FRANK EDWARD NORA

Onsug Radio Book
Digital Edition Intro
November 2025

by Frank Edward Nora

This Digital Edition is a companion to the Print Edition of the Onsug Radio Book.

It contains the following:

Onsug Radio Book – Print Edition
Published in December 2023, and containing listings up to October 2023.
Available to purchase here: https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0CR7ZVS5B
It will be several years before a new print edition.

Onsug Radio Book –Text Updates
A less-formatted update to the contents of the Print Edition.
(Updating using the format of the Print Edition would be too time-consuming.)

Grand Chronology
List of all shows in Onsug Radio by release date.

Channel List
List of shows as they are organized on The Internet Archive (Archive.org)
https://archive.org/details/onsugradio

Digital Extension
Individual sections with the list of shows, including show notes, and show art in some cases.

Whychock Revival
"The Epic Psychedelic Gen X Poem", which Frank spent 30 years writing.

Find all of these in the table of contents folllowing this page.

The Onsug is a non-commercial project. Digital versions of this book and set of files are available online free of charge, as far as circumstances allow. The print-on-demand book is priced as low as possible.

First Edition – December 2023

YOU CAN SPEND YEARS LISTENING TO THESE SHOWS.

The entire archive of over 11,000 shows can be heard here:

archive.org/details/onsugradio

How it works: browse through this book and find a show to listen to. Here's an example listing:

□ Overnightscape Central – Onsugland (9/1/15) 2:46:26 [307]

The 3-digit number if brackets, "[307]" in this example, is the channel number. On the site above, find that channel number, click it, and the show you're looking for will be on that page. You can download the audio, or play it right on the page. You can mark the checkbox when you're done, to keep track of what you've listened to.

This is a non-commercial project. All shows are released under Creative Commons licenses, and are meant to be freely shared in a non-commercial way.

In the future, we'll be including these files inside the book itself – but we're still working on the best way to do that.

You can always get the latest news here: onsug.com/book

This book is dedicated to my wife Denice, for her endless support of my work on this strange, wonderful project.

INTRODUCTION

by Frank Edward Nora
October 2021

The Onsug is a radio station that's meant to be enjoyed by listeners in both the near and far future. That's why it's inside a book. We never had a building or a transmitter, and websites and social media pages are ephemeral, but a book is much more resilient as an object to carry our shows into the future.

It all began on the "last odd day" any of us will see – November 19, 1999. 11/19/1999 has all odd digits. That won't happen again till January 1, 3111 – over 1,000 years from now. That was the day I started Bluffcosm.com, with the intent of it being a kind of virtual world.

A few months later, in March 2000 I changed the focus to an Internet radio station. Three years later, in March 2003, I started my show, The Overnightscape. In 2007 I started The Overnightscape Underground, and by September 2009, other hosts started to join what had now become a kind of network.

With the name eventually shortened to The Onsug, the channel grew and grew till today we have a massive archive of over 10,000 shows and nearly 12,000 hours of audio. See "The Onsug Story" for a much more detailed account of how this all happened.

The Onsug is unique in several ways – its fully-archived, huge amount of audio – its focus on listeners in both the near and far future – its non-commercial nature – and the unique "rampling" style of the shows.

This book contains a full listing of all the shows. You are encouraged to listen in any order you like – they don't need to be heard in any particular sequence.

With so much amazing stuff to choose from, The Onsug can be a little overwhelming at first. But rest assured, as you become more familiar with the various hosts and shows, you'll find it much easier to navigate and find shows that will be keeping you company for many years to come.

This book can take several forms. As a physical, print-on-demand book, it can be a constant companion on your Onsug journey. Also, get additional copies to put on as many bookshelves as possible, so folks in the future can discover The Onsug.

There's also the digital version (currently a PDF file) – which contains "The Digital Extension" – thousands of pages of additional content that can't fit in the print book – The Treasury (all the show notes and the show art larger and in color), and the full list in 3 other forms – The Grand Chronology, The Old Channel List, and The Shuffle.

The Onsug can also exist in virtual reality, as a book, and when that happens, please put it on as many virtual bookshelves as possible, also!

And perhaps most importantly, the book exists in the mind – to help define and give context to this unique project.

Now of course the main content of The Onsug is the audio itself – and it is our long-term goal to include the audio inside the book as much as practically possible.

For this edition, I've included a QR code and URL at the start of the book which leads to the current repository of the archive, on Archive.org.

But there is also another set of files, reorganized specifically for this book. It's my intention to make these files available, and to include with the book, at a future date.

As the files are over 600 GB, it would take a 1 TB drive to store them. These are still relatively expensive, and haven't been falling in price as quickly as storage has in the past, which limits our options, especially considering that we're a non-commercial project.

As an alternative, I've converted the audio to a lo-fi mono format (similar in sound to AM radio), allowing the archive to fit in 128 GB – for which flash or SD cards are under $20 currently.

I'm working on ideas – such as making a small flash drive available to stick on the inside back cover of the book. Also, there are MP3 players available online for around $20 which can use a 128 GB Micro SD card – so for $40 you can have all the entire archive to play without needing to be online. The ultimate goal would be to physically incorporate such as system within the book itself – so that the book itself would play the audio. But that's a ways off.

As a listener, whether in the near or far future, you can help to keep this project going, by making the book and the files available in your time, and making sure those in your future will also have access.

Spread the word – The Onsug really is a lifetime of listening pleasure, and we want to share it far and wide.

Enjoy exploring The Onsug!

UPDATE – December 2023

The name of the project has been changed to "Onsug Radio". There is a lot more audio, but it still fits in one terabyte. "The Shuffle" has been removed from The Digital Extension. I'm still trying to figure out how to incorporate the audio files into the physical book.

NOTE

The terms The Onsug, Onsug, Onsug Radio, and The Overnightscape Underground all refer to the same project. In 2023, the main name of the project moving forward was established as Onsug Radio.

THE ONSUG STORY

by Frank Edward Nora
October 2021

I've wanted to do radio shows as long as I can remember.

When I was two years old in 1969, my father interviewed me on tape, and you can tell I was enjoying doing some recording.

In the next few years, I did more of my own recordings on that same ancient tape recorder. Then on my tenth birthday, in 1977, I got a tape recorder of my own, and recorded tons of 70s kid parodies of TV shows and the like.

Looking for a college to go to in 1985, I remember always asking about the radio station, and being interested in doing a show.

I wound up going to Drew University, in Madison, NJ, in Fall 1985. There I met "Mad Mike" and the following semester we started a comedy radio show on the college radio station, WMNJ, called "Anything But Monday".

After a few months we were kicked off the air for "offensive" humor, and continued the show as a magazine. In Fall 1986, we returned the airwaves and continued the magazine.

The show lasted till 1988, but the magazine became our big project, and we published it nationally as a comic book from 1988–1989.

Come 1990, the magazine and radio show were finished, and I kept working on my own experimental publications. Also that year, I produced a video series called "Beublin A. Richardson" with my friend Peter Litkey.

In 1991, Peter and I produced a show on tape in his basement room called "Train Crap & Blood" – really a kind of proto-podcast – but there was no way to distribute it, other than giving a few cassette copies to friends.

In 1994, I started my Obliviana project with an e-zine, followed by a website in 1995. This was a kind of occult game and entertainment project which never had much of a following.

In 1999, I registered the domain name "Bluffcosm.com", and initially thought it would be a kind of online virtual world. But a few months later, in March 2000, I decided to make it into an online radio station.

In 2000, web hosting came with very little storage space, so I could only have a few hours of MP3s on my site at any given time. But I was able to host my audio on MP3.com, an early Internet audio site.

For the next few years, I released a number of "Blufftoons" on MP3.com. At the same time, I was working with my wife and her sister Carrie on the band Fuzzy Daupner, joined by Rob DiCaterino (later of The Paunch Stevenson Show) and Phil Mould from England.

By 2002, Fuzzy Daupner had broken up, and Bluffcosm was stalled. But I had acquired a massive archive of The Jean Shepherd Show – and I spent over a year listening every day.

Jean Shepherd, best known for the film A Christmas Story (1983), did a monologue show on NYC radio station WOR from the mid-1950s to 1977.

He never had any guests – he just talked to the audience, telling stories, talking about things he was doing, culture, philosophy, stories from his childhood, and many other things. There was something so different, so intimate about this monologue format that I decided to try it out for myself.

In 2002, I purchased audio equipment for a new project I wanted to start. I got a Shure 55SH microphone, a Joemeek MQ3 channel strip, a Behringer mixer, and a MadPlayer "generative music" device to create copyright-free background music. I had this equipment for a year before really doing anything with it.

On Thursday, March 13, 2003, I was on my way home from work in NYC, riding the PATH train back to NJ. Here's exactly what I wrote on my Palm Pilot:

3/13/03 6:54 pm
non-meta half-hour talk show, just me

3/13/03 7:03 pm
the overnightscape
nightscans

I decided to go with the name "The Overnightscape" rather than "Nightscans". Once I got home, I set up my recording system, and started the show at around 9:55 PM – just 3 hours after I came up with the idea.

That first recording was lacking in a number of ways, so I decided to set it aside and try again the next week. Thursdays were my wife Denice's bowling night, so it was a good time for me to record the show.

The next week, on March 20, I did another test episode, and this one as well was not too good, so I set it aside. These two shows are known as the "Beta Episodes".

But the following Thursday, March 27, I recorded what would become The Overnightscape #1. I released it on Bluffcosm.com soon thereafter, and the show was born!

A few weeks later, I almost started doing another show. There was a streaming Internet radio station based in Fords, NJ, called "No Holds Barred Radio". I had worked out with them that I would do a Sunday night show called "Violent Plaza" using the name Frank209, with my sister Julie as co-host.

At the last minute, however, they told me they had already promised the time slot to someone else – so I abandoned my plans for Violet Plaza. I'm happy things went this way, because looking back, Violent Plaza could have derailed The Overnightscape.

In May 2004 I decided to retire Bluffcosm, and make The Overnightscape the main thing.

I continued doing The Overnightscape weekly into 2004, with a small audience. During the Summer of 2004, podcasting was "invented" – and I found out about it in late September or early October.

I had met Bob LeMent of Static Radio in 2001. I reviewed his show on an early Internet audio links page I had set up, and he emailed to thank me. Static Radio, which began in 1999, started podcasting in September 2004, I think, and I took their RSS feed XML file and hand-edited it create an RSS feed for The Overnightscape.

The Overnightscape #86 (10/17/04) was the first episode I released as a podcast, and I've been podcasting ever since.

As I recall, I was one of the first 30–40 podcasters to list their shows on the early podcast directories.

The following month, I was contacted by a reporter for major British newspaper The Times of London. He interviewed me and featured The Overnightscape prominently in an article on podcasting in their weekend magazine.

I began adding podcasts to my NewTimeRadio.com directory – but it quickly became too much work, as thousands of new podcasts came onto the scene in 2005, so I only added a limited number of shows till May 2006, when I stopped adding new content, but I kept the site up for historical purposes.

In 2004, I started another podcast called "Daily Podcast From Another Place", using my Bluffcosm audio. It was meant to be mysterious, and only lasted a few months.

In January 2005, excited by the new world of podcasting, I decided to start doing The Overnightscape as a daily half-hour show. I did the show 7 days a week for a few months. Saturday and Sunday had been the "Weekend Showcase", where I would play different kinds of audio – starting with Beublin A, Richardson. But this led to complaints about the different tone of the episodes. By April, I eliminated the weekends and just did 5 days a week.

At this point the show was doing great – there seemed to be several thousand people listening, and there was a very active Overnightscape Forum. My father, Frank Ralph Nora, and my sister Julie, were regular guests on the show.

In June 2005 Apple added podcasting support to iTunes, which increased the podcast audience greatly. By this time, I began to use the old Obliviana "wings" logo as The Overnightscape show art.

In November 2005, I went out to the Podcast Expo in Ontario, California, and it was very exciting. The whole podcasting thing seemed ready to really take off. My show was doing well, and I was even nominated for a Podcast Award.

In December 2005, I started a new blog/podcast called "Station Unlimited", as a place to release various audio pieces that I didn't want on the main Overnightscape feed. Looking back, I see this as a forerunner to The Onsug.

The show continued into 2006, and while things were still going well, it seemed that the listening numbers had stalled at around 1,000–2,000 listeners. I had anticipated it increasing steadily.

In October 2006 I went to the Podcast Expo in Ontario, California once again, and the excitement from the first time was gone. The entire podcast scene seemed to have stalled. The predictions of massive growth from the first expo hadn't happened. I felt like an unknown face in the crowd – that all my hard work had not paid off.

Additionally, for awhile I had been a co-host on a show called Techy2 on the PodShow network. But I wasn't even invited to visit the PodShow "suite" nearby, which upset me. I quit Techy2 after that.

As soon as I got home I decided to stop with the daily shows, and just do one long weekly show. I was disillusioned, but I wanted to keep the show going. I just didn't want to spend so much time on it anymore.

My disappointment led to me being open to take on a new project shortly thereafter. I reconnected with Mad Mike, my college radio co-host, and we decided to revive the Anything But Monday Show as a premium podcast. In early 2007, we bought tons of new equipment and set up a studio. I built a new website and a premium podcast system.

By February 2007, we had a handful of subscribers, and we started doing the show weekly. But it quickly became apparent that we had bitten off more than we could chew. The workload was crushing, and after eight weeks, we were forced to pull the plug on the project.

It was a rough time for me, but I continued to record The Overnightscape regularly, though no longer on a strict weekly schedule.

Toward the end of 2007, I was working on a "secret project" which would eventually be revealed as The Overnightscape Underground.

I felt I needed a new platform in which to release more "underground" audio, without needing to maintain the tone of my main show, The Overnightscape. The "Weekend Showcase" experiment had shown me that it was important to maintain a consistent tone on the main show.

The initial format for The Overnightscape Underground was "Days" – 24-hour blocks of audio divided into tracks, with the "virtual time" given during the hosting parts. It was a very awkward and convoluted idea, and I only did 5 "Days" before changing things.

2008 arrived with me still doing The Overnightscape, and also working on The Overnightscape Underground.

By the summer, I was concerned that I was spending too much time at home doing the show, and not spending enough time with my wife, Denice. So I figured out a way of recording shows on my commute to New York City, using a digital recorder.

I decided to create a new show in August 2008 called The Rampler, using this method. Looking back, I realize that should have just kept the show as The Overnightscape, with more episodes recorded on the commute. But that's not what I did.

So, I was doing three separate projects – The Overnightscape, The Overnightscape Underground, and The Rampler. By November 2008, I decided to combine all three into a single blog/podcast called The Overnightscape Underground, at onsug.com.

Around the same time, I got involved in the "Andy Kaufman Lives" phenomenon, where a guy on Twitter was claiming to be the comedian Andy Kaufman, who rather than dying in 1984, had actually faked his death.

The Rampler got intertwined with this phenomenon, and I got a lot of new listeners from the people who were into this whole Andy Kaufman thing. I wound up interviewing this guy (who used a voice changer), and even hosted the "Andy Kaufman Press Conference" in New Brunswick, NJ in November 2008.

One of the members of the press invited to the press conference was a DJ named Bryce from WFMU. Afterward, the program director of WFMU, Ken, contacted me and asked if I'd like to try out for a show on his radio station.

2009 was dominated by WFMU for me. In the first half of the year I was developing the show, and did a number of test shows and then live fill-in shows, before getting on the Summer schedule.

I did 16 weekly shows, Saturday mornings from 2 AM to 6 AM, from June to October.

At the time I was still doing all my other projects, and I was very overloaded. By the end of August 2009, I announced that I was canceling The Overnightscape and The Rampler. I would continue with The Rampler on WFMU and The Overnightscape Underground.

A month later, near the end of September, I found out that WFMU had canceled my show without any warning. While it was a relief at some level, it left a very bitter taste.

I did my last few WFMU shows knowing it was canceled, and did shows on The Overnightscape Underground in a more causal way.

Also around this time, I created OnsugBox – a collection of all the recordings in Onsug, plus some archival material. It was definitely an important step in preserving the audio.

By mid-October, I had completed my last WFMU show, and I decided to take a "radio vacation" – a break from recording. During that time I did a lot of soul searching, and went on a trip to Austin, Texas for my sister-in-law Carrie's wedding.

I really didn't know what I was going to do, and giving up the whole thing was a distinct possibility. But after about three weeks, I returned to doing recordings on The Overnightscape Underground, in a series of shows that would eventually become The Frank Nora Show.

Around that same time, something magical happened – other people started sending me shows to put onto The Overnightscape Underground, and this was the birth of The Onsug as it is today.

For many years, people had been sending me audio to play on the show. But in May 2009, Eddie Murray from Ireland sent in a 3.5 hour "audio letter" from Manila, Philippines called "Trampler Sampler", which I put onto The Overnightscape Underground.

Then in September 2009, four more hosts sent shows in to be included on The Onsug – The Meanderer, Bob LeMent, Brian Jude, and Awesome Wes. While it was the first and last show from Wes, the other three became stalwart hosts on Onsug, with The Meanderer still active to this day.

As 2010 began, more hosts started joining Onsug, and April 2010 was a breakthrough month, with a huge number of shows and new hosts joining up. It felt like something new, something important, and maybe, finally, something that would bring us wider recognition.

At the end of May 2010, I officially started The Frank Nora Show with #1500 – counting all of my previous shows. At the time, I felt that The Overnightscape name was represented by the overall network name "The Overnightscape Underground", so I opted for the new show name that seemed to fit into the scheme of things better.

In June 2010 I recorded music from my MadPlayer and released it into the public domain as "Midnight Cassette System".

By July 2010, I was getting overwhelmed by the sheer number of shows that I needed to post to the channel. At first I proposed an idea called Rampler Commons, where hosts would upload their shows themselves to Archive.org and then place links in a forum. But this did not last long.

I created a new posting system soon thereafter, so that the hosts could post their shows to Onsug directly, without me having to do it, and this helped the situation greatly.

As 2010 wore on, the new Onsug phenomenon started cooling down a bit, and became more manageable. On the other hand, my hopes were also chilled that this was finally going to be the phase where things "took off".

In November 2010, PQ Ribber and I came up with the concept for Overnightscape Central, a weekly show where all the hosts (and listeners) were invited to record a segment on a particular topic each week. PQ, who had joined Onsug in July, offered to host and put the show together – and it's been going strong ever since.

Early in 2011, I added the complete Onsug archive to Archive.org, and made sure to upload each new monthly "Lot" there as well.

Onsug was going along well in 2011. Then, as now, Onsug seems to have achieved a strange kind of balance, with enough listeners and excitement to keep us all motivated to keep doing shows, yet never really making any upward progress in terms of listener numbers.

I did, however, become disillusioned with The Frank Nora Show, and in April I ended it and created "The Rampler Weekly", which only lasted for three weeks. I then decided to bring back The Overnightscape.

The Overnightscape returned on May 9, 2011 with episode 782, after nearly two years of absence. Of course, The Rampler and The Frank Nora Show were essentially the same show as The Overnightscape – but somehow the name of the show really did matter to me.

The return of The Overnightscape was awkward in several ways. First, I decided to split each episode up into lettered subdivisions. This only lasted for about a month, and then I went back to normal numbering.

This also made the Frank Nora Show "1500" numbering more confusing, since I was back to episode 782 of The Overnightscape.

But The Overnightscape was back to being the main show, and my rule of thumb is that I have done 950 episodes beyond The Overnightscape. So, for example, episode 1050 was the 2000th show that I had done. But I am trying to let go of all this numbering madness as best I can.

Another issue was that I decided to split The Overnightscape from The Onsug. So I was no longer releasing my show on onsug.com, but only on TheOvernightscape.com. This is an unpopular decision with the other hosts, who felt that The Onsug was dwindling without my main show on there. So I merged The Overnightscape back in with The Onsug in September 2011.

Since then, I have been releasing The Overnightscape on both onsug.com and TheOvernightscape.com – since a number of listeners wanted to be able to get my show without having to deal with all the other shows.

In the Fall of 2011 I was also working on "Trash Am Records" – a project to collect Creative Commons licensed music into "CD" compilations. I did 6 volumes, which led to "500 Song Trip" in 2012.

Also in Fall 2011 I was working on a new project called Nightstation. Nightstation is an ongoing saga in my life that has had many twists and turns. But that original Nightstation was the idea of recording long "Patches" of audio – 8 to 12 hours each – and air them as a live, streaming Internet radio station.

The idea was that we were broadcasting from an imaginary "virtual studio" with a "word on the wall" to identify each Patch. We considered it "virtual live" since when someone listens, the reality of the host and the listener "synch up".

We produced a number of Patches in just a few months – myself, PQ, Shambles, Chad and Eddie. However, managing the stream was a lot of work, and the sheer diversity of the material, much of it longform, made it hard to imagine getting many people to listen, and very few were. After just a few months, I shut the project down.

In the following months, I tried to revive Nightstation with new configurations, but nothing seemed to work – which was a shame, because there really was something there. But I do think a lot of ideas from that original Nightstation influenced many of our later shows.

2012 was solid year with tons of amazing shows, and some new hosts. The Overnightscape was back, and Overnightscape Central roared into its second year of remarkable episodes.

In August 2012, I released "500 Song Trip" – an expansion of the Trash Am Records project. I hand-selected and sequenced 500 Creative Commons licensed songs and released the set on Archive.org.

In September 2012, I release a massive new collection of public domain

MadPlayer music with “New Midnight Cassette System”.

Also in September I had an Anything But Monday reunion with Mad Mike, called “ABM 2012”. We went back to Drew University for an alumni event and broadcast from their new radio studio in the student center. It was quite an enjoyable and surreal event.

In October 2012 I released “MyVirtualBand Featured Songs” – a set of Creative Commons licensed songs from a defunct music collaboration site.

In January 2013, I added the complete archive of The Paunch Stevenson Show to Onsug. This is a show co-starring Rob, who had been in the band Fuzzy Daupner back in 2000–2001.

Also starting in January 2013, I added a new feature to The Overnightscape – the Other Side. This was a selection of music and audio clips at the end of each episode. It became the new place for me to play Creative Commons licensed music, and also the kind of audio clips I would play on Nightstation and my various other “patchwork” shows, such as Sneaky TT.

The Other Side has been a great success, and continues to this day. It’s great to be able to combine my major creative urges for audio into one show.

In March 2013, I started releasing the “Other Side Casks” – collections of the Other Sides on their own, with the idea that they would be fun to listen to by themselves. I continued releasing the Casks until mid-2014, but stopped because there didn’t seem to be much interest in them, and they are, after all, repeated material.

In March 2013, for the 10th anniversary of the show, I created “Pocket Overnightscape” – a complete Onsug archive organized into 12–24 hour “Patches” – meant to make navigating and listening to The Onsug easier.

It was a huge project, and ultimately I’m not sure how much anyone was able to get out of it. Still, it was a big stepping stone to the creation of the 2015 book, Onsug Guide. And that book, of course, led to this book, The Onsug.

In May 2013 I was interviewed for an article in The Huffington Post about the whole “Andy Kaufman Lives” phenomenon.

In September 2013, I added an audio drama from Canada to the archive, called “A Career In The Weeklies”, which was originally released on the Internet in 2003–2005. I saw that it was no longer available anywhere, and since I loved it so much, I contacted its creator, Marc Gorcey, who provided me the files and gave me permission to share them.

