, Marianne Williamson, John Gray, John Assaraf and T Harv Eker, and her books, cds, magazine articles and classes have impacted the lives of thousands of people worldwide. Today she talks about her new book, Financial Alchemy – Twelve Months of Magic and Manifestation, and her upcoming 3-Day Telesummit “Money, Love & Magic!” which will be held January 15 thru the 17th, 2013.

Here’s Morgana’s six steps to improving your relationship with money:

1. Identify the root cause of your money (and/or life) problems, pain.
2. Visualize what your “Money Monster” looks like.
3. Get rid of your Money Monster.
4. Meet your “Money Honey.”
5. Find out what your Money Honey needs from you.
6. Take concrete, measurable action!

Jacob’s World Ep. 1: Dine-In Theater (3/18/12) 27:30 [631]

Recorded March 2 & March 9, 2012.

Everyone’s favorite 7-year-old writer & composer now makes his debut as a podcaster after he & his dad leave the AMC Dine-In Theater at Essex Green in West Orange, New Jersey to see “The Lorax.” Jacob gives his review of it, plus two other movies he’s seen recently, “Star Wars – Episode I: The Phantom Menace” in 3-D and “Journey 2: The Mysterious Island,” then Jacob talks about the favorite parts of his six favorite movies: “Little Shop of Horrors,” “The Incredibles,” “The Mighty Morphin Power Rangers Movie,” “Big Top Pee-Wee,” “Spaceballs,” “The Smurfs,” then finally he reviews the animated short, “Lego Star Wars: The Padawan Menace.”

(And yes, he wrote the theme song!)

Into Your Head 301: Thursday's breakfast Show - guest hosted by BRIAN JUDE! (6/3/10) 13:41 [801]

The original version of this episode cut off suddenly at the end. It was assumed by NEAL to be a deliberate and excellent joke, but the truth is even better. It was not the end. Not BRIAN's fault - An Internet problem at the Irish end appears to have conspired.

Here now is the full version of Thursday's Into Your Head Temporarily Almost Daily Breakfast Show, Guest hosted and produced by BRIAN JUDE.

Some of you know BRIAN from his works, including THE BRIAN JUDE SHOW at BRIANJUDESHOW.blogspot.com and the eponymous @BRIANJUDE Twitter feed
BRIAN JUDE also acts, teaches, writes screens, makes movies, directs plays, is a bandmember who plays instruments properly, and was the first man ever to podcast from space. It is widely believe that he does not know how to sleep.

BRIAN JUDE is standing in for NEAL today after volunteering to do Thursday's IYH at very short notice. Thanks BRIAN.

The Obtuse Angle

Hosted by Steve Dupont

"A man with one functional brain cell expounds upon life, liberty and the pursuit of coherence."

"Steve Dupont was known for his rants on the Obtuse Angle podcast. After publishing his debut novel Therein Lies the Problem in 2007, Steve left the literary world behind, returning to graduate school and ultimately becoming a Registered Dietitian/Nutritionist."

Steve Dupont, from Birmingham, Alabama, produced his podcast, The Obtuse Angle, from May 2005 to June 2007. After the show ended, Steve pursued a new career as a registered dietitian. You can still find him today at stevedupont.com

In those early days of podcasting, I was a fan of The Obtuse Angle, and Steve also listened to my show, The Overnightscape. We would mention each other's shows, send in comments and emails, and occasionally record audio for the other show.

A few months back, I thought of The Obtuse Angle and started looking to see if any of the episodes were preserved. I was immensely pleased to find that a near-complete archive had been posted to The Internet Archive by archivist "apphands" in December 2021. I found few early episodes which were missing, in another archive posted by archivist Sketch the Cow in March 2019. Then, using the Wayback Machine, I was able to build a full list of episodes, along with show notes. In the end, the archive was complete, except for four episodes. If anyone has copies of these episodes, let me know, and I will add them to the archive.

I contacted Steve Dupont, and he gave his blessing to this new collected archive of The Obtuse Angle.

The show fits in extremely well with the other shows here in Onsug Radio, and I am thrilled to preserve The Obtuse Angle for future generations.

– Frank Edward Nora, 2/17/25

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE May 18, 2005 New Podcast Exposes Perils of Brain Damage (Birmingham, Alabama) – The rapidly expanding universe of podcasting grew yet larger today – but not necessarily brighter – with the official launch of The Obtuse Angle, a soliloquy-based program hosted by failed writer/bootlegger Steve Dupont. “It’s a tremendous opportunity for me to … to leverage the sort of … you know what’s weird about leverage?” said Dupont. “Like in judo, a little tiny dude can flip a big huge dude over his back … Hey! You remember that TV show called Sidekicks? Where that little Chinese kid helped Buck Rogers fight crime with his martial arts prowess? That was [expletive deleted] awesome!” Known widely in fringe medical circles as the “Single-Celled Sensation,” because of his remarkable ability to function independently with only one brain cell, Steve Dupont has astounded neurologists for years with his vacuous, yet prolific, ramblings on everything from aardvarks to xenophobia (rarely does he discuss topics beginning with Y or Z, the one notable exception being yuletide cheer and other yuletide-related byproducts). “He demonstrates remarkably little knowledge or expertise in a vast number of arenas,” said Frederick Houthoffengarten, MD, who’s also the founder of The Steve Dupont Project, a medical task force assembled in 1973 to study this unprecedented neurological anomaly. “In spite of its disjointed and altogether illogical nature, Mr. Dupont’s level of cognition far exceeds what many of us ever expected. That is, from an individual whose IQ essentially mirrors that of a PEZ candy dispenser.” Having decided to launch 10 installments of The Obtuse Angle all at once, Dupont posted four longish shows instead and called it a day. In the first episode, entitled “Colin Powell’s Penis,” Dupont shares a rather bizarre conspiracy theory pertaining to the former Secretary of State’s genitalia. In episode two, called “Hotel Room Hole-Up,” he locks himself in a posh Chicago hotel room only to pace frantically and babble on about fetuses, starfish and Jon Bon Jovi’s henchmen. Show number three, “Faux-Bachelor Beachcombing Bonanza,” takes us to the Florida panhandle, where Dupont goes for a long walk on the beach by himself, preoccupied with utopia, scurvy and teenage girls. Then, in show number four, “Full Throttle Stupidity” we bear witness to the mental regression brought on by whiskey and taurine-infused energy drink cocktails, including Dupont’s insistence that trees are not made out of wood, as commonly believed, but dirt. “There’s a real abundance of well-structured, professional, intelligent podcasts out there,” said Donovan Forte of Wired magazine. “And clearly, this isn’t one of them.” To experience The Obtuse Angle podcast, visit: http://obtuseangle.libsyn.com. Due to its caustic psychological effects, however, The National Institutes of Health (NIH) advises against this. # # #

The Obtuse Angle – Colin Powell's Penis (5/15/05) 36:02 16.5 MB / 36 min. I think we’ll call this a special two-for-one kickoff edition, because it’s almost twice as long as I’d planned. Irregardless … I share my conspiracy theory regarding former Secretary of State Powell’s penis, along with a bunch of other senseless babble. If you didn’t care for this show, please try another one. Then, if that causes you to vomit, please stop consuming this Podcast, by all means … ¶ Direct download: Podcast_01_FINAL.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 10:59 PM

The Obtuse Angle – Hotel Room Hole-Up (5/15/05) 31:35 14.5 MB / 31 min. In this episode I flashback to a night I holed up in a posh Chicago hotel and babbled on about fetuses, ants, starfish, Jon Bon Jovi and much more. Again, I need to apologize for the length of the show, which is about 10 minutes longer than I would prefer. Discipline! I’m going to show more discipline in shows to come, I promise. That was [expletive deleted] awesome!” Known widely in fringe medical circles as the “Single-Celled Sensation,” because of his remarkable ability to function independently with only one brain cell, Steve Dupont has astounded neurologists for years with his vacuous, yet prolific, ramblings on everything from aardvarks to xenophobia (rarely does he discuss topics beginning with Y or Z, the one notable exception being yuletide cheer and other yuletide-related byproducts). “He demonstrates remarkably little knowledge or expertise in a vast number of arenas,” said Frederick Houthoffengarten, MD, who’s also the founder of The Steve Dupont Project, a medical task force assembled in 1973 to study this unprecedented neurological anomaly. “In spite of its disjointed and altogether illogical nature, Mr. Dupont’s level of cognition far exceeds what many of us ever expected. That is, from an individual whose IQ essentially mirrors that of a PEZ candy dispenser.” Having decided to launch 10 installments of The Obtuse Angle all at once, Dupont posted four longish shows instead and called it a day. In the first episode, entitled “Colin Powell’s Penis,” Dupont shares a rather bizarre conspiracy theory pertaining to the former Secretary of State’s genitalia. In episode two, called “Hotel Room Hole-Up,” he locks himself in a posh Chicago hotel room only to pace frantically and babble on about fetuses, starfish and Jon Bon Jovi’s henchmen. Show number three, “Faux-Bachelor Beachcombing Bonanza,” takes us to the Florida panhandle, where Dupont goes for a long walk on the beach by himself, preoccupied with utopia, scurvy and teenage girls. Then, in show number four, “Full Throttle Stupidity” we bear witness to the mental regression brought on by whiskey and taurine-infused energy drink cocktails, including Dupont’s insistence that trees are not made out of wood, as commonly believed, but dirt. “There’s a real abundance of well-structured, professional, intelligent podcasts out there,” said Donovan Forte of Wired magazine. “And clearly, this isn’t one of them.” To experience The Obtuse Angle podcast, visit: http://obtuseangle.libsyn.com. Due to its caustic psychological effects, however, The National Institutes of Health (NIH) advises against this. # # # ¶ Category: general -- posted at: 10:54 AM ¶ note: there is no audio file associated with this post – it's just text

The Obtuse Angle – The Wiffle Bar (5/30/05) 30:30 13.9 MB / 30 min. I reach down into the idea hopper and yank out a big one, which is right here for the taking. Digressions into French paperclips, the word awesome and more obtuse crap. ¶ Direct download: Podcast_05_FINAL.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 6:15 PM

The Obtuse Angle – Road to Babble-on (5/30/05) 24:39 11.2 MB / 24 min. Sort of a continuation of Podcast #4, this picks up late-night when I’m babbling on about Jerry Lewis, digital gravitational fields, Bones the cat, pork swords, Jesus surveys and -- as always -- much, much more ¶ Direct download: Podcast_06_FINAL.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 6:31 PM

The Obtuse Angle – Squirrels Gone Wild (6/2/05) 42:55 19.6 MB / 43 min. Taking a "sick day," thinking about wood, head teeming with fish, safety corner, health corner, squirrels and girls gone wild, Wonder Years Wayne, crazy cliché origins, bikinis vs. lingerie, PK & J sucking their own proverbial dick … ¶ Direct download: Podcast_07_FINAL.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 8:54 AM

The Obtuse Angle – Vegas, Baby! (6/13/05) 27:56 12.7 MB / 28 min. The morning after, I recount our wacky flight to Vegas and the ensuing night of debauchery. Also, thoughts on how time transcends luxury, but not really. In closing, I get down on my knees and beg for feedback of any kind. ¶ Direct download: Podcast_08_FINAL.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 9:53 PM

The Obtuse Angle – Vegas, Baby - Part 2 (6/15/05) 53:48 24.7 MB / 54 min. – A chronicle of 12 hours on the Vegas Strip that turns from good to bad to downright ugly. Before I lose my mind I discuss imaginary panties, banana peel-related lawsuits and anal explosions. And as a fitting capper, I run into the tripping dude from the flight. The Obtuse Angle – Number 9 (6/20/05) 21:22 9.7 MB / 21 min. Originally intended to be Podcast #2 (don't ask), we get a little psychedelic at the beginning, followed by typically obtuse ramblings about whiskey, insects, pebbles in the shoe, trees made of dirt redux and much, much less! I mean more! ¶ Direct download: Podcast_09_FINAL.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 7:07 PM

The Obtuse Angle – Mango Madness (6/23/05) 28:33 Podcast 9 ½ – 13.1 MB / 28 min. It takes me one official whale of a long time to make a cocktail, and in the process I make several obtuse observations, such as that whales eat plankton. My first shoutouts to Vinnie, whom I now know is an Australian living in Hong Kong, and JV from No 1's Listening podcast. ¶ Direct download: ObtuseAngle_9_half_062305.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 8:52 PM

The Obtuse Angle – Festival Guy (6/27/05) 37:10 10 ½. Festival Guy – 17.1 MB / 37 min. On a pure storytelling edition of the show, I spin the yarn of how I, myself, became Festival Guy at Birmingham's annual City Stages Music Festival, and how I was almost arrested in the process. ¶ Direct download: ObtuseAngle_10_half_062705.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 7:06 PM

The Obtuse Angle – Tool Shed Shenanigans (6/30/05) 23:21 10.7 MB / 23 min. The Obtuse Angle – TOA #42: No Horse Beating Allowed (12/14/05) 39:26 27.1 MB / 39 min. An audio incarnation of Porsley, memory metaphors, business clichees, beating live horses and play-by-play of Skinemax's blockbuster hit, Bikini Cave Girl, plus a sneak peak at Attention. Deficit. Disorder., the debut novel by my friend Brad Listi ... Unfinished thoughts include: 1) Machines creating art. What if ... I had a software program into which I could feed all my previous episodes, so it could "learn" the various techniques employed in post production. And then I could feed it raw recordings and have it produce shows indistinguishable from the manually produced shows. Would this be a lesser art form by virtue of automation? 2) The epicenter of girls who enjoy watching porn is, without question, Princeton University in New Jersey. Trust me on this one. 3) The conclusion to Bikini Cave Girl: Well, I didn't watch the whole thing, but I do know that both the male and female archeologists have sex with the Cave Girl, at different times, and the female archeologist has a steamy three-way with the Cave Girl and Cave Man. ¶ Direct download: Obtuse_Angle_42.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 7:50 PM

The Obtuse Angle – TOA #50: Whale Blubber (2/28/06) 1:50:00 75.5 MB / 110 min. - In the words of Paul McCartney, it's been a long and winding road - but we made it to number 50 at last, and it only took 68 shows! So what we have here for you, dear listener, is basically a longish regular episode of TOA, a Big 50 Mega Prize Pack Giveaway Special and a lost classic, if you will - the very first TOA episode - all rolled into one bloated piece of media. Or, proverbially speaking, a bigass chunk of whale blubber that I will now attempt to cram down your throat. ¶ Many thanks to all who have volunteered for duty on the HMS Obtuse Angle, braving the stormy Sea of Podcasting and taking up arms against the Sea Beast. The Obtuse Angle – TOA #51: Hanky Commander (3/9/06) 45:50 42 MB / 46 min. Past Steve is your host today, and he's distracted by the Steelers-Colts football. Third world relief strategies, mongers and meisters, substitute teaching, automatronics, nougat attacks, hacidic hats, dead v. undead v. zero, pieces of boats, anatomy of the Titanic disaster, photo finishes, Cambodian girl invents weather machine scenario, Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, Hanky Commander, license to talk to myself, infomercial meets sitcom, Bob Costas, sticky buns. The Obtuse Angle – TOA #53: Battle of the Band Names (3/23/06) 44:28 30.6 MB / 44 min. Little change of pace today. I drop by my friends' Shaun and India's place to watch the Steelers-Broncos game on their big screen TV and shoot the shit. The main topic of conversation is the high school rock band in which I played the role of lead singer. Play along and try to guess the name of the band! Other topics include shooting beer and people out of cannons and slingshots, total indemnification and boars' heads. This episode also marks the end of an era at The Obtuse Angle. In fact, I played a lovely game of croquet with Barnabus after recording the show. ¶ 58 is experimental on a few different levels. One, it's very spatial (pronounced SPAY-SHUL). Two, it's very special

(also pronounced SPAY-SHUL). Three, it's very organic. Not more organic than a pile of actual shit from a bull, but more organic than most of the bullshit that passes as organic these days. Four – are we really up to four? Jesus. Four, the editing was done with a program called Mixcraft as opposed to Audacity, and for that reason there is less editing than usual. ¶ Names named: Seth. We could do it without mongrels, but the MMM does have a ring to it, yes? And this is important in the political arena. Things must have rings. The Obtuse Angle – TOA Special Edition: Beachcombing Bonanza Redux (5/25/06) 36:42 25.3 MB / 37 min. A special holiday treat for Memorial Day weekend! I am headed to the beach myself, so thought it apropos to give you the third and final lost episode of TOA. Originally TOA number 3 entitled Faux Bachelor Beachcombing Bonanza, this is a preamble followed by a flashback to an April 2005 stroll along the beach during which I discuss utopia, scurvy and teenage girls. I also plan the infiltration of a certain unfinished beach mansion (pictured). All compliments of the DM-1 of course, so the sound quality is a little coarse to say the least. Not an easy thing to do, in fact, I have no idea what to write here in the show notes. Something about micropiping? Intro by JV of No 1's Listening. ¶ On a different note, no pun intended, I would like to extend a special thanks to those of you who have taken the time to write reviews on iTunes and/or Yahoo and add TOA to your favorites at the Podcast Pickle. It was debated whether or not to even ask – the Bigwigs wanted me to devote airtime to it, but I refused – so we compromised with an appeal in the show notes. The Obtuse Angle – TOA Special Edition: CampCast Part 1 (7/24/06) 23:00 15.8 MB / 23 min. The first in a four part series chronicling a weekend camping trip to Cheeha State Park here in Alabama. I made several recordings over the two days, and decided to present them in reverse order. Memento-style, if you will. So every time you hear the harp flashback sound, we are going back in time. Also, I have done minimal editing and not included sound clips as usual to keep the experience as natural, or organic, as possible. As a result, these episodes are not the fast-paced TOA you have become accustomed to, so I might suggest whittling or stacking cordwood whilst listening to pass the time. The Obtuse Angle – TOA 2.dash.13: Drinking Mammoth Blood (1/29/07) 48:39 33.5 MB / 48 min. At time of show notes writing I honestly can't remember the beginning of this episode, which has been edited slothfully by the Obtuse Angle Corporation's editing team. Well over a week it's taken, but I must say I'm pleased with the ending, if nothing else. ¶ I'm resolved to write more in this area down here. See, that part above might have been passed off as show notes, like we've been doing recently. But really it's a blog, is my point, so I should engage in blogging. They have a blog going at Skull and Bones Publishing by the way, not sure what those guys are up to, but I'd venture to say it involves fighting Scurvy. With vigor. ¶ More. More. I know the sign language for More. It's made like this [NEED LINK] [THERE IS NO LINK]. Shit. You mean I have to use more words? Well, it's made by touching all the fingers together at a point, as if around a tiny globe, and tapping the fingers together twice consecutively. Does that make sense? Speaking of globes, specifically events that have taken place on the globe, have you heard of the Port Chicago disaster? 1945, a munitions ship explodes in California, killing the entire crew, who, just so happened to be 100% black. AND, most intriguingly, some scholars now believe the explosion was caused by a nuclear device. Which would have made it the first nuke ever tested by Uncle Sam. Anyway, it's buried inside 12+ hours of material on the 911Sychronicity podcast entitled Excitement Begets Energy and The Benefits of Under-Standing Your Square Roots. As with every other episode I've listened to, it's a rousing mindfuck for sure. That's blogging, see. Mixing primary and secondary sources across reality platforms. I mean, you do more than just tell about your day and stuff. ¶ Like earlier today when I thought to myself, and then said aloud immediately after: "I'd like to engage in the chewing of gum now." ¶ Right, so the episode mentions something about Mammoth's Blood. That's right, I talk all about the Mammoth Shooting Preserve I want to establish and fail to see the Jurassic Parkian reference until quite a bit later in the dialogue. Dialogue? Myself and myself, I guess you could say. Plus, probably a couple more myself(s) for good measure. ¶ Yeah, so maybe the ending isn't even good, I don't know. One simply cannot judge his own media immediately. Say that three times fast. Anecdotally, at least, my opinion is that the show built momentum and energy as it went along, then imploded at the end. I can tell, the editing team wanted it to implode and I think it did. ¶ Metaphorically speaking, of course. So what else is going on around the Obtuse Angle Corporation? Well, we had some Japanese people by the other day. Not sure where they were from. Someone decided it would be appropriate to serve them Hawaiian food. Maybe it's just me, but I think that's IN-appropriate. ¶ You don't want to EX-pire. You want to INs-pire! ¶ Yeah, the little S really f--ks that up, doesn't it? ¶ SHIT. ¶ It doesn't? Cause it does sound quite nice out of the yapper, doesn't it? Seriously though, there's no other phrase like that on the Internets? I mean, seriously though. Nobody famous said that? I'm not saying that makes me famous, it's just sorta cool:) ¶ Direct download: TOA_2dash13.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 9:32 PM

The Obtuse Angle – TOA 2.dash.14: Morons (2/5/07) 17:18 12 MB / 17 min. This is a terrible episode, but at least it's short. Basically I'm in the car – this is, like, November of last year – and there's lots of annoying wind noise and Future Steve calls in a few times and he's really annoying. So there you go. ¶ Let's blog a little, shall we? Talk about some CURRENT events, eh? ¶ The Super Bowl just happened, and I always take in interest both in the game itself and the commercials, so I'm going to talk about that. More so the commercials than the game, however. The Colts won the game 28-17 and although I predicted (to myself) a 27-17 Colts victory, I have bubkiss to show for it. It was a decent game, made all the more interesting by a monsoon-like rain that made the ball quite slippery and difficult to handle. So much so, that one of my cohorts at the party I attended exclaimed "FUMBLE!!!" on nearly every play from scrimmage. ¶ Scrimmage is a peculiar word, isn't it? Let's look that up: ¶ 1 a: a minor battle : skirmish b: a confused fight : scuffle 2 a: the interplay between two football teams that begins with the snap of the ball and continues until the ball is dead b: practice play (as in football or basketball) between two squads ¶ My general impression of the commercials was that they sucked (although I missed a lot of them, much of the time being spent watching my son, and trying to keep him from swallowing things he wasn't supposed to swallow). Which, on one hand is surprising, because you'd think these companies would want to get the biggest bang for their millions of bucks (they said it was $2.6 Million for a 30-sec. spot this year – so including production you're looking at $3 Million, easy). On the other hand, having been in the advertising industry for some years, I know the general rule of thumb. The more money being spent on the campaign/spot, the more high-level executive types want to get involved. In my experience, these people tend to have no creative vision whatsoever, so what you end up with is watered-down, lowest-common-denominator GARBAGE. ¶ I always think it's sad when a no-name company puts out a cheap, amateurish ad in hopes of getting noticed. This year is was some company peddling "Sales Leads." What the hell does that mean, anyway? Like, the Glengarry leads? The spot was just horrible. People smiling while polishing their sports cars, etc., to show you how successful the "Sales Leads" made them. But, again, you really have to feel sorry for these people. They're hacks, with bad taste in advertising. ¶ Now, it's the BIG BOYS for whom there's really no excuse. Thank god Pepsi stayed on the sidelines, having stunk the place up for as long as I can remember. Although, stepping into the void this year was Chevrolet, with their ghastly montage of crap-ass songs from different musical genres sung poorly, in some cases by loser B-celebrities like ... well, I didn't know who any of those damned people were. You had muscle car dude, surfer dude, hip hop dude, NASCAR dude. I understand what they're trying to get across – that Chevy has vehicles for every walk of life – but come on, guys. That commercial made me want to smash something with a baseball bat. A Chevy, for example. ¶ Then you have the "Play it Safers" who stuck to their usual playbooks. Budweiser with sophomoric physical gags – namely people getting hit in the face and/or balls with something – and GoDaddy.com with gratuitous titties. ¶ In the good category, my comedy award goes to Sierra Mist. Shit, that's Pepsi, isn't it? Well, whatever. The "Combover" ad was really funny, mainly because both guys who starred in the ad are really funny character actors. Weren't they both on Ed? Remember the show Ed, about the guy who owned a bowling alley? Pretty funny. ¶ Finally, my Best in Show goes to Coke for the "Video Game" ad, which was a parody of Grand Theft Auto where the character goes around helping everybody and doling out Cokes instead of shooting them. Very clever. Slightly humorous, and it even made you feel kind of warm and fuzzy inside. Maybe not quite as anthemic, but much better overall than "I'd like to give the world a Coke" or "Coke is it." ¶ So no more football until August, then. ¶ Bollocks. ¶ Direct download: TOA_2dash14.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 9:24 PM

The Obtuse Angle – TOA 2.dash.15: Skullduggery (2/12/07) 48:31 34.1 MB / 48 min. In this episode, proudly sponsored by Skull & Bones Publishing, it is only apropos that we discuss various forms of skullduggery and, in fact, predict specific future attempts of skullduggery on the part of _____. ¶ Now, in the spirit of continuing to fulfill my promise to be all current and relevant and whatnot, some news of the day, blogstyle: ¶ We have two stories dominating the news this week: Iran and Obama. ¶ Obama, as in Barack Obama, Illinois senator and the latest Democrat to announce his candidacy for president. While I am hesitant to overhype an already-overhyped story, this news is extraordinarily exciting to me. In my opinion, Obama may very well be the ONLY politician who can rescue our nation from its current partisan morass (my only complaint is that he's not running as an Independent). Moreover, because he has spent very little time in Washington, I am hopeful that he can resist the corrupting influence of Big Business on U.S. policy, both foreign and domestic, and truly do what Bush promised he would do way back in the 2000 campaign: restore integrity to the office of the president (no joke, W said that!). ¶ In other words, and again, at risk of putting all my proverbial eggs in one basket, I think Barack Obama may be our ONLY HOPE. That is why I plan to give him my full support as he wages his 2008 campaign. ¶ Next up, Iran. If you indeed live in America and have been paying any attention to the news in recent weeks, you have surely noticed a significant ratcheting-up of the rhetoric over Iran and its suspected meddling in Iraq. And if you have any remaining doubt as to the blatant propagandizing on TV news specifically, let me just clear that up for you right now. ¶ This is how it works: The "Pentagon" or "The White House" or "The State Department" issues a press release to the news media. The headline might be something like, 170 U.S. COMBAT DEATHS LINKED TO IRAN. The story (notice the choice of words) goes on to explain how roadside bombs used to attack American forces have been traced to Iran, yada yada. Okay, so then the TV producers gather up some B-roll (stock video) from Iraq, cars burning in the street and whatnot, and they get someone to ostensibly retype the press release. This text is then fed into the teleprompter and your most trusted news personality looks into the camera and reads it. ¶ Case in point, I turn on the TV in my Memphis hotel room on Sunday morning (we took the boy to Graceland, he being a huge Elvis fan already) and flipping around the dial I stopped on all the major cable networks for about 10 seconds apiece. ALL WERE TALKING ABOUT IRAN. ¶ On one hand, sure, it makes perfect sense that Iran would be trying to further destabilize Iraq and drive the U.S. out of there. In fact, it seems likely they've been involved since the beginning of the war. It's just the timing that seems a bit coincidental, seeing as though we're about to send 20-some-odd thousand more troops into the fray ... ¶ On the other hand, back in 2002 it made perfect sense that Iraq had weapons of mass destruction and that Saddam intended to sell them to terrorists. Because that's what the government/media was telling us, and they seemed pretty sure of themselves. ¶ So is this a case of the little boy crying wolf? Or is it the truth? ¶ I just don't know what to believe anymore. ¶ Direct download: TOA_2dash15.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 6:42 PM

The Obtuse Angle – TOA 2.dash.16: Serial Killer Guy (2/19/07) 25:19 17.4 MB / 25 min. Walking round the pond observing a possible serial killer while making other observations and likely being observed, as well. Guerilla cell phone marketing, math problems, Jimmy Carter, cement trucks, bedraggled and more. ¶ Today is Presidents Day here in the U.S. (this is Present Steve talking to you now), and so I would like to take this opportunity to shine a proverbial spotlight on the hypocrisy of our current national holiday system (granted, not everyone gets the day off on Presidents Day – me, for example – but nevertheless ...). ¶ My BEEF is this: We have Presidents Day to pay homage to the service of past presidents. Mainly the Founding Father types – Washington and Jefferson being the two most invoked by current politicians blowing hot air into the media's whorish microphones. We have Memorial Day to remember the men and women who served in our military and purchased farmland so our children can plant their seeds of freedom and whatnot. We have July 4 to celebrate our independence from the Big Bad British Empire (BBBE). We have Labor Day for no apparent reason other than to give families one last summer hurrah at the beach before school starts again. Then we have a number of additional holidays primarily recognized by bankers and government employees, such as Martin Luther King, Jr. Day, Flag Day and Veteran's Day. ¶ AND YET, neither our politicians in Washington nor at the individual state level find it appropriate to designate ONE DAY EVERY TWO YEARS for a National Election Day. ¶ This, of course, stands in blatant contradiction to THE RHETORIC, namely that our right to vote is the backbone of democracy – a means of exercising our freedom, and so on. Granting an election day holiday would certainly make it easier to be a good patriotic citizen, and without question result in higher voter turnout. I mean, is this a NO BRAINER, or what? ¶ WHAT, apparently. ¶ The question is: WHY? ¶ One can only assume that a significant number of politicians feel it wouldn't be in their best interest for THE OTHER HALF of the population to vote. Pun intended, yes, but it also refers to the actual statistics. In the 2000 presidential election, for example – arguably the most important election in our country's history – turnout was 51.3 percent. And, keep in mind, that's a percentage of REGISTERED VOTERS. I'm not going to do the math, but we can safely assume that well under half of the total population is going to the polls. ¶ So, again, who in society would benefit most from an election day holiday? The corporate executive, who can easily push his meetings back to 10 am? Or the employee of the slaughter house, who has to be clocked in and slicing chicken gizzards by 7 am or else he's docked pay? Hmmm ... okay, so clearly the lower class, working class folks will be the most likely to vote, if they were not in the habit of voting before ... ¶ Low wage, low skill workers are who we're talking about, here. And if I'm not mistaken, these are the types of jobs that have been shifting in recent years – either to illegal immigrants or nations overseas. China, for example. In other words, many of these "working class" people have been laid off, which probably makes them rather unhappy with their elected officials. More likely to vote for a challenger, as opposed to an incumbent. ¶ So, by this logic, it would not seem a partisan issue, as many democrats in particular would attest, but another classic example of the ever-rising dominance of corporations over public policy. ¶ Corporations give money to politicians who, in turn, grease the rails for outsourcing low wage jobs (while promising they'll help keep jobs at home). The white collar people are happy, because they have cushy jobs and their 401Ks are growing nicely. So they tend to vote for incumbents – democrat, republican or otherwise. So everyone's happy. ¶ NOT. ¶ Well, those in the lower tax brackets will always have the military, I suppose. After all, it seems WAR will continue to be a growth industry for decades to come ... ¶ Direct download: TOA_2dash16.mp3 ¶ Category: podcasts -- posted at: 12:26 PM

The Meandering Mouse founded The Disney Podcast Network. MMCTV is produced in association with Frikitiki Productions.