In December 2013, I set up a streaming Internet radio station called “Sneaky TT Broadcasting System” which aired random Other Sides, and then random Other Side tracks. It never caught on, but the streaming was cheap, so I left it going for quite some time, before pulling the plug.

The first half of 2014 for me was dominated by VR (virtual reality). I had for many years dreamed of creating my own virtual worlds. In fact, when I created Bluffcosm way back in 1999, it was meant to be a virtual world, before I changed it to an Internet radio station a few months later.

I had gotten my Oculus Rift VR Developers Kit back in November 2013, and as 2014 began, I was creating my own VR experiences with the Unity platform.

I decided to bring back Nightstation as a VR project, naming it “Nightstation VR”. The idea was to create a virtual train station with dark rides inspired by the classic Disney theme park attractions.

I did eventually finish my “Nightstation Ride One” and got it listed on the Oculus site. Then I decided to go all out and become an exhibitor at the first ever consumer VR Expo, SVVR, in Silicon Valley, in May 2014.

It was a major effort, and I had a great time at the VR Expo. But once I got home, I think it really sunk in how much time and effort would be required to take the next steps for starting a VR company, and I backed off the idea. I've tried to revive Nightstation several times since then, to no avail.

So yet another big project with a lot of potential collapsed around me... after the daily shows of 2005–2006, the ABM Show in 2007, and the WFMU show in 2009... there seems to be a pattern of me taking on big projects only to have them fall apart.

But of course, all through these experiences, I've been doing The Overnightscape, and telling the stories, with all the little ins and outs, of these events... so I don't see these difficult experiences as a complete waste of time and energy. They are part of the narrative.

For the 11th Anniversary of The Overnightscape I released "The Frank Nora Time Machine" – a collection of 44 episodes spanning the entire history of the show. (Jimbo would later use the name for a series he made about my show.)

In August 2014 I went to Toronto, recording The Overnightscape in another country for the first time.

Also in August I tried out a new project called "Earweird" – putting collections of Other Side audio onto YouTube. It was a brief experiment that didn't go anywhere.

In September 2014, I was interviewed for a documentary film about Andy Kaufman called "Kaufman Lives". As of today, seven years later, the movie has still not been released.

In January 2015 I began "The Night Pool", a show composed of random 5-minute clips from the entire Onsug archive. It was a very fascinating and very different kind of show, and it provided a fascinating glimpse into the nature of the enormous Onsug archive. I did 22 episodes before ending the series in early 2016. From late 2016 into 2017 I did a similar show called "The Onsug Project".

In early 2015 I had started working on the first print book which would list all the shows in The Onsug. It was a big project, and by May, I released "Onsug Radio: Your gateway to the audio universe of The Overnightscape Underground".

It was a print-on-demand book that was available on Amazon. I also released a PDF version for free.

Compared with this book, it was much slimmer – around 200 pages as opposed to the 700 pages in this new book. And it didn't have any of the show art.

While it didn't sell many copies, as far as I can tell (I can't figure out how to log into the old account), it was a major step forward to have an actual physical book which told the story of and listed all the shows of The Onsug. And, of course, it paved the way for this much improved volume!

At the same time – around May 2015 – I got laid off from my day job in financial marketing in Midtown Manhattan – a job I had had for 10 years. After a few months of being unemployed, I got a new job, in retail marketing, also in Midtown Manhattan, which I have held on to to this day.

In the early days at that job, I felt rather isolated, and what really helped was that I dove deep down the rabbit holes of the music of The Grateful Dead and Phish, a journey which continues to this day.

Also around this same time, May 2015, Jimbo (from Georgia) started doing his show "Hey Everybody, It's Jimbo!". He had been involved in The Onsug since 2013, but he became a major presence on the channel, even taking over hosting duties on Overnightscape Central for a year. That ended when he sadly passed away in November 2017.

I am so happy we were able to provide a radio home to Jimbo for the last few years of his life. He made an indelible impact on The Onsug, and will continue to for all future listeners.

2015 also represents the last big wave of new hosts joining the channel. Whatever unknown magic had brought so many new hosts in in 2010, it was on the wane after 2015. Yet still, we have been producing consistent, and consistently high-quality, shows every month since then.

When the last book was released, there was 8.8 months of audio in the archive. Now, six years later, there's 16.3 months – an increase of 7.5 months – so we've been busy.

Doc Sleaze from England, who had been contributing to Overnightscape Central since 2012, started hosting his own show in August 2015 with Sleazecast.

Longtime listener Cali Dingo never hosted his own show, but in 2015 he started contributing to Overnightscape Central, and did 51 shows before stopping in 2018.

Ruben from Australia had been doing his own Rubenerd Show since 2005, and was a longtime listener. In June 2015 he started posting his shows on The Onsug, and I embarked on a project to add his entire back catalogue to the archive. His partner Clara began her show, Snake Tea Podcast, the following month, July 2015.

Marc Rose from Portland, Oregon, another longtime listener, started doing his Fusebox show in February 2015, along with co-host Milt Kanes. It's unique blend of audio production and comedy that continues to the present.

After 2015, only a few new hosts have joined the channel.

Dave in Kentucky came on board in 2017 as a stalwart contributor to Overnightscape Central. He started doing his own shows in 2018.

Dave in Wisconsin was also a regular contributor to the Central, from 2017 to 2019. He was a friend of Jimbo's, and helped greatly with information about Jimbo after his passing.

My brother John has been on my show many times, and in 2019 he started his own show, "Combat Zone", with his friend Mark from Boston.

In July 2015 I set up the "Onsug Saloon", a page with a chatroom playing a streaming station with random Onsug shows. It was an interesting idea, but it didn't last long.

In September 2015 I released "Onsug Stash", with the entire archive on one page, using lo-fi audio MP3s up to 90 hours each. It was a precursor to our current "Pocket Edition".

Over the years I had constantly been reorganizing The Onsug archive, and in May of 2016, I put together the best version yet with "Onsug Radio" – on Archive.org – which sorted the content by show to make listening easier than ever. This is still the version we are using today. The next system, based on this book, is not quite ready for prime time yet, but it will arrive at some point.

In October 2016, Ruben and Clara from Australia visited the US and we did three episodes of The Overnightscape together in New York and New Jersey.

From 2016 to 2019, things were running smoothly in The Onsug with no big changes. In August 2019, I went on a big trip to Europe – the first time I recorded my show overseas.

2020, of course, brought the Coronavirus Pandemic, with the big change of me working from home starting in March. I took the opportunity to take daily walks around my town – which I had really not done before. It made for a new and different tone for The Overnightscape.

Most of the other shows also continued on in a mostly similar way, as shows on The Onsug are usually solo recordings, and as such, were not greatly affected by the pandemic lockdowns.

Neal from Ireland was a major presence on The Onsug for many years, doing 42 episodes of Central from 2010 to 2015, and his own short-lived "Over Your Head" show from 2010 to 2011. However, he never wanted to include his main show, "Into Your Head", in The Onsug. 792 episodes were produced between 2006 and 2016.

In 2020, I contacted Neal, and though many of the episodes were lost, I was able to locate and release 221 episodes of Into Your Head. In March I added them to the archive, with Neal's blessing.

Picking up on the video-conferencing zeitgeist of 2020, I started the group show "The Exit Ramp", on Google Hangouts at first, then on Zoom. It brought together hosts and listeners for a long group chat in video that was released in audio. We are still doing it monthly.

Some stalwart Exit Ramp participants that don't have their own regular shows are Jan Erik from Norway, Matt from Scotland (aka Dadaist), Nate in Wisconsin, Joe Gipson, and Simon from Nevada.

2021 has been a rough year is some ways… the pandemic raged on far longer than expected, winter brought endless snowstorms, and I lost my mother to cancer in April.

At the start of 2021 I started work in earnest on the next version of the book, calling it "Onsug Radio Companion". On March 25, recording some audio notes while walking around town, I came upon the idea of "A Radio Station Inside a Book". Awhile later, I renamed the book "The Onsug – A Radio Station Inside a Book".

For many years I'd been struggling with the project having two names – "The Overnightscape Underground" and "Onsug". With this book, I finally decided to choose one, so it could carry forth with a single identity – "The Onsug".

Also, this is not just a book, but the form the project will move into the future with. The book and the project are one thing, "The Onsug – A Radio Station Inside a Book".

One aspect of The Onsug that was not well-archived was the show art. So, earlier this year, I embarked on the "Show Art Project" which took many months to complete. I located and archived every piece of show art, using the highest-resolution versions I could find.

Once this was done, I was able to start putting the new book together. I reorganized all the content, and included every piece of show art – over 6,000 pieces.

I've been working on the book every day for many months now, and I'm close to finishing it. I ordered a proof copy a week or two ago and it looks great. I am hoping to release it soon.

So that brings us up to date on The Onsug Story. This new book starts a new chapter in Onsug history – a simple form to contain a rich and complex audio universe.

There is nothing else in the world like The Onsug – it has grown into a truly unique project, And, as you are reading this right now, you know about The Onsug – and if you are so inclined, you can spend years delving into its depths.

Enjoy!

THE ONSUG STORY UPDATES

November 2022

It's now been over a year since the book was released. While it hasn't generated much sales or interest, it's still been of great importance in charting the future of The Onsug.

In September 2021, Jeff from Houston contacted me about archiving The Meandering Mouse in The Onsug. I was happy to do it, as I've known Jeff for a long time, and his rambling, wandering style fits in well with The Onsug. And I'm also a lifelong Disney Parks fan.

In late 2021, I started the Tape Land Video project, transfering my old original videos to digital and releasing them. It's been a real treasure trove of amazing content, with lots more to come.

In February 2022, I released "Early Eddie: TedPod and Conspiracast (2005-2008)", many episodes from Eddie' Murray's early pre-Onsug podcasts. It's always important to me to try and preserve early podcast history.

In May 2022, I visited PQ Ribber in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico.

Otherwise, things have been going as normal – we are continuing to produce our audio content on a consistent basis, adding to the massive audio archive of The Onsug.

Now, in November 2022, I've embarked on creating the next edition of The Onsug book, which I'm planning to release next summer.

December 2023

The next edition of the book is finally close to completion. Its gone through a couple of name changes from "The Onsug"... first as "The Overnightscape Underground" and finally "Onsug Radio".

Ultimately, I felt that the name of the book itself needed to contain as much information as possible – and "Onsug Radio" conveys the idea that it's a radio project with a weird name... a good first impression for this project.

This year has had several highs and lows, starting off with the 20th Anniversary of The Overnightscape in March. I set up my old equipment and did a series of three shows over three weeks matching the origins of the show in March 2003.

Almost immediately after that, my father, Frank Ralph Nora, got sick, and passed away in May. I put together a collection of my interviews with him on The Overnightscape called "Frank Ralph Nora Forever".

In September, my wife Denice and I went on an amazing trip to Italy – presented on five episodes of The Overnightscape. It was an intense and mind-expanding trip, and the shows take you on every step of the journey.

Then, a few weeks after we got back, my wife broke her shoulder, and wound up needing a shoulder replacement. It's been a long recovery but she is doing better now.

I've continued The Exit Ramp on a monthly basis, and there is still a good turnout for each episode.

In December 2022, Maverick88 in Texas joined Onsug Radio with his show "Post-Arlen Monologix". He grew up in the same neighborhood as me in New Jersey, and his stories and perspectives are a great addition to Onsug Radio.

Over the Summer, James from Scotland joined the channel briefly with his "James' Coffee Blog Show" – it was great stuff – I hope he returns sometime!

In July I released the 500-song "Leisure Cassette System" – more MadPlayer music, this time intended for the Onsug Radio "Broadcast" concept. I did several test shows for this format, such as "Onsug Radio Previews", but figuring it all out remains elusive.

In October, Neal from Ireland revived his show "Into Your Head", after a 7 year hiatus. The new episodes are included in Onsug Radio.

In November, PQ ended his incredible 13 year run on Overnightscape Central (with one year being hosted by Jimbo). Dave in Kentucky will take the show over, as a monthly release.

Also in November I arrived at the current set of rules for my game "Flea Devil Solitaire". In development for 16 years, the game has come a long way. See the rules toward the back of this book. It's a great game to play while listening to Onsug Radio!

I am looking forward to another great year of Onsug Radio in 2024.

LISTENING TOKENS

Listening Tokens are emoji you can collect by listening to a set of shows. The idea is that when you listen to a playlist, you can add the emoji to your collection. This process may be automated in the future, but for now it is a manual process.

THE HOSTS

October 2021

Frank Edward Nora from New Jersey started it all with The Overnightscape in March 2003. In 2007, he started The Overnightscape Underground as a side project, and by 2009 it became a network of shows, eventually called The Onsug. The Rampler arrived in 2008 as another side project, and in 2009 it was briefly on the radio airwaves of WFMU. In the Fall of 2009, Frank ran into some chaos, ending his existing shows and starting The Frank Nora Show. By 2011, The Overnightscape was back, and it's been going strong ever since. As part of The Three Weasels, Frank is known as Shellshock Weasel.

PQ Ribber from Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, joined The Onsug in June 2010 with Conspiracy of the Insignificant. He's done numerous different shows, producing more content on Onsug than anyone besides Frank. Since 2013 he's been doing Quaquaversal Satellite. In late 2010, he began Overnightscape Central, where all The Onsug hosts are invited to record on a particular topic each week.

Jimbo from Georgia joined Onsug in 2013 as a contributor to PQ's shows Pop Culture qd and Quaquaversal Satellite. In 2014, he produced Saved from Oblivion. In 2015, he began The Frank Nora Time Machine – going back to the beginning of The Overnightscape and playing clips from each show. Also in 2015, be started his main show, Hey Everybody, it's Jimbo! Jimbo was also the world's foremost authority on old time radio show Vic and Sade, and he started The Vic and Sadecast in 2016. Also in 2016, he created the scripted comedy series Hometownville. That year he also took over as host of Overnightscape Central. Sadly, he passed away the following year, in November 2017 – but his voice lives on here in The Onsug.

Shambles Constant from Illinois is one of the most prolific hosts on The Onsug, producing a number of different shows, sometimes taking long breaks between waves of content. He came on board in December 2011 with Anybody's Guess, which he renamed The Shambleshow the following month. Since 2013, he's had a series of shows: Eclectic Symmetry, Garble House, Radio Free Shambles, Middle-Eight Dream State, and more.

Chad Bowers from Alabama (also having lived in Texas) came on board in April 2010 with a distinctive surreal style on Chadcast. He's also a stalwart contributor to Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp, and is known for his experimental audio pieces.

Doc Sleaze from England arrived on The Onsug in 2012. He's one of the most prolific contributors to Overnightscape Central, with 282 appearances thus far. In 2015 he started doing his own shows: Sleazecast, Schlock Express, DS, and Doc Sleaze. He met Frank in London in 2019 for Frank's first overseas Onsug meetup.

Dave in Kentucky arrived on The Onsug in 2017 and has done a series of great shows: Themes Like Old Times, Into the Time Warp, Halloween Special, The Closet Excavationist, Killer Serials, Blues, Views & Reviews, Fahrenheit 450, and SERMONS. He is also a stalwart contributor to Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

Mike Boody from Birmingham, Alabama, joined Onsug with the 18th episode of his show The Midnight Citizen in February 2011. Originally recorded in the middle of the night on his paper route, Mike's thoughts and observations hearken back to the classic age of late-night radio.

Ruben from Australia began his Rubenerd Show in January 2005 – the dawn of the podcasting era. It's been going ever since, with a few long breaks, as he's lived in Singapore, Kuala Lumpur, Adelaide, and Sydney. Ruben's been a listener to The Overnightscape for a long time, and started posting his shows on The Onsug in June 2015. Now, his entire archive is included. With his partner Clara, he visited the US in 2016 and appeared on several epiosdes of The Overnightscape.

Clara from Australia did her Snake Tea Podcast from 2015 to 2016, with several done in Cantonese Chinese. One additional episode, renamed Rock Salt Cheese, was released in 2020. With her partner Ruben, she visited the US in 2016 and appeared on several epiosdes of The Overnightscape. She is also a frequent guest on his Rubenerd Show.

Eddie Murray from Ireland was the first host to join Onsug in May 2009 with Trampler Sampler. He continued the series as Trampler starting in October 2010, and changed the name to Cloud Base 44 in December 2011. In September 2016 he changed the name again, to The Wool Gathering.

Rob DiCaterino and Greg Izzi from New Jersey started The Paunch Stevenson Show, "The Ultimate Pop Culture Podcast", way back in October 2005. Frank added their complete archive to The Onsug in January 2013, and posts all their new episodes as well. Rob has known Frank since 2000, when they were both part of the band Fuzzy Daupner.

Marc Rose and Milt Kanes from Portland, Oregon, came on board in February 2015 with Fusebox, bringing a new level of audio production and weirdness to The Onsug.

Manny the Mailman from New Jersey launched Special Delivery on The Onsug in April 2010, and continued it till 2015. He's also joined Frank and Roel from the Netherlands on many Overnightscape Adventures in and around NYC.

Roel from the Netherlands is a long-time friend of The Onsug and has joined Frank and Manny the Mailman on numerous Overnightscape Adventures.

Bi-Coastal Becky has been a listener since 2004. Frank met her in 2005 when he went to California and she picked him up at the airport and took him to Disneyland and Ontario Mills Mall. She was Becky From California until 2010, when she started her show, Bi-Coastal Becky, and began contributing to Overnightscape Central. She has sent boxes of snacks and beverages for him to review, and was a subscriber to the ABM Show.

Neal from Ireland has been a long-time friend of The Onsug. His show, Into Your Head, ran from 2006 to 2016 with 792 episodes – but it wasn't on The Onsug. He did a special version of it for The Onsug called Over Your Head in 2010 and 2011. While much of Into Your Head was lost, in March 2020 we added 221 episodes to The Onsug with Neal's blessing.

The Meanderer was the second host to join The Onsug, in September 2009. He's been doing shows on and off ever since, and is known for his unique longform rampling style.

Smidge Kurdlebaum (aka Byron Duddle) from Illinois is the host of Gunkcast, and has shared many episodes on The Onsug starting in 2012.

Brazen Gestures from Berlin, Germany has been doing his show, Brazen Gestures, occasionally since 2014.

Peter Litkey (aka Joker Weasel) from New Jersey met Frank at a birth control factory in 1986. He was Frank's co-host on Bluffcosm.com, starred in Beublin A. Richardson, and is a member of The Three Weasels on their many ongoing adventures.

Bryan Cassidy (aka Phantom Weasel) from Pennsylvania met Frank on the first day of college in 1985. When they realized they both lived in room 209 in adjoining dorms, the 209 phenomenon was born. As a member of The Three Weasels he has participated in innumerable adventures.

Peter Bernard from New York produced the 418 Show in 2010, as well as the cartoon-based Americast in 2010 and 2011. He's also contributed to many of PQ Ribber's shows. Independently, he also got into the number 209 in 1985.

Bob LeMent from Illinois did Morning Commute (with Bob), recording weekly on his drive into St. Louis, from 2009 to 2015. Bob also hosts a show that's not on Onsug, Static Radio, which has been going since 1999.

Brian Jude from New Jersey joined The Onsug in September 2009 with The Brian Jude Show, which continued till December 2011. In 2012, Brian did two more shows, Manifesting Mastermind and Success Odyssey.

Wayne Reichert from Long Island, NY, joined The Onsug in February 2010, with a reboot of his show Sparetime Radio. He had a great run of shows, and was a big presence on The Onsug till 2012.

Jim & Lillian Fidler from Newfoundland, Canada, joined Onsug in December 2009 with Republic of Avalon Radio. They've shared a number of episodes of the show on The Onsug over the years.

Mark from England (aka Hootie1233) from Newcastle, England, did Across the Pond from 2010 to 2015, with his perspectives on pop culture, politics, celebrity and everything in-between.

Carrie Michel, originally from Texas, now in Colorado, brought The Carrie Michel Show to Onsug from 2011 to 2016, playing music and Old Time Radio shows, talking about her journeys in life, and much more.

Rich from North Carolina did I'm Just Sayin' in 2010 and 2011.

Escapist did Escapist Radio in 2010, and has met up with Frank on several episodes of The Overnightscape.

Mad Mike from New Jersey was Frank's co-host on Anything But Monday, originally a college radio show starting in 1986. In 2007 it was briefly revived as a premium podcast. It has continued to occasionally return over the years.

Simon from Nevada told his Scary Stories from 2010 to 2012. More recently, he's appeared on The Exit Ramp.

Joe Gipson from Illinois co-hosted Comicversal with PQ Ribber and has appeared on Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

Longtime listener Cali Dingo from California had an amazing run of 51 appearances on Overnightscape Central from 2015 to 2018

Longtime listener Nate from Wisconsin has appeared on a number of episodes of Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

Longtime listener Jan Erik from Norway has appeared on The Overnightscape, Overnightscape Central, and The Exit Ramp.

Q and Twila from California star in Here in Heck, co-hosted by PQ Ribber.

Stephen Jules Ruben from New Mexico has been a guest on many of PQ Ribber's shows.

Coptic Nerve from New Mexico has been a guest on many of PQ Ribber's shows.

Frank's father, Frank Ralph Nora, and Frank's sister Julie, both from New Jersey, appeared on many episodes in the early days of The Overnightscape.

Frank's brother, John Nora (from New Jersey, currently living in New York) has appeared on many episodes of The Overnightscape, and started his own show, Combat Zone, in 2019, with his friend from Mark from Boston.

Geoff Sink from Utah brought his audio drama series The Unbodied to The Onsug in 2010 and 2011. His monologue series The Echo Dispatch was on in 2013. He was also a stalwart contributor to Overnightscape Central.

Longtime listener Matt from Scotland (aka Dadaist) met up with Frank and Manny for an Overnightscape Adventure in 2015, and has appeared on many episodes of The Exit Ramp.

Frank's wife Denice (from New Jersey) has appeared on many episodes of The Overnightscape, and has been endlessly supportive of Frank's work on The Onsug.

Frank's sister-in-law Carrie Ann Carroll (originally from New Jersey, now in Texas) led the band Fuzzy Daupner, and her and her husband Joe Carroll (also originally from New Jersey, and now in Texas) have appeared on many episodes of The Overnightscape and The Exit Ramp.

Longtime listener J. Wiz from Pennsylvania has appeared on The Overnightscape and has sent in some short features for the channel.

Lanza is an occasional co-host on The Paunch Stevenson Show.

Mike from Green Bay has appeared on several episodes of Overnightscape Central.

Sarjé from Minnesota did The Saint Paul Skyline for a few months in 2010.

Dave in Wisconsin made many appearances on Overnightscape Central, especially while Jimbo was the host.

Randy from California is a long-time listener and has appeared on Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

Alex from New York did Into The Ether in 2010.

scottlo (originally from the US) produced two short-lived, but truly fascinating series for Onsug in 2012 – The Pro from Dover (from Japan) and scottlo calling (from Saudi Arabia).

Mumpler is the most mysterious host in all of The Onsug. He sent in one show in 2010, Camping on Memorial Day Weekend, and was never heard from again.

Besides the shows mentioned here, check out many of these hosts on Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

Additionally, I want to thank the hundreds of other folks who have appeared on The Onsug – as guests, listeners, callers, friends, and random encounters. There are so many interesting people to meet on your journey listening to The Onsug!

UPDATE 2023

Jeff from Houston is a longtime listener ,and host of The Meandering Mouse – the premier Disney Parks podcast from 2006 to 2011. In September 2021, Jeff contacted Frank about archiving his show on Onsug Radio. Frank was happy to add it to the channel!

Maverick88 in Texas joined Onsug Radio in December 2022 with his show "Post-Arlen Monologix", adding his unique stories and perspectives to the channel He grew up in the same neighborhood as Frank in New Jersey in the 1970s.

James from Scotland joined Onsug Radio in the Summer of 2023 with his "James' Coffee Blog Show". He also appeared on one episode of The Exit Ramp. While the show has been on hiatus after five episodes, we hope he returns someday! His blog remain active at jamesg.blog.

Jefferson from Philadelphia became a stalwart participant in The Exit Ramp starting in December 2021. In the early days of podcasting, he was co-star of the Otaku Generation podcast, and met Frank at some podcasting events. He also joined The Three Weasels for an adventure (The Overnightscape 1996 – The Three Weasels Manta Ray Session (3/4/23)).

Martin in NJ/Silicon Valley met Frank at a comic book convention in NJ in the late 80s. They kept in touch, and in 2014 Martin helped Frank at a VR conference in Silicon Valley. Starting in November 2021, Martin has participated in many Exit Ramps.

Jerry A. Greene from Houston is a longtime listener, who has appeared on The Overnightscape several times. Since December 2021 he has been on many episodes of The Exit Ramp.

Ann from Suffern, NY went to college with Frank, and recently discovered Onsug Radio. Starting in February 2023 she has appeared on several Exit Ramps.

Eve from Florida is a longtime listener and supporter of The Overnightscape. Since October 2022 she has appeared on a few episodes of The Exit Ramp.

Michael Feir (and his wife Sara) from Mississauga, Ontario, Canada, is a longtime listener. Frank had years earlier encountered his online Audyssey Magazine about computer games for the blind. Since April 2023, he has appeared on a number of Exit Ramps.

Jay Forman met Frank at Video Game Connections in the 1990s, where they both worked. He has appeared on Classictronica, Beublin A. Richardson, and The Overnightscape. Since October 2022, he has appeared on several Exit Ramps.

THE LOCATION

When (or if) the “metaverse” finally arrives, Onsug Radio will be represented in 3D as a space akin to a mall video store. Instead of videos, packages representing all the shows in Onsug Radio will line the shelves. These can be taken to listening rooms, where various images are projected on the walls while listening. This idea was described in more detail on The Overnightscape #1998.

The podcasting world is still going strong as the The Overnightscape continues its daily format in the first half of 2006. The Overnightscape continues to evolve in the second half of 2006 as the podcasting craze cools down, and Frank shifts away from the daily format.

Chaos is on the rise in 2009! January through May sees the end of the classic Overnightscape era, as The Rampler takes over as Frank's main show... until 2011, when The Overnightscape returns, stronger than ever!

HIATUS

In the midst of the chaotic “Sidetrack”, The Overnightscape ceased to exist as a named show from 5/21/09 to 5/9/11. However, the show did continue, in all but name, with The Overnightscape Underground, The Rampler, and The Frank Nora Show. When it returned, The Overnightscape was stronger than ever, and has been going strong ever since.

Two years after the chaos of 2009, Frank revives his flagship show, The Overnightscape! A baffling numbering/lettering scheme is quickly done away with, and the show is really back and stronger than ever! Topics include: earthquakes, hurricanes, gazpacho, Beavis & Butthead, Pan Am, a meetup with Roel from The Netherlands, a meetup with The Human Orchestra (a band from Canada), timeline entanglement, kava kava, Frogger, tofu, and much more...

THE SIDETRACK

In 2007 The Overnightscape had been going for four years, experiencing a wild ride with its rise and semi-fall in the new world of podcasting. I was a bit disillusioned, and started all sorts of new projects. And while I did get back on track with The Overnightscape in 2011, this chaotic sidetrack led to the creation of the group channel now known as The Onsug. In this section you can find the projects from this time period...

ONSUG DAYS

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

The Overnightscape Underground ("Onsug" for short) began as an ambitious concept for freeform and longform audio content, released in 24-hour sets. These "days" contain a wide variety of material, interspersed with hosting segments by Frank. After 5 "days", Onsug switched to a monthly format, and eventually developed into the Onsug we know and love today.

Frank experiments with a new, simpler way of recording, on the streets of NYC , and The Rampler is born! This offshoot of The Overnightscape quickly takes on a life of its own. Soon, the show getting inextricably entangled in the whole "Andy Kaufman Lives" phenomenon... leading to the infamous "Andy Kaufman Press Conference".

The Rampler is on the rise in 2009, as Frank starts getting involved with WFMU. In June, The Rampler takes over as Frank's main show and he starts broadcasting a version of the show on WFMU. Then… the show on WFMU gets canceled, and The Rampler is put to rest. It was a short but wild ride, and an important stepping stone to what The Onsug would become.

In November 2008, Frank ended the "Days" system of The Overnightscape Underground ("Onsug" for short), and switched to a monthly system. This included "ug" tracks which were the hosting level of the system - the format that would eventually turn into "The Frank Nora Show". Collected here are the four "ug" tracks from November 2008. Frank was also doing The Overnightscape and The Rampler on The Onsug at this time.

THE FRANK NORA SHOW

2009 was a very chaotic year for Onsug. Frank was doing The Overnightscape, The Rampler, The Rampler on WFMU, and also running The Overnightscape Underground ("Onsug" for short). It was all too much, and by September, Frank cancels The Overnightscape and the Rampler, and then The Rampler on WFMU is cancelled, so all that's left is The Overnightscape Underground. Frank uses the "ug" hosting level tracks as his new main outlet. In October, he takes some time off with a "radio vacation", to try and figure out how to move foward. When Frank returns in November, we continues with a "show with no name" on The Overnightscape Underground as his main show. And then something amazing happens – other hosts start joining Onsug with their own shows, forming a new network... as The Onsug as we know it was born...

NIGHTSTATION CLASSIC

Hosts: Frank Edward Nora, PQ Ribber, Shambles Constant, Chad Bowers, Eddie Murray

Nightstation began as an experiment in Internet radio, with the idea of creating "virtual live" broadcasts. Each "patch" was around 8 hours long, and played on a streaming station. While the project didn't last long, the ideas did live on, influencing many later Onsug shows.

OVERNIGHTSCAPE DEPARTURES

Enjoy a wild variety of alternate recordings with the host of The Overnightscape, Frank Edward Nora. First, explore the Outer Boroughs of NYC with Roel from The Netherlands and Manny the Mailman. Then go with Frank to the Podcast Expo in California. And if you dare, enter the annoying yet fascinating world of "Andy Kaufman Lives". The Inramble Audio is the complete audio from a video series that never took off. The Severe Repair Universe is an incomplete reading of Frank's sci-fi novel. Many dreams are reviewed in The Dream Review. In The Box is a show designed to be listened to in an earlier incarnation of the Onsug archive called OnsugBox. Plus, a vast array of assorted audio features.

OVERNIGHTSCAPE ADVENTURES

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

The Overnightscape Adventures happen when Roel from the Netherlands visits the New York area, and get together with Frank and Manny the Mailman to go on amazing journeys. Many of these are recorded as part of Frank's main show, The Overnightscape, but some have been released on their own. These are what you will find in this section.

THE INRAMBLE AUDIO

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

In early 2008, Frank experimented with a video show, called Inramble. These "quick video trips" seemed perfect for the rapidly growing online video world. But when they failed to gain any significant viewership, Frank ended the project and decided to stick with audio. This is the complete audio from that project (the videos are still available on YouTube).

THE SEVERE REPAIR UNIVERSE

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

Frank had spent years trying to write his science fiction novel “Severe Repair”, before giving up and releasing all the incomplete parts as “The Broken Text”. In 2010 he started reading the novel, along with commentary. But this project also didn’t get too far before being suspended and left incomplete...

SNEAKY TT

Sneaky TT began as an experimental video series where Frank commented on public domain videos. Then it became a show where Frank hosted various audio clips and music. Macho Condor used similar audio material, but without commentary. Additional experimental shows involved the curation of a wide variety of material. These ideas eventually led to the Other Side of The Overnightscape.

HIGHWAY 209

Curated by Frank Edward Nora

Highway 209 is an imaginary video game where you drive around the US and Canada at night, listening to the radio. There's over three hours of audio for each of the 64 states/provinces. The tracks were originally played on the Other Side of The Overnightscape.

FRANK RALPH NORA FOREVER

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

Frank Edward Nora's father, Frank Ralph Nora, passed away on May 11, 2023 at age 81. To celebrate his father's life, Frank has collected all of the interviews he did with him on his podcast, The Overnightscape. Starting in 2005, FRN started telling stories from his days in the Navy, in Liberia in the early 1960s. After that he explored a multitude of topics, including trips, experiences working as a civil engineer in New Jersey, eccentric people he has met, and much more. Also included are several older recordings (1969-1986) featuring FRN.

THE COSM

Starting in March 2000, Bluffcosm.com was my first Internet radio project. My co-host Peter and I created original material for the station, but I also incorporated a lot of my older recordings. My friend Bryan eventually joined Peter and I to become "The Three Weasels", a side-project that still continues to this day. I also included my old college radio "Anything But Monday" recordings with "Mad" Mike – another side project that has continued. And I continue to delve into my old tapes in the Tape Land Project. So, The Cosm is the section for all these intersecting projects.

BLUFFCOSM.COM

Each recording on Bluffcosm.com was called a "Blufftoon", and they are all numbered. There were 147 in all, and they can all be found here in The Cosm.

FAILED EXPERIMENTS

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

Over the years, Frank has experimented with many different ideas for audio shows. “Stormtoon” and “Obliviana Wander Radio” were attempts to combine the 209 system with an audio feature. “Window National” was an attempt to create a feature for the podcast “Dailysonic”.

THE WEASELS

Join Frank and Peter on their zany adventures, starting with Train Crap & Blood – a comedy show recorded in Peter's basement room way back in 1991... then revived briefly in 2000. Circumstances required that the show's be name changed, so The Motor Excursion Ruffians arrived in 2001, with 5 occasional episodes recorded up to 2010. Also included are a set of random shows from 1999 to 2013, including several where Frank and Peter are joined by Bryan, forming The Three Weasels...

Bluffcosm was Frank's first Internet radio station, with Peter as co-star. It was most active in 2000 and 2001. Highlights include Blufftoon Time, Beublin A. Richardson, and so much more. It's a vast treasure trove of audio!

TRAIN CRAP & BLOOD

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora & Peter Litkey

In 1991, Train Crap & Blood was like a podcast, long before the age of podcasting. It was revived in 2000 as part of Bluffcosm, before ending, to be continued as The Motor Excursion Ruffians.

ANYTHING BUT MONDAY

Get ready for some surreal comedy (and hostility) on the amazing ABM Show! Anything But Monday began as a college radio show in 1986, starring "Mad" Mike and Frank Nora "Master of the Airwaves". In 2007, they briefly revived the show as a premium podcast, and have occasionally done new episodes since then.

ANYTHING BUT MONDAY SHOW

2007–2022
Hosted by "Mad" Mike and Frank Nora "Master of the Airwaves"

The show began in February 1986 on college radio station WMNJ at Drew University in Madison, NJ. Tapes of these original shows are being released as part of Tape Land. In 2007, Mike and Frank briefly revived the show as a premium podcast, and have done new episodes occasionally since then.

THE MUSIC

Check out this compilation of music that Frank had a hand in creating or curating. In Fuzzy Daupner, Frank wrote lyrics and co-produced. Frank created his own music under various names like Polar Lion, Little Frankie Nora, Tree Bag Ask, Midnight Cassette Ststem, and Choston Bands & Junkard Sane. He collected songs for Trash Am Records, Music for Night Driving in VR, and 500 Song Trip. He archived songs for a defunct website, MyVirtualBand. It's an eclectic collection of tunes, much of which you'll find only here.

FUZZY DAUPNER

Curated by Frank Edward Nora

Fuzzy Daupner was an obscure New Jersey rock band which, in the brief span of 3 years (1998-2001), created a catalog of 32 amazing songs. You can here all of these songs right here, along with complete lyrics. Plus, some live shows and solo performances.

FUZZY DAUPNER LYRICS

Fuzzy Daupner (Carrie Engdahl – Vocals, Guitar, Rob DiCaterino – Drums, Phil Mould – Bass, Denice Nora – Creative Direction, Frank Edward Nora – Creative Direction) was an obscure New Jersey rock band which, in the brief span of 3 years (1998-2001), created a catalog of 32 amazing songs. You can hear all of these songs right here, along with complete lyrics, below.

Fuzzy Daupner began in 1998 when Carrie Engdahl began collaborating with her sister Denice and Denice's husband Frank on creating songs. Awhile later, they joined forces with Rob DiCaterino on drums and formed the band Fuzzy Daupner. The final member, Phil Mould, from England, on bass, joined a little later.

They produced two home-recorded, Internet-distributed albums, and played many shows around New Jersey and NYC. But they never got signed and they broke up in November 2001.

FUZZY DAUPNER: THE 32 SONGS

These are all the original songs recorded and/or performed by Fuzzy Daupner. They are listed in a split alphabetical order, so The Filmography of Ann B. Davis (always a favorite to close the show) is last, which makes the namesake song "Fuzzy Daupner" first. Writing credits per song will be added in the future.

FEAR NUMBER ONE -- If I told you a story would you want to hear the end?, ‘Cause it's kinda long and it's awfully stupid, So just let me begin / It started on Michael's porch in 1984, He stuck his tongue in my mouth and I fell to the floor / He said we were playing make-believe, But pretending was never that real, And since that day, I've been afraid, Of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing / His mom saw us and she called to tell mine, My mom stood there in the kitchen and asked what's on my mind, And I said nothing, I said nothing, I said nothing, I said nothing / She asked if what she heard was true, I didn't know what to say, I wanted to tell the truth, That Michael made me play, But I said nothing, I said nothing, and I lied, and I lied / And I'm not sure why, I let this control my mind, And I'm not sure how I became such a coward / I'm not sure why, I let this control my mind, I'm not sure how, it made me such a coward, I'm such a coward, I'm such a coward, I'm such a coward, I'm such a coward / And you loved to climb my tree, And you loved to watch me pee, Always asking how it works, How am I supposed know?, I'm only seven years old, How could you expect me know?, I'm only seven years old, Seven years old / And I'm not sure if that's the reason, But it keeps my wonder sane, And maybe if this didn't happen, I'd still turn out the same, Afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing / And I wonder what would happen if the real thing came my way, What kind of excuses could I think of to say, Maybe I'd start to sing to help you understand, That I really don't want to leave it's just the way I am, Afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing

THE FILMOGRAPHY OF ANN B. DAVIS -- Boring books that other people read, About adults and their infidelities, And travelling to romantic places, These readers are wanting of sleeves with aces / Paper plates with the cartoon stars of the day, Inelegant remains of some kind of ice cream cake, As relatives are lazing the tension is phasing, And phone calls at night's-end are hoped to be pleasing / Loving life can take more juice, Than the air conditioning at a mall, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Her place in the scheme of things is just idiotic / Loving life can take more juice, Than the air conditioning at a mall, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Her place in the scheme of things is just idiotic / As lame as a fast food no-left-turn sign, Dirty fingers that prod in the produce lane, Pirates adored as the dudes of pop culture, Real ones caused misery and torture / This place is construction zones and shoe store blues, The mentally scrambled at facade-craft are ample, The toys of the ‘80s are ready and waiting, Sweaty clothes are stripped and the shower is dreaming / Loving life can take more juice, Than the air conditioning at a mall, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Her place in the scheme of things is just idiotic / Loving life can take more juice, Than the air conditioning at a mall, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Her place in the scheme of things is just idiotic / This place has crap from the past that better not last, The razor wire friends that talk empty and fresh, Loving life is a rock guitar haunting, The mall is so cold that I gotta keep running / Rows and columns of bitches from college, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Her place in the scheme of things is changing just slightly

FUZZY DAUPNER: FRINGE SONGS

Two songs exist on the fringes… Dock Watch Hollow was in development, but never finished by the time the band broke up. Ice Town was discovered when listening to the songs backwards - while most, as expected, didn't make any sense backwards, one song – Sign of the Malls – has a complete set of (mostly) intelligible lyrics when played backwards. This was completely unintentional and is a mystery. Based on the lyrics, it was titled Ice Town.

DOCK WATCH HOLLOW (lyric fragments from 7/30/01 song development tape) ...actly inspires my mind, it's all good shit and sometimes it rhymes, don't know what to call it, so I call it mine / Brief moments from the past are flashing back and we see a plastic spider ring hanging with St. Gerard in the rear view mirror in her car / Fall asleep all the time, in the TV movies of your love / Don't bother to key my mind, you'll find the lovin' all the time / You only feel guilty when you do something wrong / Lashing out at easy targets, licking wounds is our delight / Guilt's the hang glider, that flies on by

ICE TOWN (Sign of the Malls backwards) -- Now it's funny how we're all strung out on gods baby, that says they're only worth freak paranoids / It's all we can slit, of no force that I see, for the snow where I am you, for the one in ice with me / It's all we can slit, of no force that I see, for the snow where I am you, for the one in Ice Town / You should know, are we sleeping? I see yeah yeah yes, you asked me for it, no you know that / Town you should know, are we sleeping? I see yeah yeah yes, you asked me for it, no you know that / It's all we can slit, of no force that I see, for the snow where I am you, for the one in ice with me / It's all we can slit, of no force that I see, for the snow where I am you, for the one in Ice Town / You should know there was no wish mystero on all we saw, Buddy I saw Garcie Schwizers rue the night / Town you should know, there was no wish mystero on all we saw, Buddy I saw Garcie Schwizers rue the night

FUZZY DAUPNER: THE LOST LYRICS

These are three sets of lyrics that were written by Frank during the time of Fuzzy Daupner but never made into songs before the band broke up. Circa 2015, Jimbo made a few songs based on some of these lyrics. In 2021, Frank wrote a final set of lyrics, Fourtha Losta, based on notes from the time of Fuzzy Daupner. Around the same time, Frank wrote a poem, Whychock 1167, for The Overnightscape 1817, which, in one part, continues the story from The Armixhony of Conrad.

LASER BAFFLE RAG (by Frank Edward Nora, 11/29/00) -- Had an open mind about the Spice Girls movie, But it didn't deliver, Noticed your mind is alive with wizards, My blood is hot for revolution / The mushrooms and armaments in me, Weapon and war learning TV, Father Time is a stupid old liar, The sand and rust of solo desire / Minor questions, like, Was Dana Plato a loser?, Is anything ever gonna be easier?, Surf guitar, is it minimalistic?, Lozenge is eucylyptus / Is anything ever gonna be easier?, Is anything ever gonna be easier? / A Charles Nelson Reilly on caffeine,

Describes this kid to a T, In Wintercindie's bed he will not sleep, On delusions he sips like a laser bee / The mushrooms and armaments in me, Weapon and war learning TV, Father Time is a stupid old liar, The sand and rust of solo desire / Minor questions, like, Was Dana Plato a loser?, Is anything ever gonna be easier?, Surf guitar, is it minimalistic?, Lozenge is eucylyptus / Technomagical maniac vehicle, Technomagical maniac vehicle / George M. Dallas and his kingfisher Milly, Are hanging out with kittens that're silly, In a pet store window in a cold mall, Calling out, loving the mystery of it all / Calling out, Calling out, Kitten Kitten Kitten Kitten, Calling out

MOUNTAINSIDE MADNESS (1/23/00, by Frank Edward Nora) -- sexuality's an f'd up thing, but I think all in all it can pacify me, I thought strolling darkly and flicking a lighter, we're all jolly foreigners in hardship and winter / we haven't got a chance of a clue, sketching dragons with crayons in gray sexy clothes, and sometimes it surprises the jaded, who take pleasure in predicting the end of relationships / the rough-hewn glee was once a part, of fighting in the streets, when pleasure grew like weeds, in washing wells of clash and commonality / a jar of air from dreamland, a jar of air from dreamland / sexuality's an f'd up thing, but I think all in all it can pacify me, I thought strolling darkly and flicking a lighter, we're all jolly foreigners in hardship and winter / we haven't got a chance of a clue, sketching dragons with crayons in gray sexy clothes, and sometimes it surprises the jaded, who take pleasure in predicting the end of relationships / the rough-hewn glee was once a part, of fighting in the streets, when pleasure grew like weeds, in washing wells of clash and commonality / a jar of air from dreamland, a jar of air from dreamland

SNOWFLAW CAR (6/17/01, by Frank Edward Nora) -- The maniacs of the dirty scene, Have a charm and thrust that's good to see, You're a dusty mischevous thing, Movin' on road with feather and glee / Various strategies, Reaching out to the chimpanzees on TV, Detours and coffee skylines, Lovers in the outdoors having a nice time / Give me a house in winter fit for a ghost, With aspirin door beads and a neutron star, A twinkle in the eye, Of a dark old bird of prey, Drink the air and phase the rapids, At the end of day / As bookstore sidewalks crack, Daydream time's the only life attack, This place is dead you scream, And the sad old trees get what you mean / The sad old trees get what you mean / I wouldn't find fairies yawning, In the concourse just 'fore dawn, If your ice walls weren't just shattered, Fake flaws blown to Rome and Mars / Fake flaws blown to Rome and Mars / Give me a house in winter fit for a ghost, With aspirin door beads and a neutron star, A twinkle in the eye, Of a dark old bird of prey, Drink the air and phase the rapids, At the end of day / The maniacs of the dirty scene, Have a charm and thrust that's good to see, You're a dusty mischevous thing, Movin' on road with feather and glee / Movin' on road with feather and glee

FOURTHA LOSTA (Titled 5/19/21, Refine 5/21/21, Done 5/25/21) -- Little powder blue Audi TT, The First Internet Rock Band and me, Coffee is flavored with blueberry cream, England swings and tobacco is king / Summer in the astral plane, Of dollar signs and peaceful knives, Gonna punch a hole in a wall, aficianado, Cinder block wall painted black and avocado / We spend our days in losing cool, Over what we're missing, Lashing out at easy targets, Licking wounds is our delight / Food Court Logic and The Flimsy Anchor, Welcome to our stupid game, If you knew how close you were to disaster , Mr. Gleaming The Cube wouldn't be your master / KJ and the circus gray, are we sleeping, A laughing and arcade, upon the cliffsides, The

Pharidine Assaulters keep it under their hats, In Shack Bluff a night market is where it's at / And night air travel via ancient times, The harshness of this home, A jagged ride, a skylight of amperage, On witch hazel correspondence day / The lamp dainties sip off residual light, From lampshades in the pitch of night, As jumbo jets in silhouette might, If stardust flowed like anthracite / Come to me, little perfect free, A ren faire she, be zorch, daddy-o, To South Bound Brook or Dock Watch Hollow, Go bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, go Fourtha Losta

WHYCHOCK 1167 * 5/13/21 (034) -- Say you win the rat race then what. Join the caravan to the next age. You can bet your bippy there are vending machines in heaven. My kirschwasser shell is almost empty, and has no answers, man. Try The Overnightscape 1817 instead. Very humble and groovy inside your head. I'd like an 80s Waldenbooks bag, the woodcut one. A phenomenon is those four making it to the next level. Conrad awoke, the door to the paddywhack was open, there was no one to stop him.