Release notes (by Frank Edward Nora, November 2021): In September 2021, Jeff contacted me about archiving The Meandering Mouse in The Onsug. I was happy to do it, as I've known Jeff for a long time, and his rambling, wandering style fits in well with The Onsug. And I'm also a lifelong Disney Parks fan. I converted the MMCTV videos to audio, but the originals can still be seen on YouTube. Enjoy this amazing archive!

The Meandering Mouse – Disneyland Meanderings-Autopia and Storybook Boats (2/17/06) 40:58 [823] Take a journey with The Meandering Mouse and his buddy, Quenton, as they slow down and take time to notice some of the minor attractions out at Disneyland in California. This stereo audio adventure takes you on two fun filled rides on the Autopia in Tomorrowland and the Storybook Canal Boats in Fantasyland. Your host, Jeff from Houston, reads some listeners comments that came in and updates you in regards to his next Disneyland trip scheduled to take place Feb 22nd thru Feb 25th. Call our new Voicemail line at 713-893-3866 or send feedback via email to podcast@meanderingmouse.com. Enjoy!

The Meandering Mouse – Meanderings of Scary Orlando Tourist Trap Diners (2/21/06) 9:28 [823] Here's a "quickie cast" since I'm packing for my Disneyland trip which occurs tomorrow. While cleaning off my laptop I found this small soundseeing tour of a really scary tourist trap restaurant in Orlando. This explains why I stay onsite while visiting WDW. This stuff is funny so I thought I would share. Warning Please note that it is slightly un-family friendly in nature towards the end. Not too bad though ;) How bout' a steak?

The Meandering Mouse – Cali Adventure Chew Chew Train Meanderings (2/28/06) 12:05 [823] This second Meandering Mouse episode of the week is meant to keep the whackiness of the show in balance since our last episode was a special event of sorts. Join your host, Jeff from Houston, and his cast member friend out at Disney's California Adventure for a snacktastic stereo sound adventure aboard Heimlich's Chew Chew Train Ride. You want more cow bell? You got it right here. Enjoy! Send feedback to podcast@meanderingmouse.com - Voicemail: 713-893-3866 - Discussion Forums at www.meanderingmouse.com

The Meandering Mouse – (repost) – Disneyland Pirates 5K Cast Member Event Meanderings (3/2/06) 57:03 [823] repost Some users were not able to retrieve this episode since two shows were posted in one day. I changed the pub date in the feed to remedy the problem. Sorry for the inconvenience! This episode of The Meandering Mouse highlights the Pirates of the Caribbean 5K Charity Cast Member Event that took place last week out at the Disneyland Resort. Join your host, Jeff from Houston, and his cast member friend as they brave the high seas OVER and OVER again for a good cause. The highlights of this stereo audio adventure include a behind the scenes look at the Disney Cast Member community and the spirited way in which they join together for some fun in the park after-hours. In closing, listener feedback is featured as all the positive comments coming in have really made a difference. Thanks to everyone for subscribing and listening! The Meandering Mouse – Meanderings of a Disney Cast Member Part 1 (3/4/06) 42:33 [823] This is part 1 of an interview I did with a very important Disney Cast Member. No, it's not an Imagineer and it's not a Disney Exec. This interview was done with the most important of all cast members. This is the person that has worked the front lines in the parks and has had constant guest interaction. In my opinion, the magic at Disney is created by cast members like this. These are the people responsible for working quite hard to make your Disney Resort trips a special one. Since this is another "special event" episode, look for another show to be released soon that features the normal crazy meanderings you're getting used to here at the podcast. After that, I will release part 2 of this wonderful interview. Thanks to everyone for subscribing and listening! The Meandering Mouse – Rope Drop and Peter Pan Meanderings (3/6/06) 21:33 [823] Join your host, Jeff from Houston, as he drags his butt out of bed early in the morning in order to attend Disneyland's park opening rope drop on Main Street USA. After the excitement and madness of the rope drop itself, we take a journey through Sleeping Beauty's castle and take a ride on Peter Pan's Flight. So wake up and get your butt out to the rope on Main Street with The Meandering Mouse! No excuses! Thanks to everyone for subscribing and listening! The Meandering Mouse – Meanderings of Freaky Street People Contest! (3/10/06) 7:29 [823] Join your host, Jeff from Houston and his Disneyland Cast Member friend, on the streets of downtown San Diego as they break from the crowds at the Disneyland Resort and run straight into a wall of, "say what??" This show is a contest to see who can explain what in the world some guy is talking about as he meanders down the street on his cell phone. Send in your answers / comments about the "mystery" sound clip and win an Expedition Everest pin from the Annual Passholder Preview. Thanks to everyone for subscribing and listening! The Meandering Mouse – Toontown and Energy Adventure Meanderings (3/12/06) 58:53 [823]
Headphones Suggested for this Episode Join your host, Jeff from Houston, as he wanders around Toontown in Disneyland exploring all the whacky distractions and sounds in the area. Afterwards, get your bags packed for a cross country trip to Florida where I visit EPCOT Center's Universe of Energy / Ellen's Energy Adventure. This underappreciated pavilion at EPCOT is top notch in my book and needs no commentary. Therefore, I keep my big mouth shut during this great ride thru. Hear Ellen and Bill Nye the Science Guy as they travel through time experiencing The Big Bang and a bunch of Dinosaurs. Last, our new weekly feature, which highlights those special details found in the Disney parks, is presented. Send in your favorite special Disney park details and comments about the show. The Meandering Mouse – Expedition Everest Meanderings - An Encore (3/17/06) 30:26 [823]
This episode is a special encore presentation of my Expedition Everest soundseeing tour I took during the Annual Passholder Preview of the attraction. It originally aired on The Trapped on Vacation show since that's where I started my podcasting adventure. There have been many new listeners to the Meandering Mouse and I consider this one of my best audio pieces to date. Given all that, I want to make sure all listeners of the show have a chance to hear this tour. Join your host, Jeff from Houston, as he experiences Expedition Everest for the very first time. This stereo audio journey takes you from the airport right into Serka Zong for an exploration of, both, the area around the new attraction and the ride itself. Be looking forward to more crazy fun when a normal episode of The Meandering Mouse airs by the start of the new week. The Meandering Mouse – Meanderings of Talking Trees, Disney Bathrooms, and Dinosaur (3/19/06) 35:45 [823] Headphones Suggested for Ride Thru This episode is full of Disney park sound oddities and general craziness as I wander around aimlessly in the parks on both coasts.We also board a time rover and ride thru Animal Kingdom's Dinosaur attraction. Last, some listener comments on what they think, "you can't get Gingavitis from a Mannequin" means are featured as entries into the recently posted contest. This here may be one of the wildest rides in Disney podcasting. Hang on to your hats and glasses folks! The Meandering Mouse – Meanderings of INSANE Souvenirs, Alice, and Illuminations (3/24/06) 35:48 [823] This episode follows a typical Walt Disney World tourist into a park souvenir shop. Insanity ensues. Next up we enter Disneyland and take a ride on one of my favorite DL attractions: Alice in Wonderland. Last, gather around the fire with me at EPCOT's World Showcase and take in a night time viewing of Illuminations - Reflections of Earth. The Meandering Mouse – Spaceship Earth, Toad, and Adventurers Club Meanderings (4/9/06) 1:08:07 [823] Headphones HIGHLY Suggested Start by taking an early morning walk with me down Harbor Blvd. from my hotel into Disneyland. Next, we explore another Disneyland sound oddity and then take a ride to nowhere in particular as we experience Toad's Wild Ride. Afterwards, we travel back to Disney World for an incredible ride through Spaceship Earth. Our last stop at Disney World is at The Adventurers Club on Pleasure Island for your initiation. I end the show with the winning answer to the "you can't get Gingavitis from a mannequin" contest and some listener comments. The Meandering Mouse – From EPCOT's Future World to a Small World Meanderings (4/15/06) 1:04:19 [823] Rated PG - Headphones Suggested Experience the Experimental Prototype Community of Tomorrow like never before then join me at Disney's Animal Kingdom for an Expedition Everest tribute. Next, cross the coast to Disneyland and take a stroll through the park with me as I make my way towards Its a Small World and take my very first ride on the classic attraction. Afterwards, join Jean Shepherd live from the 1964 World's Fair where he experiences Its a Small World and all of the "Walt Disney Creatures" that come with it. Last, I read a few listener comments and play some voice mail. Special thanks to Brian Sommer this week. Check out www.briansommer.com. Please take a moment to

The Meandering Mouse – Remember... Dreams Come True Meanderings (4/23/06) 28:54 [823] Headphones HIGHLY Suggested I'm on a Walt Disney World vacation this week but decided to post an abbreviated episode of The Meandering Mouse for everyone. Join me on Main Street in Disneyland as we experience one of Disney's greatest night time shows ever produced. The stereo audio quality of this show is quite impressive. Take special notice of the explosions timed to the musical soundscape. I'll be back next week with a "normal" episode for everyone to enjoy! Take note that the Disney Podcast Network has a new official member: Character Breakfast by Sorcerer Radio. Check them out because it's a great show. The Meandering Mouse – Kilimanjaro Safari and Disney World Day 1 Meanderings (4/30/06) 58:44 [823] Headphones Suggested I'm back from my recent Walt Disney World vacation this week and have a trip report from day one which includes sounds live from the experience at the park that day. Wander the parks with me and my travel bud, Patrick, as we visit EPCOT and Earl from The Trapped on Vacation Podcast. Next, take a wonderful Kilimanjaro Safari with us over at Disney's Animal Kingdom. In closing, we explore a few sound oddities picked up at EPCOT. The Meandering Mouse #17 – Splash Mountain, Haunted Mansion, and WDW Day 2 Meanderings (5/7/06) 1:20:40 [823] Headphones HIGHLY Suggested This show wll begin with a summary and audio of my second day of my recent Walt Disney World Trip. It's an Animal Kingdom Morning and a visit to ALL FOUR DISNEY PARKS in one day! During the trip report, I comment on all the changes I noticed on Pirates of the Caribbean since it re-opened for a month after the first phase of rehab. Next up, by popular demand, I feature an insane ride thru of Splash Mountain. I say insane because we had visited ALL FOUR DISNEY PARKS before riding Splash at 1:30 in the morning!!!! We were sorta loopy from walking 15 to 20 some miles and going that long in the Disney parks. I've also got some wild news. My friend Patrick ran into Saul the Unsuspecting and Overly Enthusiastic Tourist while visiting the Haunted Mansion!!! Can you believe it?? Join Saul and my bud, Patrick, for one heck of a goofy time as they journey through the cobwebs and spookiness of The Haunted Mansion. The show ends with some GREAT listener feedback so stay tuned. The Meandering Mouse #18 – Wishes, Test Track, and WDW Day 3 Meanderings (5/13/06) 1:16:01 [823] Headphones Suggested This episode begins with an introduction to The Meandering Minnie Mouse who I will be taking to Walt Disney World this coming week. She tells us what she is looking forward to and we get into some general shenanigans...it's a good laugh for sure. Next up is day three of my ongoing Disney trip report series. I start that with an EPCOT morning which includes a close call with an auto collision while entering EPCOT's parking lot and, of course, the EPCOT rope drop. Come along with us as we are herded like Disney tourist cattle into The Land pavilion in order to retrieve a FastPass for Soarin'. After a morning meandering with me and my pal, experience a ride thru of Test Track and some Disney sound oddities from the Manatee tank at the Living Seas. The last bit of audio weirdness is compliments of Earl from Trapped on Vacation as we hang out at The American Adventure. This show closes with a hustled entry into the Magic Kingdom for a spot on the Tomorrowland bridge to view the Wishes fireworks show above Conderella's castle. The Meandering Mouse #19 – WDW Space Mt, Stitch's Great Escape, and WDW Trip Report Meanderings (5/25/06) 59:01 [823] Headphones Suggested This show will begin by wrapping up my April Disney World trip report with my bud Patrick. We visit the Magic Kingdom for a crazy Disney park morning ride on Space Mountain, take in some Magic Kingdom sounds, walk around with Earl from Trapped on Vacation as he tells us some goofy and interesting cast member stories, hear The Carousel of Progress during a nasty technical glitch, take a walk through Disney's Pleasure Island construction zone at night while experiencing some of the worst music. Next up, The Meandering Minnie joins us to summarize our recent May trip to Disney World. We discuss our stay at Disney's Animal Kingdom Lodge, meeting some Disney Podcast Network members out at the parks, and experience everyone's favorite Disney attraction: Stitch's Great Escape. The show ends with some great listener voice mail including an amazing surprise for The Meandering Mouse. The Meandering Mouse #20 – Special Edition – Disneyland Cast Member Meandering Part TWO (5/29/06) 32:34 [823] Show is RATED PG-13 Okay, I've gotten many emails and have seen many requests on the forums for part two of my interview with my Disneyland cast member friend. I sat down with my buddy out at Disneyland's Grand Californian / California Adventure one afternoon in February and we spoke about his 11 year history with the company. Part one of the interview posted on The Meandering Mouse on March 4, 2006. I find this part of the interview to be MUCH MORE interesting as my friend talks about the current job conditions at Disneyland and how things have changed since the inception of "presenteism." We also discuss something a bit less serious...his favorite and least favorite park attractions. As stated in the topic title, this is a special episode of The Meandering Mouse so there are no soundseeing experiences or goofyness. Enjoy these more serious meanderings as a change of pace for the show. Forum member "Toast" is the person being interviewed. He is an active member at The Disney Podcast Network. Therefore, if you have any questions, post away and I'm sure he will be happy to answer. The Meandering Mouse #21 – Philharmagic, Sailing Ship Columbia, Scary Orlando Souvenir Meanderings (6/5/06) 1:08:20 [823] Rated PG-Headphones Suggested This episode begins with the RETURN OF SAUL and his Disney park adventures. Join Saul as he experiences a trip through Florida's Fantasyland. Of course, Saul's journey through Fantasyland is a tad short on the fantasy and we can safely say that he visited something more like Scaryland. Next, The Meandering Minnie and I enjoy Philharmagic where we experience a bit more fantasy than poor ole' Saul. After leaving Fantasyland, we travel outside of the Disney bubble and hit the streets of Orlando to explore the creepiness of off-property souvenir shops. No comforting or pleasant souvenirs are found. Instead, we discover some of the oddest objects on Earth. Last, The Meandering Mouse returns to DISNEYLAND to explore some sound oddities and take a ride on The Sailing Ship Columbia. In the sound oddity portion of the Disneyland audio, we stumble upon Maynard, the rather famous but odd Disneyland cast member, as he tells us a really weird story on Main Street. We also stop in New Orleans Square and discover that Californians have NO rhythm whatsoever while we listen to a live street act. This episode is packed full of goodies so get ready for some fun!!! The Meandering Mouse #22 – JUST Disneyland Meanderings – Special Retrospective (6/12/06) 1:09:21 [823] Rated PG-Headphones Suggested This special edition of the Meandering Mouse takes on a different and somewhat of a reflective tone as I prepare my mind and spirit for an upcoming Disneyland trip at the end of August. The audio featured on this episode of The Meandering Mouse is 100% from Disneyland...the original that started it all! First, we revisit some of the very first audio clips I took while I first meandered through Disneyland back in October of 2005. The Meandering Mouse wasn't even thought of at this point because I didn't have a podcast. This type of audio is RARE...I don't know of any other Disney podcasters that have audio recorded of themselves experiencing Disneyland for the very first time. It really takes me back to that special feeling I had walking around alone in Walt's original park for the very first time on a chilly evening in October...I even get LOST which is funny to hear now that I know the parks on both coasts like the back of my hand. The other neat thing in regards to these recordings is that you can hear how the quality of my meanderings have improved over time. To be honest, the quality is quite rough on these early recordings...levels are all over the place and there are some spots with some REALLY NASTY wind and vibration. It is quite listenable though...no doubt about that. After the early first steps into Disneyland recordings, I shift gears and play some newer audio from my trip to DL this past Feb. However, the audio is just of me literally meandering through the park with no purpose. It's fun to come along with me as I take in my surroundings and point out certain details I notice along the way. Next, we visit The Sorcerer's Workshop at The Animation Building in Cali Adventure where myself and my Disneyland Cast Member friend (Toast) take Disney personality tests using the enchanted books in the Beauty and the Beast Library. Last, I leave you with a high quality and fun experience over at Monsters Inc. I think this is one of my best recordings of one of the newest attraction at DL. I finally captured one of my favorite gags and details of the attraction while making my way through the queue area. The Meandering Mouse #23 – Festival of the Lion King and More Disney Bathroom Meanderings (6/18/06) 1:11:55 [823] Headphones Suggested This show begins with some truly unique WDW sound oddities. Come along with me as I explore one of the wackiest Disney World attractions: The audio pumped into the different restrooms around the resort. Don't worry because no offensive sounds are heard; just weird audio that accompanies you on your business trips while at the world. There are some other Disney park sound oddities thrown in as a surprise! Next, experience The Festival of the Lion King at Disney's Animal Kingdom. The Meandering Minnie and I check the show out for the very first time on our last trip and you're there with us enjoying the show! The audio truly shines for this wonderful live performance. Last, stick around for some great listener feedback...there has been a lot of it lately. This week's show picture is the infamous women's chair toilet up in Disneyland's Club33. The Meandering Mouse #24 – Tower of Terror, Millionaire Play it!, Muppets Pre-Show Meanderings (6/25/06) 1:10:40 [823]

Headphones HIGHLY Suggested This episode is for all those Disney-MGM Studios lovers out there. We begin with a morning meandering over to the park, ride the parking lot tram to the front gates, and experience the rope drop. Once in the park, Patrick runs into Saul during the Star Tours pre-show. We find out that Saul is somewhat of a Star Wars nerd and a fastpass is issued for a fist fight between the two tourists (take special notice Patrick's deadpan reaction to the madness). To continue with the odd humor, we head next door to take in the Muppets 3D Pre-Show which is my favorite part of the entire attraction. Next up, we hitch a ride on that crazy old cursed elevator at The Tower of Terror Meandering Mouse style. Last at the Studios, The Meandering Minnie and I take a whack at Who Wants to be a Millionaire, Play it! Come along with us and test your ability in regurgitating useless knowledge. The Meandering Mouse #25 – Disneyland Tom Sawyer and Pirate Meanderings (7/1/06) 1:09:59 [823] Headphones HIGHLY Suggested Well, I made it to episode 25. Just WOW! On this show, we first celebrate The Disney Podcast Network and all its members with Saul. Next, we come full circle and experience an audio meandering of Disneyland's Tom Sawyer Island as my very first Meandering Mouse show featured a tour of Disney World's version. After our Island adventure, we take in Pirates of the Carribean at Walt Disney World with Earl and Patrick right after its first phase of refurb. This is obviously a nod to the grand re-opening of Pirates this month. To round out this show, we explore a few Disney sound oddities. My 25th show just wouldn't be complete without some whacky sounds and odd meanderings out at the Disney parks. Last, don't miss a special voice mail which came into The Meandering Mouse comment line direct from Monstropolis!! The Meandering Mouse #26 – HORIZONS – Cronkite SpaceShip Earth Meanderings (7/10/06) 1:11:25 [823] SERIOUSLY-Headphones HIGHLY Suggested Join me for a different sort of show as I provide some personal meanderings, musings, and memories of what EPCOT used to be all about. First, I'll provide a brief history of my all time favorite Disney attraction: Horizons. I'll present some interesting details about the attraction along with some RARE audio. To end the Horizons portion of the show, I will play one of the most fascinating pieces of audio I've ever heard dealing with Horizons...a mixdown of source audio which presents a completely accurate ride through of the attraction. Last, we will take a look back on the last remaining great dark ride at EPCOT: Spaceship Earth. We will take a ride thru of the attraction in it's golden days featuring audio narration by Walter Cronkite. I've been waiting a LONG TIME to do a HORIZONS based show as the memory of that attraction is one of the best Disney Park attraction memories I have from my childhood days spent in the parks. I hope this show does it justice. Special Thanks to Martin Smith and George W. (not Bush) for some of the material used in this show. The Meandering Mouse #27 – Star Tunnel, Vacation Beginnings, and Kungaloosh Meanderings (7/22/06) 1:20:18 [823] This show begins with the Meandering Minnie and I making a Kungaloosh in the studio to celebrate one heck of a busy week being done with. After our tasty adult beverage, we review Lou Mongello's latest Disney World Trivia book as his publisher was nice enough to provide us podcasters with a free copy. Before the Meandering Minnie leaves the studio, we feature some in park audio of a few cast members we talked to, learn a bit about the Reedy Creek District, and the C.H.I.P. hotline. As I take the mic solo for the remainder of the show, I discuss that special feeling you have when you first arrive at the parks and feature some great park audio of my buddy Quenton and I arriving at the Disneyland Resort for the first time. We walk down Main Street and end our audio meandering with Quenton's first ride on Space Mountain. He had a great time to say the least and you'll hear that in the ride-thru. Next up, we experience the queue at Space Mountain in Florida. I meander through the Star Tunnel and then play the music featured in both the entrance and exit of the attraction since it is some of my favorite music heard at WDW's Magic Kingdom. One of the tracks I stumbled upon was tagged, "Space Mountain - Impressions" and I ask YOU from which Space Mountain the track comes from. To round things out we visit the Space Mountain launch pad where a GOOD FRIEND seems to have gotten stuck in the space capsule which is ready to blast off! Somebody get a wrench and FAST! Last, we read a few listener emails as the last Horizons episode caused my inbox to be slammed with some amazing feedback. Thanks to everyone that has made donations to The

The Meandering Mouse #28 – The ORIGINAL Journey Into Imagination Meanderings (8/3/06) 57:25 [823] WEAR HEADPHONES OR SUFFER ;)Back by massively POPULAR DEMAND is my retrospective series covering EPCOT's golden era. On this show, I feature the ORIGINAL Journey into Imagination attraction (1983-1998). The past and present of the attraction will be explored along with a detailed ride description before taking another amazing stereo audio ride thru which is similar to the Horizons ride thru I played on a previous episode. I share my personal memories and feelings over what was one of the most fascinating and somewhat abstract dark rides ever conceived by The Disney company. The Meandering Mouse #29 – Adventureland and Jungle Jet Ski Cruise Meanderings (8/12/06) 1:13:35 [823] PG-13 WARNING TO SEE PICS of the Jungle Jet Ski area heard during the audio tour-GOTO The Disney Podcast Network Forums show notes. Something quite different.....along with something familiar. The Meandering Mouse emerges from the more serious side as heard on the EPCOT retrospective series and returns with its irreverent commentary, biting sarcasm, and wildly creative take on the Disney podcast. Get your Adventurer's gear and first join us for some Disneyland Adventureland Meanderings. We take the original Jungle Cruise right at closing time and then explore Tarzan's Treehouse. During the featured audio of this episode, The Meandering Mouse and his buddy, Quenton, imagineer their own version of the Jungle Cruise and feature the audio ride-thru for this special show. It took one 3 seat 1100cc 125 H.P. Jet Ski, two adventurous souls, some microphones, a bunch of water bound natives, some REAL wildlife sightings, and a lot of noise out on the open water to build this E-ticket attraction of insanity. WARNING The Meandering Jungle Jet Ski Cruise part of the show is not for the kiddies and not for those sound quality snobs. This is extreme outdoor and impromptu soundseeing podcasting at its finest. Recording at a moment's notice sans windscreen while, occasionally, flying across the water at over 50MPH isn't pretty at times but we do slow down and explore the countryside for most of the experience. Fascinating stuff edited and cleaned up just a bit. Bring your sense of humor to this show or make use of that fast forward feature. This Epsiode's Photo Art Courtesy of The Meandering Minnie. The Meandering Mouse #30 – EPCOT Retrospective 3 – World of Motion Meanderings (8/19/06) 1:27:21 [823] Lookie Mom! HEADPHONES Join me for part three of my recent EPCOT Retrospective Series. This show will cover The World of Motion and MUCH MORE!! First up, I devote some time to some wonderful listener comments and voice mail. I've been quite appreciative over all the positive response to the show as of lately. Next, we take a "Magic Journey" back in time to explore The World of Motion. In my typical EPCOT retro style, I go over the history of the attraction, some technical specs, how I felt about it, and I then feature a special segment about Marc Davis since his infamous AA "sight gags" filled The World of Motion. Soon after that we board our Omnimovers and take our stereo ride thru of the entire attraction. To end the show, I let you in on my personal feelings over what EPCOT has become and what's truly able to still strike a chord within me at the park. Stay until the end...you'll want to. The Meandering Mouse #31 – Disney World Magic Kingdom Morning Meanderings (8/26/06) 1:14:17 [823] HEADPHONES R Ur Friends The Meandering Mouse returns from another EPCOT retro show and does what its known for best: Meandering throughout the Walt Disney World Resort. Join me for a complete audio journey of a somewhat typical morning at Disney World. We begin at EPCOT's monorail station where we take a ride to the TTC and then hop onto the express Monorail to The Magic Kingdom. While Meandering down Main Street, we notice some charming details. Next, enjoy the transition into Tomorrowland and meet up with an old friend for a wild ride on Space Mountain. Once we make our way into Fantasyland, Peter Pan's Flight is on our must-do list before heading over for a wonderful sounding ride through The Haunted Mansion. Our morning at The Magic Kingdom comes to an end at The Frontierland Train Station. It begins to rain and Lou from Beyond Main Street just happens to be headed into the same station we're waiting at for the train. An odd coincidence for sure! To end our audio adventure, we hop back onto The Monorail for a trip around EPCOT where we finish back at the start of it all. Stick around for some wonderful audio feedback sent in by a listener. The Meandering Mouse #32 – Special – Live from Disneyland Meanderings Part 1 (9/2/06) 35:06

[823] MUST HAVE HEADPHONES-Re-Uploaded version-Turn up your treble if vocals are too bass heavy and hard to understand This is a special LIVE FROM DISNEYLAND Meandering Mouse podcast: Part One. Recorded on September 1 2006. I'm sitting here in my hotel room at the Anaheim Resort area as I post this. I changed my flight plans and added an extra day to my little vacation out here. Yesterday I experimented with recording an entire show at the park. I meandered around during a gorgeous Friday morning and you will be along for the ride. No editing was done to this piece of audio. Enjoy Part 1 of your morning with me at Disneyland in Anaheim, California!! Thanks to everyone that has made donations to The Meandering Mouse and The Disney Podcast Network thru the show website! The Meandering Mouse #33 – Special – PART 2 – Live from Disneyland Meanderings (9/7/06) 1:13:00 [823] MUST HAVE HEADPHONES I finish my live in park podcast taken during my trip last week with this show. Please make sure you have already listened to part 1 as to complete the audio experience. This final part of the special series is twice as long as the first part because I am home with more time on my hands to work on the show. Part 1 was thrown together from my hotel room in Anaheim. There is a little more babbling by me going on here since I find myself back tracking a bit while trying to decide what to do with my morning. Below is the list of attractions I hit while Meandering around the park on this second and final part of my podcast in the park morning. Yes, I know we've done some of these attractions before but this two part show was meant to highlight a complete and somewhat typical morning for me as I left the mics run as much as possible while I had some fun. The best part? Your are along for the journey! Space Mountain Ride Thru (best audio of this one yet due to new field equipment - no more insane distortion), It's a Small World, Push the Trashcan (Best EVAR), Roger Rabbit's Toontown Queue exploration and Ride Thru, Toon Town Meanderings, Big Thunder Mountain, and The Haunted Mansion. The Meandering Mouse #34 – Meanderings of Odds and Ends (9/17/06) 53:07 [823] HEADPHONES Rock This episode is for all those little orphan audio clips taken at the parks. They have no sensible home for a sensible formatted show. Therefore, we experience many Disney park sound oddities out at Disney World and just have some fun. Highlights include: Meandering Minnie Meanderings, Animal Kingdom / Animal Kingdom Lodge sound oddities, and Magic Kingdom sound oddities Purchase opening music from ITunes: Angelina and Armand's - Disney Freaks - Thanks to an old friend Chet P. for bringing it to my attention. The Meandering Mouse #35 – Meandering Mimi and No Place Like World Showcase (9/24/06) 1:16:08 [823] Made for HEADPHONES We start this episode with probably the most endearing / special piece of audio I've ever taken. I interviewed my 96 year old Grandmother while I was in Pittsburgh. Why you ask? It's simple. The Meandering Mimi was responsible for taking my Sister and I to Walt Disney World's Magic Kingdom for the very first time back in 1983 when I was 8 years old! This recorded discussion is our attempt at digging up all those magical memories which occured way back when. As you'll hear, it wasn't easy! Next up, we continue in the way back machine and explore some of the first EPCOT Center music ever presented to the public as a listener chimes in on the subject of EPCOT's BGM loops. The feature of the show will be an audio adventure around the World Showcase lagoon with my buddy, Patrick, and Earl from Trapped on Vacation. We meander around one evening experiencing The World Showcase exactly as it should be experienced: With no particular agenda other than to explore and take it all in. The audio wraps up with rides on Norway's Maelstrom and Mexico's El Rio Del Tiempo. Check out the DPN website changes going on now. More great things to come. The Meandering Mouse #36 – re-post – EPCOT Retrospective 4-Universe of Energy (10/8/06) 1:14:29 [823] Headphone Friendly In this episode of The Meandering Mouse, I continue my EPCOT retrospective series and highlight the original Universe of Energy. We discover that the departure of the original Universe of Energy in 1994 marks a great change in the general theme of EPCOT's Future World. A piece of EPCOT's original mission is also left behind with the re-imagineering of the pavillion. While I still consider the re-themed attraction (Ellen's Energy Adventure) to be a very well done and entertaining replacement, it's always interesting to take a look back. Highlights of this show include full commentary discussing the energy pavillion's history, the design, its principles, and an edited audio ride thru of the attraction. Thanks to everyone that has made donations to The Meandering Mouse and The Disney Podcast Network thru the show website! Outro music on Itunes - Bob Sinclar - World, hold on. First post of this episode had the wrong finale song presented in the ride thru. Universe of Energy should play at the finale vs. Energy, you make the world go round.