LITTLE FRANKIE NORA

Produced by Frank Edward Nora

In 1987, at age 19, I set up a rudimentary recording studio in my parents' basement and created music as "Little Frankie Nora". The main instruments I used were a Casio SK-1 sampling keyboard and a small black-and-white TV set.

MYVIRTUALBAND FEATURED SONGS

Archived by Frank Edward Nora

MyVirtualBand.com was a music collaboration website that existed circa 2004-2006.

On the site, musicians worked together to create songs. All audio created on the site was licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 2.0 License.

In late 2006, it was announced that MyVirtualBand.com was acquired by NetMusicMakers.com. Unfortunately, this led to MyVirtualBand being completely shut down, circa 2007.

There were 113 "featured songs" on MVB. They're all included here, along with detailed attribution info (see The Digital Extension).

I love this music, and I don't think anyone else has shared this archive since the demise of MVB, so here it is for your listening pleasure!

LEISURE CASSETTE SYSTEM

by Tree Bag Ask

Sit back, relax, and chill out with Leisure Cassette System. Featuring 500 songs for over 25 hours of music, this set was created to be background music for Onsug Radio, but it can be used far beyond that. Just set it on shuffle and feel your troubles slipping away with the late night groove. Produced on a MadPlayer with software version P1.29.06, on the Cool Mix setting, by Tree Bag Ask (aka Frank Edward Nora). Mastered in Reason, with songs named in semi-random fashion using Oren Tirosh's mnemonic word list. See also Frank's previous similar projects, Midnight Cassette System (2010), New Midnight Cassette System (2012), and 500 Song Trip (2012). Released 7/20/23.

HEY EVERYBODY, IT'S JIMBO!

2015–2017
Hosted by Jimbo

Making his way from being a guest/co-host on the Quaquaversal Satellite, Jimbo tries hard to perfect his shtick, which is mostly "comedic" in tone and is sometimes combined with his own original music.

Jimbo passed away in November 2017, but his voice lives on in these archives.

THE VIC AND SADECAST

2016–2017
Hosted by Jimbo

From Jimbo: "Vic and Sade" was created and written by Paul Rhymer. For all your "Vic and Sade" needs, visit The Crazy World of Vic and Sade. Thanks to Internet audio pioneer Frank Edward Nora and ONSUG for hosting the VIC AND SADECAST. I am thankful for him and the many others who help preserve VIC AND SADE for future generations.

HOMETOWNVILLE

Hosted by Jimbo

Hometownville is a village somewhere around turn of the 20th century Alaska. They have a little technology and the government has used goats to cause the Mandela Effect. Yeah, it's really, really confusing and absurd – the way it ought to be – in a fun show!

THE FRANK NORA TIME MACHINE

2015–2016
Hosted by Jimbo

Laugh along with Jimbo as he treats us to the best all-time bits of Frank Nora. Some of these bits last seconds, some a few minutes… but none of them last 275 days – (roughly the time it would take someone to listen to every Frank Nora story.)

THE SHAMBLESHOW

Hosted by Shambles Constant

At the start of 2012, Shambles ends Anybody's Guess and starts The Shambleshow, focusing more exclusively on the longform monologue format. He also records several of his adventures, including a family vacation in Wisconsin and a visit to his childhood stomping grounds at Patterson Bay in Illinois. Topics include meeting Sophie Aldred of Doctor Who fame, a middle school stage play he was in, the Marx Brothers, the supposed end of the world on 12/21/12, and a whole lot more. The Shambleshow continues its run up until August 2013 when Shambles takes a long hiatus from recording shows.

ECLECTIC SYMMETRY

Hosted by Shambles Constant

Shambles returns to Onsug in March 2014 with a new show called Eclectic Symmetry, which he records off and on until May 2015. During this time he documents his recovery from surgery, excursions to nearby cities such as Forsyth and Dwight, and an altercation with a dandelion-hating neighbor, among other events. Also includes a complete reading of his novel, Blind Duncan's Blues.

GARBLE HOUSE

Hosted by Shambles Constant

Just before starting Radio Free Shambles, Shambles recorded an experimental series of episodes, each one between ten and fifteen minutes in length. These tiny little old shows have been resting in a tiny little old folder on his digital voice recorder for the past two months. The time has come to release them into the wild.

IMPACTED WISDOM TOOTH

Hosted by Shambles Constant

New series begins! Impacted Wisdom Tooth is the fictitious artist name I used to use when releasing my sound collages on the Internet Archive. In order to better collect these new sound collages I've been creating, I am reinstating the name for use here on The Onsug.

SOMEWHERE IN THE WHONIVERSE

Hosted by Shambles Constant

New show, that's weird… and this Internet radio program will chronicle my rewatch marathon extravaganza of the BBC series Doctor Who (1963-1989, 1996, 2005–), starting from the very beginning of the William Hartnell era in 1963.

CHAD

Chad Bowers from Mobile, Alabama was born to exotically middle-class comfort at the height of the American Experiment. He graduated from Murphy High School and worked in local theatre as a light and sound designer. He attended Auburn University and graduated as a Radio TV and Film Major. He has been a projectionist, a DJ, and a monorail pilot. He was a part of the Magic Kingdom College Program living on Disney property with other students from around the world. His college internship was at Disney Television Florida working in creative development. He was a student manager at WEGL (Auburn University) radio station and worked in commercial radio after graduation in Alabama before moving to the DFW area of Texas for FUNimation Entertainment in 2001. He later worked for Grapevine Star Entertainment, CRM Studios, and produces video production and artwork under the TITFOS (The Incredible True Facts of Space) nameplate. He has worked for several companies as a Marketing Director but considers his audio-based creations to be his passion.

CHADCAST

Hosted by Chad Bowers

Chad Bowers, originally from Mobile Alabama, then Texas, then back to Alabama, came on board Onsug Radio in April 2010 with a distinctive, surreal style, on Chadcast. He's also a stalwart contributor to Overnightscape Central and various experimental audio pieces.

Hosted by Dave in Kentucky

Dave in Kentucky launches yet another new show, this one based on the "dangerous" books he is reading or has read. Will this be another abortive attempt, or will he actually make it to double-digit episodes this time? Only the alien time-travelers know for sure.

SERMONS

2021–present
Hosted by Dave in Kentucky

Dave in Kentucky offers a verse-by-verse analysis of the first two chapters of the Book of Genesis, as he launches yet another new show. Will this one finally turn out to be his true calling? God only knows.

MIKE BOODY

THE MIDNIGHT CITIZEN

2011–present
Hosted by Mike Boody

Mike Boody from Birmingham, Alabama, joined The Onsug with the 18th episode of his show "The Midnight Citizen" in February 2011. Originally recorded in the middle of the night on his paper route, Mike's thoughts and observations hearken back to the classic age of late-night radio. Note that the first 17 episodes, from before Mike joined The Onsug, were lost.

RUBEN

2005–present
Hosted by Ruben Schade

Ruben from Australia began his show in January 2005 – the dawn of the podcasting era. It's been going ever since, with a few long breaks, as he's lived in Singapore, Kuala Lumpur, Adelaide, and Sydney. Ruben's been a listener to The Overnightscape for a long time, and started posting his shows on The Onsug in June 2015. Now, his entire archive is included on The Onsug.

EDDIE

TEDPOD & CONSPIRACAST

Hosted by Eddie Murray

Eddie Murray has been a major presence on The Onsug since 2009. He sent Frank his “Trampler Sampler” in May 2009 – the very first show by another host that was added to The Overnightscape Underground – which led to The Onsug as the group channel we know today. Since then, Eddie’s done nearly 200 episodes of his shows Trampler, Cloud Base 44/88, and The Wool Gathering. He's also made nearly 100 appearances on Overnightscape Central, and joined in on many Exit Ramps as well.

I’d been aware of Eddie's earlier podcasts – TedPod and Conspiracast – and I wanted to add them to the archive. I was able to find 31 of the 33 episodes of Conspiracast from 2008 on a still-existing “PodOmatic” page. Unfortunately, Eddie couldn't find the two missing episodes – but he did find a hard drive with 41 episodes of TedPod from 2005. We know TedPod went to at least episode 107 in 2007 – but Eddie wasn’t able to find any more episodes, and none are to be found online.

I explored the Internet Archive’s Wayback Machine to find as much information as I could for both of these shows. We have full original show notes for Conspiracast, and a partial set for TedPod.

On TedPod, similar to a broadcast radio show, Eddie played commercial music tracks - so I went in and edited them out, just leaving the beginning and end of each song, as an aircheck might be edited.

This is truly a remarkable collection. I'm hoping some of the missing episodes may turn up in the future – I may have some on my old CD-Rs and DVD-Rs... if I ever get around to indexing them. And if by chance anyone out there has any missing episodes, let me know.

– Frank Edward Nora, February 2022

TEDPOD

2005–2006
Hosted by Eddie Murray

You can expect to hear anything from gadgets, websites, film, sound seeing tours, “conspiracys”, Ufo’s, Supernatural, home automation, hacking, food/drink and podcast reviews, guests/friends, and also I usually play a song or two. So Follow the adventures of Ted the Irish man. Started in January of 2005 as a daily podcast from Dublin, Ireland, moved to Kent in the south of England. It then became more of an audio blog, once a month (or there abouts) with another move to Scotland, and reports from Indonesia, Philippines, Dubai, Bulgaria, and now a relocation to Asia based in Manila. Dont be afraid to click on the Archive button at the bottom of this page, to surf past episodes.

ROB & GREG

THE PAUNCH STEVENSON SHOW

Hosted by Rob and Greg

Greg & Rob from New Jersey started The Paunch Stevenson Show, "The Ultimate Pop Culture Podcast", way back in October 2005. Frank added their complete archive to Onsug in January 2013, and posts all their new episodes as well. Rob has known Frank since 2000, when they were both part of the band Fuzzy Daupner.

BECKY

BI-COASTAL BECKY

Hosted by Bi-Coastal Becky

Bi-Coastal Becky has been a listener since 2004. Frank met her in 2005 when he went to California and she picked him up at the airport and took him to Disneyland and Ontario Mills Mall. She was Becky From California until 2010, when she started her show, Bi-Coastal Becky, and began contributing to Overnightscape Central. She has sent boxes of snacks and beverages for him to review and was a subscriber to the ABM Show.

NEAL FROM IRELAND

OVER YOUR HEAD

2010–2011
Hosted by Neal from Ireland

At the time, Neal didn't want to add his main show, "Into Your Head", to The Overnightscape Underground, so he did this series of shows especially for it.

INTO YOUR HEAD

2006–2016
Hosted by Neal from Ireland

Into Your Head podcast is a unique caffeine-fueled acquired-taste barrage of humour and nonsense by Neal from Ireland. Since 2006. 792 episodes were produced between 2006 and 2016.

In March 2020, 221 episodes of Into Your Head were added to the The Onsug, with Neal's blessing. Special thanks to Jan Erik from Norway for sharing his personal collection of episodes, which added a number of shows to the ones Neal had posted to the Internet Archive.

In October 2023, Into Your Head returned after seven years.

WAYNE

SPARETIME RADIO

2010–2012
Hosted by Wayne Reichert

Wayne Reichert from Long Island, NY, joined The Onsug in February 2010, with a reboot of his show, Sparetime Radio. He had a great run of shows, and was a big presence on Onsug for several years. Wayne did shows under a number of different titles – they are all presented here in one list, chronologically.

JEFF FROM HOUSTON THE MEANDERING MOUSE

2006–2011
Hosted by Jeff from Houston

The Meandering Mouse Podcast – Streams of Consciousness from the Happiest Place on Earth. Real adventures traveling the world!

Meander On! Walt Disney World / Disneyland / Disney Park Adventures in stereo sound and video.

Welcome Disney and Podcast Fans!

Nominated for Best Travel Podcast 2007 and a featured travel podcast in iTunes since 2005! Join Disney theme park enthusiast and your host, Jeff from Houston, on his adventures and mis-adventures at the Disney resorts throughout the WORLD on The Meandering Mouse podcast. The Meandering Mouse audio podcast is a personable take on Disney attractions both large and small including quality stereo audio recorded live in the parks, unique commentary, interesting facts on past attractions, and the occasional wacky surprise. Meandering Mouse Club TV is you chance to take visual adventures throughout ALL the DIsney parks around the globe. Entire coverage of Hong Kong, Tokyo, and Paris will be featured. At the Meandering Mouse Podcast your hosts don't borrow audio from overseas; we go there and share the fun with you through the magic of audio and video. The Meandering Mouse founded The Disney Podcast Network. MMCTV is produced in association with Frikitiki Productions.

Release notes (by Frank Edward Nora, November 2021): In September 2021, Jeff contacted me about archiving The Meandering Mouse in The Onsug. I was happy to do it, as I've known Jeff for a long time, and his rambling, wandering style fits in well with The Onsug. And I'm also a lifelong Disney Parks fan. I converted the MMCTV videos to audio, but the originals can still be seen on YouTube. Enjoy this amazing archive!

FLEA DEVIL SOLITAIRE FROM ONSUG RADIO

Introduction

Flea Devil Solitaire is a unique card game invented by Frank Edward Nora over the course of 16 years (2007–2023). From its origin as "Shufflin' Jamboreee", to its slow development over the years, to the flurry of activity in 2022 which led to its penultimate form, to the summer 2023 breakthroughs, every step can be heard on Frank's show, The Overnightscape.

This game is a companion to Onsug Radio, and can be played while listening.

Flea Devil Solitaire is unique in that you hold the deck in your hands at all times – there is no need to place cards on a flat surface at any time. It also can be paused at any time. It's a pocket game system and natural digital detox.

The theme of the game is buying and selling items at a flea market. That's where the name comes from – "Flea Devil" is a made-up term for someone who is very good at buying and selling things at a flea market.

Being so different from other games, Flea Devil Solitaire can take some time to learn. But once you know it, the deck of cards you've always had will become your best friend. It's a whole new leisure pursuit!

Overview

A Flea Devil Solitaire game is played over a number of rounds. Each round can end in a win, with a score, or a loss, which counts as a strike. Keep playing rounds till you reach your third strike, which ends the game. Then add up your score.

Equipment

Flea Devil Solitaire game uses a 56-card deck – a standard 52-card deck of playing cards, plus two Zonkers (jokers) and two Parking Lots (the other 2 cards that come in most decks). You'll also need a way to keep score – paper or digital.

Zonkers

Zonkers represent weirdos hanging out at the flea market, and are represented by jokers. Unlike jokers – Zonkers are not wild – they just get in the way, and prevent Flea Hops. They have no suit or rank.

Whenever the two Zonkers are adjacent, you can Zonk Out and send one of them face down to the Easy Go, for free. Also, if a Zonker is adjacent to a Parking Lot, you can Zonk Out for free.

Parking Lots

Parking Lots are represented by the two additional cards that come with most playing card decks. Ideally, they should have the same cardback as the rest of the cards – as is the case in some higher-end decks. But it will work no matter what is on the extra cards.

After shuffling, the first move of the round is to choose one of the two Parking Lots to move to the bottom of the deck – to make a dividing line between the Market and the Easy Go (see more details below). If one of the Parking Lots is already at the bottom, you can choose to keep it at the bottom and that counts as moving it..Note that no card in the Market can be moved under this dividing line.

Then, before making any moves, check for a "Hangout" around the other Parking Lot – two cards of the same rank on either side of the Parking Lot. If so, then both those cards – plus their matches – may be hauled for free. If this then brings another matched pair on either side of the Parking Lot, those also and their matches can be removed for free. (After this starting phase, the Hangout move can be done for $3). During this phase, Zonk Outs can also be done (so for example, you can Zonk Out a Zonker next to a Parking Lot, and if that brings up a Hangout – it can still be done for free, since it's before regular gameplay starts).

Note that if both Parking Lots have Hangouts in the initial Market – you still need to move one Parking Lot to the bottom before doing the Hangouts – so only one Parking Lot can benefit from the initial Hangout(s).

As mentioned above, any time a Zonker is adjacent to a Parking Lot, it can be Zonked Out for free.

Areas

There are 3 areas in the game. The Market is the main face-up set of cards. The Bankroll is the set of face-down cards above the Market, and the Easy Go is the set of face-down and face-up cards below the Market.

Shuffling

You can shuffle the deck any way you like, but in keeping with the "table free" nature of the game, shuffling in hand is recommended. I use a combination of overhand and (imperfect) faro shuffles (look them up).

Jamboree

When at round start, after you move your Parking Lot, if you have no Hauls in the Market, and no Flea Hops, Zonk Outs, or Hangouts to make Hauls – meaning you can't get started at all – you have a Jamboree. This counts as a win, with zero score, and adds one free "strike" to the strike total.

Play

Once the cards are shuffled, turn the deck face-up. This is the Market.

In the opening phase, your first move is to move one of the Parking Lots to the bottom of the Market. Then, in the second part of the opening phase, before you make any moves, you may Zonk Out Zonkers, and take free Hangouts if available. Then, regular play begins.

You can "Browse" through the Market without limit, while keeping the order unchanged. There are 7 different moves that can be made. Note: all moves are optional, never "forced" (besides the opening move of putting a Parking Lot on the bottom, which is "forced").

1 – Haul – when 2 cards of the same rank (like 44 or KK) are adjacent (next to each other) you can remove them from the deck. If they are Stuff (ranks 2 through 10) – place them face down above the market in the Bankroll. Each card in the Bankroll is worth one dollar. If they are Royalties (ranks J-Q-K-A), you can choose to Bank them, just like Stuff, or Score them, by placing them face-up in the Easy Go. Note that when a pair of Royalties is Hauled, you can choose to split them – Banking one and Scoring one. Note that any of these moves cannot be reversed once done.

2 – Bargain – you can swap the position of any two adjacent cards in the Market by paying one dollar. To pay one dollar, move a card from the Bankroll to the Easy Go, keeping it face down.

3 – Flea Hop – move a card one or more spaces for free – this is the essential move in Flea Devil Solitaire! In the Market, find a continuous set of two or more cards of the same suit. The leftmost or rightmost of these cards can jump away from the set – moving one or more spaces, by "pushing off" the rest of the cards in the set. For example, if there are three clubs in a row, a jump of one or two spaces can be made. If there are five clubs in a row, a jump of one to four cards can be made. Once the card "lands" from the hop, it may not be in contact with a card of its same suit or a Zonker – so check beforehand. (You can jump over a card of the same suit – what matters is what cards are next to it when it lands).

4 – Devil Hop – a "Devil" is a set of four adjecant cards with one of each suit. If there are two or more Devils in the market, you can Devil Hop. Pay three dollars, and move one Devil next to another Devil. This is a big move that can really change things!

5 – Walky Talky – find a run of three cards in the Market, forward or backward (like 3-4-5 or Q-J-10), the middle card can move next to a matching card in the Market, for three dollars. Note that 2-A-K and K-A-2 are allowed. If the moved cards are Stuff (ranks 2 through 10) – you may turn them into Antiques as opposed to Banking them. To do this, place one or both of the Stuff cards face-up in the Easy Go. At round end, each Antique counts as an Ace

6 – Zonk Out – if two Zonkers are adjacent in the Market, you can move one of them face-down to the Easy Go. You can also Zonk Out if a Zonker is adjacent to a Parking Lot.

7 – Hangout – if there are two cards of the same rank on either side of a single Parking Lot, you may Haul both, along with their matches, if still in the Market, for $3. This is a very powerful move! (Note that, at the very start of the game, this move can be done for free – see above).

8 – Desperado – Three Royalties in the Easy Go can be turned face down in the Easy Go to give you $1. Note that each Antique also counts as a Royality for this. Obviously, you would only do this if you are desperate – as it is taking away from your final score. But it can save the game, sometimes!

9 – Parkinglotageddon – When the other Parking Lot reaches the one at the bottom of the Market, you can send it face down to the Easy Go, and then also teleport the card that was next to it anywhere in the Easy Go. (Note that if both Parking Lots are touching at start of round, Parkinglotageddon doesn't apply, since one must be moved to the bottom of the Market before anything else can happen).

10 – Quadrun – if you Haul four of matching adjacent cards, you can then Haul another set of four matching cards from anywhere in the Market. Note that if there are no more sets of four left, you cannot settle for a pair – it must be a set of four.

Snafu

Mistakes happen in life, and Flea Devil Solitaire is no exception. From dropping cards, to messing up hauls, to shuffling a game in progress, Snafus are going to happen.

If you make an unintentional mistake, and can't undo it, that's a Snafu. The round ends, and you notate a Snafu on your score. The first Snafu is free, counts as a win, and scores zero – but subsequent Snafus in the same game count as a loss, and add a strike.

Scoring

A round can end with a win (by clearing the Market so that only the two Parking Lots, and any remaining Zonkers are left) or a loss (running out of moves before the Market is cleared). Note that you can concede and take a loss at any time in a round.

If won, a round is scored based on the Royalty Scores in the Easy Go. The Bankroll does not count for scoring. Face cards score 1 for the first one, 2 for the second, etc. Multiply the face card score by the number of aces (zero aces counts as one for this purpose). Each Antique (Stuff card) in the Easy Go counts as one Ace. Note that you can win with a score of zero (called a "Wash"). Since this is a bit tough to calculate, use the scoring chart. You can move all the face up Royalties to the top of the deck to make scoring easier (separating Faces and Aces).

Play a sequence of rounds, where each loss is one strike. Play until you reach 3 strikes. Add up the score of all the won rounds. This is your final score.

Can you reach 1,000 points in a single game?

Strategy

Choosing which Parking Lot to move to the bottom of the deck is the first choice you make each round. Proximity to potential Hangout and Zonk Outs can inform this choice.

After this, you need to build up your Bankroll – so find natural Hauls, and make Hauls with Flea Hops and Hangouts. Once you have some Bankroll you can Bargain into more Hauls. Always look at the Flea Hop potential to make a Haul. Walky Talky can help when everything is far away. Always Zonk Out. When Hauling Royalties, you always need to consider the state of the game, if you can afford to Score them as opposed to Banking them? This can be a tough choice, and can really affect the round. Royalty pairs at the edges of the market can be saved till the situation is clearer. Toward endgame, if the Market is tough, you need to figure out which Hauls to go for, considering the Flea Hops that can help. Remember, every Haul brings all the cards closer together – so even if things look bleak, you can often pull off a win.

Shortcuts

When you get the hang of the game, you can take shortcuts. For example, if a Haul is one away, spend $1 and then Haul the two cards, without first moving them together. If there's a Haul two cards apart, and you have at least two dollars in the Bankroll, you can have them pay for themselves, and move straight to the Easy Go. How you handle shortcuts is completely up to you.

The Deck

Playing Flea Devil Solitaire is much easier with the right deck. Premium cards with "silky" finishes tend to work better. Also, playing demands a degree of manual dexterity. If it doesn't come naturally, it will improve over time. Decks can even seem to have different "personalities" – some give you more wins, some less. The best deck I have found to play with is "The Beatles" deck from Theory Eleven.

Zonkertop

If there's a Zonker at the top of the Market, it means the game will be that much easier. So Zonkertop means cool, nice, excellent, etc.

Scoring Table

	0-1 Ace	2 Aces	3 Aces	4 Aces	5 Aces	6 Aces
0 Faces	0	0	0	0	0	0
1 Face	1	2	3	4	5	6
2 Faces	3	6	9	12	15	18
3 Faces	6	12	18	24	30	36
4 Faces	10	20	30	40	50	60
5 Faces	15	30	45	60	75	90
6 Faces	21	42	63	84	105	126
7 Faces	28	56	84	112	140	168
8 Faces	36	72	108	144	180	216
9 Faces	45	90	135	180	225	270
10 Faces	55	110	165	220	275	330
11 Faces	66	132	198	264	330	396
12 Faces	78	156	234	312	390	468

Note: Antiques count as additional Aces – which is why more than 4 Aces are shown. More than 6 Aces is possble, though rare, using Antiques. In this case, multiply the total number of Aces by the value in the "0-1 Ace" column.

THE DIGITAL EXTENSION

The Digital Extension is digital-only addition to Onsug Radio. It contains all show art and show descriptions, and The Grand Chronology, listing all shows in chronological order. It also contains The Old Channel List, which is how the archive is currently organized on The Internet Archive.

At the time of this book's publication, The Digital Extension is still a work in progress. It will hopefully be completed sometime in 2024.

THE FILES

All files are available on The Internet Archive. However, I have put together a set of the same files, in much better order, which can fit on a 1TB drive. Right now, there is not an easy wat to distribute these files. Hopefully I will come up with a way sometime in the future.

INTRODUCTION

by Frank Edward Nora October 2021

The Onsug is a radio station that's meant to be enjoyed by listeners in both the near and far future. That's why it's inside a book. We never had a building or a transmitter, and websites and social media pages are ephemeral, but a book is much more resilient as an object to carry our shows into the future.

It all began on the "last odd day" any of us will see – November 19, 1999.

11/19/1999 has all odd digits. That won't happen again till January 1, 3111 – over 1,000 years from now. That was the day I started Bluffcosm.com, with the intent of it being a kind of virtual world.

A few months later, in March 2000 I changed the focus to an Internet radio station. Three years later, in March 2003, I started my show, The Overnightscape. In 2007 I started The Overnightscape Underground, and by September 2009, other hosts started to join what had now become a kind of network.

With the name eventually shortened to The Onsug, the channel grew and grew till today we have a massive archive of over 10,000 shows and nearly 12,000 hours of audio. See "The Onsug Story" for a much more detailed account of how this all happened.

The Onsug is unique in several ways – its fully-archived, huge amount of audio – its focus on listeners in both the near and far future – its non-commercial nature – and the unique "rampling" style of the shows.

This book contains a full listing of all the shows. You are encouraged to listen in any order you like – they don't need to be heard in any particular sequence.

With so much amazing stuff to choose from, The Onsug can be a little overwhelming at first. But rest assured, as you become more familiar with the various hosts and shows, you'll find it much easier to navigate and find shows that will be keeping you company for many years to come.

This book can take several forms. As a physical, print-on-demand book, it can be a constant companion on your Onsug journey. Also, get additional copies to put on as many bookshelves as possible, so folks in the future can discover The Onsug.

There's also the digital version (currently a PDF file) – which contains "The Digital Extension" – thousands of pages of additional content that can't fit in the print book – The Treasury (all the show notes and the show art larger and in color), and the full list in 3 other forms – The Grand Chronology, The Old Channel List, and The Shuffle.

The Onsug can also exist in virtual reality, as a book, and when that happens, please put it on as many virtual bookshelves as possible, also!

And perhaps most importantly, the book exists in the mind – to help define and give context to this unique project.
Now of course the main content of The Onsug is the audio itself – and it is our long-term goal to include the audio inside the book as much as practically possible.

For this edition, I've included a QR code and URL at the start of the book which leads to the current repository of the archive, on Archive.org.

But there is also another set of files, reorganized specifically for this book. It's my intention to make these files available, and to include with the book, at a future date.

As the files are over 600 GB, it would take a 1 TB drive to store them. These are still relatively expensive, and haven't been falling in price as quickly as storage has in the past, which limits our options, especially considering that we're a non- commercial project.

As an alternative, I've converted the audio to a lo-fi mono format (similar in sound to AM radio), allowing the archive to fit in 128 GB – for which flash or SD cards are under $20 currently.

I'm working on ideas – such as making a small flash drive available to stick on the inside back cover of the book. Also, there are MP3 players available online for around $20 which can use a 128 GB Micro SD card – so for $40 you can have all the entire archive to play without needing to be online. The ultimate goal would be to physically incorporate such as system within the book itself – so that the book itself would play the audio. But that's a ways off.

As a listener, whether in the near or far future, you can help to keep this project going, by making the book and the files available in your time, and making sure those in your future will also have access.

Spread the word – The Onsug really is a lifetime of listening pleasure, and we want to share it far and wide.
Enjoy exploring The Onsug!

UPDATE – December 2023

The name of the project has been changed to "Onsug Radio". There is a lot more audio, but it still fits in one terabyte. "The Shuffle" has been removed from The Digital Extension. I'm still trying to figure out how to incorporate the audio files into the physical book.

NOTE

The terms The Onsug, Onsug, Onsug Radio, and The Overnightscape Underground all refer to the same project. In 2023, the main name of the project moving forward was established as Onsug Radio.

THE ONSUG STORY

by Frank Edward Nora
October 2021

I've wanted to do radio shows as long as I can remember.

When I was two years old in 1969, my father interviewed me on tape, and you can tell I was enjoying doing some recording.

In the next few years, I did more of my own recordings on that same ancient tape recorder. Then on my tenth birthday, in 1977, I got a tape recorder of my own, and recorded tons of 70s kid parodies of TV shows and the like.

Looking for a college to go to in 1985, I remember always asking about the radio station, and being interested in doing a show.

I wound up going to Drew University, in Madison, NJ, in Fall 1985. There I met "Mad Mike" and the following semester we started a comedy radio show on the college radio station, WMNJ, called "Anything But Monday".

After a few months we were kicked off the air for "offensive" humor, and continued the show as a magazine. In Fall 1986, we returned the airwaves and continued the magazine.

The show lasted till 1988, but the magazine became our big project, and we published it nationally as a comic book from 1988–1989.

Come 1990, the magazine and radio show were finished, and I kept working on my own experimental publications. Also that year, I produced a video series called "Beublin A. Richardson" with my friend Peter Litkey.

In 1991, Peter and I produced a show on tape in his basement room called "Train Crap & Blood" – really a kind of proto-podcast – but there was no way to distribute it, other than giving a few cassette copies to friends.

In 1994, I started my Obliviana project with an e-zine, followed by a website in 1995. This was a kind of occult game and entertainment project which never had much of a following.

In 1999, I registered the domain name "Bluffcosm.com", and initially thought it would be a kind of online virtual world. But a few months later, in March 2000, I decided to make it into an online radio station.

In 2000, web hosting came with very little storage space, so I could only have a few hours of MP3s on my site at any given time. But I was able to host my audio on MP3.com, an early Internet audio site.

For the next few years, I released a number of "Blufftoons" on MP3.com. At the same time, I was working with my wife and her sister Carrie on the band Fuzzy Daupner, joined by Rob DiCaterino (later of The Paunch Stevenson Show) and Phil Mould from England.

By 2002, Fuzzy Daupner had broken up, and Bluffcosm was stalled. But I had acquired a massive archive of The Jean Shepherd Show – and I spent over a year listening every day.

Jean Shepherd, best known for the film A Christmas Story (1983), did a monologue show on NYC radio station WOR from the mid-1950s to 1977. He never had any guests – he just talked to the audience, telling stories, talking about things he was doing, culture, philosophy, stories from his childhood, and many other things. There was something so different, so intimate about this monologue format that I decided to try it out for myself.

In 2002, I purchased audio equipment for a new project I wanted to start. I got a Shure 55SH microphone, a Joemeek MQ3 channel strip, a Behringer mixer, and a MadPlayer "generative music" device to create copyright-free background music. I had this equipment for a year before really doing anything with it.

On Thursday, March 13, 2003, I was on my way home from work in NYC, riding the PATH train back to NJ. Here's exactly what I wrote on my Palm Pilot:

3/13/03 6:54 pm
non-meta half-hour talk show, just me

3/13/03 7:03 pm the overnightscape nightscans

I decided to go with the name "The Overnightscape" rather than "Nightscans". Once I got home, I set up my recording system, and started the show at around 9:55 PM – just 3 hours after I came up with the idea.

That first recording was lacking in a number of ways, so I decided to set it aside and try again the next week. Thursdays were my wife Denice's bowling night, so it was a good time for me to record the show.

The next week, on March 20, I did another test episode, and this one as well was not too good, so I set it aside. These two shows are known as the "Beta Episodes".

But the following Thursday, March 27, I recorded what would become The Overnightscape #1. I released it on Bluffcosm.com soon thereafter, and the show was born!

A few weeks later, I almost started doing another show. There was a streaming Internet radio station based in Fords, NJ, called "No Holds Barred Radio". I had worked out with them that I would do a Sunday night show called "Violent Plaza" using the name Frank209, with my sister Julie as co-host.

At the last minute, however, they told me they had already promised the time slot to someone else – so I abandoned my plans for Violet Plaza. I'm happy things went this way, because looking back, Violent Plaza could have derailed The Overnightscape.
In May 2004 I decided to retire Bluffcosm, and make The Overnightscape the main thing.

I continued doing The Overnightscape weekly into 2004, with a small audience. During the Summer of 2004, podcasting was "invented" – and I found out about it in late September or early October.

I had met Bob LeMent of Static Radio in 2001. I reviewed his show on an early Internet audio links page I had set up, and he emailed to thank me. Static Radio, which began in 1999, started podcasting in September 2004, I think, and I took their RSS feed XML file and hand-edited it create an RSS feed for The Overnightscape.

The Overnightscape #86 (10/17/04) was the first episode I released as a podcast, and I've been podcasting ever since.
As I recall, I was one of the first 30–40 podcasters to list their shows on the early podcast directories.

The following month, I was contacted by a reporter for major British newspaper The Times of London. He interviewed me and featured The Overnightscape prominently in an article on podcasting in their weekend magazine.

I began adding podcasts to my NewTimeRadio.com directory – but it quickly became too much work, as thousands of new podcasts came onto the scene in 2005, so I only added a limited number of shows till May 2006, when I stopped adding new content, but I kept the site up for historical purposes.

In 2004, I started another podcast called "Daily Podcast From Another Place", using my Bluffcosm audio. It was meant to be mysterious, and only lasted a few months.

In January 2005, excited by the new world of podcasting, I decided to start doing The Overnightscape as a daily half-hour show. I did the show 7 days a week for a few months. Saturday and Sunday had been the "Weekend Showcase", where I would play different kinds of audio – starting with Beublin A, Richardson. But this led to complaints about the different tone of the episodes. By April, I eliminated the weekends and just did 5 days a week.

At this point the show was doing great – there seemed to be several thousand people listening, and there was a very active Overnightscape Forum. My father, Frank Ralph Nora, and my sister Julie, were regular guests on the show.

In June 2005 Apple added podcasting support to iTunes, which increased the podcast audience greatly. By this time, I began to use the old Obliviana "wings" logo as The Overnightscape show art.

In November 2005, I went out to the Podcast Expo in Ontario, California, and it was very exciting. The whole podcasting thing seemed ready to really take off. My show was doing well, and I was even nominated for a Podcast Award.

In December 2005, I started a new blog/podcast called "Station Unlimited", as a place to release various audio pieces that I didn't want on the main Overnightscape feed. Looking back, I see this as a forerunner to The Onsug.

The show continued into 2006, and while things were still going well, it seemed that the listening numbers had stalled at around 1,000–2,000 listeners. I had anticipated it increasing steadily.

In October 2006 I went to the Podcast Expo in Ontario, California once again, and the excitement from the first time was gone. The entire podcast scene seemed to have stalled. The predictions of massive growth from the first expo hadn't happened. I felt like an unknown face in the crowd – that all my hard work had not paid off.

Additionally, for awhile I had been a co-host on a show called Techy2 on the PodShow network. But I wasn't even invited to visit the PodShow "suite" nearby, which upset me. I quit Techy2 after that.

As soon as I got home I decided to stop with the daily shows, and just do one long weekly show. I was disillusioned, but I wanted to keep the show going. I just didn't want to spend so much time on it anymore.

My disappointment led to me being open to take on a new project shortly thereafter. I reconnected with Mad Mike, my college radio co-host, and we decided to revive the Anything But Monday Show as a premium podcast. In early 2007, we bought tons of new equipment and set up a studio. I built a new website and a premium podcast system.

By February 2007, we had a handful of subscribers, and we started doing the show weekly. But it quickly became apparent that we had bitten off more than we could chew. The workload was crushing, and after eight weeks, we were forced to pull the plug on the project.

It was a rough time for me, but I continued to record The Overnightscape regularly, though no longer on a strict weekly schedule.

Toward the end of 2007, I was working on a "secret project" which would eventually be revealed as The Overnightscape Underground.

I felt I needed a new platform in which to release more "underground" audio, without needing to maintain the tone of my main show, The Overnightscape. The "Weekend Showcase" experiment had shown me that it was important to maintain a consistent tone on the main show.

The initial format for The Overnightscape Underground was "Days" – 24-hour blocks of audio divided into tracks, with the "virtual time" given during the hosting parts. It was a very awkward and convoluted idea, and I only did 5 "Days" before changing things.

2008 arrived with me still doing The Overnightscape, and also working on The Overnightscape Underground.

By the summer, I was concerned that I was spending too much time at home doing the show, and not spending enough time with my wife, Denice. So I figured out a way of recording shows on my commute to New York City, using a digital recorder.

I decided to create a new show in August 2008 called The Rampler, using this method. Looking back, I realize that should have just kept the show as The Overnightscape, with more episodes recorded on the commute. But that's not what I did.

So, I was doing three separate projects – The Overnightscape, The Overnightscape Underground, and The Rampler. By November 2008, I decided to combine all three into a single blog/podcast called The Overnightscape Underground, at onsug.com.

Around the same time, I got involved in the "Andy Kaufman Lives" phenomenon, where a guy on Twitter was claiming to be the comedian Andy Kaufman, who rather than dying in 1984, had actually faked his death.

The Rampler got intertwined with this phenomenon, and I got a lot of new listeners from the people who were into this whole Andy Kaufman thing. I wound up interviewing this guy (who used a voice changer), and even hosted the "Andy Kaufman Press Conference" in New Brunswick, NJ in November 2008.

One of the members of the press invited to the press conference was a DJ named Bryce from WFMU. Afterward, the program director of WFMU, Ken, contacted me and asked if I'd like to try out for a show on his radio station.

2009 was dominated by WFMU for me. In the first half of the year I was developing the show, and did a number of test shows and then live fill-in shows, before getting on the Summer schedule.

I did 16 weekly shows, Saturday mornings from 2 AM to 6 AM, from June to October.

At the time I was still doing all my other projects, and I was very overloaded. By the end of August 2009, I announced that I was canceling The Overnightscape and The Rampler. I would continue with The Rampler on WFMU and The Overnightscape Underground.

A month later, near the end of September, I found out that WFMU had canceled my show without any warning. While it was a relief at some level, it left a very bitter taste.

I did my last few WFMU shows knowing it was canceled, and did shows on The Overnightscape Underground in a more causal way.

Also around this time, I created OnsugBox – a collection of all the recordings in Onsug, plus some archival material. It was definitely an important step in preserving the audio.

By mid-October, I had completed my last WFMU show, and I decided to take a "radio vacation" – a break from recording. During that time I did a lot of soul searching, and went on a trip to Austin, Texas for my sister-in-law Carrie's wedding.

I really didn't know what I was going to do, and giving up the whole thing was a distinct possibility. But after about three weeks, I returned to doing recordings on The Overnightscape Underground, in a series of shows that would eventually become The Frank Nora Show.

Around that same time, something magical happened – other people started sending me shows to put onto The Overnightscape Underground, and this was the birth of The Onsug as it is today.

For many years, people had been sending me audio to play on the show. But in May 2009, Eddie Murray from Ireland sent in a 3.5 hour "audio letter" from Manila, Philippines called "Trampler Sampler", which I put onto The Overnightscape Underground.

Then in September 2009, four more hosts sent shows in to be included on The Onsug – The Meanderer, Bob LeMent, Brian Jude, and Awesome Wes. While it was the first and last show from Wes, the other three became stalwart hosts on Onsug, with The Meanderer still active to this day.

As 2010 began, more hosts started joining Onsug, and April 2010 was a breakthrough month, with a huge number of shows and new hosts joining up. It felt like something new, something important, and maybe, finally, something that would bring us wider recognition.

At the end of May 2010, I officially started The Frank Nora Show with #1500 – counting all of my previous shows. At the time, I felt that The Overnightscape name was represented by the overall network name "The Overnightscape Underground", so I opted for the new show name that seemed to fit into the scheme of things better.

In June 2010 I recorded music from my MadPlayer and released it into the public domain as "Midnight Cassette System".

By July 2010, I was getting overwhelmed by the sheer number of shows that I needed to post to the channel. At first I proposed an idea called Rampler Commons, where hosts would upload their shows themselves to Archive.org and then place links in a forum. But this did not last long.

I created a new posting system soon thereafter, so that the hosts could post their shows to Onsug directly, without me having to do it, and this helped the situation greatly.

As 2010 wore on, the new Onsug phenomenon started cooling down a bit, and became more manageable. On the other hand, my hopes were also chilled that this was finally going to be the phase where things "took off".

In November 2010, PQ Ribber and I came up with the concept for Overnightscape Central, a weekly show where all the hosts (and listeners) were invited to record a segment on a particular topic each week. PQ, who had joined Onsug in July, offered to host and put the show together – and it's been going strong ever since.

Early in 2011, I added the complete Onsug archive to Archive.org, and made sure to upload each new monthly "Lot" there as well.

Onsug was going along well in 2011. Then, as now, Onsug seems to have achieved a strange kind of balance, with enough listeners and excitement to keep us all motivated to keep doing shows, yet never really making any upward progress in terms of listener numbers.

I did, however, become disillusioned with The Frank Nora Show, and in April I ended it and created "The Rampler Weekly", which only lasted for three weeks. I then decided to bring back The Overnightscape.

The Overnightscape returned on May 9, 2011 with episode 782, after nearly two years of absence. Of course, The Rampler and The Frank Nora Show were essentially the same show as The Overnightscape – but somehow the name of the show really did matter to me.

The return of The Overnightscape was awkward in several ways. First, I decided to split each episode up into lettered subdivisions. This only lasted for about a month, and then I went back to normal numbering.

This also made the Frank Nora Show "1500" numbering more confusing, since I was back to episode 782 of The Overnightscape.

But The Overnightscape was back to being the main show, and my rule of thumb is that I have done 950 episodes beyond The Overnightscape. So, for example, episode 1050 was the 2000th show that I had done. But I am trying to let go of all this numbering madness as best I can.

Another issue was that I decided to split The Overnightscape from The Onsug.

So I was no longer releasing my show on onsug.com, but only on TheOvernightscape.com. This is an unpopular decision with the other hosts, who felt that The Onsug was dwindling without my main show on there. So I merged The Overnightscape back in with The Onsug in September 2011.

Since then, I have been releasing The Overnightscape on both onsug.com and TheOvernightscape.com – since a number of listeners wanted to be able to get my show without having to deal with all the other shows.

In the Fall of 2011 I was also working on "Trash Am Records" – a project to collect Creative Commons licensed music into “CD” compilations. I did 6 volumes, which led to “500 Song Trip” in 2012.

Also in Fall 2011 I was working on a new project called Nightstation. Nightstation is an ongoing saga in my life that has had many twists and turns. But that original Nightstation was the idea of recording long “Patches” of audio – 8 to 12 hours each – and air them as a live, streaming Internet radio station.

The idea was that we were broadcasting from an imaginary “virtual studio” with a “word on the wall” to identify each Patch. We considered it “virtual live” since when someone listens, the reality of the host and the listener “synch up”.

We produced a number of Patches in just a few months – myself, PQ, Shambles, Chad and Eddie. However, managing the stream was a lot of work, and the sheer diversity of the material, much of it longform, made it hard to imagine getting many people to listen, and very few were. After just a few months, I shut the project down.

In the following months, I tried to revive Nightstation with new configurations, but nothing seemed to work – which was a shame, because there really was something there. But I do think a lot of ideas from that original Nightstation influenced many of our later shows.

2012 was solid year with tons of amazing shows, and some new hosts. The Overnightscape was back, and Overnightscape Central roared into its second year of remarkable episodes.

In August 2012, I released “500 Song Trip” – an expansion of the Trash Am Records project. I hand-selected and sequenced 500 Creative Commons licensed songs and released the set on Archive.org.

In September 2012, I release a massive new collection of public domain MadPlayer music with “New Midnight Cassette System”.

Also in September I had an Anything But Monday reunion with Mad Mike, called “ABM 2012”. We went back to Drew University for an alumni event and broadcast from their new radio studio in the student center. It was quite an enjoyable and surreal event.

In October 2012 I released “MyVirtualBand Featured Songs” – a set of Creative Commons licensed songs from a defunct music collaboration site.

In January 2013, I added the complete archive of The Paunch Stevenson Show to Onsug. This is a show co-starring Rob, who had been in the band Fuzzy Daupner back in 2000–2001.

Also starting in January 2013, I added a new feature to The Overnightscape – the Other Side. This was a selection of music and audio clips at the end of each episode. It became the new place for me to play Creative Commons licensed music, and also the kind of audio clips I would play on Nightstation and my various other “patchwork” shows, such as Sneaky TT.

The Other Side has been a great success, and continues to this day. It’s great to be able to combine my major creative urges for audio into one show.

In March 2013, I started releasing the “Other Side Casks” – collections of the Other Sides on their own, with the idea that they would be fun to listen to by themselves. I continued releasing the Casks until mid-2014, but stopped because there didn’t seem to be much interest in them, and they are, after all, repeated material.

In March 2013, for the 10th anniversary of the show, I created “Pocket Overnightscape” – a complete Onsug archive organized into 12–24 hour “Patches” – meant to make navigating and listening to The Onsug easier.

It was a huge project, and ultimately I’m not sure how much anyone was able to get out of it. Still, it was a big stepping stone to the creation of the 2015 book, Onsug Guide. And that book, of course, led to this book, The Onsug.

In May 2013 I was interviewed for an article in The Huffington Post about the whole “Andy Kaufman Lives” phenomenon.

In September 2013, I added an audio drama from Canada to the archive, called "A Career In The Weeklies", which was originally released on the Internet in 2003– 2005. I saw that it was no longer available anywhere, and since I loved it so much, I contacted its creator, Marc Gorcey, who provided me the files and gave me permission to share them.