The Meandering Mouse #37 – TODAY I am at Disneyland Meanderings (10/15/06) 1:19:58 [823] Headphones Needed 4 this one Recorded Sunday Oct. 15th. Thats right. I'm at Disneyland again and recorded a live in the park show for you all and am posting it on the same day the audio was taken. Join me for some laid back meanderings throughout the park. Highlights include: -An Amazing Listener Email -Grand Circle Disneyland Railroad Journey -Main Street Goodness -The Disneyland Band at the Castle Compass Rose -Pinnochio's Daring Journey -Sword in the Stone Ceremony that has sadly been REMOVED from WDW Have fun and enjoy your journey through Disneyland with me. The Meandering Mouse #38 – Jedi Academy and Not too Scary Meanderings (10/22/06) 1:25:07 [823] Headphones Suggested I, of course, have more material from Disneyland this week since I was there for 5 full days. Furthermore, I want to roll out as much of the Halloween material I have before it becomes stale. The Halloweentime celebration at Disneyland was a welcome addition to the park experience in my opinion. I'll be back with more Disney World material before you know it. Highlights for this show include: -The New Jedi Training Academy at Tomorrowland Terrace -Main Street Pumpkin Festival -Golden Screams -The Scariest Place in all of Disneyland as experienced by Myself, JohnDUB, and Burnt Toast -Listener Feedback - Earl's last ride on Journey into Imagination Thanks to everyone that has made donations to The Meandering Mouse and The Disney Podcast Network thru the show website! The Meandering Mouse #39 – Park Hauntings and DCA Halloween Meanderings (10/29/06) 1:05:21 [823] Headphones Suggested This show begins with a real life haunted story from Disneyland told by a seasoned cast member. Next, I feature one last live in-the-park meandering from Disneyland before we head back to Walt Disney World in Florida. Join Greg (Micecast / Imagineering My Way) and I in Disneyland's California Adventure one evening as we explore some of the new Halloween decorations around the Hollywood Tower of Terror. Last, what spooky night in the park would be complete without a ride on Monsters. There is a little overlap of the Today I am at Disneyland show (episode 37) as I describe the Esplanade Halloween Decor once again while walking into the park....I provide a little more detail since it was my first time seeing the decor lit at night. The Meandering Mouse #40 – Being a Kid at Disneyland Meanderings (11/5/06) 1:03:04 [823] Headphones A Must I didn't think I was going to put a show out this week. Why? Because the Meandering Mouse is, once again, on the road. This show is being posted from The Walt Disney World Resort as I'm here for a full week! That means we will be starting a run of podcasts taken at WDW before you know it. Even though we are back at Disneyland live once again on this show, you will find this to be quite relaxing and entertaining. I decided to act like a big kid one morning at Disneyland and take in nothing but kiddie rides. Come along with me on a glorious morning at Walt's original park and feel like a child all over again. Highlights include: -Some Amazing Listener Voice Mails -Me getting stopped in the park by a fan of the show -Storybook Canal Boats -Casey Junior -Gadget's Go-Go Coaster -King Arthur's Carousel. The Meandering Mouse #41 – RP – Finding Nemo The Musical REPOST (11/11/06) 43:41 [823] Headphones A Must Repost due to small gap in first posting. Finding Nemo - The Musical began sneak previews this week at Disney's Animal Kingdom. Earl, from Trapped on Vacation, The Bleepin' Wife, and I got a sneak peak of Finding Nemo The Musical at Disney's Animal Kingdom this past week. The show was quite impressive considering it is in "BETA" at the moment. The original music written for the show,the actors, and use of puppetry all worked together very well. I would have to say it is the best live show in the parks I've seen at Disney World and it will only get better as they iron out the wrinkles. Earl will be posting a binaural version of the show so you can also check his out...there will, most likely, be a variation in the sound but you'll have to decide for yourself. I may be wrong but I believe we are the first to podcast this show. Since I'm out on vacation it's hard to keep up with what's going on around the net. Enjoy this sneak peek posted from Walt Disney World. Thanks to everyone that has made donations to The Meandering Mouse and The Disney Podcast Network thru the show website! The Meandering Mouse #42 – Live Animal Kingdom at Night-Food and Wine Meanderings (11/22/06) 1:26:45 [823] Headphones A Must Be Sure to listen to the VERY END of this one. It's time for some live from Walt Disney World Meanderings!! This has to be my all-time favorite live in the park meandering show as it covers Disney's Animal Kingdom at night along with a walk around The World Showcase promenade for some reviews of The Food and Wine Festival. That's right, it's your chance to drink and eat your way around the world with The Meandering Mouse. This show ends with the best recording I've ever captured of Illuminations: Reflections of Earth. It's an wonderful piece of audio that you will really enjoy. At the VERY END of this show you'll hear me get stopped in the park by a fan once again...great stuff!! It was really windy at The Animal Kingdom that night and I was turning my head quite a bit while narrating....I apologize for that but the material more than makes up for it...trust me on this. The Meandering Mouse #43 – Being Goofy, Insane, and Having Fun at WDW Meanderings (12/3/06) 54:26 [823] I'm back in the studio right before I leave town for Mousfest in order to put in a full production of Meandering Mouse goodness! This show is all about some of the weirdest and goofiest sound clips taken at the parks that I could dig up. Highlights Include: -Lots of Meandering Minnie park weirdness and fun in lieu of her birthday this week. -Saul takes two DPN forum members to his special public storage unit. -Disney's version of Borat or The Crazy Russian Guy on Disney's Boardwalk. -Earl and I hustling at Pop Century Resort or the resort I call, "The Disney Dorm Room" (Sorry Scopa Towers Lovers...it's The Disney Dorm Room in my book). Extra thanks to everyone at The DPN Community who has helped prepare everything for Mousefest. I'll see everyone planning to attend down at WDW starting on Thursday the 7th. The Meandering Mouse #44 – Monsters Inc. Laugh Floor Comedy Club (12/12/06) 28:24 [823] Here's a Sneak Preview of Monsters Inc. Laugh Floor Comedy Club at WDW's Magic Kingdom. Posted live from Walt Disney World's Coronado Springs. I was able to catch some of the first sneak previews of Monster's Inc. Laugh Floor Comedy Club here at Walt Disney World's Magic Kingdom today. The imagineers are testing the attraction and working the bugs out. So far, I'd say the attraction is coming along fairly well and is a somewhat welcome addition to The Magic Kingdom. I'm still on the fence as to whether or not it truly fits into Tomorrowland, though. The show uses similar technology seen at Turtle Talk. There are three Monster comedians who take the stage and interact with the audience. The entire show is projected on three different video screens and one screen is used to pick people out of the crowd as they do in Turtle Talk. Cast Members wander the room with a mic to catch guests interacting with the comedians. Each guest interaction and the gags to go with it help fill the laugh canister which resides on the right side of the stage. The theming in the attraction is well done for the most part. The seating area is clever given that it really looks like a comedy club or lounge. They even have small lounge lamps mounted in front of the seats which sometimes flash with the laughs. My only complaint would be the quality of the animation seems to be lacking a bit. Turtle Talk is animated much more fluid and the images on the screen are more vivid. The projections at Laugh Floor appeared washed out a bit. MANY imagineers were on hand for the previews and were standing in the back of the theater throughout the show. They took a small audience survey at the end of the performance to gauge reaction to the new original characters. The Meandering Mouse #45 – Mousefest and Holiday Meanderings (12/22/06) 1:27:03 [823] Headphones Highly Suggested I made it back alive from Mousefest. After spending seven days at Walt Disney World with little sleep, my head is still spinning. Mousefest was an incredible experience filled with memories and time spent with good people. I was also able to grab a lot of fun audio from the gathering. I'll be sharing some of that audio on this show and letting you in on what it was like to be right in the middle of the madness. Last but not least, it's the holiday season and what better way to celebrate than hanging out with the DPN gang at Mickey's Very Merry Christmas Party. Most of The DPN gang along with some friends parked ourselves curbside in the hub of The Magic Kingdom on a chilly evening to take in the amazing Christmas parade. Come gather with us in the holday spirit using your earbuds. As a finale to this show, I present the incredible 4 minute Holiday Illuminations. You'll get to experience the explosive mayhem which caps off Reflections of Earth each night during this special season. My mics actually held up to the assault. It's a Christmas miracle! The Meandering Mouse #47 – Meandering Micecast Recorded at Disneyland (1/16/07) 54:03 [823] The Micecast Disney podcast has consistently been one of my favorite Disney podcasts for a quite some time. If you are familiar with Mike and Greg's show and banter, you are accustomed to their off-the-cuff and tangent filled discussion style. They cover anything Disney and whatever else pops up...sometimes it's insightful, sometimes it's funny, sometimes they talk about nothing remotely close to Disney subject matter, and sometimes it's even off-color and politically incorrect. However, it's always an honest take and a good time. These guys, no doubt, have a passion for the parks. I spoke with Mike from Micecast recently and found out he was heading out of town for a solid week for a family funeral and tend to all the business that comes with such a tough experience. Therefore, I'm presenting this special edition of The Meandering Mouse Podcast in true Micecast style as a tribute to the show and to fill that void which will be left while Mike tends to important family business. This round table discussion took place at Disneyland's Rancho Del Zocalo one crisp Fall evening. Myself, Mike, Greg, and DPN forum member, Burnt Toast, took some time to discuss being part of the Disney cast member family. All three of the guys were Disney cast members at one point in their life. Toast spent around 12 years with the company. I couldn't have thought of a better topic to cover than working as a cast member as I was surrounded with so many friends who have shared the experience. My sympathies go out to Mike and his family this week. This one's for you, my friend. Please stay until the end of the show to play LTAD Jeopardy for your chance to win the T-Shirt which was signed by all the Disney podcasters at Mousefest 2006. The Meandering Mouse #48 – Meandering Minnie Mask Room Madness (1/24/07) 51:06 [823] *Headphones Suggested*To start this episode, I air my grievances over people not understanding why we all enjoy the Disney parks so much. Do you have to field questions when you tell friends and family that you are headed to the parks again? At the parks, we join the Meandering Minnie at Fort Langhorn's Rifle Roost to pick off tourist fashion faux pauxs. Not many people survive the onslaught. Next, find out a little something about WDW horticulturists, visit Norway gone wild, and join us at the Adventurers Club for your last dose of madness in the amazing and enchanting mask room. The Meandering Mouse #49 – Pirate and Princess Party Meanderings (1/31/07) 47:27 [823] You REALLY NEED Headphones for This Show Join me and my buddy Q for the brand new Pirates and Princess Party at The Magic Kingdom in Florida. The main feature of this show is the Magic, Music, and Mayhem Fireworks show. This show was recorded live from the WDW resort and begins at the TTC. You'll follow us into the park, down Main Street USA, and take a quick ride on the TTA before we grab some hot cocoa and enjoy the most amazing fireworks show I've seen in quite some time. This new show doesn't hold the same appeal for me as Illuminations but it is the most impressive fireworks show I've ever seen with the castle as the backdrop. In my opinion, this this was more or as impressive as the Remember Dreams Come True fireworks display at Disneyland. It was great fun and great audio. The Meandering Mouse #50 – WDW Trip Report Meanderings with Q – Rated PG (2/16/07) 1:32:19 [823] Rated PG Well, this show was delayed because I have been slammed with work since I got back from WDW. Heck, I was working while out at the resort that week. Given all this, I have no super special 50th show. However, The Meandering Mouse and The DPN will turn 1 year old this month. I have plans for a celebratory show but I'm going to need some time to get everything together. On this show, I have some important announcements to make. Afterwards, Q and I sit down to talk about our crazy WDW trip as of lately. It was a great time full of first time experiences that, for some reason, involved insane amounts of food. I've always wanted to do a strict trip report show since I enjoy hearing trip reports from other podcasters so much. Well, here's my chance to share a great trip report with all of you! Warning...I'm tagging this with PG as Q and I were cutting up and having a good time talking about our trip. It's all in good fun but a little warning is in order here. The Meandering Mouse #51 – MM and DPN 1 Year Anniversary Special (3/3/07) 1:54:20 [823] The Meandering Mouse podcast and The Disney Podcast Network were conceived a year ago this Feb. It has been an interesting, challenging, and rewarding run so far. Most of all, it has been a lot of fun and has given me the opportunity to interact with so many new people in my life. Both projects have brought me great new friends. Something we all could use more of. Furthermore, being part of bringing so many other good people together has given me so many wonderful feelings. In short, that experience alone has been magical. This show is dedicated to all those people that make both The Meandering Mouse and The DPN a success: The listeners and other Disney podcasters out there. I simply asked people to send in audio clips with whatever content they saw fit. Whether it be a ride-thru made in the parks, a congratulatory remark made in honor of the podcast / network, or something completely goofy, it will be showcased here on this special show. I expect this show to be a long one based on the number of audio files sent to me. Kinda interesting....this show was produced while traveling across the entire country, a huge portion of The Pacific Ocean, and on two different islands which are the most isolated on Earth. The music I used / mixed together with all the segments in order to provide a smooth flow to the show was inspired / chosen by me after I toted my Ipod 37 miles up into an active volcanic crater. The 37 miles you travel to get to the summit of Haleakala in Maui is the greatest elevation gain in shortest distance that you can experience on Earth. I meandered up the mountain and 2.5 miles down into the crater by my lonesome on March 1st. I had my Ipod on the entire time and most of the tracks I experienced on that lonely but fascinating journey were used in my 1 yr anniversary show....inspired to say the least. I sat on the edge of a volcanic cone and stared at the clouds rolling in BELOW me for about an hour....just listening to music and pondering my tiny place in this world while all alone in that desolate, alien-like, but beautiful place. It really made me feel insignificant but, sometimes, you've got to blast down the walls of your ego in order to better yourself and discover your true place on this Earth. Here is the lineup of audio clip submissions in the order as they occur: 1 - Brian Sommer as the UPS man 2 - Intro 3 - Show opener by Jonathan Dicther 4 - Mr. Mark 5 - DPN Gang VM from EPCOT - MattfromPA - Sean (Silvrwolf2006) - Artjaro - Jackey - Kira714 and Family - Steve (steafan) - Barb - Steven - Sean (Silvrwolf2006) 6 - WTTM's Paul Barrie 7 - Gary Chambers - Mouse Lounge 8 - VM - DPN'er Ryan D. 9 - VM - DPN'er NickMonte (Pete) 10 - Lou Mongello 11 - Beyond Main Street 12 - Chris - The Big D Vidcast 13 - Brad from Bringing Disneyland Home Vidcast 14 - Let's Talk About Disney / Bare Necessities Crew 15 - Saul's Sister - DPN'er Patrokls 16 - Brian Sommer 17 - pdxmickey (David B.) - Matterhorn Ride-Thru 18 - Jackie O. The Meandering Mouse #52 – Virtual Tokyo Disneyland and Space Flight Meanderings (3/16/07) 1:01:10 [823] Headphones This week I introduce a new member / guest host of the Meandering Mouse podcast. DPN forum member Doug aka DisneyParkHopper has started to produce some excellent "virtual meandering" tours of the Tokyo Disney Resort just for the Meandering Mouse. This show will feature his first piece which takes you on an amazing sound tour through Tokyo Disneyland. You won't want to miss this one and headphones are a must!! I've also got a ride thru which I truly labored over. Mission Space is one tough attraction to record well but I finally nailed it while Q and I were on a zany space flight to nowhere. This has to be one of my favorite little pieces of audio that I've taken with my buddy Q. It took MANY tries to get this one sounding right. We had the entire space pod to ourselves which left us to carry on like mad while pushing buttons and flipping switches. Fasten your seatbelt. It's a wild ride! The Meandering Mouse #53 – First Unofficial Westfest Meanderings at Disneyland PG (3/28/07) 1:28:57 [823] Show is RATED PG For this show, I dug out all my audio from the first Westfest. This stuff was taken before the little gathering even had a name. My aim here is to let you in on what my experience was like for the very first large gathering of DPN'ers which occurred at Disneyland during the tail end of Summer 2006. You'll actually be along with me via audio as I meet new friends for the very first time, take crazy rides with crazy people, generally get to know strange Internet people, and have a bunch of fun. This is meant to be your Westfest primer as The DPN's first officially organized park event will be occurring this April. As the founder of The DPN, I'll share my personal thoughts and feelings of what I feel Westfest should be after experiencing many in park meets with A LOT of DPN'ers. Remember, your Westfest experience, if you are planning to attend, will help shape the event. Even if you are not attending, this show will give you the experience as well as I can provide it through the magic of audio and editing. We will also get to compare the first tiny Westfest with what promises to be a much larger and more significant gathering this year since everyone will be coming back from this year's event with much audio to share on their podcasts. Here are some features included in this show: -Burnt / Bitter Toast verbally abuses me -My first time meet with DPN'er JohnDUB -JohnDUB and I meet DPN'er Coco Wireless in the park. -Myself, JohnDUB, and Coco Wireless take a ride on Indiana Jones. -My first time meet with DPN'er MouseketeerGreg. -Mike from Micecast and MouseketeerGreg and show me something dirty. -Toast and I do a live Restroom Refurb Review in Fantasyland. -Mike from Micecast takes me on a hot date on Autopia. -I meet with Paul Barrie and crew. -The Drunken DPN Heimlich Chew Chew Train Ride - 11 DPN'ers fill a pirates boat at park close. The Meandering Mouse #54 – Virtual Tokyo DISNEYSEA Meanderings (4/11/07) 1:21:33 [823] Headphones a MustOne of the newest members of The Meandering Mouse, Doug aka DisneyParkHopper, is back with another awesome production which will transport you to what is arguably the most detailed and elaborate Disney theme park on Earth: Tokyo's DisneySea!!! Through the magic of sound and your own imagination you'll be put right in the middle of the park for the grand tour starting with a ride around Tokyo Bay on the monorail to the park's station. Can't make the trek to Tokyo yourself? Well, here's your chance to travel to the park....virtually. Headphones are a must for this experience. The virtual Tokyo meanderings completed by Doug will serve as an excellent primer and introduction for my actual meanderings to be taken at the Tokyo parks. Yup! The Meandering Mouse will be headed to the Tokyo Disneyland Resort in June of 2007 and I'll be sharing my experience with you! Next week, I'll be introducing a new segment which will become a regular for The Meandering Mouse Podcast. That's right! I have yet another addition to The Meandering Mouse team. The Penny Press, produced by DPN'ers ProudMonkey and HaleobyDesign, presents real Disney news presented in a style completely unique to the Disney pod-o-sphere. When I say unique, I mean unique. It's funny in the style of SNL / The Daily Show, smart, a bit sarcastic, under 10 mins long, and, most importantly, flat and worthless. With all the new and unique additions to The Meandering Mouse Podcast, this promises to be an exciting 2nd year for the show. Have fun and enjoy! The Meandering Mouse #55 – REPOST – Flat and Worthless DL Meanderings (4/23/07) 1:13:08 [823] *REPOSTED RatedPG Headphones Suggested On this somewhat sarcastic episode of The Meandering Mouse, I take you along with me as I discover some of those "not so awesome" attractions and park moments around The Disneyland Resort. You know, those things in the park that simply leave you feeling flat and worthless kinda how those souvenir Penny Presses leave your hard earned money feeling. Not to worry though....I do leave you with some park sounds that are sure to make you feel fat and sassy. Afterall, it can't all be bad. To end the show, I feature a new segment for The Meandering Mouse which showcases the real meaning behind this week's show title. I am honored to have DPN'ers ProudMonkey and Haleobydesign on board as the creators of the phrase, "flat and worthless" and the talent behind The Penny Press. The Penny Press is a 10 minute romp through real Disney news done in the sarcastic style of Saturday Night Live's Weekend Update / The Daily Show. They aren't trying to present the Disney news in a timely and dry fashion as we are used to hearing it. Rather, The Penny Press delivers the Disney news to you the only way they know how, "Flat and Worthless." Wow, there's that phrase again. Look for t-shirts soon ;) Please provide ProudMonkey and Haleobydesign with feedback over their segment. They are very focused on making the audience happy with their production efforts and request that all feedback be posted to the DPN show thread so they can field it. All feedback they get will only help the segment get better. Thanks as always for the support guys and gals! Please visit www.myfavoritemouse.com for all you Disney travel needs. The Meandering Mouse #56 – Disneyland Dark Ride Suite and Westfest Meanderings (5/6/07) 1:37:22 [823] *HEADPHONES A MUST FOR THIS ONE - Rated PG This show features my classic styled in park meanderings taken live during my Disneyland Westfest trip. I literally had less than 4 hours in the parks alone over the course of 7 days due to all the social engagements at Westfest. I gathered very little usable audio. However, one morning, I used my 3 day Parkhopper for early morning entry into Disneyland and I take you along for the entire Fantasyland Dark Ride Suite and a little more. Afterwards, I meander over to The DPN's Westfest first scheduled event for the 07 gathering....the meet and greet at Plaza Gardens. The Meandering Mouse #57 – EPCOT Meanderings of Fish, Food, and Awful Performers (5/19/07) 57:47 [823] *All In Park Audio - HEADPHONES A MUST FOR THIS ONE This is a live at the park meandering taken at the Walt Disney World Resort. Join me early in the morning as we make our way from the hotel into EPCOT for fish, food, and some of the worst live performers at the entire resort. The last statement is just my opinion, though. You can form your own after spending the morning at EPCOT with me. Features: -Cruising around the resort from Pop Century to EPCOT -The Seas with Nemo and Friends without that radio personality guy who was with me last time -An awful but funny run-in with a live in the park music act -My first experience on Living with the Land with no life (post boat skippers) Please visit www.myfavoritemouse.com for all you Disney travel needs. The Meandering Mouse #58 – The Height of American Decadence Meanderings (6/1/07) 59:21 [823] RATED PG Welcome one and all to Summer 2007!!! Please keep in mind as you listen to the pleasurable Meandering Mouse Meanderings this Summer that the Disney parks are "The Height of American Decadence!" No more, no less. Ahh, gotta love tourist cattle mumbo jumbo...does it make any sense? Not really! This show is all about having some fun and laughs as we kick off a new Summer season here at The Meandering Mouse. Join me and my buddy Q at Walt Disney World for some in the park madness. Things are topped off by another edition of The Penny Press. Your Disney news delivered to you the only way Coq Blockley knows how: Flat and Worthless. The Meandering Mouse #59 – Odd Tokyo Shops and CattleMover Virtual Meanderings (6/19/07) 1:10:50 [823] As my send off to a far, far away land and the mysteries of The Orient, join Doug (aka DisneyParkHopper) on another virtual journey thru Tokyo. This time he takes us to a somewhat benign area of The Tokyo Disneyland Resort: Ikspiari. His soundseeing adventure will take on a creative twist and is sure to entertain. Enjoy your tour of "Shops Lost in Translation." To end the show, join Doug on a tour of a beloved extinct attraction: Disneyland's Peoplemover. Doug's tour quickly gets derailed by an old friend. This segment was produced for the Westfest Banquet Dinner. However, the sound system at the event choked during playback. Therefore, I am presenting it here on The Meandering Mouse in quality sound since it wasn't

Meandering Mouse Club TV - Disney Park Video Adventures from Around the World! This very special episode was filmed at Tokyo's Disneyland park and features the quite new Electrical Parade called Dream Lights. This was the most amazing electrical parade I've laid eyes on, includes the latest technology, and has that wonderful soundtrack we all know and love: Baroque Hoedown. This is a parade nether myself Joel, Saul, or Beaker will never forget. Join us on this episode of Meandering Mouse Club TV for a night time adventure in a far off land! Produced in association with Frikitiki Productions. Filmed at Tokyo Disneyland June 2007. Many thanks to Joel aka Coconut Wireless on The DPN forums for all his hard work in Tokyo and Hong Kong as we both did our best to document the parks overseas. The Meandering Mouse #62 – Tokyo Trip Report Meanderings – PART 1 (7/15/07) 1:29:50 [823] Round Table Discussion - PART 1 - DisneySea. Join myself and two very special guests as we provide a trip report of The Meandering Mouse tour of the Tokyo Disney Resort. Joel / Coconut Wireless from MMCTV and Jesse from The Mousepod podcast join in on this round table discussion which tells the tale of our overseas journey to some fascinating Disney parks. Mr. Mousepod himself makes a perfect addition to the conversation as he is a two time visitor of the Tokyo parks. Jesse's perspective livens things up a bit as he relates to my experience along with Joel's. This show had to be split into two parts as it ran close to 4 hours. Part 2 of the report will be posted one week after this episode has posted and will cover Tokyo Disneyland. I've had a ton of emails pour in with people asking to hear a personal take on our travels. The Meandering Mouse #64 – Round the World Disney Park Meanderings (7/29/07) 1:27:10 [823]
Headphones Highly Suggested On this very special show, I feature in park audio from almost every Disney Park location on Earth taken directly by The Meandering Mouse team. Meandering Mouse crew member, DisneyParkHopper, is fresh off the plane from Disneyland Paris with some great quality ride-thrus from the parks. I, of course, have a ton of great stuff from Tokyo and plan on mixing things up with new audio from Disneyland in California and Walt Disney World in Florida. I haven't done housekeeping for 4 shows so please be patient as I make some important announcements at the start of the show. I appreciate it! Highlights: -Tokyo Tiki Room of Power (My favorite audio piece from Tokyo) - Disneyland in California's Tiki Room with whacky commentary and a gorgeous sing-a-long by Burnt Toast -Disneyland Paris' Phantom Manor Ride-Thru Recorded by Doug aka DisneyParkHopper just days ago -Quenton and I enjoy some adult beverages and take a ride on Disney World's Primeval Whirl (otherwise known as mistake #432) Here's your chance to take a whirlwind trip around the Disney parks in style as I celebrate my audience in appreciation of the recent Podcast Awards nomination for The Meandering Mouse. MMCTV EP0105 – Hong Kong Meanderings / Video tour (8/31/07) 36:51 [823] Meandering Mouse Club TV - Disney Park Video Adventures from Around the World! n this episode of Meandering Mouse Club TV join Joel, Coconut Wireless from the DPN boards and the man behind Frikitiki productions, as he explores Disney's newest Asia park: Hong Kong Disneyland. Starting along Main Street USA and heading into Fantasyland, take in the sights before heading over to Adventureland that has been captured and over run by pirates. See how the pirates have "decorated" the place now that they now control. Maybe a jungle river cruise will relax us first before we attempt to get past more pirates to get back to the safety of Main Street USA. To hear more details of Hong Kong Disneyland and Joel's trip there, check out The Meandering Mouse Podcast EP#65 where he, Jeff from Houston, and Jesse from Mousepod have a discussion about the trip. This video will serve as the perfect video companion to that podcast. For detailed photos taken at both the Asian parks, please visit The DPN Flickr photo group by going to www.thedpn.com. You will find some interesting shots of the parks by user's coconut wireless and meanderingmouse. Also, join us at The DPN where we have a new forum section devoted to the overseas parks. The Meandering Mouse #66 – Celebrating 25 Years of EPCOT Meanderings (9/11/07) 1:44:08 [823] The MM Show is Made for Headphones EPCOT is a theme park like no other on earth and is celebrating it's 25th year this Fall. Disney saw fit not to greet this landmark with fanfare typical of this type of event in the parks so we in the Disney fan community have chosen to acknowledge the EPCOT legacy on our own. This edition of The Meandering Mouse will reflect upon EPCOT's story. Millions of people from around the world have graced it's pavement and attractions over the last 25 years and the park has an interesting history to present. In this show, I will reflect upon EPCOT along with sharing my personal thoughts and feelings over the park in celebration of it's birthday. Special guests for this show will be doing the same: -Lou Mongello from WDW Radio shares what makes the park special for him -DPN'er and MMCTV producer, Joel (Coconut Wireless), shares many details about his stint as a cast member working at EPCOT back in it's golden years of the late 80's. -DPN'er Artjaro shares his thoughts and feelings over the park as a former cast member at the Disney resort. As the main feature of the show, Doug aka Disneyparkhopper has prepared a spectacular "backstage meandering" through spaceship earth. We look at the backstory, history, and evolution of spaceship earth. The beginning of this piece will also present some EPCOT history since Spaceship Earth is the icon of this 25 year old theme park jewel. The Meandering Mouse #67 – Live from Tokyo Disneyland Halloween Meanderings (9/29/07) 1:00:26 [823] Headphones a must for this one - Uncompressed and untouched audio captured using a new recording rig which is ultra sensitive Join my buddy Q and I as we meander into Tokyo Disneyland for Q's first experience at the park. This show starts slowly as we make our way into the park and provide you with an audio experience of what it's like to make your way thru the Tokyo transportation system to the park. But, no doubt, exciting things lie ahead! Highlights include: - Experience one of Disney's most impressive attractions with us for the first time: Pooh's Hunny Hunt -In celebration of our vacation, we take you along for a hilarious version of The Country Bear's Vacation Jamboree in Japanese. Just Wow! -The Show ends with Tokyo Disney's 2007 Halloween Parade. A really impressive and fun parade to enjoy for the season. Please visit www.myfavoritemouse.com for all you Disney travel needs. MMCTV EP0107 – Huli Huli Bash Parade - Tokyo Disneyland (10/18/07) 6:34 [823] Meandering Mouse Club TV - Disney Park Video Adventures from Around the World! Tokyo Disneyland Summer 2007 special park event / overlay. Stitch's Huli Huli Bash Parade. Produced in association with Frikitiki Productions. There was a lot of talk on the Meandering Mouse Podcast about the Tokyo Disneyland Stitch park overlay that happened during the MM crew's trip to the Tokyo Disney Resort in June. Well, this episode of Meandering Mouse Club TV presents the centerpiece attraction of the Summer 2007 celebration at Tokyo Disneyland. Join Stitch and all his friends in the Huli Huli Bash Parade at Tokyo Disneyland. Tokyo takes it's themed park events very serious and this special parade gives you a taste of these special happenings which occur year round at the Tokyo Disney Resort. I may not be a fan of Stitch but Tokyo Disneyland does park overlays like no other Disney park on the globe. They go all out several times a year. Enjoy! Since Halloween fell on a Wednesday this year, they were giving the weekender's one last chance to celebrate Halloween after the actual holiday took place. Well, here's your chance to meander along with me as I experience not so scary ghosts, goblins, and ghouls for the first time as it was my first Mickey's Not So Scary. I also experienced the all new Haunted Mansion for the first time and you will be along for that. Be sure to visit the ALL NEW DPN website and get yourself registered!!! The Meandering Mouse #69 – Jeff n Q Wreck Disneysea and Penny Meanderings (11/21/07) 1:19:00 [823] PG-13 WARNING Headphones R Good! Happy Turkey Day for Those Listeners that Celebrate the Holiday! We start this show with an oldie but goodie edition of The Penny Press. In fact, I think it's the funniest one the guys have produced as they answer an actual DPN'er email during IMHO. Be forewarned though, this one is a little edgy. PG-13 for sure. Soooo, open your mind, your ears, and just freakin laugh or I'll sic monkey on yo bottom. Next up, follow Q and I into Tokyo Disneysea as Q gets his first taste of the Tokyo parks. This is an odd meandering because the commentary was completely natural and, uhh, almost silent. Q had lost his ability to speak once he walked into Disneysea and rightfully so. Disneysea is the type of place that truly knocks the wind out of you when you first see it. So expect this meandering to start off a but slow as we move into the park. You'll get to enjoy some of the ambiance with us and laugh at Q when he starts sounding drunk and unable to form sentences. After the initial walk into the park, you'll come along for the following: -An Inebriated dunk on 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea with Equally Drunk Sea Monkey Aliens -Q's first ride on one of my very favorite Tokyo Disney attractions - Sinbad's Storybook Voyage To end the show, we continue with another edition of the Penny Press because I don't want monkey pooping on my lawn for falling behind. The Meandering Mouse #70 – Walt Disney Studios PARIS Trip Report (12/12/07) 1:13:33 [823] The MM Show is Made for Headphones Looking for a break from all the Mousefest audio out there? Well, look no further than The Meandering Mouse for something different...as always ;) Proud member of The Meandering Mouse Production Team Doug, aka DisneyParkHopper, turns in an excellent trip report from his journey to the Walt Disney Studios at the Disneyland Paris Resort. This report is full of live sounds Doug personally took at the park and his own personal take on the experience...a must listen and darn interesting material for those of us who haven't made it to the Paris resort as of yet. The Meandering Mouse #71 – Very Merry Re-Imagined Spaceship Earth Meanderings (12/19/07) 1:07:57 [823] Made for Headphones This show will post live from the Walt Disney World resort in Florida. I flew down for a few days to check out the re-imagined Spaceship Earth while it is in it's preview phase. Of course, the holidays are in full swing here at Disney World so I took in Mickey's Very Merry Christmas party at The Magic Kingdom. I take you all along with myself and DPN'er Superdry as we make our way into the park for the party and experience Holiday Wishes. The show closes with our first ride on the new Spaceship Earth. I can easily tell they have much to do in order to finish the job but it's coming along nicely and I enjoyed it. Enjoy! MMCTV EP0109 – MVMCP Christmas Parade (12/21/07) 25:17 [823] Meandering Mouse Club TV - Disney Park Video Adventures from Around the World! Asia Disney Park Funkyness. Produced in association with Frikitiki Productions. Mickey's Very Merry Christmas Parade from Walt Disney World in Florida. In this episode, sit back and grab a seat for Mickey's Once Upon A Christmas Time Parade held during Mickey's Very Merry Christmas Party in Walt Disney World in Florida. As we wait for the parade to get to our location in Frontierland, let's take a look at some of the Christmas decorations and details from around the resort. From the Polynesian, to the Studios, Animal Kingdom Lodge and other sites, it really is a Very Merry Christmas across the Walt Disney World resort =) . After the parade, let's take a little bit of a stroll down Main Street USA and take in the activities and lights and atmosphere. It was cool with Christmas carols blasting out all over the park! We have another contest. Watch the video for contest details for which episode to seek the secret phrase. The prize will be the Simba mask and Lion King Hawaii pin picked up during the Lion King's run in Hawaii. The pin were exclusive to this run of the play and the masks can only be purchased at the play. Enjoy! The Meandering Mouse #72 – Meanderings thru Disneyland At Christmas Time (12/25/07) 1:12:55 [823] Made for Headphones Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays to all you Meandering Mouse listeners. Releasing on Dec. 25th, 2007, enjoy this new podcast as a Meandering Mouse Christmas gift tucked neatly under your tree. Thanks for a wonderful year of podcasting and fun over on thedpn.com. In this special holiday episode of virtual meanderings, join Doug on a wonderful sound experience through the Disneyland resort during the holiday season. The holidays are truly a special time to visit the Disney parks. We've experienced an evening at Walt Disney World's Very Merry Christmas party and now we travel over to the left coast to spend an entire day at Disneyland taking in all that the original Magic Kingdom has to offer for Christmas. Get those coats and headphones on because you're going to Disneyland for Christmas! Highlights include: Haunted Mansion Holidays Small World Holiday New Sleeping Beauty Castle Lighting Ceremony Disneyland's Christmas Fantasy Parade Believe in Holiday Magic Fireworks Spectacular Wishing you all the best this holiday season along with a great start to the new year. The Meandering Mouse #73 – Backstage PeopleMover Meanderings (1/20/08) 1:16:18 [823] Made for Headphones Since the Meandering Mouse has some life changing tasks on his plate to deal with right now, Doug, aka DisneyParkHopper on the DPN forums, has stepped up to the plate to fill in with some more great material. You'll hear from the ole' Meandering Mouse in the intro as usual, but Doug takes on the meat and potatoes here. During this episode of The Meandering Mouse, you will get the full facts on Disneyland's now extinct PeopleMover. Doug tried to cover this attraction last year but was insanely de-railed by an unsuspecting and overly enthusiastic tourist. Enjoy the history and magic of this missed attraction as Doug masterfully guides you through an informative and entertaining soundscape of Disneyland's beloved PeopleMover. Have fun and enjoy! The Meandering Mouse #74 – EPCOT Evening Meanderings (2/1/08) 51:06 [823] PG Made for Headphones Flight delays threw me for a loop and my arrival day at WDW didn't turn out as I had planned for this live show. I was surprised I even made it into the parks before they closed the place for the night. However, I did turn out a recording and mange to post it about 4 hours after it was made here at Walt Disney World. Meander along with me as I enter EPCOT's World Showcase via the Boardwalk and enjoy Mo' Rockin and Illuminations. MMCTV EP0110 – Hong Kong DL Festival of the Lion King (2/20/08) 34:57 [823] Meandering Mouse Club TV - Disney Park Video Adventures from Around the World! Asia Disney Park Funkyness. Produced in association with Frikitiki Productions. It's been a little while, but here it is, a new episode of Meandering Mouse Club TV! You've seen the show on Broadway or traveling around the country. Maybe you've seen the adaptation at Disney's Animal Kingdom, well now you have a chance to see in this episode the Festival of the Lion King show as presented in Hong Kong Disneyland. Your favorite Lion King characters come to life to tell the story with life size puppets, flame effects, beautiful costumes and tons of dancers. A different show than you'll see in the US. For the contest, find the secret phrase from EP0106 within the DPN forums. Send the date and time of the post to mmctvpodcast @ gmail.com. Not looking for the phrase, you need to search the forums for the phrase surrounded by asterisks (*) as posted by Coconut Wireless or Meandering Mouse. Entries must be received by Saturday, March 8 at 11:59pm HST The prize is the key chain from Hong Kong Disneyland that has the castle in the background. Appreciate your feedback. The Meandering Mouse #77 – Disneyland Paris Meanderings (4/10/08) 1:12:49 [823] Made for Headphones The Meandering Mouse has been buried in moving boxes for the past few weeks. Thus, Jeff from Houston is on hiatus. Luckily, Doug turns in another amazing sound seeing experience as he shares with us his recent Disneyland Paris experience full of his personal audio from the park. This show will only contain Doug's audio production...no intro by me...no audio bumpers...we just get on with the show. Thanks for the patience as I deal with a major change in my life. -Jeff from Houston * In this episode Doug (aka DisneyParkHopper) concludes his trip report from visiting the Disneyland Paris Resort last summer. This time, he will cover the Disneyland Paris Park. This trip report will include plenty of ambient park audio and audio sightseeing commentary. It will also include full ride thrus of the Fantasyland suite, as well as pirates of the Caribbean and phantom manor. The Meandering Mouse #78 – Full Circle First Steps into Disneyland Meanderings (5/7/08) 1:21:16 [823] Made for Headphones PG-13 WARNING The Meandering Mouse is back with a bang after being on hiatus for a handful of weeks! The MM show and The DPN all started with an email to the Trapped on Vacation podcast. I wrote in telling the host, now known as Earl, that I would be taking my first steps into Disneyland and would experiment by sending him some audio of my experience. He played the audio of my first steps into the park and my podcasting adventure began. Soon after that, I founded The Disney Podcast Network. We now come full circle just before The DPN's Westfest 2008 begins with myself following Earl and his Bleepin' Wife into Disneyland as they take their very first steps down Main Street. The reactions are captured here and I won't soon forget the moment I had with my close friends. Earl was recording his experience as well so you will hear him narrating his show as I narrate mine. It's quite interesting if not a bit odd. I also throw in some highlights of meeting up with a large number of DPN'ers for the first time during this year's Westfest. There are good vibes all around as I'm re-united with friends right before almost a dozen of us take a ride on The Matterhorn. The show closes with my experience on Disneyland's submarine voyage with a few fellow DPN'ers. Produced in association with Frikitiki Productions. Well, there has been some feedback that asked to show more of the Hong Kong park. Join me as we walk from the park's entry sign up through Sleeping Beauty's castle. We make a short stop into the exhibit in the Opera House. What was interesting about the display is that Disney is a new entity in that part of the world. While we grew up with Disney, they didn't so the Opera House is set up to tell guests about Disney the man and the Company. You'll see the two shows and some of the displays inside. I hope you enjoy the show! For the contest, I'm making it really simple. In the video I talk in front of a water feature, tell me who it is in the feature and what they are on. Send your answer to mmctvpodcast (at) gmail.com by 11:59pm HST on Saturday, June 14, 2008. The

from the show on public display outside of the area of the concert hall where they were performing. You'll get to see them close up. For show feedback you can send e-mail to mmctvpodcast at gmail.com. If you would like to support Meandering Mouse Club TV and the DPN, you can use the paypal links on either http://www.meanderingmouse.com or http://www.thedpn.com websites. The Meandering Mouse #80 – Jeff, Q, and Superdry's Tokyo Adventures (Trip report) (6/17/08) 2:41:52 [823] RATED PG - Made for Headphones My good buddy Quenton (Q) and I visited Tokyo for 9 days about 8 months ago. We, of course, spent some good time at the Tokyo Disney resort but also had many weird and wonderful experiences across the Tokyo landscape. We share a somewhat rambling day to day account of our adventures but tie in our experience with staying at The Mira Costa, one of Disney's most luxurious resorts (if not the most luxurious), with DPN'er Superdry's odd letter writing bout with the same hotel. Superdry loves The Mira Costa but has one huge problem with the place. Quenton and I discovered the same problem which led to one the wackiest nights out on the streets of Japan. I am even pretty sure we terribly broke the law by accident. Superdry's first letter of concern and return correspondence with the The Mira Costa occurred a full year ago. A promise was made to occur one year later so he sent another follow-up letter this year. Yesterday Superdry received another letter from the Japanese people at the hotel. The letter has remained unopened until the recording of a segment to be included in this show. We head to one of Houston's weirdest Japanese Karaoke bars called Genji, have some Japanese beers, record Superdry's story, and finally open the letter he received via air mail to see what their response to the second of his zany letters may be. This will be an interesting and long show. Thanks to everyone that has made donations to The Meandering Mouse and The Disney Podcast Network thru the website! The Meandering Mouse #81 – Bonus Content – Saul Takes on Tokyo (6/20/08) 12:18 [823] Made for Headphones Join our old friend Saul, the overly enthusiastic and optimistic tourist, out at Tokyo Disneyland as he spends quality time with his Uncle Coconut. Real simple...We find our odd tourist out at Tokyo Disneyland with his Uncle Coconut. Uncle Coconut tries to sell Saul some prime real estate in the form of a Haunted Mansion and let's just say that I don't think the moving van ever made it to Saul's joint after his tour of the spooky house. Shenanigans and ridiculousness of the highest order....you have been warned. Thanks to everyone that has made donations to The Meandering Mouse and The Disney Podcast Network thru the website! The Meandering Mouse #82 – Retrospective of Rockets and Alien Encounters (6/27/08) 1:28:58 [823] Made for Headphones Doug aka DisneyParkHopper turns in another behind the scenes look at Disney attractions or what we like to call backstage meanderings: From DisneyParkHopper: In this Backstage Meandering, I take you through the history of two similar locations in Disneyland and the Magic Kingdom at Walt Disney World. We look at the space currently occupied by Redd Rocket's Pizza Port and Stitch's Great Escape. The history of these locations can be traced all the way back to the opening of Disneyland. So, come with me as we use ride audio and audio from television specials to explore A Retrospective of Rockets and Alien Encounters. Have fun on your trip! The Meandering Mouse #83 – Arriving in Tokyo and live BraviSEAmo Meanderings (7/6/08) 1:51:52 [823] HEADPHONES A MUST FOR THIS ONE - TRUST ME - UNCOMPRESSED On this show, I start with a simple stream of consciousness taken in the bathroom of a Boeing 777 while crossing the Pacific Ocean heading for Japan. We then journey from Narita airport to Maihama station as we make our way to the most fascinating Disney park on Earth. Tokyo DisneySEA. Meander with me jet lagged and lost in translation as I make my way through my Tokyo arrival day. The show finale presents a pristine live recording of DisneySEA's night time spectacular BraviSEAmo which I've been trying to capture successfully during all my travels to Tokyo...it just never worked out the way I wanted it to until this presentation. This is your chance to follow me as I cross the globe using planes, trains, and 4 wheeled luggage. It's exciting, it's an adventure, and I'm happy to share it with all of you. HEADPHONE HEADPHONES HEADPHONES!!!! I haven't compressed a thing on this piece and it won't sound nearly as good without proper imaging. Have fun on your trip! MMCTV EP0202 – Sindbad's Storybook Voyage (7/15/08) 18:34 [823] Meandering Mouse Club TV - Disney Park Video Adventures from Around the World! Tokyo DisneySEA's Sinbad's Storybook Voyage. Video taken in June 2007. Produced in association with Frikitiki Productions. At Toyko DisneySEA, there an attraction that I consider to be one of my favorite attractions across all of the nine Disney parks that I have visited globally. In the Arabian Coast section of the park is Sindbad's Storybook Voyage. It's a boat ride like Pirates of the Caribbean or Small World and some people have compared it to Small World. The comparison ends at it being a boat ride, though. While it might look like small dolls, they are full animatronic figures with great motion capabilities. When Jeff and I visited in June 2007, the ride had just come off of rehab. The imagineers had given the attraction a new storyline. Alan Menken of "Little Mermaid" along with Glen Slater created the song "Compass of your Heart" which follows you throughout your voyage with SIndbad and his loyal tiger cub, Chandu. I was fully captivated by the ride. Mermaids, genies, thugs, giant birds, dancing monkeys...this attraction has it all! It is fully original, the song is catchy, the sets are detailed, and the animatronic figures are amazing (just watch for the belly dancers!). Too bad they didn't sell Chandu plushes. Before we take the ride, you get to see some of the Oasis area of the Arabian Coast that is next to the Lost River Delta. This area was seen briefly in MMCTV EP0111, Musica Mexicana. Playing in the background is the Port Theme Song for the Arabian Coast which is taken from the Tokyo DisneySEA 5th Anniversary Music Album CD. (http://www.amazon.com/Tokyo-Disney-Sea-Anniversary-Celebration/dp/B000GPIHQ8).

Special thanks to Jeff for letting me use some of his pictures of the attraction in the video. I hope you enjoy this trip into Sindbad's Storybook Voyage. Please rate the podcast at I-Tunes. The Meandering Mouse #84 – Tokyo Honey, Haunted, and Splash Mt. Meanderings (7/23/08) 1:10:49 [823] HEADPHONES STRONGLY RECOMMENDED NEWS Head over to The DPN and pay a visit to our newest official DPN podcaster. I'd like to welcome Keegan from The Adventures of a Teenage Disney Geek Podcast to The DPN Roster. Tokyo Disneyland Morning Meandering Photos Taken by The Meandering Mouse in Tokyo - found at http://www.flickr.com/photos/meanderingmouse - Check them out! This show will open with an in-park recording of Tokyo's special 25th Anniversary Theme Song. I was captivated by this song during my entire Tokyo Disney experience. They played this song throughout the parks on many occasions especially after parades and shows. Unfortunately, the CD single of this song I purchased in the park came only in Japanese and doesn't sound nearly as enchanting. The clapping you hear is coming from guests as each of the Fab Five passes in front of Lido Isle on floats to conclude DisneySEA's Legend of Mythica. Listen closely to the girl FREAKING OUT when Minnie waved to her. It was an oddly funny moment and insight into how serious the Japanese are over the Disney Characters. And for the main portion of the show....Join myself, Superdry, and Matt from Dallas for a relaxing morning at Tokyo Disneyland. We first take in, arguably, one of Disney's best attractions with Pooh's Hunny Hunt. Then we head over to the Haunted Mansion which is oddly located in Fantasyland along with Pooh. To finish things off, we take in my favorite version of Splash Mountain in Tokyo's Critter Country. Overall, it's a well-rounded offering of Tokyo e-ticket attractions. The Meandering Mouse #85 – EPCOT Wonders of Life Virtual Meandering / Retrospective (8/2/08) 1:21:27 [823] Join Doug aka DisneyParkHopper for another look back at a classic EPCOT Attraction that has since closed its doors. As usual, you will get behind the scenes facts and great audio from the pavilion and attractions inside. One of my favorite and most underrated Disney attractions, Cranium Command, is featured on this show: From Doug: In this show, we take a virtual meander through a now extinct pavilion - and it's not Horizons. This pavilion is used for special events and exhibits, but its original form was truly one of fun and learning. So, come with me as we visit Goofy About Health, Body Wars, Cranium Command and others in this virtual meander through the now extinct pavilion from Epcot Center - The Wonders Of Life. The Meandering Mouse #86 – Adventures Under the DisneySEA (8/17/08) 1:34:36 [823] Headphones are a Must - Uncompressed Audio which is hard to hear without proper dynamics Tokyo DisneySEA - These are the Days! Join myself, DPN'er Superdry, and Matt from Dallas as we meander around Tokyo's DisneySEA one morning. This show features a journey to the park aboard the Resort Liner, a Journey Into the Center of the Earth, and a journey under the sea with Ariel and friends. It took me 3 trips to Tokyo to finally experience one of the top stage shows at the resort. Join me and my friends at DisneySEA's Mermaid Lagoon Theater as we experience "Liquid Theater." To be truthful, I didn't expect much from the Mermaid Lagoon Theater. As per usual at the Tokyo Disney Resort, I was pleasantly surprised. What I found inside was one of the most impressive special effects oriented stage shows Disney has ever produced. The costumes were stunning, the stage rigging and props were beyond impressive, and the sound was filled with live singing by Ariel herself. Overall, it was a wonderful morning at DisneySEA and you are along for the ride. As a bonus, I've thrown in 2 more ride thrus in this show: DisneySEA's Tower of Terror 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea Website at: www.meanderingmouse.com Email: podcast@meanderingmouse.com Discuss at The Disney Podcast Network: www.thedpn.com

You'll follow me from my home in Houston, through the airports, a strange stop on the East Coast, and all the way over to the Magic Kingdom for a grand circle railroad ride with friends. There's something special about being spontaneous in this life and I take you guys along for the weird ride. For me, this has been the best day ever that I spent at a Disney park. It was a totally relaxed day. Even though I did a lot, it wasn't a totally blow out rushed day. I love the streetmosphere over at Disney MGM Studios, now the Disney Hollywood Studios and some of my funnest experiences are captured here. Starting at the Studios, going over to Epcot and then finishing up at the Polynesian, this was just an awesome day.

I hope you enjoyed hanging out with me on my Mousefest 2007 trip experience. Date: Tuesday, December 11, 2007. I just returned from a trip to Disneyland during the Christmas season. After being to both locations for the US parks, Disney is special, but while they are decorated for Christmas and the holidays it's a whole new experience. I would encourage you to check out either Orlando or Anaheim during December. Sharing that experience with other Disney fans during an event like Mousefest just makes you want to go WOW! Speaking of being with other Disney fans, mark April 30 thru May 3, 2009 to be at the DPN Westfest event at the place where it all started, Disneyland in Anaheim, California. The Meandering Mouse #93 – Meandering Around, Around, and Around (3/18/09) 2:00:14 [823] Headphones suggested Meandering Around, Around, and Around Join Doug (DisneyParkHopper) as he explores one of the original attractions from the 1964-65 world's fair. In this episode we will doing another backstage meandering - this time through the Carousel of Progress. We will venture from the the world's fair to Disneyland and finally to Walt Disney World as we experience this attraction through the decades. Have fun and Enjoy! Website at: www.meanderingmouse.com Email: podcast@meanderingmouse.com Discuss at The Disney Podcast Network: www.thedpn.com

The Meandering Mouse #94 – Meandering Mouse and Superdry's Tokyo Retrospective (4/12/09) 3:12:44 [823] Headphones suggested This is a MEGA TRIP REPORT done by myself and Superdry which includes live audio taken in Tokyo spliced into the format. This baby clocks in at over 3 hrs in length. The Meandering Mouse has been on hiatus. What better way to get back into the swing of things than with a heavy dose of Meandering goodness. This show serves as a trip report for my July of 2008 Tokyo trip but was recorded live in Tokyo as of this posting. We wanted to share our experiences of our last trip as we embarked upon a new one. Superdry and I talk about every day we spent in Tokyo during the Summer of 2008 in great detail while I include audio taken from the trip. So, join us in our discussion and experience the fun with us through the magic of audio. You'll enjoy train rides in Tokyo proper, Taxi rides, and even an interview with a Tokyo Disney fan website creator. This show is packed with interesting material and I think you'll really enjoy it. Look forward to more audio as I complete my Disney park world tour within the next week. Have fun and Enjoy! The Meandering Mouse #95 – Meandering Mouse and Joel's PARIS Retrospective (6/9/09) 3:14:16 [823] Headphones suggested Before getting to my Hong Kong Disneyland in park audio experience, I wanted to catch up and do a proper trip report with Joel in regards to our Paris journey. This trip saw me completing 10 of the 11 Disney parks worldwide while Joel fulfilled his dream of visiting all 11 of the Disney parks around the globe. During this LONG show (3+ hrs), we go through a day by day account of both our Paris city adventures and, of course, our Disneyland Paris Resort adventures. We review attractions, meals, go over travel tips, and offer our perspective up over what was one long, challenging, but amazing journey. I splice in a few audio clips from the parks to spice things up. Check out The Meandering Mouse Flickr Stream for photo sets of Paris and The Disneyland Paris Resort: http://www.flickr.com/photos/meanderingmouse/ And Joel's Flickr Stream for his Paris photo sets: http://www.flickr.com/photos/frikitiki/ Have fun and Enjoy! The Meandering Mouse #96 – MM Returns! – Tokyo Monster's Inc. Grand Opening Day (9/16/09) 1:22:26 [823] Headphones suggested Well, it certainly has been awhile since I've produced a podcast. Life has twisted and turned in so many directions since my last show, I can hardly keep my head on straight. Hell, my old friend Burnt Toast doesn't even live on the left coast anymore. What's the world coming to? After completing my Disney Park world tour last April with my visit to Hong Kong, the world, for me, quickly took on new meaning. I'll start the show off with a short blurb in regards to why the show has run silent over the past handful of months, discuss changes going on with The DPN for those that haven't heard, and then get on with some classic audio meanderings taken in Tokyo. This show features myself and Superdry out at Tokyo Disneyland one early morning as the madness of the grand opening of Monster's Inc. Ride and Go Seek takes place. We rush into the park after the gates open and encounter a massive line winding thru the park just to get a fastpass for the highly anticipated new attraction. About nine hours later, we actually get on the attraction for the first time and, of course, take you along for the ride. podcast@meanderingmouse.com Flickr: flickr.com/photos/meanderingmouse twitter: meanderingmouse plurk: meanderingmouse Have fun and Enjoy! The Meandering Mouse #97 – Completion of the Worldwide Disney Tour – Hong Kong (10/12/09) 2:04:51 [823] Headphones suggested Join myself and Superdry as we make our way through the streets of Hong Kong and onto the metro system headed to Sunny Bay Station which connects to the Hong Kong Disneyland line. The one and only stop, of course, is Hong Kong Disneyland. Afterwards, I make my exciting steps onto property thus marking the end to my Disney Park World Tour. Looking back, I visited all 11 of the Disney Parks across the world in under a years time. Here is a run down of that busy year of travel: May 08 - Disneyland (2 parks) July 08 - Tokyo Disney (2 Parks) Sept 08 - WDW (4 Parks) Oct 08 - Disneyland Paris (2 Parks) Dec 08 - WDW Jan 09 - WDW April 09 - Tokyo Disney / Hong Kong Disneyland So there you have it. All Disney parks on Earth in less than 12 months. It's far from an impossible feat but, dare I say, a dream come true for a Disney park fan cough dork. Hong Kong Disneyland is a small park which most would consider a "half day" park attraction wise. What it lacks in the realm of attractions, it makes things up with some of the most beautifully landscaped grounds and surroundings. The spit and polish witnessed at the park itself is just as impressive as the Tokyo Disney Resort. However, the "newness" of this park mixed with the culture leaves things feeling a little sterile, empty, and there is much room (literally) for improvement. During this podcast you will experience most of the park's attractions with us, STORIES ABOUT HOOKERS, an edited portion of their daytime parade called Disney on Parade, and various other Meanderings. It's most interesting to spend an entire day Meandering with us at this somewhat odd Disney Park. It was an interesting experience which left a handful of things to be desired. Overall, I do have high hopes for this Disney destination in the future. It's a promising Disney park located in one of the most amazing destinations in the East. Got ya wondering about the hookers, don't I? LOL podcast@meanderingmouse.com Flickr: flickr.com/photos/meanderingmouse twitter: meanderingmouse plurk: meanderingmouse Have fun and Enjoy! It was a beautiful Fall evening full of costumed guests and you are along for the fun through the magic of audio. Headphones are your friend! Highlights include: - A visit to the Haunted Mansion (A Halloween Show just wouldn't be complete without it) - Hanging out with dead people at the newly refurbished Hall of Presidents (a Halloween tradition started by Trapped on Vacation) - Hallowishes Fireworks Spectacular - Mickey's Boo to You Halloween Parade Happy Halloween Everyone! The Meandering Mouse #99 – Tokyo Disneyland Fun and Xmas Special (12/23/09) 1:54:40 [823] ¶ Headphones HIGHLY suggested Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays to all my friends and fans out there. It's been an insanely tough year to trudge through for me and I was happy to be able to escape my world completely in December of 09 by traveling to the other side of the Earth to experience more adventures in Japan. This year, I was lucky enough to experience the Christmas celebration at the Tokyo Disney Resort. It was an odd thing since Christmas, itself, in Japan is, pretty much, a Hallmark / retail holiday since their cultural and spiritual beliefs aren't grounded in this particular holiday as they are in the States. On this show, join myself, Superdry (Steve-san), and a mystery guest / friend of mine from Houston (Jason) who showed up to join us from Guam with one day's notice as we explore the parks and take in some of the Xmas festivities. This show has it all...classic meanderings, great ride thrus, and amazing special Christmas Parade audio.