In December 2013, I set up a streaming Internet radio station called "Sneaky TT Broadcasting System" which aired random Other Sides, and then random Other Side tracks. It never caught on, but the streaming was cheap, so I left it going for quite some time, before pulling the plug.

The first half of 2014 for me was dominated by VR (virtual reality). I had for many years dreamed of creating my own virtual worlds. In fact, when I created Bluffcosm way back in 1999, it was meant to be a virtual world, before I changed it to an Internet radio station a few months later.

I had gotten my Oculus Rift VR Developers Kit back in November 2013, and as 2014 began, I was creating my own VR experiences with the Unity platform.

I decided to bring back Nightstation as a VR project, naming it "Nightstation VR". The idea was to create a virtual train station with dark rides inspired by the classic Disney theme park attractions.

I did eventually finish my "Nightstation Ride One" and got it listed on the Oculus site. Then I decided to go all out and become an exhibitor at the first ever consumer VR Expo, SVVR, in Silicon Valley, in May 2014.

It was a major effort, and I had a great time at the VR Expo. But once I got home, I think it really sunk in how much time and effort would be required to take the next steps for starting a VR company, and I backed off the idea. I've tried to revive Nightstation several times since then, to no avail.

So yet another big project with a lot of potential collapsed around me... after the daily shows of 2005–2006, the ABM Show in 2007, and the WFMU show in 2009... there seems to be a pattern of me taking on big projects only to have them fall apart.

But of course, all through these experiences, I've been doing The Overnightscape, and telling the stories, with all the little ins and outs, of these events... so I don't see these difficult experiences as a complete waste of time and energy. They are part of the narrative.

For the 11th Anniversary of The Overnightscape I released "The Frank Nora Time Machine" – a collection of 44 episodes spanning the entire history of the show. (Jimbo would later use the name for a series he made about my show.)

In August 2014 I went to Toronto, recording The Overnightscape in another country for the first time.

Also in August I tried out a new project called "Earweird" – putting collections of Other Side audio onto YouTube. It was a brief experiment that didn't go anywhere.

In September 2014, I was interviewed for a documentary film about Andy Kaufman called "Kaufman Lives". As of today, seven years later, the movie has still not been released.

In January 2015 I began "The Night Pool", a show composed of random 5-minute clips from the entire Onsug archive. It was a very fascinating and very different kind of show, and it provided a fascinating glimpse into the nature of the enormous Onsug archive. I did 22 episodes before ending the series in early 2016. From late 2016 into 2017 I did a similar show called "The Onsug Project".

In early 2015 I had started working on the first print book which would list all the shows in The Onsug. It was a big project, and by May, I released "Onsug Radio: Your gateway to the audio universe of The Overnightscape Underground".

It was a print-on-demand book that was available on Amazon. I also released a PDF version for free.

Compared with this book, it was much slimmer – around 200 pages as opposed to the 700 pages in this new book. And it didn't have any of the show art.

While it didn't sell many copies, as far as I can tell (I can't figure out how to log into the old account), it was a major step forward to have an actual physical book which told the story of and listed all the shows of The Onsug. And, of course, it paved the way for this much improved volume!

At the same time – around May 2015 – I got laid off from my day job in financial marketing in Midtown Manhattan – a job I had had for 10 years. After a few months of being unemployed, I got a new job, in retail marketing, also in Midtown Manhattan, which I have held on to to this day.

In the early days at that job, I felt rather isolated, and what really helped was that I dove deep down the rabbit holes of the music of The Grateful Dead and Phish, a journey which continues to this day.

Also around this same time, May 2015, Jimbo (from Georgia) started doing his show "Hey Everybody, It's Jimbo!". He had been involved in The Onsug since 2013, but he became a major presence on the channel, even taking over hosting duties on Overnightscape Central for a year. That ended when he sadly passed away in November 2017.

I am so happy we were able to provide a radio home to Jimbo for the last fewyears of his life. He made an indelible impact on The Onsug, and will continue to for all future listeners.

2015 also represents the last big wave of new hosts joining the channel.

Whatever unknown magic had brought so many new hosts in in 2010, it was on the wane after 2015. Yet still, we have been producing consistent, and consistently high-quality, shows every month since then.

When the last book was released, there was 8.8 months of audio in the archive.

Now, six years later, there's 16.3 months – an increase of 7.5 months – so we've been busy.

Doc Sleaze from England, who had been contributing to Overnightscape Central since 2012, started hosting his own show in August 2015 with Sleazecast.

Longtime listener Cali Dingo never hosted his own show, but in 2015 he started contributing to Overnightscape Central, and did 51 shows before stopping in 2018.

Ruben from Australia had been doing his own Rubenerd Show since 2005, and was a longtime listener. In June 2015 he started posting his shows on The Onsug, and I embarked on a project to add his entire back catalogue to the archive. His partner Clara began her show, Snake Tea Podcast, the following month, July 2015.

Marc Rose from Portland, Oregon, another longtime listener, started doing his Fusebox show in February 2015, along with co-host Milt Kanes. It's unique blend of audio production and comedy that continues to the present.

After 2015, only a few new hosts have joined the channel.

Dave in Kentucky came on board in 2017 as a stalwart contributor to Overnightscape Central. He started doing his own shows in 2018.

Dave in Wisconsin was also a regular contributor to the Central, from 2017 to 2019. He was a friend of Jimbo's, and helped greatly with information about Jimbo after his passing.

My brother John has been on my show many times, and in 2019 he started his own show, "Combat Zone", with his friend Mark from Boston.

In July 2015 I set up the "Onsug Saloon", a page with a chatroom playing a streaming station with random Onsug shows. It was an interesting idea, but it didn't last long.

In September 2015 I released “Onsug Stash”, with the entire archive on one page, using lo-fi audio MP3s up to 90 hours each. It was a precursor to our current “Pocket Edition”.

Over the years I had constantly been reorganizing The Onsug archive, and in May of 2016, I put together the best version yet with “Onsug Radio” – on Archive.org – which sorted the content by show to make listening easier than ever. This is still the version we are using today. The next system, based on this book, is not quite ready for prime time yet, but it will arrive at some point.

In October 2016, Ruben and Clara from Australia visited the US and we did three episodes of The Overnightscape together in New York and New Jersey.

From 2016 to 2019, things were running smoothly in The Onsug with no big changes. In August 2019, I went on a big trip to Europe – the first time I recorded my show overseas.

2020, of course, brought the Coronavirus Pandemic, with the big change of me working from home starting in March. I took the opportunity to take daily walks around my town – which I had really not done before. It made for a new and different tone for The Overnightscape.

Most of the other shows also continued on in a mostly similar way, as shows on The Onsug are usually solo recordings, and as such, were not greatly affected by the pandemic lockdowns.

Neal from Ireland was a major presence on The Onsug for many years, doing 42 episodes of Central from 2010 to 2015, and his own short-lived “Over Your Head” show from 2010 to 2011. However, he never wanted to include his main show, “Into Your Head”, in The Onsug. 792 episodes were produced between 2006 and 2016.

In 2020, I contacted Neal, and though many of the episodes were lost, I was able to locate and release 221 episodes of Into Your Head. In March I added them to the archive, with Neal’s blessing.

Picking up on the video-conferencing zeitgeist of 2020, I started the group show “The Exit Ramp”, on Google Hangouts at first, then on Zoom. It brought together hosts and listeners for a long group chat in video that was released in audio. We are still doing it monthly.

Some stalwart Exit Ramp participants that don’t have their own regular shows are Jan Erik from Norway, Matt from Scotland (aka Dadaist), Nate in Wisconsin, Joe Gipson, and Simon from Nevada.

2021 has been a rough year is some ways… the pandemic raged on far longer than expected, winter brought endless snowstorms, and I lost my mother to cancer in April.

At the start of 2021 I started work in earnest on the next version of the book, calling it “Onsug Radio Companion”. On March 25, recording some audio notes while walking around town, I came upon the idea of “A Radio Station Inside a Book”. Awhile later, I renamed the book “The Onsug – A Radio Station Inside a Book”.

For many years I’d been struggling with the project having two names – “The Overnightscape Underground” and “Onsug”. With this book, I finally decided to choose one, so it could carry forth with a single identity – “The Onsug”.

Also, this is not just a book, but the form the project will move into the future with. The book and the project are one thing, “The Onsug – A Radio Station Inside a Book”.

One aspect of The Onsug that was not well-archived was the show art. So, earlier this year, I embarked on the “Show Art Project” which took many months to complete. I located and archived every piece of show art, using the highest- resolution versions I could find.

Once this was done, I was able to start putting the new book together. I reorganized all the content, and included every piece of show art – over 6,000 pieces.

I’ve been working on the book every day for many months now, and I’m close to finishing it. I ordered a proof copy a week or two ago and it looks great. I am hoping to release it soon.

So that brings us up to date on The Onsug Story. This new book starts a new chapter in Onsug history – a simple form to contain a rich and complex audio universe.

There is nothing else in the world like The Onsug – it has grown into a truly unique project, And, as you are reading this right now, you know about The Onsug – and if you are so inclined, you can spend years delving into its depths.

Enjoy!

THE ONSUG STORY UPDATES

November 2022

It's now been over a year since the book was released. While it hasn't generated much sales or interest, it's still been of great importance in charting the future of The Onsug.

In September 2021, Jeff from Houston contacted me about archiving The Meandering Mouse in The Onsug. I was happy to do it, as I've known Jeff for a long time, and his rambling, wandering style fits in well with The Onsug. And I'm also a lifelong Disney Parks fan.

In late 2021, I started the Tape Land Video project, transfering my old original videos to digital and releasing them. It's been a real treasure trove of amazing content, with lots more to come.

In February 2022, I released "Early Eddie: TedPod and Conspiracast (2005- 2008)", many episodes from Eddie' Murray's early pre-Onsug podcasts. It's always important to me to try and preserve early podcast history.

In May 2022, I visited PQ Ribber in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico.

Otherwise, things have been going as normal – we are continuing to produce our audio content on a consistent basis, adding to the massive audio archive of The Onsug.

Now, in November 2022, I've embarked on creating the next edition of The Onsug book, which I'm planning to release next summer.

December 2023

The next edition of the book is finally close to completion. Its gone through a couple of name changes from "The Onsug"… first as "The Overnightscape Underground" and finally "Onsug Radio".

Ultimately, I felt that the name of the book itself needed to contain as much information as possible – and "Onsug Radio" conveys the idea that it's a radio project with a weird name… a good first impression for this project.

This year has had several highs and lows, starting off with the 20th Anniversary of The Overnightscape in March. I set up my old equipment and did a series of three shows over three weeks matching the origins of the show in March 2003.

Almost immediately after that, my father, Frank Ralph Nora, got sick, and passed away in May. I put together a collection of my interviews with him on The Overnightscape called "Frank Ralph Nora Forever".

In September, my wife Denice and I went on an amazing trip to Italy – presented on five episodes of The Overnightscape. It was an intense and mind-expanding trip, and the shows take you on every step of the journey.

Then, a few weeks after we got back, my wife broke her shoulder, and wound up needing a shoulder replacement. It's been a long recovery but she is doing better now.

I've continued The Exit Ramp on a monthly basis, and there is still a good turnout for each episode.

In December 2022, Maverick88 in Texas joined Onsug Radio with his show "Post-Arlen Monologix". He grew up in the same neighborhood as me in New Jersey, and his stories and perspectives are a great addition to Onsug Radio.

Over the Summer, James from Scotland joined the channel briefly with his "James' Coffee Blog Show" – it was great stuff – I hope he returns sometime!

In July I released the 500-song "Leisure Cassette System" – more MadPlayer music, this time intended for the Onsug Radio "Broadcast" concept. I did several test shows for this format, such as "Onsug Radio Previews", but figuring it all out remains elusive.

In October, Neal from Ireland revived his show "Into Your Head", after a 7 year hiatus. The new episodes are included in Onsug Radio.

In November, PQ ended his incredible 13 year run on Overnightscape Central (with one year being hosted by Jimbo). Dave in Kentucky will take the show over, as a monthly release.

Also in November I arrived at the current set of rules for my game "Flea Devil Solitaire". In development for 16 years, the game has come a long way. See the rules toward the back of this book. It's a great game to play while listening to Onsug Radio!

I am looking forward to another great year of Onsug Radio in 2024.

THE HOSTS

October 2021

Frank Edward Nora from New Jersey started it all with The Overnightscape in March 2003. In 2007, he started The Overnightscape Underground as a side project, and by 2009 it became a network of shows, eventually called The Onsug. The Rampler arrived in 2008 as another side project, and in 2009 it was briefly on the radio airwaves of WFMU. In the Fall of 2009, Frank ran into some chaos, ending his existing shows and starting The Frank Nora Show. By 2011, The Overnightscape was back, and it's been going strong ever since. As part of The Three Weasels, Frank is known as Shellshock Weasel.

PQ Ribber from Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, joined The Onsug in June 2010 with Conspiracy of the Insignificant. He's done numerous different shows, producing more content on Onsug than anyone besides Frank. Since 2013 he's been doing Quaquaversal Satellite. In late 2010, he began Overnightscape Central, where all The Onsug hosts are invited to record on a particular topic each week.

Jimbo from Georgia joined Onsug in 2013 as a contributor to PQ's shows Pop Culture qd and Quaquaversal Satellite. In 2014, he produced Saved from Oblivion. In 2015, he began The Frank Nora Time Machine – going back to the beginning of The Overnightscape and playing clips from each show. Also in 2015, be started his main show, Hey Everybody, it's Jimbo! Jimbo was also the world's foremost authority on old time radio show Vic and Sade, and he started The Vic and Sadecast in 2016. Also in 2016, he created the scripted comedy series Hometownville. That year he also took over as host of Overnightscape Central. Sadly, he passed away the following year, in November 2017 – but his voice lives on here in The Onsug.

Shambles Constant from Illinois is one of the most prolific hosts on The Onsug, producing a number of different shows, sometimes taking long breaks between waves of content. He came on board in December 2011 with Anybody's Guess, which he renamed The Shambleshow the following month. Since 2013, he's had a series of shows: Eclectic Symmetry, Garble House, Radio Free Shambles, Middle- Eight Dream State, and more.

Chad Bowers from Alabama (also having lived in Texas) came on board in April 2010 with a distinctive surreal style on Chadcast. He's also a stalwart contributor to Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp, and is known for his experimental audio pieces.

Doc Sleaze from England arrived on The Onsug in 2012. He's one of the most prolific contributors to Overnightscape Central, with 282 appearances thus far. In 2015 he started doing his own shows: Sleazecast, Schlock Express, DS, and Doc Sleaze. He met Frank in London in 2019 for Frank's first overseas Onsug meetup.

Dave in Kentucky arrived on The Onsug in 2017 and has done a series of great shows: Themes Like Old Times, Into the Time Warp, Halloween Special, The Closet Excavationist, Killer Serials, Blues, Views & Reviews, Fahrenheit 450, and SERMONS. He is also a stalwart contributor to Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

Mike Boody from Birmingham, Alabama, joined Onsug with the 18th episode of his show The Midnight Citizen in February 2011. Originally recorded in the middle of the night on his paper route, Mike's thoughts and observations hearken back to the classic age of late-night radio.

Ruben from Australia began his Rubenerd Show in January 2005 – the dawn of the podcasting era. It's been going ever since, with a few long breaks, as he's lived in Singapore, Kuala Lumpur, Adelaide, and Sydney. Ruben's been a listener to The Overnightscape for a long time, and started posting his shows on The Onsug in June 2015. Now, his entire archive is included. With his partner Clara, he visited the US in 2016 and appeared on several epiosdes of The Overnightscape.

Clara from Australia did her Snake Tea Podcast from 2015 to 2016, with several done in Cantonese Chinese. One additional episode, renamed Rock Salt Cheese, was released in 2020. With her partner Ruben, she visited the US in 2016 and appeared on several epiosdes of The Overnightscape. She is also a frequent guest on his Rubenerd Show.

Eddie Murray from Ireland was the first host to join Onsug in May 2009 with Trampler Sampler. He continued the series as Trampler starting in October 2010, and changed the name to Cloud Base 44 in December 2011. In September 2016 he changed the name again, to The Wool Gathering.

Rob DiCaterino and Greg Izzi from New Jersey started The Paunch Stevenson Show, "The Ultimate Pop Culture Podcast", way back in October 2005. Frank added their complete archive to The Onsug in January 2013, and posts all their new episodes as well. Rob has known Frank since 2000, when they were both part of the band Fuzzy Daupner.

Marc Rose and Milt Kanes from Portland, Oregon, came on board in February 2015 with Fusebox, bringing a new level of audio production and weirdness to The Onsug.

Manny the Mailman from New Jersey launched Special Delivery on The Onsug in April 2010, and continued it till 2015. He's also joined Frank and Roel from the Netherlands on many Overnightscape Adventures in and around NYC.

Roel from the Netherlands is a long-time friend of The Onsug and has joined Frank and Manny the Mailman on numerous Overnightscape Adventures.

Bi-Coastal Becky has been a listener since 2004. Frank met her in 2005 when he went to California and she picked him up at the airport and took him to Disneyland and Ontario Mills Mall. She was Becky From California until 2010, when she started her show, Bi-Coastal Becky, and began contributing to Overnightscape Central. She has sent boxes of snacks and beverages for him to review, and was a subscriber to the ABM Show.

Neal from Ireland has been a long-time friend of The Onsug. His show, Into Your Head, ran from 2006 to 2016 with 792 episodes – but it wasn't on The Onsug. He did a special version of it for The Onsug called Over Your Head in 2010 and 2011. While much of Into Your Head was lost, in March 2020 we added 221 episodes to The Onsug with Neal's blessing.

The Meanderer was the second host to join The Onsug, in September 2009. He's been doing shows on and off ever since, and is known for his unique longform rampling style.

Smidge Kurdlebaum (aka Byron Duddle) from Illinois is the host of Gunkcast, and has shared many episodes on The Onsug starting in 2012.

Brazen Gestures from Berlin, Germany has been doing his show, Brazen Gestures, occasionally since 2014.

Peter Litkey (aka Joker Weasel) from New Jersey met Frank at a birth control factory in 1986. He was Frank's co-host on Bluffcosm.com, starred in Beublin A. Richardson, and is a member of The Three Weasels on their many ongoing adventures.

Bryan Cassidy (aka Phantom Weasel) from Pennsylvania met Frank on the first day of college in 1985. When they realized they both lived in room 209 in adjoining dorms, the 209 phenomenon was born. As a member of The Three Weasels he has participated in innumerable adventures.

Peter Bernard from New York produced the 418 Show in 2010, as well as the cartoon-based Americast in 2010 and 2011. He's also contributed to many of PQ Ribber's shows. Independently, he also got into the number 209 in 1985.

Bob LeMent from Illinois did Morning Commute (with Bob), recording weekly on his drive into St. Louis, from 2009 to 2015. Bob also hosts a show that's not on Onsug, Static Radio, which has been going since 1999.

Brian Jude from New Jersey joined The Onsug in September 2009 with The Brian Jude Show, which continued till December 2011. In 2012, Brian did two more shows, Manifesting Mastermind and Success Odyssey.

Wayne Reichert from Long Island, NY, joined The Onsug in February 2010, with a reboot of his show Sparetime Radio. He had a great run of shows, and was a big presence on The Onsug till 2012.

Jim & Lillian Fidler from Newfoundland, Canada, joined Onsug in December 2009 with Republic of Avalon Radio. They've shared a number of episodes of the show on The Onsug over the years.

Mark from England (aka Hootie1233) from Newcastle, England, did Across the Pond from 2010 to 2015, with his perspectives on pop culture, politics, celebrity and everything in-between.

Carrie Michel, originally from Texas, now in Colorado, brought The Carrie Michel Show to Onsug from 2011 to 2016, playing music and Old Time Radio shows, talking about her journeys in life, and much more.

Rich from North Carolina did I'm Just Sayin' in 2010 and 2011.

Escapist did Escapist Radio in 2010, and has met up with Frank on several episodes of The Overnightscape.

Mad Mike from New Jersey was Frank's co-host on Anything But Monday, originally a college radio show starting in 1986. In 2007 it was briefly revived as a premium podcast. It has continued to occasionally return over the years.

Simon from Nevada told his Scary Stories from 2010 to 2012. More recently, he's appeared on The Exit Ramp.

Joe Gipson from Illinois co-hosted Comicversal with PQ Ribber and has appeared on Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

Longtime listener Cali Dingo from California had an amazing run of 51 appearances on Overnightscape Central from 2015 to 2018

Longtime listener Nate from Wisconsin has appeared on a number of episodes of Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

Longtime listener Jan Erik from Norway has appeared on The Overnightscape, Overnightscape Central, and The Exit Ramp.

Q and Twila from California star in Here in Heck, co-hosted by PQ Ribber.

Stephen Jules Ruben from New Mexico has been a guest on many of PQ Ribber's shows.

Coptic Nerve from New Mexico has been a guest on many of PQ Ribber's shows.

Frank's father, Frank Ralph Nora, and Frank's sister Julie, both from New Jersey, appeared on many episodes in the early days of The Overnightscape.

Frank's brother, John Nora (from New Jersey, currently living in New York) has appeared on many episodes of The Overnightscape, and started his own show, Combat Zone, in 2019, with his friend from Mark from Boston.

Geoff Sink from Utah brought his audio drama series The Unbodied to The Onsug in 2010 and 2011. His monologue series The Echo Dispatch was on in 2013. He was also a stalwart contributor to Overnightscape Central.

Longtime listener Matt from Scotland (aka Dadaist) met up with Frank and Manny for an Overnightscape Adventure in 2015, and has appeared on many episodes of The Exit Ramp.

Frank's wife Denice (from New Jersey) has appeared on many episodes of The Overnightscape, and has been endlessly supportive of Frank's work on The Onsug.

Frank's sister-in-law Carrie Ann Carroll (originally from New Jersey, now in Texas) led the band Fuzzy Daupner, and her and her husband Joe Carroll (also originally from New Jersey, and now in Texas) have appeared on many episodes of The Overnightscape and The Exit Ramp.

Longtime listener J. Wiz from Pennsylvania has appeared on The Overnightscape and has sent in some short features for the channel.

Lanza is an occasional co-host on The Paunch Stevenson Show.

Mike from Green Bay has appeared on several episodes of Overnightscape Central.

Sarjé from Minnesota did The Saint Paul Skyline for a few months in 2010.

Dave in Wisconsin made many appearances on Overnightscape Central, especially while Jimbo was the host.

Randy from California is a long-time listener and has appeared on Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

Alex from New York did Into The Ether in 2010.

scottlo (originally from the US) produced two short-lived, but truly fascinating series for Onsug in 2012 – The Pro from Dover (from Japan) and scottlo calling (from Saudi Arabia).

Mumpler is the most mysterious host in all of The Onsug. He sent in one show in 2010, Camping on Memorial Day Weekend, and was never heard from again.

Besides the shows mentioned here, check out many of these hosts on Overnightscape Central and The Exit Ramp.

Additionally, I want to thank the hundreds of other folks who have appeared on The Onsug – as guests, listeners, callers, friends, and random encounters. There are so many interesting people to meet on your journey listening to The Onsug!

UPDATE 2023

Jeff from Houston is a longtime listener ,and host of The Meandering Mouse – the premier Disney Parks podcast from 2006 to 2011. In September 2021, Jeff contacted Frank about archiving his show on Onsug Radio. Frank was happy to add it to the channel!