Highlights include: -Not so wonderful audio of Space Mt -Tokyo's Haunted Mansion Holiday - Tokyo Disneyland White Holiday Christmas Parade with commentary -Monster's Inc. Ride and Go Seek -Tokyo Disneyland Dreamlights Christmas Edition I hope everyone has a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. Thanks for hanging in there with me as a challenging year had the podcast put on the back burner. I've got more audio to come from the Land of the Rising Sun including some off the beaten path romps into Tokyo proper so keep your ears peeled. Have fun and Enjoy! Maverick88 in Texas talks on many topics.

The Basic Premise

Post-Arlen Monologix is a monologue format audio podcast. It is what has become known in the common era as "infotainment", which is to say the content is both informative and entertaining.

The premise of Post-Arlen Monologix is a description of conditions in the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex in the Twenty-First Century AD, specifically oriented to the years beginning in 2009 with the conclusion of the thirteenth season of the original run of the animated television series "King Of The Hill". The observations are reported as the perspective of a character identified only as "Maverick88", an aging building maintenance guy who is a Texas transplant from New Jersey by way of Georgia and Tennessee.

Past, Present, and Future

This Post-Arlen Monologix Project is, in one sense, nostalgic, in another sense, contemporary ground-reporting, and finally, it is intentionally restrospective to an audience in the distant future. In fact, the ultimate worthiness of this project is as a series of historical snapshots, ranging in time from the 1960s through the 2020s and hopefully, if the creek don't rise, well beyond that.

The core element, the subject matter which is recent-to-current, is information relative to Dallas-Fort Worth (and Texas as a whole) starting from the year 2009. This is primarily a guide to Texas things in the years following the end of the "King Of The Hill" television series, which took place in a fictitious Texas city called "Arlen" and concluded its final season in 2009. The phrase "Post-Arlen" is a descriptor of Texas in the sixteen years between seasons thirteen and fourteen of "King Of The Hill". In those years, Texas experienced a massive cultural shift due to an influx of transplants in search of the massive opportunity available in the major cities of Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin, San Antonio, and Houston. The mass migration resulted in urban-sprawl, which is to say, an ever-encroaching suburbia.

Texas Things

Maverick88 is one of the transplants, but he is unique in some ways. First, he came to Texas in search of the old, romantic (perhaps fantastic) ideal of Texas: of cattle ranches, desert sunsets, bold adventure, wide open spaces, and the like – rather than the suburbs the other transplants crave and he (sadly) finds himself trapped in. Secondly, he came with the intent to assimilate, to seek out the heart of what it means to be Texan and strive to become those things where others, instead, seek to bring their 'old world' methods into play, to change Texas. Additionally, he is not some Johnny-Come-Lately, but rather has been in DFW since 2007, better than fifteen years. Maverick brings some useful information to recent transplants and to those considering a move to Texas, covering a wide-array of practical topics including wildlife considerations (snakes and bugs and all), landscape and gardening, the Texas perspective on weapons, traditional Texas music and venues, weather hazards and emergency resources, alternative dining options, local events, crime and social conditions, headline news, cooking and grilling and smoking tips, Texas history, Texas-based businesses, Texas pop culture, fishing the lakes, commuting DFW, and much more – indeed, whatever, whenever. The list is growing weekly.

The Art and Science of Unpopularity

The basic humanity of Maverick88, however, insists that among all of the practical information relative to modern Texas there must be also personal reflection: stories, nostalgia, insights, observations, musings, opinions, and, of course, attitude.

Maverick88 has never been, to date, a very popular individual. A maverick, by definition, is an outlier. It can be reasoned that he is, rather than an “influencer”, instead an “unfluencer”. Now it’s up to you to ponder that notion and get down with the meaning. What exactly might an “unfluencer” do?

At the end of the day, Maverick is a tired old Building Maintenance guy, a Workaday Joe with no particular accomplishment, no particular notoriety. In fact, he may well be regarded as a rolling stone, a common loser, and likely the last person you would ever seek to glean advice from. He is so many of the things that bring discomfort to people: a recovering addict/alcoholic, a born-again Christian (worse still – an Orthodox Christian), a gun enthusiast, a conspiracy theorist, a biker, and he is old as dirt.

He is also from New Jersey, which is not only socially disconcerting to most folk otherwise, but ends up being the back-drop of so much of the nostalgia. So, older New Jersey people may find some favor herein. The point is that much of the actual person telling the tale is in the tale, so more than a Texas report, you will get a helping of New Jersey things, of recovery things, of Jesus things, of gun things, of biker things, of old Generation-X things, of Maverick88 things in general.

There, too, are more favorable background elements and subsequent topics. You will hear about things related to the hobbies of ammo reloading, guitar & music composition, PC tech, leather craft, knives and tools, kayak fishing, woodwork, landscaping and gardening, rock music, country music, motorcycles, dogs, creative writing, livestock, and more.

Regardless of whether the subject matter is, at times, either favorable or unfavorable to you, you will definitely get variety and you will definitely get attitude – and that alone may make it worth the price of admission.

This is a private and personal endeavor, a hobby of audio snapshots that is not addled by the need to generate revenue. Creative artistic independence, as a rule, must not be hobbled by indebtedness.

James' Coffee Blog Show – An introduction, taxi drivers, moments of joy (6/25/23) 21:49 [987] Welcome a new show to Onsug – James' Coffee Blog Show. "Join me for a monologue wherein I share what I am thinking. I expect to cover topics like personal websites, the IndieWeb, moments of joy, writing, and more!" ¶ Join me for the first episode of the James' Coffee Blog Show, wherein I give an introduction to the podcast (to which I may refer interchangeably as a "talk radio" show, in reference to my affinity for Frasier) and talk about what was on my mind: moments of joy featuring a taxi driver, personal websites, decentralized social media, and verbal monologue as thinking.

James' Coffee Blog Show #2 – Taylor Swift, dreams for the web, tea (7/2/23) 22:16 [988] Join me for a monologue wherein I share some topics on my mind. In todays episode, I cover, among other things, a tool to see how similar your voice is to Taylor Swift, dreams for the web, tea, and more.

James' Coffee Blog Show #3 – Bubbles, programming languages, use-case driven development (7/8/23) 22:54 [988] A curious mix of topics indeed! Join me for my latest podcast episode in which I discuss, among other things, bubbles, programming languages, and use-case driven development. I also talk about Ruben's blog, a source of inspiration that encouraged me to expand the topics about which I write on my blog. In the episode, I also mention the Overnightscape Underground, to which episodes of this podcast are now syndicated. I hope you enjoy the episode!

James' Coffee Blog Show #4 – Children's television, static websites, all things coffee (7/15/23) 26:58 [988] Join me for the fourth episode of my podcast wherein I talk about, among other things, children's television, static websites, grammar, and all things coffee. Unlike in the last episode, I am not drinking a cup of tea during recording, although in hindsight perhaps I should have prepared a cup (or even a cup of coffee, given I recorded this episode in the morning).

James' Coffee Blog Show #5: The Barcelona Episode (7/25/23) 27:42 [989] In this episode, recorded as I walk through narrow streets in Barcelona, I talk about some of the churches I have visited on my trip, words, and more.

Republic of Avalon Radio - Episode 73 - Hammin' It Up (12/15/09) 1:44:59 [641]

This Time on the ROAR:

Jim talks about his love for and history in radio. He looks back from his first transister radio, as a very wee lad, up until the present. He also shows ham radio in action as well as taking you for a spin through the 41 meter shortwave band and the AM broadcast band. He also mentions the alternative search engine, startpage.com, the internet archive site at archive.org and gives a tip of the hat to his friend and fellow ?caster, Frank Nora at onsug.com.

Big thanks to Bill and Zac of the Random Access Thought, a regular part of This week in Amateur Radio, for their new ROAR station ID. Brilliant stuff! Mother Radio on the ROAR! Who'd a'thunk it?

If you're interested in radio, ham radio most specifically, tune into this one!

Music this time:

Our intro and extro music by Jim Fidler.

No Snowjob - 4:07 [641]

The SnowMan Radio Broadcast, a satirical talk show, was produced between August of 1999, and May 2001 by Jim Snowbarger of Marshalltown Iowa. The program was broadcast over LiveStreamAmerica.com. Later shows were also broadcast on ACBRadio.org. Shows were also posted on Live365.com and a now defunked service called GiveMeTalk.com. All voices and nearly all of the music used on this show were that of Jim Snowbarger.

The Program was supposedly originated from a mythical radio station known as WWSNOW, an A.M. station which featured talk programming comprised of the stream-of-consciousness ramblings of The SnowMan. The show featured three primary personalities:
* The SnowMan - the self-possessed star of the show and boss of the station. Hefty Genitals - NewsMan and general fun-loving man about town.
* The program engineer and producer, who speaks over an intercom system, often harassing the SnowMan as he does his show, but who is never named.

Other personalities referred to but never heard were Nookie, girlfriend of Hefty Genitals, an unnamed secretary, presumably the SnowGirl, and the staff psychologist Dr. Weebit Mental, though Dr. Weebit does make one appearance.

The program was actually produced in a small spare bedroom with an 8-channel mixing board, several effects devices and a computer. The first 25% of these programs were produced on analog tape, with the remainder done with multi-track computer software. All programs were produced on Saturday afternoon, and uploaded late saturday

Republic of Avalon Radio returns to Onsug

Jim & Lillian Fidler have been doing their show Republic of Avalon Radio for many years from Newfoundland, Canada. A good number of their episodes have been released here on The Overnightscape Underground. Their last episode on Onsug was two years ago - ROAR-2011-09-19 – EP Announcement on 9/19/11.

I am happy to announce that Jim & Lillian are back! In those two years, they've done six new shows – the most recent from just a few weeks ago. I'll be releasing these six in the near future here on The Overnightscape Underground.

In other news, Jim has a new album that will be coming out soon, called "RPM". Check it out on Facebook: Jim Fidler's New Album Launch and Indiegogo Campaign

Also, Jim is raising funds on Indiegogo to help release the album: Jim Fidler's New Album – RPM

Help spread the word!

Republic of Avalon Radio – Episode 118 – Bound Down For Nova Scotia (9/13/12) 20:11 [641]

I Still Remember is the working title of a full-length documentary that Lillian is producing about Jim, his life and his music. Lillian has set up an Indigogo campaign in order to raise funds for a trip to Halifax. Jim has been invited to attend and perform at a special tribute and ceremony to commemorate the School for the Blind in Halifax on September 28th, 2012. Jim attended the school from 1974 to 1983 and it was torn down in 1984.

This trip will enable us to gather vital information and interviews for the documentary. We will interview Jim's first music teacher, his bandmates and friends. The funds will be used mainly for transportation costs in getting us from St. John's, Newfoundland to Halifax and back. Anything over and above will be used in the making of the film.

The campaign ends on September 24th and there are lots of perks for those who contribute to the campaign.

Escapist Radio #2 - The Malibu Diva Experience (9/25/10) 37:25 [801]

In this episode our hero recounts an experience whereas his professional career was almost ended by the neurosis and ego of a famous Malibu Diva. But in the end, the joke was on her. Escapist Radio #3 - Hong Kong Businessmen's Lunch (10/01/10) 11:18 [801]

It's a binary day (10-01-10... get it?) release of Escapist Radio Episode 3, and it's a short one – but long on lessons to be learned when attending a proper Hong Kong businessmen's luncheon at a proper Hong Kong businessmen's restaurant. This show was recorded while driving the uncharacteristic uncrowded freeways of Los Angeles County VERY early in the morning.

While today's content isn't racy or generally vulgar, those who possibly have a sensitive constitution might want to sit this one out. It's not gross, just a wee bit disturbing in the end.

Escapist Radio #4 - The House At Haunted Hill (10/27/10) 49:51 [801]

It's that time of year once again. A time when children go door-to-door trick-or treating, adults have an excuse to act bizarre and people with certain talents shine in all their glory in the bathing moonlight. Yes, it is Halloween season.

In this episode we are introduced to a couple from Southern California who, for 10 years now, have been passionately displaying their home in the All Hallows Eve Holiday motif. But somewhere along the way, their passion of simply decorating the outside of their home for tricke-or-treaters turned into a real, honest to Golem high-end Halloween Yard Haunt with professional story production and state of the art lights, music, performances and special effects. What on this side of reality drives people to do such things for no more than the love of the holiday itself? Listen in and find out.

You can easily find out more about The House At Haunted Hill at their website.

Apologies up front, but this one was a bear to edit due to some serious technical difficulties behind the scenes. There are a couple of audio level and mix inconsistencies. All are due to temperamental software, flakey hardware and a trans-coder that couldn't understand what 192 kb/ps was, therefore the show was a day or two delayed – please enjoy anyway and I look forward to your comments here on the ONSUG Forum.

Mystery cat video– please help me solve the mystery of what this cat was:
Around 10 after 7 am on the morning of 10/15/10, the birds started making a fuss and I looked out the screen door of the cabin to see a cat run past from left to right. I had not seen ANY cats the entire time I was up there but saw plenty of chipmunks and squirrels. I grabbed the camera and turned it on and ran outside. I saw the cat sitting in the dark. I tried to lure it out by talking cat language to it. When it finally came out into the light, it was larger than I had realized and I'm sort of glad it was scared of me.
Video and photos here:
http://209show.com/418/spottedcat.html
It looks sort of like a bobcat but has a long fluffy tail. Maybe it's a large house cat mixed with a wild cat? If you can solve this puzzle, please forward along your findings to peter@peterbernard.com.

Alicia America Americast Number Five (1/6/11) 1:53 [801]

In this one, I'm TRYING to explain why I'm called Alicia America on Facebook instead of Alicia American, which is my name, but I don't even understand it myself so I'm not certain I can like EXPLAIN. Download the podcast and I'll like TRY. Here is a free poster of me worried about Facebook: http://peterbernard.com/aablog/aliciafbookworriesposter.jpg

In which Debbie gets lost, stoned in the jungle.

Written by Peter Bernard, performed by Rachel Cleary.

See Rachel Cleary tomorrow night (January 21, 2011) on TLC's "FOUR WEDDINGS."
Keep watching to see if Rachel and her voice actor partner Lloyd Floyd win!
WILL THEY ACTUALLY GET MARRIED ON NATIONAL TELEVISION TOMORROW NIGHT?

Americast #10: How to Be the Hottest Chick

Oh my god vote for me (the redhead) to be your Valentine here:
http://peterbernard.com/aablog/aavote.html or vote for Debbie (the blonde one) here:
http://peterbernard.com/aablog/votedebbie.html

But why you would vote for Deb I do not know. Love ya, Deb!

Public Drunkenness in Paris (Americast #11)

Ohmygod I'm so sick, I don't know how the French drink this much. French children can like hold their liquor better than me and Deb. Well, better than me anyway, Debbie can like drink more than Lindsay Lohan the day after parole finishes.

Thank you for all you intelligent men and women who voted for me for Valentine's Day and everything. Maybe this will wake Debbie up that she just isn't trying hard enough to be like the most fabulous girl she can be. Then again, maybe I'm too hard on her, expecting her to keep up with me.

Enjoy our latest bit of genius, lovers! As soon as the room stops spinning, we're booking a flight to some island or other I think. But for now, I'm gonna go be like sick again. Blah, pauvre, pauvre moi.

Maui Wowie

OK I’m like not even in this one. It’s like an all-Debbie webisode.
As usual, she’s like drunk and stoned and stole my podcast maker-thingie machine.
BFF!!!!!!!
There is a funny story in here about how Deb like knocked this serious guy off the boat and laughed at him–
OH GOD THAT WAS LIKE SO AWESOME!!!!!!!!!!!

OMG!
BEST. WEBISODE. EVAR.
Does this one have like EVARYTHING or what?
* Advice from me on how to like live your life? CHECK.
* Debbie acting like a stoned fool? CHECK.
* Two drunk girls like talking too close to the mic and overmodulating to the point of feedback? CHECK and double-check!
ALL WOMEN SHOULD LIKE LISTEN TO THIS
if you want to like have a happy home life and everything.
Everything I say in this radio show today is like scientifically proven!
So go ahead and blindly follow whatever I tell you.

St. Paddy's Day!

OMG OMG OMG it was like so windy? That the wind was like louder than us talking.
So we like went into the doorway of this like church?
And we put the podcasterizer maker on the thingie there, like umm what do you call a pole but thicker and made of stone?
Anyway so then the whole webisode ended up sounding like we were standing inside of like a cave entrance? In Hell? During a blizzard?
While a funeral took place outside.
Or something.
I'm like tired already.
This holiday is stupid.
I think we're going to Italy next though! Mmmmmm!

OMG it's me, Debbie in a solo webisode and stuff and everything!!!

Umm...

Gee, usually these things are longer. What does Lee write again?
Umm, she writes something here.
Oh yeah– dear Sarah Palin– please re-legislize rock music cuz I don't wanna date a pop star I wanna date a rock star only I can't cuz they don't eggzist any more.

OMG I am usually the one handing out advice to my fans but this week I'm faced with a genuine unsolvable dilemma:
When is having sex all the time having TOO much sex all the time?
Or is there such a time?
Plus, what is like wrong with guys that like don't friend you on Facebook after you've like already had sex with them and stuff and everything??!?

Oh and a shout out to the City Council candidate in Austin Texas that we just endorsed today! <3
He must be so proud!
I'm hoping we can get a Republican to endorse next, that would be fair!
We'll endorse any candidate who retweets sumthing we write on Twitter!<3

Interview with a Rampler!
OMG Deb and I got to meet the guy who owns like one of our internet radio stations or like something or whatever and like his name is Franky Nora and he's like really hot. I think he like wanted to cheat on his wife with me but he'll probably cut that part out when he runs this on his website onsug.com. Speaking of which, if you want to actually hear the Americast the way it's MEANT to be heard– on THURSDAY– then you'll have to like check out MY site, http://AliciaAmerican.com. Cuz if anything like goes up late on MY site, heads like STROLL and everything. Actually, I don't even know what that like means.

Anyway, darlings, I'm certain that like now that we've buttered Mister Franky up that he'll like pay us a lot LOT more to like do our show and stuff and everything. Or maybe at least upload our podcasts the same week we like release them. If not, then I AM willing to have sex, but not more than like once or twice, honestly.
Enjoy our live in person interview with radio star FRANK EDWARD NORA a/k/a "The Rampler!"

Starring Lucy DeLeche as Alicia American, Rachel Cleary as Debbie American, and introducing Frank Nora as "The Beaver"

"Debbie Lost in Newark!"

OMG Alicia here– I'm like in Italy and where is Deb?
In freaking NEWARK with MY podcasterizer-maker, doing MY like PODCAST and stuff and everything!!!!!!!

But I have to admit, she really DOES have some good advice and like positive affirmations and everything in this one, so its definitely one of her like, more coherent efforts LOL!

Deb, u KNOW I mean that with love! BFF4ever! <3

"Reuniting The Brattles"

OMG lovers, this week has been like the most exciting and most humbling all at the same time!
We have a bunch of like announcements in this podcast including news about a NEW A-GIRL!
From AUSTRALIA!!

Listen 4 more info!
In addition to what's on the audio, we want to like let u know we have a number of cool new INTERVIEWS in the works, including PAT WALSH, CEO of like Walsh Family Media, and like JOHN BEACH VOICEGUY of Voiceguy Inc., and our like sister band, THE MOON IS A DISCO BALL!
Plus a very special shoutout to our best friend on Twitter, the very smart and pretty Conservative Princess Lisa Chapman!
She's teaching us how to like comprehend our THOUSANDS of new Tea Party fans and friends, and she's been INCREDIBLY patient. We owe her like 8 gazillion flavors!
We can never like pay her back, we appreciate her so much!♥♥
OMG speaking of which, if u want 2 hear our patriotic new song, "USA" go to http://freedomtorock.org/profile/AliciaAmerican OMG Deb and I realized we like do NOT agree with everything the like Tea Party stands for.
Like 4 instance, we do NOT think its like EVAR appropo 2 like insult OUR PRESIDENT.
However, we were reading on this liberal website that the Tea Party are gonna like win the next election bigtime, so if the Liberals want us 2 support them, they better like prove 2 us they can like WIN it, yo!
Cuz Deb and I like do NOT bet on like LOSERS! LOL ♥♥
Plus like the Conservative Princess says we can support the Tea Party but not be Republicrats!
Make us a better offer than THAT, Liberatives! ♥♥ LOL ♥♥
We're 4 sale 2 tha highest bidder and I dont mean high on weed yo!♥♥ Peace in tha middle east, lovers!
♥♥~~Alicia~~♥♥ (and Deb)

Alicia on Acid

My sister and I believe that we are in sole possession of this moment in history & are unwilling to relinquish that which is rightfully ours.

And other than that, I am like UNAVAILABLE 2day for like comment and stuff and everything.

Music-like sounds by Dino Sorbello

ADDENDUM: Hi, Deb here. Lee just axed me 2 type in this "IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT" that she just like dictated 2 me or whatever:

"I don't know why I never saw this before when its the most obvious thing anyone could ever possibly see. HOW MANY TIMES have you been to forever? How many times have you HAVEN'T?

"Deb says we're in the air in Brooklyn but that's impossible because she's in the Dominican and I'm upstate making a souffle. LOL that's a funny word– souffle.

"There are aspects of every aspect of every thing which are incorruptible. You can tell it by their accent when they smile at you.

"I realize NOW that it is OUR JOB to skin the cat– OUR JOB OURSELVES! It's NOT up to the TV people– Darlings, we ARE the TV people! Stop acting as though you weren't animated too– we ALL are, lovers, and THIS is our DEFINING MOMENT! From now on, we are The Beatles and the ONLY love greater than love is the love we love you with so abundantly, lovers!

Luv,
Lee♥"

DEBBIE AMERICAN: I've Brakened Up Tha Band!!!!!

Hi Deb hear!!!<3
If u wanna no why I like split up tha gratest band in tha like world, then LISTEN to the like radio show at the link on the upper left yo!!!!!

But srsly, I feel like REALLY underanticipated or whatever, nobody realizes how like valuable I am 2 this band or stuff.
Did u no that I rote USA USA? Well I did and 2 proov it, hear is my ORIGINAL DEMO yo:

Wiping the slime off

Darlings, have you ever worked with the kind of people who make you feel you need a REALLY LONG BATH after your project is completed?
Well, lovers, I work in show business so I really SHOULD be like USED 2 it by now.
However, as a human with a soul, I'll never FULLY adapt 2 Hollyweird, LOL.

This like old clueless talentless guy like hired me and my like crew?
Then like put us in a bag like cats and beat us with a bat for 2 weeks.
Apparently, that's legal if you like PAY people at the end of it and stuff.
As long as you're like completely talentless, you're allowed 2 abuse artists as much as if they were like in Gitmo!
At least that's what he told us, and WHY would a snake oil salesman ever like LIE?

♥Debbie♥ was in the Dominican, she avoided the whole ordeal.

Thank god for Deb, she is my rock, my like Philosopher's Stone.

OK this webisode has like secret references to like ♥The Conservative Princess♥ and to like ♥Andy Kaufman♥, so like keep your ears peeled or whatever.
OMG and our manager just gave us the like GREEN LIGHT to record our Conservative Princess song!!!!!
Stay tuned, lovers!

The Unbodied: 60/40, Part 1 (2/1/11) 28:32 [801]

Welcome to 60/40, Part 1. Here, 60% of the population is unemployed, trapped in settlement camps and wholly dependent on the state for survival. The others, the 40%, have work but must strive to keep their positions while adhering to a long list of stringent rules. Life is hard for everyone, but it gets much harder when It arrives- the terrifying and deadly force that obliterates everything in its path. What can be done? Listen to the entire series of stories in the next few months to discover what happens next. You can contact me: geoff(at)theunbodied.com. And you can find some of the older episodes on Archive.org, just search under my name, geoff sink. Thanks for listening!

The Unbodied: 60/40, Part 2 (3/8/11) 36:21 [801]

We're plunging back into the world of 60/40, where we'll meet Jack, a regular guy with a plan to get through this crazy, unbalanced world. He starts to question himself, however, when people around him begin disappearing and society starts to fall apart- and what about this roving monster everyone keeps taking about? A mysterious man claims he knows what's going on, but can he be trusted? Jack must make the choice, and deal with the consequences. Most of the past episodes are now on Archive.org. Just search under ghost cake or the unbodied. Email me: geoff at theunbodied.com. Happy Listening!

The Unbodied: Drawn Back Again, Part One (6/5/11) 13:31 [801]

The latest show, Drawn Back Again Part One, is a continuation of a series of stories written in 2009. To listen to the previous episodes in this series, go to www.theunbodied.com.

It's one year after Megan's strange and, at times, dangerous mission to find Rachel's missing friends. Strange because in the course of pursuit she got lost in shape-shifting houses and met people capable of making unusual things happen. Dangerous because Smith, the thing who kidnapped the friends, didn't want to be bothered and had a funny way of torturing people just with his gaze.

In that year's time Megan has been avoiding all things strange, and that includes thinking about what happened and speaking to Rachel. But, an arbitrary decision one evening forces it all back into her memory. What happens next? Listen and find out!

The St. Paul Skyline (with Sarjé)

2010-2011
Hosted by Sarjé

The St. Paul Skyline (with Sarjé) - Theatre District (4/7/10) 49:48 [801]

Sarjé in the studio and streets of suburban St. Paul, MN.

The first show of "The St. Paul Skyline," with Sarjé. In advance, let me apologize for the uneven levels... hopefully I'll improve these next episode. Today:

Thanks, Frank! New viewpoints from the midwest of the U.S., show format/recording equipment, "a little bit about me." The question of productivity, show origin/formatting again, some shows "lost in the ether." A consolidation of shows, coming up, along with "LOST." Pause for "Jeopardy!"

Back at 2045 CST, walking/getting beer, the phrase "death and taxes." Where I live. A cat! Level Up Games. Nice night after a nice day. "There goes a cop." Old photos, show art, chemtrails, and Jon Stewart (May 18, 2007 @ Orpheum). The Minneapolis Theatre District. Anthony Bourdain coming up (April 16, 2010 @ State), the Travel Channel, Ani DiFranco. Ambient sounds at the liquor store. Architecture/drafting/construction/building codes. Back to Jon Stewart. Beer (Stella Artois, Summit). Black Sheep Coffee Shop (http://blacksheepcoffeecafe.com). Ambient sounds at the walk-up Dairy Queen. Again, really lovely night.

Back in the studio. "Castillo Blanco," and "Svalbard," also, hi Manny the Mailman. Live version of show sometime, maybe. "LOST," Desmond--trending on Twitter. Consolidation of shows--scattered thoughts--what do you think about this so far? (http://twitter.com/sarje) Goal mapping. Thanks!

The St. Paul Skyline (with Sarjé) - Theories Abound! (4/9/10) 39:11 [801]

Sarjé records in suburban St. Paul, MN.

Show 2: Theories Abound!