Maverick88 in Texas joined Onsug Radio in December 2022 with his show "Post- Arlen Monologix", adding his unique stories and perspectives to the channel He grew up in the same neighborhood as Frank in New Jersey in the 1970s.

James from Scotland joined Onsug Radio in the Summer of 2023 with his "James' Coffee Blog Show". He also appeared on one episode of The Exit Ramp. While the show has been on hiatus after five episodes, we hope he returns someday! His blog remain active at jamesg.blog.

Jefferson from Philadelphia became a stalwart participant in The Exit Ramp starting in December 2021. In the early days of podcasting, he was co-star of the Otaku Generation podcast, and met Frank at some podcasting events. He also joined The Three Weasels for an adventure (The Overnightscape 1996 – The Three Weasels Manta Ray Session (3/4/23)).

Martin in NJ/Silicon Valley met Frank at a comic book convention in NJ in the late 80s. They kept in touch, and in 2014 Martin helped Frank at a VR conference in Silicon Valley. Starting in November 2021, Martin has participated in many Exit Ramps.

Jerry A. Greene from Houston is a longtime listener, who has appeared on The Overnightscape several times. Since December 2021 he has been on many episodes of The Exit Ramp. Sadly, Jerry passed away on November 23, 2024 at age 48.

Ann from Suffern, NY went to college with Frank, and recently discovered Onsug Radio. Starting in February 2023 she has appeared on several Exit Ramps.

THE OVERNIGHTSCAPE

Chaos is on the rise in 2009! January through May sees the end of the classic Overnightscape era, as The Rampler takes over as Frank's main show… until 2011, when The Overnightscape returns, stronger than ever!

HIATUS

In the midst of the chaotic "Sidetrack", The Overnightscape ceased to exist as a named show from 5/21/09 to 5/9/11. However, the show did continue, in all but name, with The Overnightscape Underground, The Rampler, and The Frank Nora Show. When it returned, The Overnightscape was stronger than ever, and has been going strong ever since.

Two years after the chaos of 2009, Frank revives his flagship show, The Overnightscape! A baffling numbering/lettering scheme is quickly done away with, and the show is really back and stronger than ever! Topics include: earthquakes, hurricanes, gazpacho, Beavis & Butthead, Pan Am, a meetup with Roel from The Netherlands, a meetup with The Human Orchestra (a band from Canada), timeline entanglement, kava kava,

Frogger, tofu, and much more...

THE SIDETRACK

In 2007 The Overnightscape had been going for four years, experiencing a wild ride with its rise and semi-fall in the new world of podcasting. I was a bit disillusioned, and started all sorts of new projects. And while I did get back on track with The Overnightscape in 2011, this chaotic sidetrack led to the creation of the group channel now known as The Onsug. In this section you can find the projects from this time period...

ONSUG DAYS

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

The Overnightscape Underground ("Onsug" for short) began as an ambitious concept for freeform and longform audio content, released in 24-hour sets. These "days" contain a wide variety of material, interspersed with hosting segments by Frank. After 5 "days", Onsug switched to a monthly format, and eventually developed into the Onsug we know and love today.

The Rampler is on the rise in 2009, as Frank starts getting involved with WFMU. In June, The Rampler takes over as Frank's main show and he starts broadcasting a version of the show on WFMU. Then… the show on WFMU gets canceled, and The Rampler is put to rest. It was a short but wild ride, and an important stepping stone to what The Onsug would become.

In November 2008, Frank ended the “Days” system of The Overnightscape Underground (“Onsug” for short), and switched to a monthly system. This included “ug” tracks which were the hosting level of the system - the format that would eventually turn into “The Frank Nora Show”. Collected here are the four “ug” tracks from November 2008. Frank was also doing The Overnightscape and The Rampler on The Onsug at this time.

ug: Night Coffee Black (11/1/08) 55:07 [119]
ug: River Monster (11/16/08) 1:00:00 [119]
ug: Port/Pinchot (11/28/08) 3:45:24 [119]
ug: Fever Dreaming (11/29-30/08) 31:25 [119]

THE FRANK NORA SHOW

2009 was a very chaotic year for Onsug. Frank was doing The Overnightscape, The Rampler, The Rampler on WFMU, and also running The Overnightscape Underground ("Onsug" for short). It was all too much, and by September, Frank cancels The Overnightscape and the Rampler, and then The Rampler on WFMU is cancelled, so all that's left is The Overnightscape Underground. Frank uses the "ug" hosting level tracks as his new main outlet. In October, he takes some time off with a "radio vacation", to try and figure out how to move foward. When Frank returns in November, we continues with a "show with no name" on The Overnightscape Underground as his main show. And then something amazing happens – other hosts start joining Onsug with their own shows, forming a new network… as The Onsug as we know it was born...

2011–2012
Hosts: Frank Edward Nora, PQ Ribber, Shambles Constant, Chad Bowers, Eddie Murray

Nightstation began as an experiment in Internet radio, with the idea of creating "virtual live" broadcasts. Each "patch" was around 8 hours long, and played on a streaming station. While the project didn't last long, the ideas did live on, influencing many later Onsug shows.

OVERNIGHTSCAPE DEPARTURES

Enjoy a wild variety of alternate recordings with the host of The Overnightscape, Frank Edward Nora. First, explore the Outer Boroughs of NYC with Roel from The Netherlands and Manny the Mailman. Then go with Frank to the Podcast Expo in California. And if you dare, enter the annoying yet fascinating world of "Andy Kaufman Lives". The Inramble Audio is the complete audio from a video series that never took off. The Severe Repair Universe is an incomplete reading of Frank's sci-fi novel. Many dreams are reviewed in The Dream Review. In The Box is a show designed to be listened to in an earlier incarnation of the Onsug archive called OnsugBox. Plus, a vast array of assorted audio features.

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

The Overnightscape Adventures happen when Roel from the Netherlands visits the New York area, and get together with Frank and Manny the Mailman to go on amazing journeys. Many of these are recorded as part of Frank's main show, The Overnightscape, but some have been released on their own. These are what you will find in this section.

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

In early 2008, Frank experimented with a video show, called Inramble. These "quick video trips" seemed perfect for the rapidly growing online video world. But when they failed to gain any significant viewership, Frank ended the project and decided to stick with audio. This is the complete audio from that project (the videos are still available on YouTube).

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

Frank had spent years trying to write his science fiction novel "Severe Repair", before giving up and releasing all the incomplete parts as “The Broken Text”. In 2010 he started reading the novel, along with commentary. But this project also didn’t get too far before being suspended and left incomplete...

SNEAKY TT

Sneaky TT began as an experimental video series where Frank commented on public domain videos. Then it became a show where Frank hosted various audio clips and music. Macho Condor used similar audio material, but without commentary. Additional experimental shows involved the curation of a wide variety of material. These ideas eventually led to the Other Side of The Overnightscape.

FRANK RALPH NORA FOREVER

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

Frank Edward Nora's father, Frank Ralph Nora, passed away on May 11, 2023 at age 81. To celebrate his father's life, Frank has collected all of the interviews he did with him on his podcast, The Overnightscape. Starting in 2005, FRN started telling stories from his days in the Navy, in Liberia in the early 1960s. After that he explored a multitude of topics, including trips, experiences working as a civil engineer in New Jersey, eccentric people he has met, and much more. Also included are several older recordings (1969-1986) featuring FRN.

THE COSM

Starting in March 2000, Bluffcosm.com was my first Internet radio project. My co- host Peter and I created original material for the station, but I also incorporated a lot of my older recordings. My friend Bryan eventually joined Peter and I to become "The Three Weasels", a side-project that still continues to this day. I also included my old college radio "Anything But Monday" recordings with "Mad" Mike – another side project that has continued. And I continue to delve into my old tapes in the Tape Land Project. So, The Cosm is the section for all these intersecting projects.

BLUFFCOSM.COM

Each recording on Bluffcosm.com was called a "Blufftoon", and they are all numbered. There were 147 in all, and they can all be found here in The Cosm.

FAILED EXPERIMENTS

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora

Over the years, Frank has experimented with many different ideas for audio shows. "Stormtoon" and "Obliviana Wander Radio" were attempts to combine the 209 system with an audio feature. "Window National" was an attempt to create a feature for the podcast "Dailysonic".

THE WEASELS

Join Frank and Peter on their zany adventures, starting with Train Crap & Blood – a comedy show recorded in Peter's basement room way back in 1991... then revived briefly in 2000. Circumstances required that the show's be name changed, so The Motor Excursion Ruffians arrived in 2001, with 5 occasional episodes recorded up to 2010. Also included are a set of random shows from 1999 to 2013, including several where Frank and Peter are joined by Bryan, forming The Three Weasels...

Bluffcosm was Frank's first Internet radio station, with Peter as co-star. It was most active in 2000 and 2001. Highlights include Blufftoon Time, Beublin A. Richardson, and so much more. It's a vast treasure trove of audio!

Hosted by Frank Edward Nora & Peter Litkey

In 1991, Train Crap & Blood was like a podcast, long before the age of podcasting. It was revived in 2000 as part of Bluffcosm, before ending, to be continued as The Motor Excursion Ruffians.

ANYTHING BUT MONDAY

Get ready for some surreal comedy (and hostility) on the amazing ABM Show! Anything But Monday began as a college radio show in 1986, starring "Mad" Mike and Frank Nora "Master of the Airwaves". In 2007, they briefly revived the show as a premium podcast, and have occasionally done new episodes since then.

OLD CASSETTES

Frank has a lot of old cassettes, which he’s releasing on the Tape Land project. Before that, he digitized and released a bunch of old tapes in the early days of The Onsug. Listen to them here!

TAPE LAND

1969–2004
Curator: Frank Edward Nora

Welcome to Tape Land! On each episode, I will be presenting the audio of a cassette tape or historic material from my collection. It's a way to help motivate me to digitize more of my archives.

THE MUSIC

Check out this compilation of music that Frank had a hand in creating or curating. In Fuzzy Daupner, Frank wrote lyrics and co-produced. Frank created his own music under various names like Polar Lion, Little Frankie Nora, Tree Bag Ask, Midnight Cassette Ststem, and Choston Bands & Junkard Sane. He collected songs for Trash Am Records, Music for Night Driving in VR, and 500 Song Trip. He archived songs for a defunct website, MyVirtualBand. It's an eclectic collection of tunes, much of which you'll find only here.

FUZZY DAUPNER LYRICS

Fuzzy Daupner (Carrie Engdahl – Vocals, Guitar, Rob DiCaterino – Drums, Phil Mould – Bass, Denice Nora – Creative Direction, Frank Edward Nora – Creative Direction) was an obscure New Jersey rock band which, in the brief span of 3 years (1998- 2001), created a catalog of 32 amazing songs. You can hear all of these songs right here, along with complete lyrics, below.

Fuzzy Daupner began in 1998 when Carrie Engdahl began collaborating with her sister Denice and Denice's husband Frank on creating songs. Awhile later, they joined forces with Rob DiCaterino on drums and formed the band Fuzzy Daupner. The final member, Phil Mould, from England, on bass, joined a little later.

They produced two home-recorded, Internet-distributed albums, and played many shows around New Jersey and NYC. But they never got signed and they broke up in November 2001.

FUZZY DAUPNER: THE 32 SONGS

These are all the original songs recorded and/or performed by Fuzzy Daupner. They are listed in a split alphabetical order, so The Filmography of Ann B. Davis (always a favorite to close the show) is last, which makes the namesake song "Fuzzy Daupner" first. Writing credits per song will be added in the future.

FUZZY DAUPNER -- You were there in that college, And you like this god Frey, You were there in that college, And you like this god Loki / You said this was all you were waiting for, I gave you my heart, I told you my soul / You were there in that college, And you like this god Frey, You were there in that college, And you like this god Loki / I gave you everything that I possibly could, But you just stood there with your hands wide open, I guess I should have expected that you would / You were there in that college, And you like this god Frey, You were there in that college, And you like this god Loki / What about what I want?, Were you ever gonna give me that? / So, if I gave you what you wanted, Would you really be happy?, And if I gave you what you wanted, Would I have been loved?

LITTLE FAN -- I'm a pretty cool chick, I like to laugh, I'm not too serious, maybe just a little mysterious, doesn't that make you curious / I'm a pretty cool chick, I've got my own dot com, I play guitar, I write you songs, I even have my own car, I'll let you take it for a ride / Let me make you feel like a man, you don't gotta be my biggest fan, I could do so many things to you, and you could say you're with the band, you could say you're with the band / My candle's not lit, hot wax could be naughty, when I use my voice like this, I'll see you in the morning, little fan / Let me make you feel like a man, you don't gotta be my biggest fan, I could do so many things to you, and you could say you're with the band, you could say you're with the band / I'm a pretty cool chick, I like to laugh, I'm not too serious, maybe just a little mysterious, doesn't that make you curious, doesn't that make you curious, doesn't that make you curious

THE MEXICAN HOVERCRAFT -- Montana Kentucky Bermuda Maine, Hovercraft race and the dreamer Lorraine, Won the Mexican Hovercraft in a backgammon game, The first to Bar Harbor wins a trip into space / And the Mexican Hovercraft is ready for speed, Shields and Yarnell and J. Appleseed, The heck with nostalgia there can be a new dawning, Lorraine at the wheel is still sneering and yawning / Give it sweet attention, An incense on interstate rain, Give it sweet attention, Appomatox is buzzing again / Give it sweet attention, An incense on interstate rain, Give it sweet attention, Appomatox is buzzing again / October train stations as dark as can be, Thoughts from Cape May are numbingly clean, Racing stripes in an autumn scheme, Bolt Wintercindie and the Laser Bee / Kentucky is chill and the contest is fading, The Lippizan Stallions are ready for mating, The Halma Club geeks are bitter and jaded, Lorraine hits the brakes with a pepper elation / Give it sweet attention, An incense on interstate rain, Give it sweet attention, Appomatox is buzzing again / Give it sweet attention, An incense on interstate rain, Give it sweet attention, Appomatox is buzzing again

MONSTER NOW -- So how you been my crazy monster head?, Are you lonely?, I know I haven't been myself,, I thought I was OK on my own,, But sometimes you just need your, Crazy monster, Sometimes you just need your monster / Somethings very very very wrong, You're my Easter, And someday this will get easier / Look at the sky, And say good-bye, Feelings don't last, Licorice goes bad, And children sometimes cry and / Somethings very very very wrong, You're my Easter, And someday this will get easier / "Have another cigarette,", I say to myself, What else is there to do?, I convince my monster / Somethings very very very wrong, You're my Easter, And someday this will get easier / So how you been my crazy monster head?, Are you lonely?, I know I haven't been myself, I thought I was okay on my own,, But sometimes you just need your, Crazy monster, Sometimes you just need your monster, Sometimes I just need my monster, Sometimes you just need your monster, Sometimes I just need my monster

ONLY SAW TRUCKS -- The slower the warning here is building, And a slow travel down weird sideways, No fortress here nothing, Otherside and faraway something / Dreaming by the hotel check-in, He should be here any second, A glance and a look, I'm waiting for a car, But I only saw trucks, I only saw trucks / Detours to a row of vending machines, Hearing their voices trying to make my choices, Next time I'll wear long sleeves / Dreaming by the hotel check-in, He should be here any second, A glance and a look, I'm waiting for a car, But i only saw trucks, I mantra slam all / My dreaming has changed to wondering, Many seconds have gone by, Pulling into my face with a smile, He has arrived and I told him that I was / Dreaming by the hotel check-in, Knowing you'd be here any second, Looking for your car but I only saw trucks, I only saw trucks / No wind no warning the desert is beat, Hopefully he'll be back quick, Standing alone near a red rock plateau, The air is downy like thunder, In my pocket no keys or money, Just dice and fax and phone numbers, Wrench and bolt 3 2 1 contact, One way is loosen one way is damn tighten / Baby I wanna get moving, But I only saw trucks, Baby I wanna get moving, But I only saw trucks, I only saw trucks

PENT BREEZE -- Funnier and comfier, responsive and sane, Looping in imperfection space, Aukwise vinegars we're tinting slake, Terrarium daycare and the random sleep / You could be mine, In the early 90s, I'll find the time / You could be mine, In the early 90s, I'll find the time / Yo shrinkwrapped CD open it up, Climaxing and flaxen, A falconer attention, A Fallingwater affection, Change..., Rebel yanking my braid, Snarled stress gets unmade, A spy store gets rearranged, The days..., Are getting colder / Pent Breeze, Information please, I can't go to Europe right now / Pent Breeze, Maybe space is east, Garage sale signs are old / PentBreeze, Information please, I can't go to Europe right now / Pent Breeze, Maybe space is east, Garage sale signs are old / Frivolarctango's the focus pretty motorhome, Millheel Chamille's the focus pretty van, It's okay to fantasize, In an unbuilt building night, All mimsy were the slot machines, Cheap maple syrup is cheap / Yo shrinkwrapped CD open it up, Climaxing and flaxen, A falconer attention, A Fallingwater affection, Change..., Rebel yanking my braid, Snarled stress gets unmade, A spy store gets rearranged, The days..., Are getting colder / Pent Breeze, The flowers breathe, Concepts are so lame / Pent Breeze, The charming sleaze, Lantern bleak and westerly / Pent Breeze, The flowers breathe, Concepts are so lame / Pent Breeze, The charming sleaze, Lantern bleak and westerly / She said this, birds are cool, She said this, birds are cool, She said this, birds are cool

POSSIBLE CALHOUN -- Well here's the van, hop on in, There's still some fun in the world, y'know, So come along my friend / It's the time of day to open your mind, In other words it's anytime of the night or day / Don't believe in a starlight squeeze, Don't be the realistic one, oh jeez, Feel the morning slapping your frown, For a number of hours to come, We'll be hanging around, And singing around and playing around, And horsing and horsing, Around and around and around and AROUND / It's a wildering drifted gown, Licking freshly minted weeks, Oh..., Licking freshly minted weeks / Via va va vo and, Via va va vay, Toll plaza dragonflies, Wake up uh get up uh, Possible Calhoun / Via va va vo and, Via va va vay, Toll plaza dragonflies, Wake up uh get up uh, Possible Calhoun / Well hello space camp stepsister, Have you had that smile on long, Say you oughtta might honey feel the night, It's got a raven's nest and hero's hall / It's a wildering drifted gown, Licking freshly minted weeks, Oh..., Licking freshly minted weeks / So let's go now my, Happy sleepy amigos, So let's go now my, Happy sleepy amigos, So let's go now my, Happy sleepy amigos / There's more of all this revelry, It will not go sour, Don't be a drag with all of your counting the hours, Let us love a fair time of slush in the flowers / Via va va vo and, Via va va vay, Toll plaza dragonflies, Wake up uh get up uh, Possible Calhoun / Via va va vo and, Via va va vay, Toll plaza dragonflies, Wake up uh get up uh, Possible Calhoun

PREGNANT SKATEBOARD -- Car wash canals clearly doesn't make sense,, But smiles live with me behind that fence, Chocolate and vanilla are quite complimentary, You and I seem so contradictory, Picture perfect places only exist in pictures, And nothing is guaranteed as a permanent fixture / You and me, maybe not, Just a thought, that's all I've got, You and me, maybe not, Just a thought, that's all I've got / In the cards and on the dice,, Take your chance, it might be nice, Waiting for nothing and playing the game, Waiting for you is just the same as, Waiting for nothing and playing the game / You and me, maybe not, Just a thought, that's all Ive got, You and me, maybe not, Just a thought, that's all I've got / I'm okay with you here,, Acting silly, shimmering smiles, Looking like lavender after a while,, But you better bet both hands now mister, 'Cause flounders are flying faster that you can / You and me, maybe not, Just a thought, that's all I've got, You and me, maybe not, Just a thought, that's all I've got

RIDICULOUS FORTUNE -- Sunflower Slow Drag 2, Lingerie in a suitcase in ice, A little mandolin gesture, Of a primitive pinball spice / I have agreed, Perhaps stupidly, To embark on a Hyper Mission / Out of a phase, The fading telecast age, With the in- flight dungeon games, In the flickety flames / I have agreed, I have agreed / Ridiculous Fortune, Savage FFM, Ocelot vibe, Bad Scoville in again / Out of a phase, The fading telecast age, With the in-flight dungeon games, In the flickety flames / I have agreed, I have agreed / This fiery Spring is a, Fine and naughty daydream, And strife is for erasing with, Skinny dipping into things amazing / I have agreed, Perhaps stupidly, To embark on a Hyper Mission / Out of a phase, Out of a phase / Savage Far Field Monitor, Forgotten windshear friend, Lulling me the ramping lyre, Telecasting as the tundra falls, Away... Away... / Ridiculous Fortune, Savage FFM, Ocelot vibe, Bad Scoville in again / I have agreed, Out of a phase / I have agreed, Out of a phase / I have agreed, Out of a phase / Sunflower Slow Drag 2

SIGN OF THE MALLS -- At a loser's house she sought the sign of the malls, People are insane towards her, What do you want / At a loser's house she sought the sign of the malls, People are insane towards her, What do you want / Sign of the malls, Going where I want to go, It's not a song for the insane people to sing / Sign of the malls, Going where I want to go, It's not a song for the insane people to sing / At the new york mercantile exchange, Lightning teen walk, What do you want / At the new york mercantile exchange, Lightning teen walk, What do you want / Sign of the malls, Going where I want to go, It's not a song for the insane people to sing / Sign of the malls, Going where I want to go, It's not a song for the insane people to sing / Do not keep throwing oranges at me, It's not what I want, So unlock the storm

SLIDING GARDENS -- And can I say we are, Crazy crossing a rocky stream, Kissing hills and air and dreams, Coltishly beaucoup in our mysteries / Bathing cool in a stimulating rio, Tiki and arctic phase at nanticoko, Singing folk space rock at the top of our lungs, Winding down in the wow fluff of the treetops / We can walk together, Under the moon or whatever, And our nasty predawn jive, Will even make the scorpions cry / We can walk together, Under the moon or whatever, And our nasty predawn jive, Will even make the scorpions cry / Humpback dude with jackdaw steed, Whale and bird on a new kind of trip, Motors and lights and audio delights, Rubber bands are pumping energy / The treasure of me is stalking away, At the whining dusk of day, Your mental aggression craft is called, Attack-type dog / We can walk together, Under the moon or whatever, And our nasty predawn jive, Will even make the scorpions cry / We can walk together, Under the moon or whatever,

And our nasty predawn jive, Will even make the scorpions cry / Above the primly introspective waste, The Rover is the tune, As we skydive in new wave ruins, She make weird animal dolls / Pogs were not a lasting trend, The new age it just came and went, The humans we're all stuck in are, The leftovers of an obvious recall / We can walk together, Under the moon or whatever, And our nasty predawn jive, Will even make the scorpions cry / We can walk together, Under the moon or whatever, And our nasty predawn jive, Will even make the scorpions cry

SOME IN THE WOODS -- Though it wouldn't compute today, There were some in the woods, Detergent like misty May go away, Sunglasses like that she's no bank employee / The airport one of the grasslands, Has a nuclear weapon, There's a reptile that's almost here, And on carpet he ain't steppin' / Seen the white phosphorus braids, Of the jingle bell maker of the breeze, Erotically wasted, On the leaves of hidden trees /

There's an elevator on the train, Of windmill and waterwheel, Saw a dryad with anthracite, Cuckoo clock's cold, gotta heat that steel
/ Bold and bright and savage hammer, From a field of silly flowers, Dark artwork of a corporation, Snowy and ruined, my night hours / Seen the white phosphorus braids, Of the jingle bell maker of the breeze, Erotically wasted, On the leaves of hidden trees / Though it wouldn't compute today, There were some in the woods, Detergent like misty May go away, Sunglasses like that she's no park ranger / The airport one of the grasslands, Has a nuclear weapon, There's a reptile that's almost here, And he's got my full attention / The grizzlycorn with the copper horn, In the light of digital clocks was born, Jesse and Sasha wore their outfits torn, And those in the woods, they hit their foghorn / Yes those in the woods, they hit their foghorn, Yes those in the woods, they hit their foghorn, Yes those in the woods, they hit their foghorn

TAKE A NAP -- When this happens I feel trapped, When this happens I feel trapped, I need to run away to a place I can relax, 'Cause when this happens, I feel trapped, I need a nap / When this happens I take a nap, When this happens I take a nap, Wrap me in a blanket, and throw me in the sack, 'Cause when all this stuff happens, I take a nap, I feel trapped / James K. Polk and his hamster Zack, Are playing out in the back, When this stuff happens I take a nap, When that happens I take a nap, When that happens I take a nap, I feel trapped, I'm on attack / Let me shut off, with my pillow nice and soft, 'Cause when all this stuff happens, I take a nap, When this happens I take a nap, I feel trapped, I feel trapped / I'm too big for daddy's lap, these days he just gives me a pat, so these days stuff happens, I take a nap, When that happens I take a nap, When this happens I take a nap, I feel trapped, I'm on attack / Don't wake me up, or I'll give you a whack / If that happened I'd take a nap / If you don't let me nap, I'll be on a Feral Kid attack / If that happened I'd take a nap, I'd play with Zack / When I wake from my nap, I can then deal with the crap, but when all this stuff happens, In Carbonite I'm trapped, I need a nap / Can I fathom this darkling drape? / Can I fathom this darkling drape? / Can I fathom this darkling drape? / I take a nap.