A note on today's show art: I mention Rochester, MN in today's show, so here's a photo taken there!

Friday April 9, 2010. "Delayed show," Severe Repair Universe, waking up with a song in your head, "Twilight" / "Boy" by U2, dream recollection, Twilight movies, mind control/conspiracy, Bono (bad Irish accent!). Night coffee, "The Big Bang Theory,"/Sheldon, annoying coffeemaker. Thanks listeners!

Internet radio networks (like terrestrial radio), Rochester, MN's tiny station (KNXR), ONSUG network, Adam Carolla network, Kevin Pollak, Chris Hardwick, getting my best friend on the show sometime.

Experience rooms, themed restaurants/Rainforest Cafe, virtual reality/augmented reality, time cracks, “The Rhythm of Life”/YES, string theory, perception of time is linear (FYI: I realize that time is no longer used as the fourth dimension by physicists...but it used to be...anyway). Consciousness time-traveling (experienced as deja vu). Past-or-future projection experience rooms. Potential graphic novel.

Using Audacity, anyone with advice on mixing/levels for these recordings? Garden State, challenges of having “complete creative control” in filmmaking. “TBBT” is a “Roseanne” reunion show.

The St. Paul Skyline (with Sarjé) - Memory is a kind of time travel, too (4/12/10) 2:05:47 [801]

Sarjé records in suburban St. Paul, MN.

Show 3: Memory is a kind of time travel, too

Hey, it’s Monday, April 12, 2010 (first half recorded on Saturday, April 10, 2010). Annoying sound, amphitheatre, the Northeast (would be fun to visit). More thanks. Follow-ups on: “death and taxes,” “The Big Bang Theory.” Physics/electron behaviors, Law of Attraction. Accents/perception thereof, motorcycle interruption, “Land of 10,000 Lakes”/”Laws.” Ambient grocery-store sounds, chocolate syrup, and Justin Bieber query. Living situation, voice, accents/affectations, recording practices, Bluetooth rudeness. Rancid SPAM, Springfield vs. Springsteen, vegetarian/vegan cooking, revealing my hometown, Stockyards.

Quick pause, broken key, Doomsday seed bank (Svalbard). Artists/designers/creators as podcasters (response to Wayne), applying to chain/”big box” retail employers, “Minnesota Nice.” Writing a novel set in the 1990s. Grandparents, ghosts. Productivity, naps, vision, dreaming, “Waking Life,” 2006 trip to Miami, FL / lucid dream recollection. “Kevin Pollak’s Chat Show.”

Intermission. Return on morning of April 12, 2010. Duck in a tree? Bodum French Press travel mug. Thanks, Brian! Traveling with instruments, euphonium. Synchronicities, Overnightscape shows 587 and 474, Frank/Peter/birth control factory, staying up all night, the year 2007, I Ching and Tarot, depression, cleaning. 2004 in college, 2007 in Scotland coffee shop, recalling bad memories vs. good. Rush, progressive rock, Emerson Lake and Palmer’s “Pirates.” “The Prisoner.” Trader Joe’s Dark Sumatran coffee. Thanks for listening!

The St. Paul Skyline #4 (with Sarjé and guest Kit) (4/15/10) 2:07:00 [801]

Sarjé and Kit converse from Minneapolis, MN. Recorded on a noisily-wind-gusty day: April 15, 2010.

Correction on “Springsteen” song comment from the “Memory...” episode, screen-printing, graphic novel (FYI: “Sarah” = Sarjé), weather, micro-antennae, cat interruption, augmented reality, prosthetics and robotics, locked-in syndrome, Stephen King, research vs. experience, Denmark, Skovsen, alternative energies/wind farms, traveling “up north,” Minnesota mining (Kit meant Sulfide mining and Sulphuric acid runoff, not Phosphoric).

Ludlow's Island/Dreamcatcher cabin, University of MN at Morris, electric cars, "upcycling," "plarn," design ("snobs"), Target stores, Mark Dayton, MN DFL senatorial candidate selection, trip to Washington DC, local Fortune-500 companies, Issac Mizrahi, weight and fashion, feminism, gender differences, child rearing, "Queer Eye for the Straight Guy" vs. "Transform Me," human sexuality, the "Twinkie Defense."

My cell phone vibrates really loudly, voices from around the country, Midwestern cities, Joe Basel (controversy), other controversies at Morris, "Cootie Shots," sexuality in America, PRCA (http://prairierenaissance.org/), Athena Kildegaard, Della Conroy, Stirling Scotland art gallery (Stirling Smith, not "South" -- http://www.smithartgallery.demon.co.uk/), art in Minnesota, Rochester, scooter interruption, differences between Minneapolis and St. Paul.
RNC, Xcel Energy Center, Target Center, Target Field, Bourdain (on April 23, 2010), Minneapolis Institute of Arts special exhibit, "White Christmas." Distinct neighborhoods (Kit is trying to think of Riverside Plaza, which is on the west bank of Minneapolis), local music, San Francisco vs. Twin Cities, "#1 Bike City," Chicago, clean cities, ALDI (clarification). Thanks, Kit, interviews and live shows.

Into The Ether (with Alex) - Episodes 1-6 (Jul-Aug 2010) 2:35:26 [801]

Originally posted in Rampler Commons, Into The Ether with Alex from NYC is now on the main channel! Here are the first 6 episodes collected on one convenient file!

Into The Ether #1 – KTONSUGA (7/27/10) 20:02 – 1st test ep. audio is a bit loud. i'm from new york, been listening to onsug for years, love. hence the first episode is fittingly titled "kissing the overnightscape underground's ass." mainly discusses whereabouts, synchronicity, ONSUG, frank and other topics.

Into The Ether #2 – I Did It All For The Nookie (7/29/10) 22:32 – Nu-metal wackiness, lemurian music, limp bizkit music video, human wall scaling, cbgb's, spin kicking, violence, all in not that order. also i inadvertently did a "Joisey accent." no offense frank!

Into The Ether #3 – Crazy Train (7/31/10) 16:05 – chaos on new york city train due to the inebriated or the mentally ill
---
Into The Ether #4 – Crazy Train 2 – The Secret Of The Ooze (8/2/10) 32:22 – more horror stories of the weird and bizarre in the Nyc subway system.

The Pro from Dover – 01 (7/16/12) 50:00 [801]

Welcome a new show to The Overnightscape Underground… The Pro from Dover, with scottlo!

A life in flux and a looming major transition can only mean one thing for the Pro from Dover, turn on the digital recorder and tell the world all about it. Hopefully these little unscripted updates will find find friendly ears among the onsug faithful.

The musical bit of music at the end is from Javolenus and is called Rocky GTR chords. It comes from ccMixter.org and is offered under Attribution Noncommercial 3.0 CC licensing.

The Pro from Dover – 02 (7/19/12) 1:02:30 [801]

Installment 2 of the Pro from Dover series features audio responses to PQ's latest Bug Out episode and the debut of Mike's awesome Twin Peaks Adventure project. There's also a very dubious chain of coincidental connection drawn between Scarecrow from Wizard of Oz to Henry Spencer of Eraserhead via Dick Van Dyke's brother Jerry. Also discussed are steganography, animated GIFs, roller derby, The Goldbergs, and Google + Hangouts.

The Pro from Dover – episode 3 (8/16/12) 45:11 [801]

Still waiting for travel documents and dealing with a series of setbacks, The Pro from Dover returns with installment three. Public domain literary works mentioned at various points during the recording were Jack London's "The Jacket" (or Star Rover), "A Week in Waterloo in 1815" by Lady Magdelane De Lancey, Herman Melville's "Typee." Also mentioned, though not public domain, was Anne Lamott's "Bird by Bird."
Between recording and transmission of this episode, the visa and work permit were approved. The next chapter will be beginning forthwith.

The Pro From Dover - Episode 04 (10/22/12) 1:34:03 [801]

This fourth and final installment of The Pro from Dover is part of an audio project that began in July. The three previous recordings were all released on The Overnightscape Underground. At the time there was a reason for not posting the audio through the Scottlo Radio Blog but for the life of me, I can"t now remember what the reason was.

Looking back, I remember the excitement I found in discovering a community of like-minded audio enthusiasts. I continue to enjoy listening to recordings put out by several of the ONSUG people and hope to be able to begain participating in P.Q. Ribber"s fun and awesome weekly Overnightscape Central program.

But as evidenced by this current recording which was recorded over a period of three months in three different continents, I don"t know whether or not I"ll be able to produce any audio with any degree of regularity. I"m finding that things remain up in the air.

As mentioned above, this will be the final Pro From Dover episode. The orginal premise to document a series of transitions was a bit muddled to begin with. And now that those transitions have been gotten trough, undocumented for the most part, there seems to be no point to continue under this label. I must confess, as a small satisfaction, that I was able to salvage enough audio from certain moments over this period to minimally fulfill the orginal premise.

Looking ahead, I continue to wonder what to do next on the web - with audio or otherwise. Personally, I"m really tired with the unscripted rambling that I"ve done for the past several years. Sometimes something listenable results but most times not so much. I think I"ve got a couple of pretty compelling project ideas. If I can pull something together, it will get posted here.

Until then, thanks for listening and please stand by.

scottlo calling - episode 001 (10/28/12) 1:19:08 [801]

I hadn"t realized that my first podcast, Tokyo Calling, began eight years ago this month until I was recording the opening segment of my new podcast: scottlo calling. It seems like a lifetime ago. And in many ways, it was.

So here I am in a new place with a new job and starting a new life and am compelled to again experiment with audio.

I"m afraid I don"t feel similarly compelled to write extensive show notes at present. It seems best to let listeners, if any, figure out what this is and what it"s about. I will however try to post relevant web links when appropriate.

The song played during the podcast was created by dlusionz and can be found on Sound Cloud and is titled Dreaming of the Middle East.

The book mentioned at a couple of points during the episode is "The Phenomenon of Man" and was written by Pierre Teilhard de Chardin.

scottlo calling – episode 002 (11/1/12) 59:21 [801]

Those who are willing and able to listen to this hour-long recording will get to hear how a Chinese knock-off of a classic Sony transistor radio came into my possession recently. The episode also features a few recordings of a local radio station that were picked up with said recorder. And finally there is my effort to describe what the terrestrial radio cross-casting ds106 radio assignment, as alluded to in the previous blog post, might entail.

scottlo calling – episode 003 (11/8/12) 1:04:33 [801]

A couple of days ago it seemed there wouldn't be a next episode of scottlo calling. It felt as if there was nothing left to talk about. And then curious things began to happen.

First there was a blog post from Radio Errols about receiving a recent news paper from Japan's Kyodo news service via fax that led me to a cool old internet project.

Then while thinking about animated GIFs of exploding microwave ovens, I unexpectedly heard about the chance discovery that resulted from a Zagnut bar that melted in Percy Sinclair's pocket.

And before you could "Stand clear and keep your eye on the ball" 64 minutes of audio presented itself in mp3 format for your listening enjoyment.

scottlo calling – episode 004 (11/15/12) 56:09 [801]

In the course of recording this tribute to yesterday's mega-news about the word of the year (the verb form of GIF), an important and disorienting insight flashed in my mind's eye like the reflection of a neon gas station sign rippling across a puddle of spilled petrol on the pavement as the country radio station crackles from the office in the first moments after sunset on a warm and humid late summer evening. The insight being that the process of recording these wandering wonderings is not unlike the process of assembling an animated GIF. But then again, it's not entirely the same either.

Beyond that, everything else remains for the listener to discover in due course.

A Career In The Weeklies

2003-2005
Created by Marc Gorcey

A Career In The Weeklies was created by Marc Gorcey in Toronto, Canada. It was released on Toronto-based Internet radio station UMFM.net, from 2003 to 2005.

I was a fan of the series - it left a big impression on me. But a few years later, I noticed it was no longer available online. So I contacted Marc Gorcey, and he gave me permission to re-release the show, so that more people would be able to experience it.

I am very happy to be able to present this show to you here on The Overnightscape Underground.

--Frank Edward Nora, September 23, 2013

A Career In The Weeklies is a comedic soap opera adventure mystery.

Our hero is Eric Shea, a layabout and secretly asexual drinker who finds himself charmed into the exciting world of Toronto's weekly press. The charmer is a white-suited devil-tongued rascal by the name of Johnny Whispers.

Johnny and Eric meet in a Queen Street bar, and quickly strike up a friendship. Johnny explains that he plans to launch an explosive new newspaper called The Anti-News Weekly - a paper specifically designed to enrage the population of Toronto. He and his sidekick/companion Katrenkia Von Washing Machine convince Eric to follow them into their mad vision.

Johnny seems to have lived everywhere, done everything, and is currently in withdrawal from a severe Gravol dependency. His word is not to be trusted, but he's never had a dull moment in his entire life.

Katrenkia obsesses over Johnny, and pines for the time they spent in the Peruvian jungle together living off of guinea pig meat and wearing guinea pig leather. Eventually her overpowering shame drives her to nail herself into a wooden box of self-denial.

Eric drinks, frets that the secret of his asexuality will come out, worries about losing his mind, and works his ass off for the Anti-News Weekly.

Along the way, they meet such characters as SuperBeth the Kung Fu lawyer, Ace and Krystal the missile-firing potheads, Dave the reluctant porn merchant, slimy Member of Parliament Steve Curtis, and - of course - Baby Coco the lottery winning one year old.

Cast Bios:

Marc Gorcey - Marc is the writer and creater of A Career in the Weekles, owing to to his fondness of old radio serials. He is a scientist, currently conducting experiments for the Institute of Comedy Research (ICR). His findings and discussion in many other areas of interest can be found on his website, CokeandPepsi.com and hosts a monthly .

Universal Sea - Sea owns and operates UMFM.net and Universal Metropolis, among many other media-related enterprises. Sea has been into acting and music from an early age and appeared in numerous stage productions in Singapore & Burlington. These days you can find him on Internet radio with his weekly Sea@Night Friday night music variety show and alone with his thoughts and guitar on the shitter.

Jessica VanDusen - Jess runs the Visual Stimulus design site and forum. She currently works as a multimedia developer and is acting editor of U-Magazine.com, UM's online magazine and forum for news and other popular items of discussion.

Tim Vant - Trained at Grant MacEwan College in musical theatre, Tim went on to study improvisation at The Second City. After his wrongful dismissal from the Institute for Comedy Research (ICR), Tim was the 2003 recipient of the coveted "Rat Wheel" award. He owes much credit and in fact his life to world renowned dancer and cellist Olaf Piederson. Without Olaf's help Tim would never have broken into Internet radio.

The Anti-News Weeky is dedicated to provoking the masses from their long and fitful sleep. It shall succeed by positioning itself exactly 180 degrees from the popular opinion and broadcasting its opinions loudly and directly into the ears and eyes of those who don't want to listen. It shall destroy the inane, eviscerate the beloved, descecrate the sacred. It is necessary to destroy in order to create, and nothing begs for destruction more than the stale, palid hopes and imaginations of the common people. God save Toronto.

Bat Therapy - New Old World Panacea
batThe oldest recorded bat is the little brown bat, at 34 years old. Nineteen species of bats are found in Canada. At least 6 of these are on the Endangered Species List, many others (nearly 40%) are classified as threatened, rare, or status undetermined

Marc Gorcey's radio comedy/drama takes its listeners on a worldwide adventure of mystery, intrigue, and weird controversy to the brink of major cities rioting.

2000–2005
By Charles Daniels & Israel Brown

SITFUSO Compendium (2000–2005) [released 3/16/25] 2:32:16 [1008]

Comedy audio show SITFUSO, by Charles Daniels and Israel Brown, has been mentioned innumerable times on my show, The Overnightscape, and I'm thrilled to finally add it to the Onsug Radio archive in the form of this compendium. Israel Brown was a stalwart listener and contributor in the early days of The Overnightscape. He was a guest on the show several times (twice with Charles Daniels), and in more recent years he's appeared on Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

The absurd, surreal, and (at times very) adult-oriented humor of SITFUSO, in the vein of Monty Python and The Goon Show, is a unique example of pre-podcasting original audio content on the Internet. Many thanks to Israel for giving the go-ahead to add it to the archive.

This compendium contains all 6 regular epsiodes, the Christmas Special, and a bonus Introductory Piece. SITFUSO's website is still up and running, at sitfuso.com, and contains a great deal of additional information about the show. You can find more of Charles' work at whoguide.com.

Enjoy!

– Frank Edward Nora, 3/16/25

INTRODUCTION (from sitfuso.com):
SITFUSO is a comedic audio programme created by Charles Daniels which is available for streaming/download over the internet. The name of the show comes from the well known computer term GIGO, "Garbage In, Garbage Out." It was adapted by Israel Brown in his frustration with his computer into the new term SITFUSO, "Shit In, Totally Fucked Up Shit Out." Charles Daniels fell in love with the term and thus it came to his mind to use this coinage of Israel's as the title for the programme.

THE SITFUSO CAST (from sitfuso.com):
Charles Daniels: Creator of SITFUSO and lord of the "wheelie things". Definitely not a real Police officer of any kind. Israel Brown: Script Editor, Web Designer, Audio Engineer, etc. Be sure that you don't get within reach of this man. Andrew Hobbs: Jim, Sketch Writer, Other stuff. Probably would kill me (if I didn't live 3 states away) for using this picture because he normally looks a lot better. Claire Daniels: The Women and Hitler. She married Charles. I think that about sums up her sanity.

CONTENTS:

[0:00:00] SITFUSO 001 – Masterpiece by Default (12/8/00) 22:13 – The touching story of Omegaville, its people, and their leader. [0:22:13] SITFUSO 002 – Gates of Delirium (4/20/01) 20:37 – Four months in the making… Many hours spent meticulously scrutinizing and editing sound files… It sure doesn't sound that way! Welcome to HELL – SITFUSO Style. Written by: Charles Daniels & Andrew Hobbs. Starring: Charles Daniels, Claire Daniels, Andrew Hobbs, and Israel Brown.

[0:42:49] SITFUSO 003 – Pair a' Dice (1/18/02) 21:10 – God created our world in 7 days. It's taken us more than 37 times as long to create this 20 minute episode! What does that say about us? We're fucking lazy! Written by: Chris Rednour, Charles Daniels, & Andrew Hobbs. Starring: Charles Daniels, Israel Brown, Andrew Hobbs, and Claire Daniels.

[1:03:59] SITFUSO 004 – Hungarian Death Machine (6/28/02) 26:13 – His desire was to make something that would change the world. However, like most visionaries, he got screwed. Find out what the hell I'm talking about in this new 30% LONGER episode! Written by: Charles Daniels. Starring: Charles Daniels, Israel Brown, Andrew Hobbs, and Claire Daniels. With: Brian Shields

[1:30:11] SITFUSO 005 – Life is Suffering (3/13/03) 25:40 – Everybody has that one friend in their life that selflessly gives advice, based on his interpretation of Buddhism and life experiences, to help shape and guide their future… don't they? Well, these are a few stories told by one such friend. Written by: Charles Daniels, Andrew Hobbs, and Chris Rednour. Starring: Charles Daniels, Andrew Hobbs, Israel Brown, and Claire Daniels.

[1:55:51] SITFUSO – Special 2003 Christmas (12/24/03) 7:23 – It's Christmas time, and this is our present to all of our beloved SIT'Heads! ENJOY! Written by: Charles Daniels. Starring: Charles Daniels, Andrew Hobbs, Israel Brown.

[2:03:14] SITFUSO –006 – Approach the Goat (10/21/05) 19:45 – And you thought we quit doing SITFUSO! Here's a new episode starring Finn Clark. His awesome talent just makes our bad acting seem even worse than usual! Yay! ?? Written by: Charles Daniels, Andrew Hobbs, and Finn Clark. Starring: Fin Clark, Charles Daniels, Israel Brown, Andrew Hobbs, Claire Daniels.

Nika's Utterli Something - Goreans (12/2/09) 11:44 [801]
This is an episode of Nika Dreamscape's show "Niki's Utterli Something". She kindly gave me permission to include it here on The Overnightscape Underground.

Original description: This is an audio response to an episode of The Overnightscape by Frank Nora, where he talks about the Goreans in SL. This is my viewpoint on the subject, and why I believe there is so much more to SL, that things like that shouldn't sour someone's experience here.

Hemidawn the racer, cracks the demishock of morn coursing through the dim. And into the arch of the former is the nixter, and for never the corner is the yarster. This is the fine design of the crying. Empty in derivation, and less on the keys than in the eye, heavy fingers upon the board, lane adored in dream. Found a pond and liked it.

To you, o master of nothing, I bequeath this feather of entity. Find it near the hollow waterwheels. Go then foolish man and seek your struggle. My gift to you is plague. My wish, fall. Neverbeginning, the simple rivertrickle dandy in its whistle. The day has come, but very long for you.

Neither the trowel nor the dame are languid. Look, the state of night far college drive. See, the girlfriend is just barely a friend, young nightmare. In sleep I know I think. A daze is my only seen in a mall with a games are good. No pretend car!

Ponder sorts of emotions in malls, flee my construct, and eat a cake from a shelf. For the stone, I, the solid liquid, never before decided a fate as temporary as this. In ways, I terminate this building, paint a good sign. Please groove forever, my lusty love, for the good grain, bulbous, holy, and blasting, stems twigs as I walk along, can't compare to your form. A mathematician in a parking lot, inside the blankety-blank heat of her station wagon. Regard the silly nakedness of her yawn. If I wanna kick a door open, I'll do it.

Anydaze will do cool focus mornings. So the waterfall falls and the window down a road. Even in the evening, I corral a lot of fears and load them into a revolver and fire into the vast wheatfields of the occult, and delight in such a wonderful display of courage on the part of my dazzle. Now there near those woods special spirits patrol highways. Gone into the haze of dusk he chessed out, as a battler. Pawns are a good thing, but a nother way. Minions of mine are silly, but docile. Never unremember unlimber simmer for the tea!

Lazy day and odd sun. Nine little pebbles remote in a vast deserted parking lot huddle together, speaking in relaxed whispers, having a little meeting. The clouds come. Thunder the darkening sky. Air the prime raindrops blossom forth in deluge collapsing onto the pavement. And the nine little pebbles have a little drink.

Dank blended heart, pleasing all morons in matters of affairs of the bit match smoldering in saliva sanguinely. Less else is nonsense to snare. Bareful bugs in neat supple vim. College caterwaul, blaming of the vane. Stupid awards in afternoon breezes.

Needed the tea am flimsy's. Trash the airport meadow. This, matter thru wonder, dazed weaver's undisaster. The drive rules, highway driving in cool weather.

Through grass-lined corridors of caramel steel, helmet of wood and carbonated milk. A sharp loud noise in the bookstore, mind blurring. Melting into the arms of girl night. In pungent brightness she walked. I was crazy on coffee and ate candy. So many choices in mine mad matter, so simple and clear. Watching a television in a hotel room, drinking a can of soda in a hotel room. The air is chill. The lights are cool.

Born, met with traces, gone, full of space. Cold ceramic oracle, tickle my lowers, shower my cowls. Hail to the many ways and days of the typesetter. And the fortune of our effort is the wheel we always hear, humming in the dark vapor of the basement, a cold testimony to the electric jello that is our life. And for all the majesty of mind, for where the oldest tree clings to dust, we are now, and forever never, to abandon the flavor, and indeed savor, the water we drink.

A college hallway from before? Before me? Where exactly is this today, anyway? Wheel, see ya later. Be in delusion my friend, forget the best in everything. Time has come to do some speaking. No evening out in the end. Landscapes like to annoy you. Many folks who're too similar are gathering around me. Pretend to be yourself, smell a pine tree, eat some M&M's. Gloop mergers in Cleveland's occult shops. A formula be iffy at best. I need her doorwayish way.

But the matter is esoteric and not of this road.

The coffee of your dreams is a medicated version of tan venom flavored highway gook. Try some sopping dry heavy popcorn in that damn chest of drawers. Breathe in vacuum lumber. The forecast is for rain, early at times. Suck the ammonia vent, my love. Forest crap frash delect mixim colder pennant cacophony whillip. Crows are fringe beasts of roadside perception—highway mystery birds—come and swallow this moth smear off my poor windshield, fine jackdaw! Please become very disenchanted with that cruller.

SIZZLE—for formulas are dead, and science is stripped, and reality is mad as a flower. Corrupt as my ancestor sailed, he played childish games, equal to motion to pinball the secret. Shallow bread dunk in murky stagnant brack, the tired arithmetic splattered on hallway walls, super logic durable.

This, the dream behind the dream, the real dream scarcely we ever see.

Bad banjo noise in cop car 5. None of your malarkey, Joe. Sinning regularly at gasoline-havens, wimping out at the slightest-boom. 135 unwed sweeties for smoochy. Catch a falling tar monger, Ted. Being a feather, I have no opinion. Being a diner owner, I cry always, in the rain, in the thunder nights, and lightning Dave went home too late—it wasn't there.

I area to deeply voice a booming call.

Being thus in this befuddled transit, every time a new challenge, every time a new disaster. At highwayside's edge, my room is silent and still. At highwayside's edge, hands together so tightly, the freezing cursive tea. Neverending in driving around, I hacksaw my memory and curse the setting sun. A lazy heavy machine will sashay and loving mates may depart on railways unreal and of unshackled concordance.

Pretty moon, dark dangerous road. Pretty field, dark dangerous house. Pretty river, dark dangerous dam. Pretty road, dark dangerous river.

Wondering heavier than usual night alive I'm swept I'm deter the mind. From southwest departings, how fuse a fuses, in first of fur stroke on face. Freight set the rare object down upon my desk if you will. Set it down my fair companion, set it down, a mug of fiery goop for you!

Apartment's a jester, I said, the real superstreet wasn't in the dream, it was in the what was the field. And cannot a contrary local anybody evil a store corner in plural goad empathy? Steel, the metal amazing, structures wonderful rails and tides of portables, crush negative. Dim lit acreage soon hummed in agitation—girls of flags in gales were expected—but were late.

Dire rail train you, pull to here in stat megatons of water! Felling to enter and become, wait and the dark fence. Like the mischief of the driver, truly in the bliss of okay either way! The true ward of carelessness is brandiness, the blond braids of honor and hyperdesire. Create the bornage of hell life, in the airport of mind time. Target in teamness, never at all!

That is what is my thoughting what draft.

Unearth some ancient fried eggs. Are you not a famous scientist? Several corrosive acids will melt your hat. The Johnny the Mouse idea stinks. Bow down and worship your least favorite chair. Meditate on this—your dam is a coot. Look for eaglets in your shoes. Damn the sprig of medicinal plastique—yours is a non-holistic path.

An annoying stranger will ask you for a ride to Pittsburgh. Don't try to find the roller coaster—it will find you. Stare at anything but a wheatfield or a tetrahedron. Devise 106 uses for an unpopular adverb. Please hover above a local vegetable garden. You just ripped two relatively useless bags in half.

Will I decide to go to the office tonight—NOW THAT'S FUNNY—now that was years ago. Be at the Pathmark in Parsippany tonight, be at the 7-11 in Summit tonight, be at the Dunkin' Donuts in Madison tonight, be at the Evil Farm in North Branch tonight. Motionblack supramazing Route 80 tonight. Travel along and not a screech to a halt in sight, the spinning to silky so lovely the magic the twisting the gliding the shatter no matter the doors. Back in time, the sleep, the insanity, the manic drivings. Back in time, the years wasted, the centuries gained. But time—it goes pastfast. WELL THE ROAD to D.C., Montreal, Woodbridge, Mountain Lakes, Jersey City, into the that's tact.

Being that wonder is slight, going all along the day midwall, the corporeal stab is the your sense. Building is the same, in a wane, in the stay, to over gas stations. Can we all mall? Snowflaw car, the day of the eatery's salad bar super tray. For the nice domed window above I call home, and a book on magic at the library is under a roof in the rain. Can all this be? Twis sury.

Waking in late afternoon, mind pummelled with horrible dream, lounging in avoidance, dark thinking in shower. Drying in personal nakedness, the late afternoon is tired, the late afternoon is slow. I'm lethargic when I awake in this time. Shall I go to the store, shall I go to the library, shall I awaken from the late afternoon.

Who are you, fraught with frivol and flit? I need to do it and you desire it. Please, below meaning, don't discover honesty or friendliness. Comfortable and nude in a blanket cozy and warm, the smell of Wheatena and a little Swiss Army knife and a bird outside sounds like a dot matrix printer. Remember this, the good arcade there, time and coffee daydreamica. What has happened here?

All the wonderful days flat black-and-white. Rush of much, scamper the stung spirits, we longed for the designs of good nowheres. New pleasing plunder the fairy night shaken, in me the time of tinglement torn, in you the awe of nascent strength. Long blended parts of weeks, never to the doorway's beauties. And in these magnificent insecurities were the truths the bridges, for in the candleflicker of dusk, everthere these two, less long than a birdsong.

Serious wanton twain, storm torn in tortion, the bell.

This is not the train it was!

Sometime devastation well a year forever is just fake.

Depiction of tiger in web? No problem.

Relate whistling Dixie to your viewpoint on the primeval forest. Bizarre crystal formations on your left wrist are not uncommon. The roar of a jet engine and the shriek of a priest sound the same to you. Bees don't live in a cave! Be wary as you sit stunned watching the construction equipment perform a ballet. The shrike is your main avian. Flip your relatives. Use an arc welding device to damage your toilet.

Bother, Imher the rail guy.

Not that the day wasn't the best, but these exciting stimulants rule.

This is most unexisting voltage the porridge be God nude haphazards a hell spry goop snoozings fusing dupe a both a shamble screwer do not enter please do not enter.

Eat little Swiss Army knives in a bowl of milk for breakfast. Adopt a rhombus. Fondle the abrasive surface of an obsidian grave, if you will. Wear an undershirt made of coral and tobacco. Enter unto the mallard's den. See the kerosine welding brat. Relax and delve into the general issue of destruction. You're gneiss.

Aside, low maker of flimsia! To your spot! Don't deny the icebreaker of wonder, the creator of the best of it. Times has come, in a boat, dangerous since in a dream, but carrying real items. This is got to stop. And the night glimpsed in a time a life or two ago but it definitely points to time travel.

Cabinet of corners, folder of wild: seldom said the main walkway is hallway—try and retreat from a floor sleeping rug as these. Truly, into is a great. Because, taken into account for a warring elusive enjoyment, I was in bliss when it was along at speeds. Hey? You aren't the one! Go'on, get outta here!

Going through a rain highway I said was a goal and a fair romance. Free in a clearing were bolt haven the corner mazen. And the in the day was fine, and in mine and is cure.

Letter never, I was here to deceive thee, the mask robont. Meet the five bears: Lacquer-1119, Spelunker-181, Hood-8, Prisoner-91, Jackdaw-41552. A tenseness in the light rain forming the image of a squirrely lass in the park in the 1970s.

Sitting uncomfortable beachy chair arm slick—sun hot nostril, bitter sensation chest, a flapping language for the tinny mistress of the thought. Coin for machine, deserted fair. Chomp into poison chair, nails horns in solids above. Slow damn, see the setting optic sun.

Use the best pancake emblem, if you will. Have a public servant touch your knee.

Drave is the with the tools for it. What was an extreme driving was now nothing.

Formerest the day one return, line a time in everyful killy. Of the one road I was along, say the way it is like a structuran. The leap of the true can trail all with the hark of a sharp bird, a say. My impressions justice of the what is no preserva, into free dear tours. What is up there I wonders.

The radar echo would indicate lifeheat. Then I watched as the building, an office plaza, was blasted to rumble by an grenadier in shiny plastic white armor. His nemesis was gameshowhost. Just kidding, his nemesis was Roosevelt.

Slabjolt me, night. I am funny in a way of hannipost. I am a stinger, they said, I am unwelder. A vague open highway from a dream or from some reality beyond my dreams. Dark, maybe rainy, a lit skyscraper in the distance. I declare?

Under the way, a friendly odd place, where broken colorful glass is there, and a land of friends is there, and a land of animals. The rainy reality system's gift, a many-aspect question, for the bright kids of yestermore. Just a slant crossing, just a bare react-fashion, just the former three, or four if you prefer. I was never grouped under those who pretend, but here all is lost, Emma.

And it's a hunting. It's a knockout. Fan and random we ambled, and came upon an area funny. The darkness not under back a little, and all of us were frightening. Can this be reconciled, this days? Time travel is an option. Reality systems can'ts betrays evernessity. Lords of Uncontrol, we, nevery and quite silly. But all I want is the picture.

Slore, I said, amn't I the best?

Force only that street, force flapjack, force mess moss up, force imps disassembling churches, force the bemuser devasta sleep, force Canada's cathode, force seen western soul beader, force deviant poise.

This day this disaster. Not in the maze of a life, but the bane of a company. Black orange now in windy yesterdays. These are the days of sleep.

Talk we merry, bus was merry, spark. Ending away, and I liked it, and a phone call mall.

Surroundings collapsing, perceptions folding, eerie fog for real this time.

Pleases all at let's say you were in a stations. Rise on the way haze, he well wandards.

Of the set of all tentiharnabins is a set of all snake-loome. In that yet and hut that and going. Who wants such pointer? Only Varnishiana and.

Where is the time I was into? Where is the time I was into. Moved in suproccult may hem the daughter. Seeking in the dark day matters little.

Be at overpass, dammit. Geese are independent.

Our feelings for others are not good! Play pinball, widow! Up and insert through rain slamming the late afternoon! Like drinking paper—not a funny joke! To be here all day—not too likely! I think I can remember some of it!

Slanting tint the sine, torrid flat damp shackle. A blurry flash a rush of cartography, sevening nining lightninged. So silent city outskirt in silhouette, clangings forlorn into worn wall. Above the city it's goodnight in the night to meet the blasted incongruity hence, roaring with rafters befallen. Smile the lowly autochthon, feeling nerveshot octagon. Many an amazing crash pad anarchy, peace of the turnpike in night's minutes, forgetting so much more.

Was an early guy in a cat suit by the restaurant on five cool?

Far, the drain stone lighten. Concrete mantas in parking lot. How'd it crash, that bright hypercycle of loony. How'd it crash—I'd been away, I'd say. So stand lightly the porch and fail to fresh-cut grass and fail to helicopter.

Shiester Dude, as your fame your handhold pal? I was—sitting at my table, and from out of nowhere a warrior tiny panda popped into my hand, and what he said annoyed me some. "I thought I'd seen the last of you ugly giants."

React, lumbore, to my insane attack, Jared.

Fianly, you amuse me. For when the black, dark gray, red, yellow and green chariota took us to Benningford, the fog revealed your lifejoke—Liopis!

Ever thorn, and in embrace? Driving, night rain, city in distance. Into overarcades and ultrathrill. Follow down hallways the inviso heroes you adored, old memory. Clobber the job dumb. Me, I'm a one, not in Florida at all.

Door, now this is a good one! I am at a train station. My way was truer if delayed, I'd say. Grander bastardizing passing and shaping the entire landscape fake letter nevpunck.

And we can begin to see the light of day's night. Tender is the day—blender is the night. So, if all else fails, we can be the waterfall for a while. Bast, cat bitch. Just one kiss.

Please hover in blissful verisimilitude with sordid freedoms and the sender. Forever hindered on the darkened entrances as the ever well-defined whorl contains the exploding tumult, in grouchy planar scorch, the endgame-mind walks. And rodent walks.

Nine Pebble Detector on! The Nine Pebble Detectors team is on the move, in Wintercindie's Balinese hovercraft, with Magic Smup driving. No one knows the true origin of Magic Smup. Some say he was a garden gnome stolen by college students, and was brought to life in the dorm by watching the first episode of The Larry Sanders Show, on Betamax, where Larry does a live commercial for the Garden Weasel. Lazy day and odd sun, nine little pebbles, remote in a vast, deserted parking lot, huddle together, speaking in relaxed whispers, having a little meeting. The call has gone out to many super teams – must find the parking lot and separate the nine pebbles, moving them as far apart as possible, before it rains. Wet pebbles have a mind to deal in mischief on a cosmic scale. Doctor Almost relaxes in the hovercraft break room, enjoying a cache of precious spoils from a recent time travel mission – smoking Moonlight Tobacco Politix cigarettes, drinking Fruitopia The Grape Beyond from his beloved Mannheim Steamroller Cinnamon Hot Chocolate mug, and playing Flea Devil Solitaire. He'd been a foot messenger in NYC, delivering a package to a superhero team headquarters, when he got caught in the middle of a super fight. His messenger bag got blown away by a wind and weather style hero, Blowhow, and he ran to catch it, finding he was running at hyper speed – looking over he saw a fast-running hero, Cwickalty, next to him. He realized he could copy the powers of heroes when he was near them, almost matching them. Afterwards, he kept a small fraction of the copied powers even after he left their vicinity. But his power mimicking came at a cost – his clothes were colored four different colors. Imagine an X and Y axis converging at his navel. The upper left clothes were orange, the upper right cyan, the lower left green, and the lower right purple. The Laser Bee is Wintercindie's robot assistant. He is loosely based on the Charles Nelson Reilly Bic Banana Pen TV commercials where he wore a banana suit. The robot's design has stripes, so he looks more like a bee. He is hyper and silly like Charles and is in love with Wintercindie, and never stops believing she could love him back. This story was written by Frank Edward Nora on March 3, 2020. It all came together in his mind during his morning shower. Then the dreaded Hoops Fenderzocko, the green owl magician hand puppet with a copper top hat, bursts through the hovercraft's window, and with Cwickalty speed, draws the Three Billy Goats Gruff on everyone's chin with his El Marko. With insane laughter worthy of the Sidecar he grabs Doc's mug, spilling the sweet grape elixir all over the multicolor-garbed hero, and jumps back out the window. Insurance the Devil Girl, with a black and red outfit, whirls around with her pitchfork and shoots a blast of barbed wire supersmoke after the puppet, to no avail. She had once been a god's intelligent sword, eventually granted personhood by that same god. Many adventures later as a male superhero with teleportation powers, an interdimensional accident reverted Insurance to sword form. A devil girl named Lemon was able to use infernal sorcery to restore Insurance to human form, but as a sexy devil girl like Lemon. Wintercindie, who had been napping, is jolted awake as Magic Smup spins out while turning the hovercraft around to try and catch the mug-stealing puppet. Luckily, Hoops can't resist getting a pretzel at the pretzel hut, as the hovercraft bears down on him. He darts away at the last second (before paying) as the hovercraft crashes into the pretzel hut. The team jumps out the hovercraft door and pursues the green puppet on foot. Doc wonders aloud whether they should just let the puppet go and continue on the pebble mission. But the chase is afoot. The team bounds through the streets of the city, and spots Hoops entering a bowling alley, pausing a moment to finish his pretzel. Inside the alley, with the sound of pins crashing, and the smell of beer and junk food, the fiendish owl is nowhere to be seen. Until... what? Hoops is atop a ten pin, a bowling ball headed his way – a sure strike. With a nod to the team, he jumps down, picks up the pin and puts the mug in its place. In the nick of time, he escapes behind the pins, as the ball comes crashing down and smashes to bits Doc's beloved Mannheim Steamroller Cinnamon Hot Chocolate mug. The clouds come, thunder the darkening sky, air electric with its initial drops, and then the deluge, collapsing into the pavement, and the nine little pebbles, have a little drink.

As reflections of a massive video screen ad for finaltestcream.com intermingle with Zope graphics on the glossy surface of the red and gold dune buggy, Hemidawn seeks the edge of the metropolis and espies an exit ramp in the distance, as an old faithful erupts nearby. Washy Ticket in Banff, someday. Used to be a sign by the looks of it, identifying the exit, but it must have been demolished by puppets back in the Jamboree Annabell days. Where could it lead, Hemidawn wonders, and on a whim, takes the exit. Sticker bushes line the sides, and a plane landing in the distance suggests an airport nearby. As the roadway curves, telepathic reptiles consider the awesome dune buggy, as it eases eerily into some kind of tunnel, lined on either side with groovy blacklight posters and vintage pinball machines. Almost worth stopping to check it out, but there isn't anywhere to park, and the tunnel is curved, so stopping could be hazardous, on the off chance anyone else is taking this exit. As the tunnel finally ends, there's room to park on the roadside, but Hemidawn wants to see what's next. It's right around the corner, finally coming into view, and yeah, hey, it looks promising, this weird little highway…

NEW WHYCHOCK REVIVAL NOTES

It's been a long road getting here to New Whychock Revival, The Epic Psychedelic Gen X Poem. The origins of the project stretch back nearly 40 years. I am very happy with the final result, and very surprised that it exists at all. I am pleased to present it to you.

I grew up as part of Generation X in the suburbs of New Jersey, always aspiring to define myself through my creative works. I tried to do it all—fiction, movies, music, comics, radio, games, video, poetry, and every other possible genre.

As these things go, I eventualy found my creative calling – I've been doing my Internet radio show, The Overnightscape, for over 20 years now. But starting back at the end of the 1980s, I tried my hand at poetry – a project that should have fallen by the wayside long ago – but has somehow continued to this day.

From 1989 to 1990 I wrote Abaxial Usufruct, a set of 209 poems, written in a standard poem format. Then, in early 1992, I wrote a poem called Verse11592, still in a standard poem format, and introducing the character Hemidawn the Racer, who would go on the begin and end the work.

Later in 1992, I made a digital file called Superior #1, where I developed a new poem format – each poem was its own paragraph. This is the format I used going forward.

The first "Superior" was an edited version of Verse11592.

From 1994 to 2003, I published an online "e-zine" called Obliviana Super Occult Amusement, which among other things featured the Superior-style poems in most issues. After the last Superior, I continued with additional phases of poems using the same format: Parking, Duskaway, and Hurricaner.

OsoaWeek ended in early 2003, and I shifted my focus to Internet radio.

Later in 2003, I published all of the poems from Superior to Hurricaner as Duskaway Parking, a print-on-demand book. I have one copy, not sure if any others were made.

Then, from 2004 to 2007, I continued the poems as a new phase called Thinkfang.

In 2009, I published (in PDF form) a new book, called Thinkfang, which added the Thinkfang phase of poems to the rest of the work. Circa 2011, I put the PDF of the book on the website thinkfang.com.

The final poem in Thinkfang mentioned "a note left by me long ago" – 209x6=1254 – that there should be 1,254 poems in the full work. This required that 121 more poems be written.

In 2017, I decided to finish things by writing the additional 121 poems. I called this final phase "Whychock" (as in, why make it chock full of poems?) It was slow going at first, but by 2024 I decided I would finish poem 1,254 exactly 30 years after the first issue of OsoaWeek. It was an intense and fulfilling time of writing, getting to this final poem.

The work ends with Hemidawn the Racer taking an exit to a "weird little highway"... which was conceived as a continuation of the work, in audio form. I have made 7 episodes of Weird Little Highway since, each starting with a poem, and then bringing back characters from my various abandoned fiction projects.

I updated thinkfang.com with the PDF of Whychock in July 2024, and the project was complete – or was it?

After the release, I realized that there were a number of poems in the work that I didn't like – they were just plain bad, and in some cases, embarrassing. So, I started a process of removing the worst poems. At the same time, I took away the individual poem numbering, and reorganized the whole thing by "Cups" – each one month of writing. I also then conceived of the work as one long poem.

The resulting work, Whychock Revival, removed about 30% of the text that had existed, and was, in my view, a much better way to represent the work. I made PDF of the book in August 2024, and posted it to thinkfang.com, keeping the old editions on another page.

And that was it, until this year, 2026. I once again revisited the work, and was struck by both how good the best parts felt to me, and how bad the worst parts were. I embarked on a new edit, striving to keep only the best stuff. This edit resulted in removing around 80% of the text from Whychock Revival, leaving only the best stuff.

In this "New Whychock Revival" edit, I kept the sequence of words, but did change some punctuation and paragraphs, and did make some very light edits to things. I also decided to add the seven poems from Weird Little Highway.

In doing research on the history of this project, I found the aforementioned Verse11592, where the work really started. I decided to add this poem, exactly as written, to the become the end of New Whychock Revival.

Very interestingly, the final line of Verse11592 is a sentence of nonsense words, with the final word being "sisif". While it was just a made-up word, "Sisif" is actually the name used for "Sisyphus" from Greek Mythology, in Romanian and French. This implies a kind of loop, where the end leads back to the beginning.

New Whychock Revival retains all of the best writing from the entire work. The previous versions will remain available, semi-hidden, in an archive called Onsug Radio Vault. This new version is the one I want people to read, moving forward.

This work can be confusing. In it, I refer to many real but obscure things, and at the same time, I make up a lot of things. Names, places, products, artists – some are real and some are made up. I also write from many different perspectives, sometimes the real me, but many times from the perspective of fictional characters. And I do make up a lot of words.

After years of writing and editing these poems, there are so many sections and phrases that really stand out strongly in my mind. I can't imagine what it would be like to encounter this writing for the first time, as it's so much a part of my thoughts at this point.

Enjoy!

This is Weird Little Highway

It's night time, and all the stores and buildings and attractions on both sides of the highway are lit up, like neon, every color, every shape.

By the side of the road we see two crudely drawn black and white comic strip characters, Fred and Zope

Fred was a squat little fellow--two or three feet tall at most. He had a huge nose, big, cartoonish eyes, and sharp teeth. He wore a striped black-and-white elf-cap with a furry ball on top, out of which stuck two enormous pointy ears. He wore a shirt that was striped like the cap.

Zope was taller, with a round head, and hair shooting up like Eraserhead. His eyes were two vertical slits and his eyebrows just two lines connected, like an L shape angled 45 degrees. He wore a T-shirt with a picture of himself on it.

Zope: So THIS is my final resting place, this sorry excuse for a turnpike??!!??

Fred: Whoah there… you're not Alva! What… what happened? It was daytime and now it's night?

Zope: Hey there little buddy. You lost?

Fred: And how! I thought I had a new lease on life back on that walkway… but now this…

Zope: Yeah, this. Not the worldwide stardom I was expecting.

Fred: Anyway, pleased to meet you. I am 'Fred', a lame character of a group of '80s losers. I was made up by them.

Zope: A loser in the 80s? That sounds awfully familiar.

Fred: How so?

Zope: I was made up by this guy Frank, and things were going great the first few years. He said I was to him as Mickey Mouse was to his hero, Walt Disney. Said I'd be as famous as Snoopy someday. What a load of crap.

Fred: Well Tom and his friends never had big plans for me… I was just a funny little character of theirs… sometimes a part of their dungeons and dragons games… but they all forgot about me as time went on.

Zope: Yeah? Well Frank never forgot… he just lost the will to write and draw me. And now, decades later, he makes this "Weird Little Highway" for all his abandoned characters to live in? Sheesh. What a joke. You must be one of his too.

Fred: I don't think so, Mr…. what did you say your name was?

Zope: I'm Zope.

Fred: Ah, hello Zope. As I was saying, I was created by Tom and his friends. I never heard of this Frank person...

Zope: That's probably because he created Tom, who then created you, get it?

Fred: Not in the slightest, as Gamble would say.

The two stood in silence for a bit. Then a red and gold dune buggy drove by.

Zope: What the hell, that guy has pictures of me all over his car!

Fred: "That's not something you see every day", as Kelley would say.

Zope: No I mean it, who is that guy? Shouldn't there be a motorcycle nearby for me to hop on and chase him???

Fred: No motorcycles, as far I as can see Mr. Zope.

Zope: Sheesh.

They stood in silence again for a time.

Zope: So what's the last thing you remember?

Fred: I woke up under a bus. It was a place called The Sahatter Elevated Walkway. There was this fellow there... named Alva Meow. A train racer, he said he used to be, He was more of a regular human person, like Tom... not characters like us.

Zope: Uh huh

Fred: It was like a road, up in the sky, covered with colorful tilework. We were walking and then the sky got dark and a giant head yelled at us, a pretty girl with a mohawk.

Zope: That sounds like Frank's work alright.

Fred: So who is this Frank guy, anyway?

Zope: He lives in an alternate dimension called New Jersey.

Fred: So with all this talk of him creating Tom, who then created me... who's to say someone didn't create him?

Zope: Don't encourage him. Anyway, I need some smokes. There's gotta be a store to buy some smokes on this stupid itty bitty turnpike, c'mon Fred, let's get moving.

The two started walking...

It's dark out, and two women in their late 20s are driving down a commercial highway in a 1991 Mocha Frost Clearcoat Metallic Ford Taurus GL. The driver, Spencer, is wearing a smart business suit, while the passenger, Flare, is wearing a jester costume, she's all wet, face paint running, having dried in the car for a little while, her three coned cap sitting crumpled next to her.

"Thanks for coming to get me, I didn't know who else to call", Flare said.

"Well listen, no matter what happened in the past, we were still friends way back when, and that matters", Spencer replied.

"Thanks", Flare said, turning to look out the window at the neon signs of the stores passing by.

"I still don't understand how things could have gotten so out of hand at the freaking Renaissance Faire, Flare, my dear."

Flare sighed.

“I swear, as soon as that singer Harla got there, it all started going downhill. It’s a long story.”

“I bet.”

“And Conrad got taken away. He said to try and call him in the morning, but I don’t know.”

They drove in silence for a time.

“Where the heck is that intersection, with the ice cream places?” Spencer said. “I could have sworn we’d be there by now. That’s near your place, no?”

“Yeah…” Flare said as she looked around. “What the heck, this doesn’t look like the right road…”

“But we didn’t turn anywhere” Spencer said. “How could we have gotten on the wrong road?”

“Hmm…” Flare said. “Why don’t we turn in here to try and get our bearings. You have maps in the glove compartment?”

Spencer didn’t answer as she turned into a shopping plaza, pulling into a parking space near some stores.

“Yeah I should have some maps… but I don’t know what good they’ll do us… I didn’t catch the name of the road we’re on anywhere…” Spencer said.

As Flare continued to rummage, Spencer said slowly “what the hell?”

Flare looked up, and they both saw a bizarre sight – like two living cartoon characters, poorly drawn, black and white – one tall, one short, passing by the front of the car, heading for a smoke shop.

“No…” Flare said. “No. No. The drugs were good at the ren faire, but not THAT good. This has gotta be…”

They watched as the weird pair entered the smoke shop.

“We’re not dreaming” Spencer said. “There has to be a logical explanation. Those could just be very, very good costumes. Come on, let’s go in and ask them. Maybe they know what road we’re on.”

Flare nodded. As they got out of the car, she briefly looked down at her jester cap, but decided against putting it on.

They looked around the parking lot with apprehension as they headed for the smoke shop.

Anyway, it was a short film, and there's a private bathroom, with the blue sandalwood soap of the Delwin Dawn.

This is Weird Little Highway.

It looks promising, this weird little highway… night time, all the colorful lights and signs of the businesses along the way…

I got a feeling, like I'd discovered something profound, without knowing what it is.

How did I get here, anyway? In my groovy little red and gold dune buggy, with the cartoon graphics all over. I'd been driving through that cyberpunk metropolis, a place I'd been to a number of times over the ages. But this exit, I never took this one before.

When it started, I cracked the demishock of morn coursing through the dim. And my trip, my journey… through all manner of crazy places. Finally ending up here.

By a strip mall up on the right, as I'm passing, I see two fellows, one taller, one shorter, looking like crudely drawn cartoon characters, in monochrome. The taller one notices me and starts waving his arms around as I speed by. Should I stop? Nah… I'm sure I'll run into them again in the future… and come to think of it, he did look familiar, kind of like the character graphics on my buggy.

Now up on the left, on the other side of the highway, another weird cartoon thing, like a cannonball, with goofy eyes and his tongue hanging out, flying down the roadside toward me. He glances over at me but doesn't react much, as we pass each other by.

I am Hemidawn the Racer. But is the race over? Did it ever start?

Hmm… what's that sign coming up… WEASEL VILLAGE MALL DRIVE, exit to the right… think I'll check it out.

Up a little curved incline, then the mall comes into view, a vast parking lot with some cars, not many, tall concrete pillars, each with a unique design at the top, must be a way for people to find their cars. I park by what looks like a kind of main entrance.

Turning off the dune buggy, the quiet strikes me. When was the last time I sat in silence like this? Looking around, I do see a few other dune buggies in this place. But the entrance is looming.

I get out of the car and stand up, and I get a little dizzy. Again, the sensation of stillness, no longer racing, is a kind of ecstasy, a relief. I take a deep breath. It's a little chilly out, but not too bad.

I stroll over the the entrance, with a big sign saying WEASEL VILLAGE MALL. Stepping inside, there's a few people milling about, but the mall is largely empty.

To my left I see a store called "Of The Fantastick of a Frog" (Fantastick with a CK at the end), which seems to stock all manner of products featuring pop culture frogs, like Dig'em from Sugar Smacks cereal, Michigan J. Frog from Looney Tunes, Freddie from New Zoo Revue, and Robin from The Muppets.

Continuing deeper into the mall, there's a big hoarding, reading WOLFMELLOW OPEN DURING CONSTRUCTION, with graphics depicting an indoor theme park, which I assume is being renovated.

But I turn to the right, walking past a fountain with some kind of scientist statue in the middle. A sign up ahead points to the left and says RESTROOMS and NIGHTSTATION. I head that way.

Up on the right is indeed this "Nightstation" place... themed as a train station at night, with little trains moving at different levels, some with people in them, they looked kind of like roller coaster cars, so I wondered if there'd be a roller coaster inside... that would maybe be too similar to the thrill ride I'd just taken, racing through so many different worlds and scenarios.

But as I enter, I see there's an observation deck, which I go into, and I can see that it's not a thrill ride per se, but more a dark ride, with the trains moving through various scenes and worlds... but again, seeming like my experiences in miniature... and I start to think, this place is connected to my sphere of identity in some way.

I go back into the lobby area, and a wood panel on the wall slides back, revealing a little puppet stage. Two puppets rise up, a wizard that looks a bit stoned, with pointy wizard cap, and a sneaky-looking green parrot, dressed as a magician, with copper-colored suit and top hat.

"Well lookee here," the wizard says, "we actually got a customer!"

"Let's not be too hasty," the parrot says, "he may just be a window shopper."

I gesture toward myself, and cock my head.

"Yes, you!" the wizard says, "Who are you tryin' ta be, some kinda World War One flyin' ace, in that getup?"

"Uhh..." I said, "sure..."

"So are you here to ride the wild rails?" the parrot said, "Or stand around looking confused all night?"

"I just got off a major ride of my own," I said. "But I'm game to try your little railroad amusement."

"Well if it's your first time, you're in for a treat!" the wizard puppet said. "Where ya from, anyway?"

"Uhh..." I said, "I'm from... where it began?"

"Well maybe things will be clearer once you've ridden the amazing Nightstation!" the wizard said. "Just step over to the ticket window, and you'll be on in a jiff! Not much of a wait, as we don't have many customers at the moment."

I nodded my head and said “thanks, I think I’ll take you up on your suggestion.”

I turned and headed for the ticket window.

“Tom gave me some funny cigarettes to smoke once,” said Fred, a strange little, crudely drawn, black-and-white cartoon character. “But I just coughed and my eyes turned into X’s”.

A prog rock song, with complex synth and violin parts, played over the speakers of the store.

“What’s your usual poison?” asked a skinny dude behind the counter of the smoke shop, with a name tag reading “Dana”.

“Gimme a sec while Frank tries to imagine what his 18 year old self would have called my cigarettes, though I don’t think he ever named them…” Zope said.

“Take all the time you need,” Dana said.

“Say Dana,” Fred said. “Do we look strange to you? You’re a real person after all, and we are… how to say… drawn?”

Dana regarded the two.

“Well they say smoking causes health issues.”, Dana said.

“Don’t harass the NPCs, Fred”, Zope said. “They don’t know any better.”

Dana scrunch up his face, as if suddenly realizing something, but he didn’t respond.

“But Zope,” Fred said, “aren’t we also non-player characters ourselves?”

“Not at all,” Zope said. “because we realize we’re characters. That’s the difference.”

“Hmm…” Fred said, pressing his finger to his lips in thought.

A bell on the door rang, and two women, Spencer and Flare, walked in. Spencer was dressed in business attire, and Flare was a mess, dressed in a jester outfit, sans cap.

“Welcome to New Old Smoky’s.” said Dana, unenthusiastically.

“Major Smoko!” Zope said. “That’s what the brand would have been called, in Halfevil, the world I lived in.”

“Hey guys,” Spencer said hesitantly.

Zope, Fred, and Dana looked over.

“Specifically,” Spencer said, “you two.” indicating Zope and Fred, “how is it you’re… looking like that?”

Flare has a confused, concerned look on her face, seeing the cartoon characters up close.

“More NPCs?” Fred asked.

Zope frowned and regarded the two women.

“Maybe not.” Zope said. “So you two, uh, think we look… out of place?”

Spancer and Flare exchanged glances.

“It must be the drugs,” Flare said. “No way those could be costumes.”

“Do you realize you’re characters, then?” Fred asked.

All of a sudden, a strange, deep noise filled the store. They all looked over at the window, where yet another poorly drawn cartoon character, a floating ball with a goofy expression and its tongue hanging out, had its face pressed up to the glass.

Before anyone could react, the window shattered, raining shards of safety glass, barely hitting anyone.

The bizarre character slowly floated into the store.

“Wow, hey Zope,” the ball character said, “been awhile. Great job on that Pond Fuze, the explosion was cool cool cool. Where’s that Deadzope T-shirt you were wearing back then?”

“Ah, Fnud, hey buddy!” Zope said, as Fnud continued floating slowly through the store, heading straight for Dana.

Dana looked confused and stepped to his right to avoid Fnud.

“I’m starting to think,” Spencer said, glancing at Flare, “you might be right about the drugs…”

“Yeah who is that guy?” Zope said, “ What gives him the right to use my likeness? I haven’t seen dime one from any automotive concern.”

“I would have followed him,” Fnud said, now drifting over the cash register, “but, you know…”

Fnud then slowly pushed into the back wall of the store and broke through, leaving the drywall in ruins in his wake.

“Later!” Fnud said.

The rest stared at Zope.

“That kid can’t stop,” Zope said.

At that moment, the prog rock song ended, and a female DJ with a husky voice spoke.