TEN MINUTES CAT -- I always forget to water my plants, New clothes make me dance, I always forget to tell you how I feel / Always waiting for that second chance, Look at me with that long time glane, So I'm sure that you feel the same / Ten minutes cat, you better call, Ten minutes cat, until I fall, You've got ten minutes cat, that's all / I can't help feeling pissed, Why does no matter what this, Romance is such a game / Why do I leave it up to, Whether or not I feel blue, I don't know what else to say or do / Ten minutes cat, I'm waiting no more, Ten minutes cat, this is such a chore, Ten minutes to call, that's all / Ten minutes cat, you better call, Ten minutes cat, until I fall, You've got ten minutes cat, thats all.

TRANSIT SHIVERS (note: there are two versions of this song - the long version (below), and the short version, which is a subset of the long version) -- A thousand years ago, I was so alone, I had three horses, Bob, Jake and Fred, I made my money by making bread, Those horses were my only friends, and you said I was weird cause, I talked to them,, but I knew, that you knew, that you loved me anyway / But, I was disruptive, I was untrusted, I was destructive with your heart, I was disruptive, I was untrusted, I was destructive with my heart, Transit shivers make me quiver, Transit shivers always make me quiver / Five hundred years ago, I was so alone, I had three plants, Daisy, Dead and Petal, I made my money by making metal, Those plants were my only friends, and you said I was crazy because, I talked to them,, but I knew, that you knew, that you loved me anyway / But, I was disruptive, I was untrusted, I was destructive with your heart, I was disruptive, I was untrusted, I was destructive with my heart, Transit shivers make me quiver, Transit shivers always make me quiver / One hundred years ago, I was so alone, I had three frogs, George, Blair, and Cope, I made my money by making soap, Those frogs were my only friends, and you said I was strange because, I talked to them, but I knew, that you knew, that you loved me anyway / But, I was disruptive, I was untrusted, I was destructive with your heart, I was disruptive, I was untrusted, I was destructive with my heart, Transit shivers make me quiver, Transit shivers always make me quiver / This year, I am so alone, I have three cuckoos, Mappy, Reese, and Kitty, I make my money by making old woman pretty, These cuckoos are my only friends, and you think I'm insane because, I talk to them, but I know, that you know, that you love me anyway / I'll try not being so disruptive, or untrusted, or destructive with your heart, So disruptive, or untrusted, or destructive with my heart, Transit shivers make me quiver, Transit shivers always make me quiver, And maybe someday I won't be so alone, so solo, so solo

FEAR NUMBER ONE -- If I told you a story would you want to hear the end?, 'Cause it's kinda long and it's awfully stupid, So just let me begin / It started on Michael's porch in 1984, He stuck his tongue in my mouth and I fell to the floor / He said we were playing make-believe, But pretending was never that real, And since that day, I've been afraid, Of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing / His mom saw us and she called to tell mine, My mom stood there in the kitchen and asked what's on my mind, And I said nothing, I said nothing, I said nothing, I said nothing / She asked if what she heard was true, I didn't know what to say, I wanted to tell the truth, That Michael made me play, But I said nothing, I said nothing, and I lied, and I lied / And I'm not sure why, I let this control my mind, And I'm not sure how I became such a coward / I'm not sure why, I let this control my mind, I'm not sure how, it made me such a coward, I'm such a coward, I'm such a coward, I'm such a coward, I'm such a coward / And you loved to climb my tree, And you loved to watch me pee, Always asking how it works, How am I supposed know?, I'm only seven years old, How could you expect me know?, I'm only seven years old, Seven years old / And I'm not sure if that's the reason, But it keeps my wonder sane, And maybe if this didn't happen, I'd still turn out the same, Afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing / And I wonder what would happen if the real thing came my way, What kind of excuses could I think of to say, Maybe I'd start to sing to help you understand, That I really don't want to leave it's just the way I am, Afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing, I'm afraid of the real thing

THE FILMOGRAPHY OF ANN B. DAVIS -- Boring books that other people read, About adults and their infidelities, And travelling to romantic places, These readers are wanting of sleeves with aces / Paper plates with the cartoon stars of the day, Inelegant remains of some kind of ice cream cake, As relatives are lazing the tension is phasing, And phone calls at night's-end are hoped to be pleasing / Loving life can take more juice, Than the air conditioning at a mall, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Her place in the scheme of things is just idiotic / Loving life can take more juice, Than the air conditioning at a mall, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Her place in the scheme of things is just idiotic / As lame as a fast food no-left-turn sign, Dirty fingers that prod in the produce lane, Pirates adored as the dudes of pop culture, Real ones caused misery and torture / This place is construction zones and shoe store blues, The mentally scrambled at facade-craft are ample, The toys of the '80s are ready and waiting, Sweaty clothes are stripped and the shower is dreaming / Loving life can take more juice, Than the air conditioning at a mall, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Her place in the scheme of things is just idiotic / Loving life can take more juice, Than the air conditioning at a mall, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Her place in the scheme of things is just idiotic / This place has crap from the past that better not last, The razor wire friends that talk empty and fresh, Loving life is a rock guitar haunting, The mall is so cold that I gotta keep running / Rows and columns of bitches from college, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Rows and columns of bitches from college, Her place in the scheme of things is changing just slightly

Two songs exist on the fringes… Dock Watch Hollow was in development, but never finished by the time the band broke up. Ice Town was discovered when listening to the songs backwards - while most, as expected, didn't make any sense backwards, one song – Sign of the Malls – has a complete set of (mostly) intelligible lyrics when played backwards. This was completely unintentional and is a mystery. Based on the lyrics, it was titled Ice Town.

DOCK WATCH HOLLOW (lyric fragments from 7/30/01 song development tape)
…actly inspires my mind, it's all good shit and sometimes it rhymes, don't know what to call it, so I call it mine / Brief moments from the past are flashing back and we see a plastic spider ring hanging with St. Gerard in the rear view mirror in her car / Fall asleep all the time, in the TV movies of your love / Don't bother to key my mind, you'll find the lovin' all the time / You only feel guilty when you do something wrong
/ Lashing out at easy targets, licking wounds is our delight / Guilt's the hang glider, that flies on by

ICE TOWN (Sign of the Malls backwards) -- Now it's funny how we're all strung out on gods baby, that says they're only worth freak paranoids / It's all we can slit, of no force that I see, for the snow where I am you, for the one in ice with me / It's all we can slit, of no force that I see, for the snow where I am you, for the one in Ice Town / You should know, are we sleeping? I see yeah yeah yes, you asked me for it, no you know that / Town you should know, are we sleeping? I see yeah yeah yes, you asked me for it, no you know that / It's all we can slit, of no force that I see, for the snow where I am you, for the one in ice with me / It's all we can slit, of no force that I see, for the snow where I am you, for the one in Ice Town / You should know there was no wish mystero on all we saw, Buddy I saw Garcie Schwizers rue the night / Town you should know, there was no wish mystero on all we saw, Buddy I saw Garcie Schwizers rue the night

FUZZY DAUPNER: THE LOST LYRICS

These are three sets of lyrics that were written by Frank during the time of Fuzzy Daupner but never made into songs before the band broke up. Circa 2015, Jimbo made a few songs based on some of these lyrics. In 2021, Frank wrote a final set of lyrics, Fourtha Losta, based on notes from the time of Fuzzy Daupner. Around the same time, Frank wrote a poem, Whychock 1167, for The Overnightscape 1817, which, in one part, continues the story from The Armixhony of Conrad.

LASER BAFFLE RAG (by Frank Edward Nora, 11/29/00) -- Had an open mind about the Spice Girls movie, But it didn't deliver, Noticed your mind is alive with wizards, My blood is hot for revolution / The mushrooms and armaments in me, Weapon and war learning TV, Father Time is a stupid old liar, The sand and rust of solo desire / Minor questions, like, Was Dana Plato a loser?, Is anything ever gonna be easier?, Surf guitar, is it minimalistic?, Lozenge is eucylyptus / Is anything ever gonna be easier?, Is anything ever gonna be easier? / A Charles Nelson Reilly on caffeine,

Describes this kid to a T, In Wintercindie's bed he will not sleep, On delusions he sips like a laser bee / The mushrooms and armaments in me, Weapon and war learning TV, Father Time is a stupid old liar, The sand and rust of solo desire / Minor questions, like, Was Dana Plato a loser?, Is anything ever gonna be easier?, Surf guitar, is it minimalistic?, Lozenge is eucylyptus / Technomagical maniac vehicle, Technomagical maniac vehicle / George M. Dallas and his kingfisher Milly, Are hanging out with kittens that're silly, In a pet store window in a cold mall, Calling out, loving the mystery of it all / Calling out, Calling out, Kitten Kitten Kitten Kitten, Calling out

MOUNTAINSIDE MADNESS (1/23/00, by Frank Edward Nora) -- sexuality's an f'd up thing, but I think all in all it can pacify me, I thought strolling darkly and flicking a lighter, we're all jolly foreigners in hardship and winter / we haven't got a chance of a clue, sketching dragons with crayons in gray sexy clothes, and sometimes it surprises the jaded, who take pleasure in predicting the end of relationships / the rough-hewn glee was once a part, of fighting in the streets, when pleasure grew like weeds, in washing wells of clash and commonality / a jar of air from dreamland, a jar of air from dreamland / sexuality's an f'd up thing, but I think all in all it can pacify me, I thought strolling darkly and flicking a lighter, we're all jolly foreigners in hardship and winter / we haven't got a chance of a clue, sketching dragons with crayons in gray sexy clothes, and sometimes it surprises the jaded, who take pleasure in predicting the end of relationships / the rough-hewn glee was once a part, of fighting in the streets, when pleasure grew like weeds, in washing wells of clash and commonality / a jar of air from dreamland, a jar of air from dreamland

SNOWFLAW CAR (6/17/01, by Frank Edward Nora) -- The maniacs of the dirty scene, Have a charm and thrust that's good to see, You're a dusty mischevous thing, Movin' on road with feather and glee / Various strategies, Reaching out to the chimpanzees on TV, Detours and coffee skylines, Lovers in the outdoors having a nice time / Give me a house in winter fit for a ghost, With aspirin door beads and a neutron star, A twinkle in the eye, Of a dark old bird of prey, Drink the air and phase the rapids, At the end of day / As bookstore sidewalks crack, Daydream time's the only life attack, This place is dead you scream, And the sad old trees get what you mean / The sad old trees get what you mean / I wouldn't find fairies yawning, In the concourse just 'fore dawn, If your ice walls weren't just shattered, Fake flaws blown to Rome and Mars / Fake flaws blown to Rome and Mars / Give me a house in winter fit for a ghost, With aspirin door beads and a neutron star, A twinkle in the eye, Of a dark old bird of prey, Drink the air and phase the rapids, At the end of day / The maniacs of the dirty scene, Have a charm and thrust that's good to see, You're a dusty mischevous thing, Movin' on road with feather and glee / Movin' on road with feather and glee

FOURTHA LOSTA (Titled 5/19/21, Refine 5/21/21, Done 5/25/21) -- Little powder blue Audi TT, The First

Internet Rock Band and me, Coffee is flavored with blueberry cream, England swings and tobacco is king / Summer in the astral plane, Of dollar signs and peaceful knives, Gonna punch a hole in a wall, aficianado, Cinder block wall painted black and avocado / We spend our days in losing cool, Over what we're missing, Lashing out at easy targets, Licking wounds is our delight / Food Court Logic and The Flimsy Anchor, Welcome to our stupid game, If you knew how close you were to disaster , Mr. Gleaming The Cube wouldn't be your master / KJ and the circus gray, are we sleeping, A laughing and arcade, upon the cliffsides, The

Pharidine Assaulters keep it under their hats, In Shack Bluff a night market is where it's at / And night air travel via ancient times, The harshness of this home, A jagged ride, a skylight of amperage, On witch hazel correspondence day / The lamp dainties sip off residual light, From lampshades in the pitch of night, As jumbo jets in silhouette might, If stardust flowed like anthracite / Come to me, little perfect free, A ren faire she, be zorch, daddy-o, To South Bound Brook or Dock Watch Hollow, Go bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, go Fourtha Losta

WHYCHOCK 1167 * 5/13/21 (034) -- Say you win the rat race then what. Join the caravan to the next age. You can bet your bippy there are vending machines in heaven. My kirschwasser shell is almost empty, and has no answers, man. Try The Overnightscape 1817 instead. Very humble and groovy inside your head. I'd like an 80s Waldenbooks bag, the woodcut one. A phenomenon is those four making it to the next level. Conrad awoke, the door to the paddywhack was open, there was no one to stop him.

LITTLE FRANKIE NORA

Produced by Frank Edward Nora

In 1987, at age 19, I set up a rudimentary recording studio in my parents' basement and created music as "Little Frankie Nora". The main instruments I used were a Casio SK-1 sampling keyboard and a small black-and-white TV set.

MYVIRTUALBAND FEATURED SONGS

2004–2006
Archived by Frank Edward Nora

MyVirtualBand.com was a music collaboration website that existed circa 2004- 2006.

On the site, musicians worked together to create songs. All audio created on the site was licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 2.0 License.

In late 2006, it was announced that MyVirtualBand.com was acquired by NetMusicMakers.com. Unfortunately, this led to MyVirtualBand being completely shut down, circa 2007.

There were 113 "featured songs" on MVB. They're all included here, along with detailed attribution info (see The Digital Extension).

I love this music, and I don't think anyone else has shared this archive since the demise of MVB, so here it is for your listening pleasure!

LEISURE CASSETTE SYSTEM

by Tree Bag Ask

Sit back, relax, and chill out with Leisure Cassette System. Featuring 500 songs for over 25 hours of music, this set was created to be background music for Onsug Radio, but it can be used far beyond that. Just set it on shuffle and feel your troubles slipping away with the late night groove. Produced on a MadPlayer with software version P1.29.06, on the Cool Mix setting, by Tree Bag Ask (aka Frank Edward Nora). Mastered in Reason, with songs named in semi-random fashion using Oren Tirosh's mnemonic word list. See also Frank's previous similar projects, Midnight Cassette System (2010), New Midnight Cassette System (2012), and 500 Song Trip (2012). Released 7/20/23.

HEY EVERYBODY, IT'S JIMBO!

2015–2017
Hosted by Jimbo

Making his way from being a guest/co-host on the Quaquaversal Satellite, Jimbo tries hard to perfect his shtick, which is mostly "comedic" in tone and is sometimes combined with his own original music.

Jimbo passed away in November 2017, but his voice lives on in these archives.

THE VIC AND SADECAST

2016–2017
Hosted by Jimbo

From Jimbo: "Vic and Sade" was created and written by Paul Rhymer. For all your "Vic and Sade" needs, visit The Crazy World of Vic and Sade. Thanks to Internet audio pioneer Frank Edward Nora and ONSUG for hosting the VIC AND SADECAST. I am thankful for him and the many others who help preserve VIC AND SADE for future generations.

HOMETOWNVILLE

2016–2017
Hosted by Jimbo

Hometownville is a village somewhere around turn of the 20th century Alaska. They have a little technology and the government has used goats to cause the Mandela Effect. Yeah, it's really, really confusing and absurd – the way it ought to be – in a fun show!

Hosted by Shambles Constant

At the start of 2012, Shambles ends Anybody's Guess and starts The Shambleshow, focusing more exclusively on the longform monologue format. He also records several of his adventures, including a family vacation in Wisconsin and a visit to his childhood stomping grounds at Patterson Bay in Illinois. Topics include meeting Sophie Aldred of Doctor Who fame, a middle school stage play he was in, the Marx Brothers, the supposed end of the world on 12/21/12, and a whole lot more. The Shambleshow continues its run up until August 2013 when Shambles takes a long hiatus from recording shows.

ECLECTIC SYMMETRY

Hosted by Shambles Constant

Shambles returns to Onsug in March 2014 with a new show called Eclectic Symmetry, which he records off and on until May 2015. During this time he documents his recovery from surgery, excursions to nearby cities such as Forsyth and Dwight, and an altercation with a dandelion-hating neighbor, among other events. Also includes a complete reading of his novel, Blind Duncan's Blues.

GARBLE HOUSE

Hosted by Shambles Constant

Just before starting Radio Free Shambles, Shambles recorded an experimental series of episodes, each one between ten and fifteen minutes in length. These tiny little old shows have been resting in a tiny little old folder on his digital voice recorder for the past two months. The time has come to release them into the wild.

IMPACTED WISDOM TOOTH

Hosted by Shambles Constant

New series begins! Impacted Wisdom Tooth is the fictitious artist name I used to use when releasing my sound collages on the Internet Archive. In order to better collect these new sound collages I've been creating, I am reinstating the name for use here on The Onsug.

CHAD

Chad Bowers from Mobile, Alabama was born to exotically middle-class comfort at the height of the American Experiment. He graduated from Murphy High School and worked in local theatre as a light and sound designer. He attended Auburn University and graduated as a Radio TV and Film Major. He has been a projectionist, a DJ, and a monorail pilot. He was a part of the Magic Kingdom College Program living on Disney property with other students from around the world. His college internship was at Disney Television Florida working in creative development. He was a student manager at WEGL (Auburn University) radio station and worked in commercial radio after graduation in Alabama before moving to the DFW area of Texas for FUNimation Entertainment in 2001. He later worked for Grapevine Star Entertainment, CRM Studios, and produces video production and artwork under the TITFOS (The Incredible True Facts of Space) nameplate. He has worked for several companies as a Marketing Director but considers his audio-based creations to be his passion.

CHADCAST

2010–2021
Hosted by Chad Bowers

Chad Bowers, originally from Mobile Alabama, then Texas, then back to Alabama, came on board Onsug Radio in April 2010 with a distinctive, surreal style, on Chadcast. He's also a stalwart contributor to Overnightscape Central and various experimental audio pieces.

Hosted by Dave in Kentucky

Dave in Kentucky launches yet another new show, this one based on the "dangerous" books he is reading or has read. Will this be another abortive attempt, or will he actually make it to double-digit episodes this time? Only the alien time- travelers know for sure.

MIKE BOODY

2011–present
Hosted by Mike Boody

Mike Boody from Birmingham, Alabama, joined The Onsug with the 18th episode of his show "The Midnight Citizen" in February 2011. Originally recorded in the middle of the night on his paper route, Mike's thoughts and observations hearken back to the classic age of late-night radio. Note that the first 17 episodes, from before Mike joined The Onsug, were lost.

RUBEN

RUBENERD SHOW

2005–present
Hosted by Ruben Schade

Ruben from Australia began his show in January 2005 – the dawn of the podcasting era. It's been going ever since, with a few long breaks, as he's lived in Singapore, Kuala Lumpur, Adelaide, and Sydney. Ruben's been a listener to The Overnightscape for a long time, and started posting his shows on The Onsug in June 2015. Now, his entire archive is included on The Onsug.

EDDIE
TEDPOD & CONSPIRACAST

Hosted by Eddie Murray

Eddie Murray has been a major presence on The Onsug since 2009. He sent Frank his “Trampler Sampler” in May 2009 – the very first show by another host that was added to The Overnightscape Underground – which led to The Onsug as the group channel we know today. Since then, Eddie’s done nearly 200 episodes of his shows Trampler, Cloud Base 44/88, and The Wool Gathering. He's also made nearly 100 appearances on Overnightscape Central, and joined in on many Exit Ramps as well.

I’d been aware of Eddie's earlier podcasts – TedPod and Conspiracast – and I wanted to add them to the archive. I was able to find 31 of the 33 episodes of Conspiracast from 2008 on a still-existing “PodOmatic” page. Unfortunately, Eddie couldn't find the two missing episodes – but he did find a hard drive with 41 episodes of TedPod from 2005. We know TedPod went to at least episode 107 in 2007 – but Eddie wasn’t able to find any more episodes, and none are to be found online.

I explored the Internet Archive’s Wayback Machine to find as much information as I could for both of these shows. We have full original show notes for Conspiracast, and a partial set for TedPod.

On TedPod, similar to a broadcast radio show, Eddie played commercial music tracks - so I went in and edited them out, just leaving the beginning and end of each song, as an aircheck might be edited.

This is truly a remarkable collection. I'm hoping some of the missing episodes may turn up in the future – I may have some on my old CD-Rs and DVD-Rs... if I ever get around to indexing them. And if by chance anyone out there has any missing episodes, let me know.

TEDPOD

2005–2006
Hosted by Eddie Murray

You can expect to hear anything from gadgets, websites, film, sound seeing tours, "conspiracys", Ufo's, Supernatural, home automation, hacking, food/drink and podcast reviews, guests/friends, and also I usually play a song or two. So Follow the adventures of Ted the Irish man. Started in January of 2005 as a daily podcast from Dublin, Ireland, moved to Kent in the south of England. It then became more of an audio blog, once a month (or there abouts) with another move to Scotland, and reports from Indonesia, Philippines, Dubai, Bulgaria, and now a relocation to Asia based in Manila. Dont be afraid to click on the Archive button at the bottom of this page, to surf past episodes.