“Hey, Thor Panther Clothing coming at ya, here on Radio Rillekon’s. That was The Universal Leotard, title track from Melter’s Pluto’s latest. They just keep getting better and better, no matter what the critics say. Coming up, a surprise visit from my Pseudoairport teammate, Harrison, Night President. Until then, here's an oldie but a goodie, from Earth Apple Anderson..."

Another song started, this one with bongo drums and hammered dulcimer, among other sounds.

"Okay," Spencer said. "Obviously, this is a situation. Drugs, dreams, virtual reality... no matter... you two... what the heck is going on? What ARE you?"

"You actually notice that we look weird?" Fred said. "So... you're not NPCs? You know you're characters?"

Spencer wore a pained expression, not knowing what to say.

Flare slumped to the ground, sitting cross legged, her head hanging down.

Zope turned his gaze from Flare to Dana. "So you got those Major Smokos, champ?"

Hemidawn the Racer approached the ticket booth at Nightstation. There were five rides to choose from: Art Nouveau Starbase, Wizard's Trailer Park, Slips Casino, Cyberpunk Badassery, and Misty Asian Mountaintops, but that last one wasn't available as it was experiencing technical difficulties.

Apparently these rides used mostly the same courses, but with differences in lighting, sound, music, video projections, props, etc. to make each one unique. As well, each had its own unique ride vehicle, complete with a diminutive locomotive and a six seater passenger car to ride in.

Hemidawn considered his options, then the girl in the ticket booth, whose nametag read "Thor", asked, "Is it your first time riding?"

The puppets kept jabbering behind him, but he ignored them.

“Uh, yeah,” Hemidawn said, “I can’t say I was even aware of these kinds of rides in the shopping malls before this…”

“Any of the choices strike your fancy? Mountaintops is out of commision at the moment, as you can see, but the other four are up and running”, Thor said.

“How about this Wizard’s Trailer Park, is that a good one?” Hemidawn asked.

“They’re all up and fine,” she said, “but Wiz’s T.P. is tops for me out of this bunch. Care for a ticket?”

“Sure.” Hemidawn said.

She pressed some buttons and then produced a ticket and handed it to him.

“On the house,” she said.

Hemidawn took the ticket.

“Just go and wait over there, your adventure is about to begin!”

“Thanks…” Hemidawn said, somewhat overwhelmed by the place, and he walked over to the waiting platform. There was one couple ahead of him.

A black train, with neon stripes, came out of the tunnel, but didn’t stop. That must be the cyberpunk one.

A minute or so later, a gold train with palm trees and gambling chips graphics arrived, and the couple got in. After a few moments, it went on its way.

Alone now, Hemidawn waited as a low-volume soundtrack played. He looked up and saw several train cars, without passengers, go in and out of tunnels far above.

Soon, another train arrived. It was fashioned after a light blue pickup truck with silver lightning bolts with black outlines on it. “Must be mine,” he thought.

It stopped, and he got in. In a moment it started moving toward another tunnel entrance.

The dark tunnel turned to the left and opened into a room depicting a trailer park at dusk, with projections on the walls and flat cut outs of trailers, pickup trucks, and a few people.

The next scene was inside a trailer home, with a figure of a deranged-looking disheveled wizard character in red robes hunched over a crystal ball, facing away, and as the ride vehicle advanced, the wizard quickly turned to face the vehicle and exclaimed, “They called me a deranged maniac, but I’m the only one who remembers who we really are!”

Then the ride vehicle does a quick right turn, and is above the mall interior, right across from the entrance to the indoor theme park called “Wolfmellow”.

Veering left, the vehicle enters an interior space where several other vehicles are parked on a side track. “Welcome to Nightstation Cafe”, a neon sign reads. Under it, another sign says, “Take a break in the cafe, before the exciting conclusion of your story!”

Hemidawn stepped out of his ride vehicle and looked around. The space was meant to be an outdoor cafe at night, complete with a forced perspective city street, fake sky with stars, and jazz music playing. There was a counter to buy food and drinks, a small arcade with a few video games, rest rooms, and an observation platform.

It looked down on a darkened scene. Soon, the light came up and it was a beautiful concourse with windows looking out into outer space – must be part of the Art Nouveau Starbase course. A white and gold ride vehicle passed through, though without any passengers. A robot character looked to be talking, but he couldn't hear it.

Then the scene darkened again, and he could barely see things shuffling around in the dark.

When the lights came on again, it was the scene he had just ridden through – the bikers invading the trailer park.

"Aha!" he thought, "so that's how they do it." Scenery shifts in and out, and the lighting and projections change, so they can use the same room for different ride courses.

He stepped away from the observation deck and checked out the arcade. There was a teenage girl playing a game called "Kings of Pyromania".

He drifted over to the counter, looked at what they had to drink, but he wasn't really thirsty.

He sat down at one of the "outdoor" tables, and started flipping through a Nightstation catalog he saw there. It told of the history of Nightstation, and listed a bunch of other ride courses.

After a minute, he stood up and walked back to his ride vehicle, which was still there waiting for him. He wondered how long people usually stayed in the cafe – he could imagine a certain sort of person staying in here for hours – but too many folks like that, and the parking section would get too full...

He sat down in his ride vehicle, and it smoothly started moving forward. It entered a tunnel, veered to the right, and opened onto a track above the main concourse of the mall, zoomed past a food court, and then tall windows showing the parking lot at night. He tried to see where his hot rod was parked, but he didn't catch sight of it.

The train then doubled back, and soon he entered another darkened tunnel.

The next scene showed the bikers trashing the trailer park, with residents wailing "Help us!" Then the wizard opened his trailer door and started waving a magic wand.

A short tunnel transitioned to the next scene, where the trailer park residents had transformed into mythical creatures – centaurs, medusas, dwarves, satyrs, dragons, and the like. They easily defeated the bikers.

In the final scene, the mythological creatures were having a party, celebrating the wizard who had turned them back into their real selves to defeat the evil motorcycle gang.

During that scene, a light flashed. When Hemidawn got back to the entrance area, he saw a picture of himself in the party scene on a video screen. He assumed a printout of the picutre would be available for purchase, but he didn't see where.

He exited the ride vehicle and went back into the lobby. Thor was there to greet him.

“How did you enjoy your first time” she asked.

“Demishocking!”, he said. “I enjoyed the experience.”

A rainy Sunday, a bunch of college students in a dorm lounge, watching an old black and white TV show, we zoom into the set…

The title is shown, “Johnny Pitch”. Then, “Episode 43: The Cellars Gamble”, as a street scene comes into view. We see a building with a sign that says “St. Wave Typesetters”.

The scene fades to an interior of the place, with two men: Whawque St. Wave, dressed in a typesetter’s outfit, and Treezle Trookus, a jester wearing traditional garb, including a three-coned cap and marotte.

Treezle is working at a machine, but getting frustrated.

Whawque walked over to him.

“Treezle my friend, just give it another go. If I’m going to be hiding you, you need to earn your keep!”

Suddenly a knock was heard at the front door. Whawque peered out the window and saw three policemen.

“It’s the police.”, Whawque said. “But they’re not the real police, they’re agents of Ebsekkian. But they don’t know that I know that. Come Treezle, hide in here.”

Treezle hid behind a secret door in a bookcase. He hears Whawque welcome the “police” in, and after some pleasantries, they started asking Whawque if there were any secret hiding places in the shop.

"Oh no, no secret doors in here… wait!" Whawque said as one of the "police" moved toward the bookcase.

Treezle started panicking and searched the back of the hiding space… finding a panel that he pushed open, beyond which was a dark corridor. He entered the corridor and closed the panel behind him just in time.

Back in the shop, the "policeman" opened the secret door, but there was nothing in the small space behind it. "No secret doors, eh?"

"Who'd be daft enough to put a secret door in a bookcase?" Whawque asked. "That's the first place anyone would look. It's just for extra book storage, if needed."

Treezle was feeling his way forward in the corridor, and saw a faint light ahead. As he moved forward, he entered a room where the wall was smashed in. Then, through an open doorway, he saw some people… and some other beings…

Treezle entered the space, blinking his eyes at the bright lights, then wide eyed, surveying the scene… two women, one sitting on the floor and dressed somewhat like… a fellow jester? One fellow behind a cash register, his back to him… must have been some kind of shopkeeper? And two… living drawings, from the looks of them. Treezle had seen odder things.

Flare, wearing the jester outfit, though sans three coned cap, stared at Treezle, who is in back and white – no color.

"More… secret police?" Treezle asked hesitantly.

“A buncha jokers in here.” Zope said.

“Wait,” Flare said, “I recognize him. He’s a character from that old TV show from Boolevathers, Johnny Pitch. I think his name is Treezle… something?”

“I’m Treezle Trookus”, he said, still confused. “So you’re not more of Ebesskian’s goons trying to capture me?”

“Yes! Treezle Trookus! I remember now.” Flare said. “Played by the great Weigart Simoleon. I see you’re still in black and white, just like the show.”

“Am I?”

“Let me guess,” Zope said, “another obscure character made up by Frank, now dumped out here on this stupid little highway?”

“I’m afraid you all have me at an advantage,” Treezle said. “You seem to know who I am, but I am unfamiliar with you strange lot.”

“Yeah buddy,” Zope said, “it makes sense. You only know the world you came from. But thankfully, Frank gave me meta awareness (long before Deadpool, by the way), so I have some idea what’s going on.”

Flare stood up with some effort.

“So, more fictional characters…” she said. “But I’m not fictional, I’m a real person. This must be a drug-fueled nightmare… good one though…”

Treezle looked behind him, but just saw the ruined back room in the smoke shop, not the corridor he came from.

Dana, the smoke shop employee just calmly observed what was going on around him.

"We're all fictional characters!" Zope exclaimed. "Rather than focusing on one project, Frank kept abandoning his ideas for the thrill of making something new. So he left a trail of lost characters in his wake. Somehow, we're all finding ourselves on this road – the last refuge of the fictional refuse of Frank's failures."

"But, uh, Treezle here is a fictional character in my world!" Flare said. "Every nerd in Basknontana is obsessed with Johnny Pitch and all its crazy characters."

"Sounds like a rip off of Doctor Who, if you ask me." Zope said.

"Doctor Who?" Flare asked.

"Yeah, a 'real' TV show in Frank's 'real' world. It's from a place called England. I assume this 'Boolevathers' is a fictional version of England that Frank cooked up."

"I know about Boolevathers!" Fred said. "Tom liked some comic books from there."

"So I guess you're all from the same fake place, then." Zope said.

"What fake place are you from, then?" Spencer asked Zope.

"I'm from Halfevil. But at least I know it's a figment of some loser's imagination." Zope said. "So hey, jester boy, what's the last thing you remember before winding up here?"

Treezle blinked exaggeratedly.

“Ah… I was hiding out… at the typesetter’s shop… then Ebsekkian’s men… Ebsekkian, he’s the one that’s after me… they came to the shop disguised as the police… I hid in a secret panel of some sort… then I found my way here…”

“Wait a minute,” Flare said. “I remember that episode. He hides behind the bookcase, and when the agents open it, he’s gone. He found his way down a spiral staircase, to a series of cellars under the shop, where the mystery only deepened.”

“I did?” Treezle asked.

“Well, you would have, pal, except Frank prbobaly didn’t write any more. End of the line for ya. Until you wound up here.” Zope said.

“I’m afraid I’m not getting any of this…” Treezle said.

“But look on the bright side!” Fred said. “As long as we can think, there’s still hope, as Kelley says.”

“Thinking is overrated,” Flare said, as she slumped back to the ground.

Weird Little Highway: The Warp Subheadquarters (4/2/26) [Onsug Radio, CC BY 4.0]
Weird_Little_Highway-The_Warp_Subheadquarters-4-2-26-Onsug_Radio

Going octane animal news, a mock gas station exit, as buzzy as anchoring, and koala and nebula shirts. Gotcha, as if barn owls were the mundane sodium vapor sentinels of youth, obligato imperial coverage, the freshener of pirate seas, or was it two seas. Um, are some panes of glass phantasms of the spymasters, ever in Iselin with worm energy, somehow the night business charms with its delusional humility. Toltec tattoo, around the table, brought together for the work, the banter and hilarity, will open a way, dimly remembered later. To carve a pigeonhole in other minds is hard enough, but be ready for the snugness. Lime had to grow to be jammed into your cocktail glass rim.

This is Weird Little Highway.

Zope, a crudely drawn comic strip character, stepped out of the smoke shop, with all the other characters within. Now instantly wearing a Sherlock Holmes deerstalker cap, as happens with cartoon characters.

"I need to investigate heavily," Zope thought. "This is not like my usual zany hijinks. It's more of a 'crisis of the fantastic'... whatever that means..."

Zope walked out into the night, into the parking lot, to get a look at the other stores in the shopping plaza. One that stood out was three of four stores to the left of the smoke shop, it was called "The Warp Subheadquarters", with some seriously groovy typography.

Zope approached the store, and saw there was a sign on a brass stand in front of the store. It read: “The final iteration of the ‘Universal Night Audio Unit’ idea, which remained unmanifest, yet persistent, in Frank’s mind, for decades. Placed here into Weird Little Highway, stopped halfway on its way to manifestion, on or about February 16, 2026, thus discharging its influence.”

“Huh,” Zope said out loud, then thought “What, is Frank doing psychic surgery on himself with this idiotic highway concept now? That’s some next level deviosity.”

Zope tried the door, which was open. He stepped inside.

It was a featureless white room, starkly lit. Suddenly a woman’s voice (Azure Bree Dragon HD Latest, to be exact), started speaking, as a yellow door appeared… “Oh, hello. Welcome to The Warp Subheadquarters. Thanks for warping in. This time, let’s take the weird saffron door. Here it is. Go ahead, open it. See, there’s a dark corridor stretching slightly downwards, but doesn't it feel inviting?”

“Uh…” Zope said, “I didn’t open any door. It’s still closed, babe.”

The voice kept repeating the word “recom” as Zope grimaced and left the store. “Yeah, good one, sister.” he said.

Back outside in the night, Zope thought, “Huh… these fake morons may actually be my brothers and sisters in this sick fictional backwater… thanks to that confused bard Frank, no doubt typing this right now on a typewriter… or maybe a computer… who knows anymore… geez, 2026? Does that mean it’s been 40 years since he first drew me, with the scissors?”

All of a sudden two vans tear into the parking lot, turning tight and leaving skidmarks as they screech to a halt. Zope, startled, looks over at them.

One is beautifully painted with bright colors, elements of stained glass and hippie flower power, with its name on the side in a groovy script, “Millheel Chamille”.

The other van was beat up, and a dirty dark purple color. Its name, written crudely in yellow, read “Mazenweed”. There was an opening on the side, with “Puppet Theatre” scrawled above it in chalk.

“Huh,” Zope said, “Shouldn’t I have had some kind of van adventure myself, with all sorts of deranged and luxurious things inside? Oh yeah, that was in the timeline where Frank gave a shit and continued to draw me and made me as famous as Snoopy. But… at least… now I’m here… looking at two random vans… why?”

A wooden board painted black was removed from the opening of the “Puppet Theatre” from inside. A faintly lit purple curtain could be seen through the opening. Then two hand puppets entered from beneath. One was a human wizard, with a tall pointy hat, his outfit dark purple like the van, and the other was a green owl, with a copper colored top hat.

“Ah, good evening, Fenderzocko”, the wizard said, in a relaxed, almost W.C. Fields inspired voice.

“Not to worry, we’ve had less,” Fenderzocko said.

There was a pause, as Zope walked closer to them.

“Ha ha,” Zope said. “What, are you waiting for me to chuckle?”

“Well, let’s not DRAW this out,” Mazenweed said, “introduce yourself, audience of one!”

“Puppets…” Zope said under his breath, “in a van… at night… in a parking lot… in a nether waste for wasted notions… are there other characters working the puppets… or are the puppets autonomous… but they’d be too small to drive the van… though maybe there’s a bigger puppet that would be capable of driving?”

“What’s that, son?” Mazenweed asked.

“Uh,” Zope said, “no, uh… hello! My name is Zope! What an absolutely lovely night for a bit of puppet entertainment! I only wish my little pal Pezo were here to witness it all.”

There was a pause, and then Fenderzocko spoke.

“Okay!” Zope said, “I get it! I look like a drawing, a sketch, to you. At least I don’t have some loser’s hand shoved up my…”

All of a sudden a new puppet appeared on the stage, looking like a classic ventriloquist dummy.

“Yes it’s me, Yonkers Dandy. How do you do my fellow marionettes.” he said in a somewhat sinister voice.

“Marionettes?” Mazenweed said. “What have you been smoking, kid? We’re the Puppets of the Van, not some clowns in an arcade machine, now.”

Then, tires screeching, the other van, Millheel Chamille, sped out of the parking lot.

“Friend of yours?” Zope asked.

“I have never seen that van before.” Yonkers Dandy said. “But when I focused on it before, it was quite pretty. Unlike this hunk of junk we call home. I shall petition for an upgrade.”

“Yes, let’s go up a grade!” Mazenweed said. “I think we’re ready to graduate from nursey school and enter kindergarten!”

Zope just stared at the puppets, an annoyed look on his face.

At a ride called Nightstation in the Weasel Village Mall on Weird Little Highway, a man named Hemidawn the Racer was talking to a woman named Thor, who worked at the ride.

“I’m glad you liked it. I’m quite the supporter of Nightstation.” Thor said. She had long black hair and and a mischevous look to her.

“Yeah,” Hemidawn said, “Makes you wonder why there aren’t more rides like this in malls.”

“Indeed.” Thor said. Then looking behind her, said, “I’m going on break now. If you have time I’d love to talk to you about something.”

Thor stepped out of the booth as another woman, shorter and with blond hair, stepped into the booth. Her nametag read “Not”.

“Uh, sure…” Hemidawn said, a little confused.

Thor walked over to a little seating area in the lobby of Nightstation and motioned to a table with two seats. They both sat down.

“Huh,” Hemidawn said, “it’s interesting, you can’t see any of the mall from this angle, just this little world of little trains.”

“Yes that was the intention, for this to be a sort of world within a world kind of place. Which sort of relates to what I want to talk to you about.” Thor said.

Hemidawn tilted his head with curiosity.

Hemidawn had a thinking look on his face.

“Well,” he said, “I’m used to travelling through all sorts of weird worlds, one after another, without things making much sense. So this place is just kind of… par for the course for me. But I understand that there are people who live in just one world all the time…”

“So yeah…” Thor said. “I have kind of a similar experience… that’s why I wanted to talk to you, because you seem to be a kind of Rillekoner like me.”

“Rillekoner?” he asked?

“Someone who lives on Rillekon’s Road.”

“I can’t say I’m familiar with that name…” he said.

“Or at least,” she said, “someone who knows about and can travel to multiple worlds and levels of reality…”

“Um…” he said, “this is getting pretty deep. I started this ride of mine long ago, and have passed through a series of different places, one after another… but I really don’t know how it all works. I just go somewhere, experience it, feel it’s time to move on, and go to the next place.”

“So it does sound like a sort of road that connects lots of unrelated places.” she said.

“I’m… not sure it’s a single road… in fact, now that I’m thinking about it, not a lot of my life makes much sense…"

Thor looked confused.

"So I think I might have gotten lost," she said, "that this isn't the same version of the Weasel Village Mall that I thought I was going to…"

"So start from the beginning… I'm not sure I can help, but tell me all about it," Hemidawn said.

"Okay," Thor said. "I'm Thor Panther Clothing, I'm a member of the superhero team Pseudoairport. My teammates are Harrison: Night President, Agatha Petunia Wack, and Free Dear Tours. We're a kind of ad hoc police for Rillekon's Road, since there is no real form of government there."

"Anyway," she continued, "We livr at our base, which is indeed a kind of fake airport – don't ask – we're not sure why it was built in the first place, we just kind of inherited it."

"Wait," Hemidawn said, "your name, Thor Panther Clothing, is familiar to me. I encountered some version of you long ago… maybe you were part of a different team then, called Century Gang? Something about a baseball bat and a bottle of whiskey?"

"Hmm…" Thor said, "Century Gang doesn't ring a bell, but it's a good team name. I actually know some newcomers who are looking to start a team, so I may suggest that name. But yes, in my hero way, I do have a baseball bat and a bottle of whiskey, along with a baseball cap I wear backwards and mirrored sunglasses. I drink the whiskey to enter a kind of berserker rage to improve my combat ability. But I don't remember ever meeting you before."

After a pause, Hemidawn said "I must say, I haven't been reflecting on my experiences, I've just been… having them. Now we're talking about it, not a lot of it is making sense…"

"I know," Thor said, "this could be something of a reality crisis, but I think we can help each other. I don't think there's anyone else around."

"How about your co-worker over there?" Hemidawn asked.

"Yeah so, her name is Not Important, so kind of a dead giveaway there. Some of the people here seem to be part of the background… and not real in the same way you and me are real." Thor said.

Hemidawn stared in thought.

"So anyway," Thor said, "besides my job here and with my team, I'm also a radio DJ. The station, Radio Rillekon's, has its studios here in the mall… or rather… back in my version of the mall. They had asked me to do a fill in slot today, but it was the same time as my shift here at Nightstation, so they agreed I could pre-record my shift – I have my own mini-studio at the 'port."

“So,” she continued, “I recorded it the other day, and I brought the tape with me to work today… and dropped it off at the station for them to broadcast… but as soon as I arrived at the mall and came in, I knew something was wrong, something was off. It was very similar, but it just didn’t feel like my version of the mall.”

“Okay…” Hemidawn said.

“But that’s the thing,” she said, “reality acts funny around Rillekon’s Road, in fact it can get so bad that there’s a reality report, similar to a weather report. But it’s usually not something like this.”

Hemidawn nodded.

“But to complicate matters,” she continued, “there are all these urban legends about how the Weasel Village Mall exists in a vast number of alternate worlds at the same time, and how if you explore the lowers levels of tunnels and corridors you might end up in another version of the mall. But this has never happened to me up to this point.”

“And to further mess things up,” she said, “Nightstation also had legends concerning it – which are a part of the lore of the ride – which could be seen as just so much marketing material… or not. The idea is that Nightstation is a train station that can appear anywhere in time and space and variation without warning – just pop into existence – and one train arrives, and whoever gets on it goes to another place and time and may never find their way home. There are even examples from ancient literature of things that sound like Nightstation, showing up. Some of these sources are thousands of

"And some even say that Nightstation is a kind of mental virus, that spreads from world to world, infecting the mind of an individual, who is then compelled to build a version of Nightstation. Such as where we are right now." she said.

Hemidawn continued to stare at her in thought.

"Even to the point," she said, "that there's this idea that because one version of the Weasel Village Mall had a version of Nightstation in it, that the reality-hopping characteristic of Nightstation bled through into the Weasel Village Mall, and that's what caused it to extend itself into so many other worlds. So it started with Nightstation."

"But do you know that any of this is true?" Hemidawn asked.

"Up until now, no." she said, "Though I have talked to a lot of folks who claim they have experienced such things. But anyway, I entered into this mall from Rillekon's Road – a place you say you never heard of – but here we are, both in the same place. So what gives?"

"AHA!" the two heard from their right. They looked over to see a group of puppets and badly-drawn black-and-white characters standing in the lobby.

"There you are!" Zope, the tallest of the characters, and one of the badly-drawn ones, pointing at Hemidawn, said, “You have a lot to answer for, bub. Why do you think you can put pictures of me on your stupid car without paying me? Heh? We saw you drive by earlier, and these puppets gave me a ride in their van to give chase! We saw the mall and on a hunch cruised the parking lot till we found your idiotic jalopy. Then we scoured the place, and now we gotcha!”

On the universal night audio trip, let’s get moving. Walk out the door, the sky is overcast, some kind of late afternoon small city street. People are walking away from a street fair that has just closed with big orange foam hats. Next to the street is a field, the ground is wet, must have rained earlier. We walk out into the wet field, the mountains in the distance beckon. Someone in a costume is walking the same way we are. The mountains are fake, they are just a painting, a backdrop. The costume is full of bright colors, bringing to mind a parrot, or a pirate, or a rag doll, but seems to be in reference to a type of wandering adventurer. There is a gazebo here, but the explorer is walking away. To enter the gazebo, press one. Or to keep following the explorer, press two. But I know you can’t press them right now so we will turn around and go back to the town, the normal town. Let’s go sit down at the outdoor seating area of the restaurant over here, it looks kind of cool and interesting. It’s called Magic Smup. Kind of a quirky name. It reminds you of the word shmup, short for shoot 'em up, a video game genre. But in this case the smup part feels more like a reference to fairies, Smurfs, or other small, whimsical fantasy humanoids that just want to eat and have fun in peace. With a little mischief thrown in of course. You will order some beers, and we will now talk about the world. It's getting darker now and the city is lighting up. I love a sense of possibility the bright signs in a city night seem to radiate, like anything could happen. What, isn't this supposed to be ramp fiction, the story of you, an adventurer, or was that you back there, the multi-colored rag doll explorer, from another dream? The beers come, We ordered the sour beers, this new sour flavor, didn't you have some a few weeks ago, and weren't too impressed at the time, but now you're been thinking about it, and want more. This is the story of you having beer in a whimsical town, all the jolly people skulking by with scowls and sadness, as they are not happy with the life they lead in this magic town. Can we help them? Can we put on a puppet show for them, to help them forget their pathetic life. But we need to set forth on an exploration, we need to find the museum, because tonight, Thusday night, is the night they stay open late. They may even have a sleepover night tonight, where you can stay overnight in the museum. But we probably would have had to get tickets in advance. And I think you need to bring your own sleeping bag and other such things. But we can still go and hope for it to be a magic museum with magic fun times. But hold on – can this town have a real giant backdrop of mountains at the edge of it – it doesn't make sense. What could be holding it up, it was a huge flat image of a mountainous terrain. This is all meant to be a place you can be in, you can live in, but it is just a phantom thought, just an audio paragraph read by the woman computer voice, your friend in this most excellent trip. We finish the sour beer, after having some kick-ass onion rings, and are feeling good, and pay the bill. Off to the museum we go, it is called the Museum of the Inhibited Smup. It is all about a smup, like a little goblin kind of guy, who is inhibited in life and has trouble enjoying the magical hijinks. Each room, or exhibit, features detailed dioramas of the smup and his difficulties in life. We just find the nearest door marked do not enter, and rip open the door and run into the darkness within, into the basement of the pointless museum, where there is one last exhibit. It looks very old, and in ancient writing over the top it says, "Ramp Fiction, Magic Smup, read to you by the computer woman". It is a scale model of you, listening to this, hunched over and enthralled by these words, as the real world, your real world, is shown in a backdrop of the exhibit, and you are there.

I know you were wondering what this whole Nightstation thing was all about. That's why we came here to the Weasel Village Mall. They have a great Nightstation location here. They built it while they were adding a wing to the mall, so they were able to integrate their trains into the architecture of the mall. Going high up by the glass ceiling, on a winding elevated track over the food court, and even looking down into some of the stores. So it's right over this way. I hear they have a new trip that just got released this week. Let's walk past the statue of Lamar the Macho Chemist. And I hear they're opening up a Magic Smup restaurant over there, but the hoarding isn't up yet. Wow, see, look up there, that's one of the tracks, you should see a Nightstation train coming around the corner any... oh there it is! The black and red hot rod train! I love that one. Maybe we'll get that one. I wonder what trip they're on. At this location they have six different trips, and they are updating them all the time. But of course the old trips go into storage, but sometimes they bring them back, or set them up at other Nightstation locations. One that I loved, they had a few years ago, was Bortle-Scoville Cyber City, really almost felt like you were inside the movie Tron. But the sets and the projections were kind of rudimentary. I mean, the large, boxy shapes that are associated with cyberspace were easier to build. And their techniques have become much more advanced since then. But I heard a rumor they might be bring it back totally rebuilt, like redone from the ground up. I really hope they do it, but of course there are so many new trips they're working on. And... right around the corner here... there it is! Yeah I know, the line is super long, but I made a reservation, so we can go into member's entrance, since I'm a member. The entrance area is always so exciting. The trains going by on three levels, it's so cool when you're on a trip, and you're so immersed in the world of the trip, but then in the middle you pop right out back in the queue area, it's kind of disorienting, and then back into the trip. And also, what they built at this location, really a cool idea, is there's an interior train station inside – where you can stop, and hang out. There are some observation decks to look into some of the other trips, a snack bar, rest rooms, and an arcade. When you're ready to continue your trip, your ticket is coded to make sure to continue where you left off from. I know some people who just hang out in there for hours – and they don't seem to mind, the Nightstation people. Oh wow, there aren't many folks on line here, great. We should be able to get on before too long. And see that panel up there? The front will slide down and there's a little puppet show in there. You know, the recurring Nightstation characters. There are all sorts of little details, and you could come here every day for a month, and some of these things, you might just get a look at once or twice, it's really made for people to keep returning, it never gets old. I think that was one of the concerns the investors had at the beginning – yeah, at Disney World or wherever, people only go there every few years. But at a mall, say, you want repeat business – so it can't be boring. But Nightstation made sure, not only do they add new rides often, but each time you ride it, there are secrets and hidden things, so that no two rides are ever the same. Let's go in, shall we?
